HAVE YOUR CIRCUS TICKETS READY

That Will Be the Cry of Well Known Plainfielders On Monday Next.

YOUNG WOMEN USHERS

No One Can Escape Vigorous People Who Will Aid Open Air School Benefit—Clowns and Performers Galore in Big White Top.

Local participants will be seen in every part of the big tent which will cover the Frank A. Robbins circus here next Monday, when two performances are to be given for the benefit of the open air school on Muhlenberg place. Every place about the show where a local man or young woman can be used will be occupied by Plainfielders intent upon doing what they can to aid the worthy cause. Charles H. Lyman has agreed to act as announcer, and from the time that he first calls the attention of the audiences to the opening act, until the show closes there will be something going on with Plainfielders as the actors.

At the front door the tickets will be taken by George M. Holstein and Leslie R. Fort, while James Boyd Potter and Tax Collector William R. Townsend will mount a high stand in front of the tent to try to dispose of what reserved seat tickets may be left after the advance sale closes at the Daily Press office on Monday at noon. Inside the entrance A. E. Force in the afternoon and Herbert E. Parker in the evening will sell reserved seat tickets to those who have escaped the venders outside. Allen E. Beals and William S. Tyler will take tickets at the reserved seats at the matinee and F. E. Mygatt and Owen Fleming will relieve them in the evening. They will have as ushers to assist them at one performance or the other John J. Carty, Dr. Edward S. Krans, Harry W. Marshall, Howard Lapsley, City Judge William G. DeMeza, President Jeffery of the Board of Trade, Samuel Rothberg, Edward C. Hardingham and David B. Doyle.

Taking tickets at the boxes will be either C. B. Tyler, Lewis G. Timpson, Dr. B. VandD. Hedges or H. A. Robinson, and they will have as ushers to assist them several well known young society women, including Misses Gertrude Butler, Marion Snyder, Marion Loizeaux, Leila Hedges, Amy Holstein and Ruth Timpson.

Outside the side show tent Levis M. Booth and Dr. H. D. Corbusier will hold forth, assisted by many others to describe the attractions which will be found within.

The all important task of selling peanuts, red lemonade, popcorn and the other things without which no circus is complete, will fall upon a number of boys, those doing the work in the afternoon being Dick Williams, Judson Blake, Harold Condict, John Hannan, William Morrell, Irving Wiltse, Heyward Erickson, Russel Tomlinson and Reginald Bulkley.

As has been told before a number of Plainfielders will participate in the show as clowns and in other ways, but modesty has prevented many of them from permitting their names to be used. Maximus, head of the local physical culture school, will do the principal home act, and the others will work under the leadership of Warren Ackerman, Reginald Rowland and "Pete" Phillips.

The seat sale yesterday and today has been lively, and all of the center seats in the first four rows on each side of the ring, at both performances are now disposed of. There are still many good seats left, however, as 640 are provided for each performance. These will be on sale at the Daily Press office for the matinee until noon on Monday, and for the evening performance until 6 o'clock, unless, of course, all are disposed of before those hours. But two boxes for the matinee and four for the evening performance remained out of the 48 this morning.

The children of the Open-Air School will attend the show in a body in the afternoon, occupying a box which will be especially prepared for them.

The street parade will leave the show grounds at West Front street and Grant avenue shortly after 10 o'clock in the morning, and will go through Grant avenue to either Fourth or Seventh street, and down one of those thoroughfare to Park avenue, to Front street and back to the show lot. It cannt be determined whether the Fourth street or Seventh street route will be used until the circus arrives in town on Sunday.

EIGHTH ANNUAL BALL.

The eighth annual ball of the Owl Social Club will be held tonight at Saengerbund Hall, the borough. The organization has extended invitations to various social clubs of this and nearby towns.

SHOW NECESSITY OF EXTENSION

MAY CHARGE 10 CENTS

Belief that Trolley to South Plainfield Would Not Pay on a Five Cent Fare Basis—Another Hearing on May 14.

It was the general opinion that the representatives of the Plainfield and South Plainfield Boards of Trade and other Plainfielders from this vicinity that appeared before the Public Utilities Commission at Newark, yesterday, in the interest of an extension of the trolley to South Plainfield, made a strong impression in showing the needs of the improvement. The hearing, which was concluded about 3 o'clock, was adjourned to Thursday, May 14, at the same place when the Public Service Corporation, as well as those who are in favor of the extension will have another opportunity to be heard.

There did not seem to be any question among the Plainfielders as to the necessity of the extension, but a question on the part of the commission put to William Jeffrey, the last witness of the day, asking him whether he thought the extension would pay on a five cent basis seemed to be significant. Mr. Jeffrey said that he was not prepared to answer that question, the only concern being to have the extension made. He thought it was a matter of after consideration, that of fixing the rate of fare.

Mr. Jeffery thought that if the line would not pay on the basis of a five cent fare, it might be made ten cents until such time as the business would warrant a five cent fare. All of the witnesses who testified at the hearing seemed to leave no room for doubt as to the necessity of the extension. A. M. Morrell, representing the Spicer Manufacturing Company, made an excellent witness. He pointed out the improvements made by his company at South Plainfield, and the fact that auto-buses were now employed to carry the employes back and forth to Plainfield. He expressed the opinion that the trolley would receive a substantial patronage from employes of the works.

The hearing brought out the fact that the people interested in the extension have no quarrel with the Public Service Corporation, but that their only desire is to secure up-to-date transit facilities, which any live community was likely to seek. Mr. Jeffery pointed out the fact that people were gradually being compelled to move out of the thickly populated sections into the country and the trolley would be a big help in developing this country district.

WILL BORROW $500 FOR PENSION FUND

Captain Frederickson Will Receive $675 a Year After June 1.

Members of the Pension Commission met last night and decided to grant a pension of $675 a year to Captain Frederickson, of the local police department, who will retire permanently June 1. Frederickson has made application for a pension and is entitled to one-half of his present salary, having served the city for twenty-four years and being sixty-three years of age.

In order to provide for such a pension it was necessary to borrow $500 from the city and this amount will be turned over immediately to the Pension Commission for the fund. At present the commission is without money and various schemes were discussed last night for the raising of a sufficient amount to carry on the work. No definite decision was arrived at and it is probable that another meeting will be held in the near future, at which time some steps will be taken for a benefit affair of some kind.

Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed attended the meeting and offered suggestions to the commission. Those at the meeting were Patrolman Arthur McGinley, City Treasurer William F. Arnold and DeWitt C. Ivins.

AMUSING FARCE WELL RECEIVED

"The Arrival of Kitty" Show by Plainfield Comedy Club is Laugh Provoking.

WILL REPEAT TONIGHT

Brown Rolston, Disguised as Woman, Creates Ridiculous Situations, Which Keep Audience in Continuous Laughter During Three Acts.

"The Arrival of Kitty," presented by the Comedy Club, of Plainfield, at the Plainfield Theatre last night, was the broadest laugh-provoking farce ever presented by the well-known local dramatic organization. Throughout three acts the large audience laughed at the antics of the players, and evidenced their approval in no uncertain manner at the more clever bits of acting.

In "The Arrival of Kitty," the Comedy Club members have opportunity to display their talents in presenting a farce, as never before, and that they succeeded was attested by the peals of laughter which greeted the players in their more than satisfying efforts last night. There has probably never been an opportunity presented to Plainfield theatregoers to witness such a continuous display of mirth provoking incidents as was the case last night, either by amateur or professional talent. And the play really has a plot, although there are no villians to make things unpleasant. From the first rise of the curtain, displaying the office of a summer hotel in the Catskill Mountains, which is more famous for high prices than for competent service, until it drops at the close of the last act, the players were constantly creating ridiculous situations.

As is usually the case, there is a love affair. Jane, an attractive young woman, in love with Bobbie Baxter, is taken to the hotel by her uncle, William Winkler, and her aunt of uncertain age, also named

RUMORED CHANGE IS WITHOUT FOUNDATION

Father Hogan, Formerly of St. Mary's, Will Not Take Charge in Borough.

Since the resignation of Father Daniel F. Hogan from St. Mary's parish in this city and the appointment of his successor, numerous rumors have been going the rounds in North Plainfield to the effect that the former St. Mary's assistant will take charge of the work it St. Joseph's church as assistant to Father William H. Miller, who is at present in ill health. Efforts made to confirm the reports at the rectory last night resulted in a complete denial of the story of Father Miller's assistant who represented him in an interview.

The fact that Father Hogan was being considered for such a position in St. Joseph's parish was emphatically denied and it was further stated that Father Miller would continue to take full charge of matters in his parish for the present at least. According to information received from the rectory the rumors are erroneous and Father Miller's assistant expressed a wish that something be done to curtail the false information that is going the rounds.

PLAINFIELD TRUST CO. OFFERS NEW WAR MAP

In spite of the fact that the situation in Mexico is now somewhat brighter, the attention of the world will continue to be focused on that country for some time to come and those who wish to have an intelligent idea of the progress of events will be glad to take advantage of an offer of our progressive banking institution, The Plainfield Trust Company, to give them, free of charge, a new war map of Mexico. This map is indexed, shows the distance between given points, railroad routes, and the location of United States fortifications. It also contains tables giving the relative army strength of the world's great powers, and the cost of maintaining their armies and navies, etc., together with an illustration showing the types of vessels in the United States navy.

DOANE HAS BEEN CHIEF 26 YEARS

Veteran Fire Fighter Will Celebrate Golden Anniversary in Spring of 1915.

DEPARTMENT HISTORY

Established April 9, 1827—Taken Over by the City in 1887—Veterans of Service—Second Assistant Position Abolished.

Twenty-six years ago today Thaddeus O. Doane was appointed chief of the Plainfield fire department and since that time the local fire fighters have been led by an efficient, reliable and thoroughly popular commander. During the many years he has served the city, Chief Doane has proven his worth in this particular capacity and has become recognized as one of the best department directors in the State. Known in New Jersey and many other parts of the country because of his knowledge of fire fighting the local leader has been called upon on numerous occasions to lend his services in the establishing of departments in other cities and has introduced many modern improvements into the Plainfield department.

He is the personal friend of every man in the fire corps and is respected by all for his honest straightforward dealings with those under him. He has kept Plainfield abreast of the age by introducing timely suggestions for adequate equipment and he has never ceased working for the welfare of the community in supplying the necessary fire protection.

Few there are who have chanced to find out about today's anniversary for the veteran fire fighter speaks seldom of his long service. Next spring will mark the fiftieth anniversary of his connection with the local corps and it is probable that some fitting celebration will be arranged to commemorate the golden anniversary.

While he completes twenty-six years of service in the capacity of chief today, this means only twenty-

R. C. DOERINGER WEDS MISS COLE

A RECEPTION FOLLOWS

Miss Edna Maude Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Cole, of Leland avenue, and Russell C. Doeringer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Doeringer, of Vine street, the borough, were married at 7:30 o'clock last night, at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, in the presence of about 150 guests, including relatives and friends from this city and out-of-town.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe meteor, trimmed with white bridal rose lace, and she carried white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Adelaide G. Cole, as maid of honor, whose gown was of pink crepe de chine, trimmed with lace. She carried pink roses and sweet peas. Miss Eva B. Doeringer, sister of the bridegroom, was the bridesmaid. She wore a gown of pink satin and carried pink roses and sweet peas. Charles Doeringer, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man, while George Cole and Clifford Cole, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

The Mendelssohn Wedding March was played by Naylor's orchestra as the bridal party entered the parlor. The bride was given in marriage by her father. After the ceremony, congratulations were offered and a wedding supper was served. Later in the evening the couple left on a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside on East Front street in a house recently built by the bridegroom. The bride received many beautiful gifts.

The house was attractively decorated for the affair, pink and white being the prevailing colors. There was a profusion of roses, carnations, greens and spring flowers arranged throughout the parlor, dining-room and hall. During the supper, Naylor's orchestra gave a popular program and later furnished music for dancing.

Both the bride and bridegroom are active workers in Trinity Reformed church and Sunday-school, of which they are members, and they are both popular. Mr. Doeringer holds a position with the Plainfield Trust Company, where he is highly esteemed.

SUPT. MAXSON ON SCHOOL TAXES

Principal of High School Compares Increases With Other Department Expenses.

PROBABLE INCREASE .03

Says That Schools Really Do Not Do as Much to Raise Tax Rate as Increases in Some of the Other Departments.

Dr. Henry M. Mason, supervising principal of the Plainfield public schools has prepared an interesting article on the relation of the schools to the tax rate in this city, and it is reprinted herewith for readers of the Daily Press. He says:

It is quite the fashion, when the tax rate rises, to exclaim, "Oh, those public schools!" Possibly some of you have made the same exclamation. Did you also say, "Oh, those streets!" "Oh, that police department!" "Oh, that fire department!" If you did not, why did you not? They are as much responsible for the rise in the tax rate as the schools are.

Take last year, for instance. The tax rate went up 19 points. The school maintenance rate went up only 2½ points, city and light 4½ points, county 5½ points, fire department 1 point, and school bonds, because of the large issue of the High School bonds that year, went up 2¾ points. Or, to express it another way, the school maintenance rate increased 7.6 per cent., city and lights increased 11 per cent., county increased 19 per cent., while the fire tax increased 7.5 per cent., almost exactly the same as the school maintenance increase.

It is rumored that the tax rate next year is going up considerably above 200. If you hear anybody say anything about the schools, as responsible for that increase, please investigate and see how much of it really is due to increase in the school rate.

If the city valuation increases as it did last year, the school maintenance will increase about as last year.

WILLIAM G. BESLER CHOSEN PRESIDENT

William G. Besleer, of this city, who has been vice-president and general manager of the New Jeersey Central, for several years, was today elected president and general manager, at a meeting of the directors in New York.

Charles F. Hubert was elected president of the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Railroad.

Mr. Besler came to the New Jersey Central several years ago from the Reading system, where he was associated with the late George F. Baer. It is expected that other changes will follow in the New Jersey Central.

SMELSON IS ROBBED WHILE HE SLEEPS AT THE SWITCH

Fifty minutes' sleep between the hours of one and two this morning cost Samuel Smelson, the West Front street restaurant proprietor, eighty-five cents and no end of trouble. After serving "ham and" to a trio of colored men who came to his place of business shortly after midnight this morning, Smelson fell asleep in a chair near the cash register and when he woke up the register and contents were gone.

He immediately notified Patrolman Martin Flatley, who was near at hand at the time, and after a short search the policeman and Smelson located the cash register in an alley near by. The contents had been taken and the thieves had disappeared. It is the supposition of the police that the customers took the register from the counter as they went out and had ample time to get away with cash before the owner woke up.

TAX RATE WILL BE $2.09 AT LEAST

Councilmanic Finance Committee Finally Passes on Budget.

A $30,000 INCREASE

County and School Tax to Be Fixed Later—List of Departments Requiring More Money—Plans to Purchase Another Fire Engine.

After weeks, in fact, months of careful consideration, the Councilmanic fire committee met last night with Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, City Treasurer W. F. Arnold and Mayor Percy H. Stewart, and finally passed upon the various amounts to be raised here for local purposes. This had to be done at the present time for the tax ordinance must be introduced at the May meeting Monday night.

The whole budget cannot be passed at this time for the reason that it is not known what the local schools or the county will require. That will not be determined before the middle of May, but in order to allow the Council to borrow money for expenses in advance of the collection of taxes the ordinance must be presented on Monday.

While it cannot definitely be determined now what the tax rate will be for the coming year, it is known that it will be at least $2.09 per hundred and probabaly more. This big increase is not due so much to local increases for the city departments, but to school and county requirements.

The actual increase for local purposes will be about $30,000, which is represented by an increase of $4,000 for police; $6,000 for streets, $5,000 for fire, which will probably include a new auto engine for the Netherwood section; $5,000, the first payment on the joint sewage proposition for land; $1,500 increase for the Public Library; $5,000 for new assessment maps, required by the State; while the interest on sewage bonds goes from $12,500 to $18,000, being an extra $5,000. There is also an increase of $1,000 for the poor department, included in which is $500 for the anti-tuberculosis work.

The Hennessy bill, which was passed, reduces the amount the State can appropriate for schools and increases the amount municipalities must raise, which will effect Plainfield. Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools, stated last week that he thought the schools would require $225,000 for the coming year. This is unofficial and cannot be determined until the board of school estimate passes on the budget. It is the general belief that there has not been any big increase in valuations here, although substantial progress is being made in equalizing asseessments. The members of the new Board of Assessors are giving their salaries amounting to $1,600, to the city this year, agreeing to give their services in the interest of the city.

While the Council would likee to grant the many requests from various sources for appropriations, it feels that it cannot possibly do so in view of other increases demanded. Therefore the appropriations for playground and recreation work will have to remain the same as last year. The finance committee has pared all appropriations down to the lowest possible figure.

HAD FACE BURNED IN AN EFFORT TO PUT OUT FIRE

In an effort to extinguish a fire caused by a hover in the second story of the barn in the rear of her home, 1129 West Front street, Mrs. Douglas C. Lorentz had her face burned and hair and eyebrows singed yesterday afternoon. After throwing water on the flames, Mrs. Lorentz notified neighbors who in turn telephoned the fire department of the fire.

When the firemen arrived in the territory in which the blaze occurred, only meagre information being given as to the location of the fire by the excited woman who notified the department, some trouble was experienced in finding the house. Mrs. Lorentz finally made her appearance and an investigation conducted by Chief Doane revealed the fact that the flames had been put out with little or no damage resulting.

—Included among the vegetables offered by Neuman Brothers at their Watchung avenue market tomorrow, will be asparagus, green peas, lima beans, cauliflower, French artichokes and endive, cucumbers, rhubarb, Boston head lettuce, green and wax beans, celery, egg plant, beet greens, spinach, summer squash and radishes.—Adv. ***

HURRY CALL SENT O'SHAUGHNESSY

"SPHINX-LIKE SILENCE"

Battleship Louisiana Sent Away From Vera Cruz in a Hurry With Destination Unknown — Again Fear for Americans in Mexico.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, May 1—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge d'affairs of the American embassy at Mexico City, has been summoned here to confer with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan. He is now at Vera Cruz, where he has been since his hurried departure from the Mexican capitol on the snapping of the strained relations betwen the two governments.

Although Secretary Bryan today denied that the sudden determination to call Mr. O'Shaughnessy into consultation held any significance, it was generally believed that the administration is about convinced that the peace negotiations are not getting along as rapidly or with as good prospects for success as had been expected. It is known that Mr. O'Shaughnessy was ordered to remain at Vera Cruz, prepared to return at once to Mexico City as soon as the peace negotiations had progressed to a point where they would be aided by a personal representative of this government. The sudden change in plan is explained by the administration on the ground that more intimate knowledge of the detailed situation is sought. This Mr. O'Shaughnessy, by reason of his long service in Mexico City, his intimate knowledge of Mexican affairs and the close relations he had with General Huerta, is recognized as being in an especially favorable position to give.

No date for Mr. O'Shaughnessy's departure from Vera Cruz was set, but he will leave there on the first vessel sailing for the United States, and will hurry direct to Washington. Whether or not he will return has not been determined.

The peace negotiations are proceeding in much the same manner that they have since the diplomatic representatives of Brazil, Argentina and Chile undertook their task. Aside from admitting that they are making "satisfactory progress," they decline to discuss either their plans or hopes. Secretary Bryan, the only official of this government who is kept acquainted constantly with the progress of the negotiations also maintains a sphinx-like silence.

It is known, however, that the mediators are disappointed in the refusal of Carranza to cease hostilities pending the overtures for a lasting peace in Mexico. The resumption of the campaign against Huerta by the fiery Villa has served to complicate their work, although they have gained their main point in inducing this government and Huerta not to commit any overt acts until negotiations resulted either in success or failure.

The chief question of interest to observers of the mediators work is the time limit President Wilson will place or already has placed on the negotiations. It is generally believed that the administration will not listen to any program that promises to be long drawn out. When the hour arrives at which the President believes some evidences should be shown of a nearing settlement, he is expected to demand the fixing of a time limit beyond which the mediators must not go.

CONGRESS PREPARED.

Washington, May 1.—When Congress met today it was prepared to take immediate action to make available at once the army appropriation bill carrying $101,000,000 for the use of the fighting branch of the government.

Washington, May 1—Protests from owners of mines and smelters in Northern Mexico against the army embargo on arms and munitions began to pour in on the State Department today. Many of the institutions are idle because of the order.

(From A. J. Rourke, Central News Correspondent.)

Vera Cruz, May 1—Just before midnight last night, the Battleship Louisiana hurriedly steamed away. It is believed that her destination is Tampico, where conditions are most grave. A number of the Louisiana's crew had been acting as a beach patrol and they were suddenly recalled. A launch from the Louisiana steamed full speed toward the shore and picked up the men, leaving the beach deserted. There was much signalling between the flagship, the shore stations and the other warships. Despatch boats were kept busy going from Gen. Funston to Rear Admiral Badger's ship.

Plains & Fanwood.

It is barely possible that there will be a new postmaster at the Fanwood postoffice, as it has now become a fourth class office and therefore comes under the Civil Service examination. Miss Carrie Bettman, the present postmistress, is ineligible to take the examination, but it does not look as if the position was sought by any one as the returns are very little. If no one passes the examination Miss Bettman will probably be the postmistress, as a postoffice will have to be maintained here anyway. Miss Bettman has held the position for many years and it would be with regret that residents of the borough would see her lose her office. The Civil Service examination for the position of postmistress at the Scotch Plains postoffice will be held on June 20. The examinations will be held in Plainfield. Miss Dunn, who has been the postmistress for a number of years, will probably secure the place again as no one has expressed the intention of going after the job.

The utility cake and candy sale that was conducted by the Women's Guild of the Episcopal church at the home of Mrs. Richard Tull on North avenue, yesterday afternoon, was a great success. The sale was between the hours of 2 and 6 and was attended by most of the women of the borough. Besides the cake and candy table there was the "Utility Table," at which aprons, towels, etc., were sold. A good sum was realized and will be for the benefit of the church.

Everything is in readiness for the sketch entitled "The Village School at Blueberry Corners" to be presented by the young people of the Methodist church in Excelsior Hall, this evening. At the end of the affair light refreshments will be served.

At the same time Mr. Wade contrasted the difference between the English prisons and those of our own country. The attendance at the meeting was unusually large, owing no doubt to the topic up for discussion.

The interior of the Walsh cottage, at Park avenue and Second street, which was damaged by fire a short time ago, has been repaired and the dwelling is again occupied by Samuel Nutman, the tailor.

The safe and sane Fourth of July is becoming more and more popular in this place as the years go by and it is seldom that the sound of fire crackers is heard. A movement has been started to have a celebration similar to the one of several years ago and have foot races, bicycle races, greased pig chase and other events with prizes as a reward to winners. The annual baseball game between the married and single men will be a sure event anyway, and it will not be long before the old-timers will be practising for the game.

For the first time since the local Board of Education has been sending graduates of the grammar school to Plainfield High School, there will be no boys in the graduating class of the school this year. There are only two in the class, those being the Misses Ethelyn Walker and Emily Garder.

Oslin, of Brooklyn, who is the general contractor for the fifteen room house that is being erected on Midway avenue for James Minnzeback, of Richmond Hill, is pushing the work forward as fast as possible and will have the dwelling finished by the last of July. Landlord Jacob Maurer served an excellent menu, after which Mr. Mason told of the many changes and advancements in the postoffice of Bound Brook that have taken place during his twenty-one years of service as postmaster, and introduced the new postmaster, Mr. Field, who spoke on the subject, "Why I Am a Democrat." Mr. Field said he had been following the Democratic party for thirty-eight years, but this was the first plum that had dropped his way. Mr. Hastings gave a short talk on "How it Felt to be a Bull Moose," and William W. Smalley gave an interesting talk on the subject, "When Women Vote." Mr. Larabee gave a talk on his work and congratulated Mr. Field on his appointment, after which "America" was sung. Mr. Mason was given a pleasant surprise, when Carrier Joseph A. Skiliman presented him with a handsome Morris chair, as a token of appreciation from the employes of the Bound Brook postoffice.

Miss Carletta Mann, daughter of Charles G. Mann, of West Fourth street, was married to Henry W. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis, of Arlington avenue, last night, by the Rev. F. D. Tildon, of Bethel chapel. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. The bride was given in marriage by William R. Douglas and the couple were unattended. They are members of Bethel Chapel Sunday-school class and are prominent in the work of that institution. The bridegroom is employed in William L. ## HOSPITAL BOARD AND CITY OFFICIALS CONFER

President Mellick Says Solution of Coontagious Disease Problem is Being Sought.

President George F. Mellick, of Muhlenberg Hospital Board when seen by a Daily Press reporter this morning, discussed the question of additional room at the hospital for the care of contagious diseases. There has been more or less talk about the subject by people about town as a result of two letters which have been written to the Daily Press by W. H. Rogers and A. C. Pleydell, in which they asked for an explanation as to why more than one contagious disease could not be handled at the same time, and the Board of Governors of the hospital have taken the matter up in earnest to try and solve this difficulty.

Mr. Mellick said that the question of limited capacity in the contagious ward has given the Governors serious concern, and they are now at work on a plan which it is hoped will help the matter materially. The Board of Health, Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, Mayor Percy H. Stewart and the hospital authorities have all been in consultation, and it is probable that ways and means will be provided by which the matter can be handled economically to both the hospital and the city.

It has been proposed that the city erect a contagious disease building, which the Board of Health can demand under the law, at some point near Muhlenberg Hospital. Mr. Mellick said this morning that if this were done the Muhlenberg authorities would be willing to assume the administration of it, provided Corporation Counsel Reed can find anything in the law which permits such action. He said that it would entail a great additional burden upon the hospital management, but that the Governors would be glad of the opportunity and willing to do the work, in spite of the extra trouble.

It is probable that the whole matter will be solved in such a way, and within a short time, that there will be no trouble experienced in case two contagious diseases requiring hospital treatment should break out in the city at the same time. In addition to the proposed city isolation hospital the Board of Governors are now in consultation with builders to devise some plan by which more than one kind of contagious diseases can be accommodated at the present buildings, without seriously interfering with the work of other branches of the hospital.

TO PRESENT BOTH SIDES.

As has been announced several times the Daily Press tomorrow night will be in the hands of the local Equal Suffrage League. A large number of special articles have been prepared, under the able leadership of Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the State League, who will act as editor-in-chief. The usual Saturday editorial will be contributed by Mrs. Feickert, and excellent special articles, many of which do not deal with suffrage, but with women's activities in Plainfield, will be prepared by leading women of the community. All of the news matter with the exception of the sporting page will be prepared by the women, and if the customary newspaper style is not followed in the handling of the articles, it will be understood that it is because the editorial staff for the day is not accustomed to news writing.

The edition tomorrow will have a much wider circulation than usual, five thousand copies being printed. All regular subscribers will be served, and a group of attractive young newsgirls will sell the superflous copies on the street, and at the suffrage meetings to be held in city park in the late afternoon. A number of advertisements have also been solicited for this edition, the work being done by women.

There has been much care in preparation for the edition, and some of the contributors to tomorrow's paper are persons of prominence whose statements are always of interest.

The Daily Press, however, does not intend to let the suffragists have everything to say, and the other side is preparing, with as much interest, to publish a special supplement on Saturday, May 23. At that time the local Association Opposed to Suffrage will furnish the editorial staff, and under Miss R. A. Lawrence, who has been a frequent contributor to the columns of the Press on the subject, the antis promise that they will have an edition equally as interesting as that of the pros tomorrow. The Daily Press has always striven to give all sides of any question all of the space which they may wish in its columns, and the members of both the pro- and anti organizations are going to have their full say before the month of May is past.

A LESSON FROM AUSTRALIA.

The government of South Australia is seeking to make country life there as attractive as possible in an effort to equalize urban and rural population. Suffering from conditions similar to those in the United States, the state there has seen an over-supply of workmen in the cities and a decided shortage in the rural districts. The Australian government has not tarried in seeking a correction of the situation and Washington may learn something from it as to prompt and effective action in economical and industrial affairs.

Speaking recently at the opening of a new railroad built by his government to develope and better farm life, the South Australian premier promised a campaign of railroads and waterworks (irrigation) to aid the farmer. Railroads and waterworks, he said, go hand in hand toward development of the country. Farmers are the backbone of the state; therefore parliament must make the life of those living in the country more bearable. The government proposed to make the taxation on the farming community as low as possible in order that farmers can get such conditions that they will be able to carry on their industry untrammeled by outward disturbances.

In connection with this policy, South Australia is forging ahead rapidly as an agricultural nation. Public utilties are being used extensively to this end. Meanwhile, New South Wales has appointed a government engineer to act as an advisory officer to visit irrigation areas and private irrigation farms and to assist the owners in arriving at the best method of utilizing the land and the water. This officer's services are given free of cost by the government to those who care to consult him and should result in bringing irrigation efforts in the country to a high plane of success.

The Australian and sister governments are going further than any other governments in the world to encourage and actually and practically, aid their farmers. Our own government can learn something from them along the line of effective action in improving rural conditions and increasing rural production.

Superintendent Henry M. Maxson of the public schools, in a statement published in our news columns today has some very pertinent things to say about the relation of the Plainfield public schools to the city tax rate. He shows that if we expect to continue to have such a splendid school system as is now to be found in Plainfield, and the number of pupils increases as rapidly as at present with the teachers receiving deserved small increases in salary each year, the people may expect the school proportion of the tax rate to go up slowly. We do not believe that anyone wants to see the Plainfield school efficiency deteriorate in the slightest degree, and know that all will read what Dr. Maxson has to say with much interest.

THE FORUM.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

All Suffrage speakers, and I may add in fairness, most anti-Suffragists, avoid personalities, from motives of good taste as well as good sense. I am obliged to depart from this policy in regard to Mr. John Matthews, because of his uncalled for attack upon me at a public meeting in Plainfield at which I was not present. Regretting the necessity for doing so I will answer as briefly as possible the statements made in his letter in last night's Plainfield papers.

I repeat that he was not a fair debater because he used his first period of the debate in Cranford for a rebuttal speech, and presented his arguments for anti-Suffrage in his second speech, when I would have only five minutes in which to answer him.

Woman Suffrage has passed the experimental stage. Wyoming has had it for forty-five years, Colorado for over twenty and Idaho for nearly twenty and six other States for periods ranging from a year and a half to over fifteen years. The best proof that it has worked well is that men are in the majority in all the equal Suffrage States and could easily have disfranchised the women if they had not been pleased with the results of their voting.

I am glad to learn that Mr. Matthews voted for the age of consent bill in 1913. It has been reported by quite unprejudiced persons that he has defended the defeat of that bill by the New Jersey Legislature, and he certainly tried to excuse its defeat at Cranford. He also referred to what I had said about Delaware's low age of protection law (Mr. Matthews says it is seven years), when I was showing that in the South where there is a great deal of chivalry and very little Woman Suffrage agitation, the laws for women and children are noticeably poor, and he claimed that in making the age of protection so low the State of Delaware undoubtedly expected the "natural protectors" of the girls to take care of them—implying that Suffragists did not wish to trust the fathers of young girls, but preferred to have them protected by law. New Jersey does not furnish copies of its Legislative proceedings to interested persons, as does the United States Government, and Mr. Matthews knows how difficult it would be for me to "turn to pages 205-206 of the minutes of the Assembly." If they are easier of access to him he might have discovered that Assemblyman Kirkpatrick did not vote for the Suffrage resolution either in 1913 or this year.

One statement of Mr. Matthews' at Cranford, to which I did not refer in my previous letter because of my dislike for personalities was his claim that he was only elected to the Assembly by a majority of 1,500 votes. (This was said to show that he did not stand will with the political bosses of the county.) In reply I quoted from the Legislative Manual the statement that Mr. Matthews had 2,518 votes more than his highest opponent. He thereupon said he was not responsible for the wording of his biography in the Manual, although he gave the facts to Mr. T. F. Fitzgerald, the publisher, and added, "Mr. Fitzgerald gets his figures for the Manual from the newspapers and they are not strictly accurate, as a matter of fact my majority may have been as much as 1,600."

As the Suffragists use the Legislative Manual as a handbook, I was surprised and annoyed to learn that it was compiled in such a slipshod manner, and I wrote Mr. Fitzgerald, quoting Mr. Matthews, and asking if the figures given in the Manual were merely approximate and not absolutely accurate. His reply under date of April 25 speaks for itself:

"With reference to Mr. Matthews' statement about the Legislative Manual, he is entirely mistaken when he says I obtained my information from the newspapers about his vote when he was elected Assemblyman. I always receive my data from official authority as to statistics, etc., and concerning biographies directly from the legislators themselves. Mr. Matthews furnished the information about himself, and as it appears in his biography. The election results I get from the office of the Secretary of State so that they are official. His plurality of 2,581 is absolutely correct, as it my be seen on the files of the Secretary of State. By writing to that office it will be verified."

The State Suffrage executive office will be opened at 309 Park avenue, Plainfield, the first of next week, and this letter may be seen there by anyone interested.

I did not say that the Suffragists intended to work to defeat Mr. Matthews if he runs for the New Jersey Senate, but that we would feel safe in leaving him to public opinion.

Y. M. H. A. RECRUITS ORDERED TO DRILL

Sergeant Block Gets Telegram From Secretary of War Garrison.

Members of the Y. M. H. A., of this city, were stirred to action this morning when Sergeant Maurice B. Block, of Orchard place, received a telegram purporting to come from the secretary of war reading as follows:

"Recruit the Hebrew men of your city. Have them prepared for immediate service in Mexico."

The letter came as a reply to one sent to hte United States war authorities several days ago by Block following a meeting of the Y. M. H. A. A resolution was passed at that time to offer any assistance that might be needed by the United States in Mexico and Block was authorized to so inform the secretary of war. The offer was evidently graciously received and the reply, while not altogether unexpected, came as a big surprise to Sergeant Block and his would-be soldiers this morning, for they had little or no idea that the resolution of such a small organization as the local one would attract so much notice from the member of the President's cabinet.

Block is rounding up his friends in the city today and it is understood that all those who attended the meeting at the time the resolution was passed will be requested to take the course in war manouvres which the sergeant is at present drawing up. Morris Abrams, of West Front street has donated his large auditorium for the purpose of holding drills and it is understood that a local tailor has been granted the contract for the making of uniforms.

When interviewed this morning, Block said that he anticipated little trouble in rounding up several hundred of the members of the association and will put the raw material through some stiff drilling prior to the arrival of the order to "Shoulder arms and proceed to the front." Although Block would not permit himself to be quoted in the matter it is understood that he is having some trouble in inducing a number of those who were at one time enthusiastic over the proposition to sign articles to be right on deck when the crucial hour rolls around.

Block says that he will march his troops to South Plainfield where they will lie in camp along the Lehigh Valley railroad tracks to await a special train for the conveyance of troops to the Mexican border. Block says he will take every precaution to see that his men are among the first to go to the front when the call comes.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE TOPIC AT FORUM

Geo. M. La Monte, Julius F. Van Riper and Alexander Millar Speak.

Arguments in favor of Woman Suffrage were presented last night at the Peoples' Forum under the auspices of the Recreation Committee in the Washington School. The speakers of the evening represented three neighboring towns, George M. LaMonte, of Bound Brook; Julius F. VanRiper, of Westfield, and the chairman, Alexander Millar, of Plainfield.

In opening Mr. Millar briefly outlined the effect of woman's vote on the liquor traffic, and referred to the April election in Illinois when the women closed 947 saloons. It was pointed out that women generally voted for local option rather than for prohibition, but that their vote must undoubtedly be counted on the side of temperance.

In replying to a recent article by Mr. Matthews, claiming that there had been no results of Woman Suffrage in Colorado, Mr. Millar cited the following laws for which the women are directly responsible: Juvenile court, an industrial school for girls, preventing child labor during terms of school, increasing age of consent of girls, establishing pure food bureau and many others.

Mr. LaMonte referred to his school days in Plainfield, and paid a glowing tribute to Miss Bulkley, who in those days presided over the High School. He contrasted the old system of government under which the strong became strongeer and the weak weaker with the new ideal of bringing out the greatest usefulness of each individual whether weak or strong. He stated that there are at the present time 6,000 children in industry in the State of New Jersey, a number greater than the whole population of North Plainfield.

"We have not yet realized all our dreams of good government," he said, "and we never can realize them without the woman's vote."

Mr. VanRiper cited statistics which he had gathered from the United States census and answered objections which are offered to Woman Suffrage. The meeting ended in a general discussion.

"SIBERIA" SUNK; LOSS UNKNOWN

Big Pacific Ship On Japanese Rocks—Had Distinguished Passengers.

Washington, aMy 1.—The Pacific Mail steamer, Siberia, is believed to have foundered early today off Tansui, Formosa, according to a dispatch to the State Department from United States Consul Williamson, at that place. The vessel's distress calls were heard for some time and just as help was being sent, suddenly ceased.

Word of the disaster was received from Consul Williamson in a brief dispatch as follows:

"Formosa government informs me that the Siberia signalled immediately for aid from lat. 22.40; long. 121.10 early this morning. Vessels sent from Karenko Island will take six hours to reach the scene, near Kahaso Island, six miles off Daieo. Fear Siberia foundered."

Tokio, May 1.—The Japanese warship Kanto Maru, U. S. Battleship Minnesota, and British monitor Minotaur are the vessels that heard the "S. O. S." distress signals of the Siberia, and relayed them on to land stations by wireless, are speeding to the rescue of the Pacific Mail steamer, reported sinking off the coast of Formosa.

An unconfirmed despatch from Tai-Te-Fu, capital of Formosa, says Capt. Zeeder had beached the Siberia on a small island, six miles south of the mainland. The despatch said nothing of the safety of the passengers.

George W. Guthrie, American Ambassador, when he learned of the peril of the Siberia, asked that a Japanese warship be sent to her aid and the Kanto Maru then was dispatched.

It is reported the Siberia is carrying eighty salon passengers.

The Japanese Navy Department made public the following dispatch:

"The Governor-General of Formosa cables that a Japanese cruiser is on her way to the Okinawa Islands off the Island of Kiushiu, reports that the Pacific Mail steamer Siberia met disaster this morning in longitude 121.00 east, latitude 22.40 north. She sent repeated signals of distress which finally became indistinct and then stopped. No details of the disaster are known. The Kantomaru has been ordered to the scene."

A dispatch from Nagasaki says the Siberia is sinking. No details of the steamers plight are given. A dispatch received here tonight from the capital of Formosa conveyed the alarming intimation that Chinese pirates may have had something to do with the reported disaster to the liner. Mrs. John B. Rentiers, wife of the newly appointed British consul at Manilla is aboard the Siberia.

WANT MORE TROOPS IN COLORADO STRIKE

Governor Ammons Today Asked Secretary of War to Send Reinforcements.

Denver, May 1—Governor Ammons announced today that he had teelegraphed to Secretary of War Garrison, sugesting that more Federal troops be sent to Colorado for service in the northern strike district. He was advised that Major Holbrook who is in command of the troops in the southern strike district had telegraphed to the War Department for more men and horses for the cavalry, and for permission to move the troops now at the Chandler mine in Fremont county to the Trinidad district. Major Holbrook is convinced according to the government that he is not in a position, with his present force to control the Ludlow district and also protect Trinidad and Walsenburg, and at the same time send any more men to the northern districts.

The miners on strike in the southern district are going to decide by vote whether or not they will surrender their arms to the United States government. The leaders have declined to give Major Holbrook any assurance that the arms will be turned over. A mass meeting is being arranged for this afternoon to take the vote.

Roosevelt's Nephew to Consult Him In Spain and Attend Kermit's Wedding

THEODORE DOUGLAS ROBINSON, nephew of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and former assemblyman from Herkimer county, N. Y., now chairman of the Progressive state committee, is on his way to meet his uncle in Spain during the latter part of April. Colonel Roosevelt will arrive in Spain from South America with his son, Kermit, at this time. Mr. Robinson has a double mission—to confer with his uncle on political matters and to attend the wedding of Kermit Roosevelt and Miss Belle Wyatt Willard, which will take place in Madrid.

Miss Willard is the elder daughter of the American ambassador to Spain, Joseph Edward Willard, and she is very popular in the social circles of Madrid, being endowed both with beauty and personal charm. Ambassador Willard, who was appointed by President Wilson, comes of an old Virginia family and was formerly lieutenant governor of that state. He was captain of the Third Virginia regiment, United States volunteers, in the Spanish-American war and was aide-de-camp on the staff of General Fitzhugh Lee in Cuba.

Miss Willard made her social debut in Richmond two years ago and became a reigning belle. She spent considerable time at Hot Springs, Va., and here she met Miss Ethel Roosevelt, now Mrs. Richard Derby. The young women became fast friends, and later Miss Willard visited the Roosevelts at Oyster Bay and so met Kermit Roosevelt. She was a guest at the Derby-Roosevelt wedding in New York last winter. Soon after this event Kermit Roosevelt sailed for Brazil, where he has been engaged in engineering. At that time the romance between the Virginia girl and the son of the former president was little suspected. The engagement was revealed in personal letters received by friends in Richmond, to whom Ambassador Willard wrote from Spain.

MISS WILLARD, KERMIT ROOSEVELT AND COLONEL ROOSEVELT.

Kermit, second son of Theodore Roosevelt, is twenty-four years of age. He was graduated from Harvard, his father's alma mater, in June, 1912, and has proved himself to be a chip of the old block. As a hunter of big game and a true sportsman, he has made records on which his father commented with considerable pride. In the big African hunt of 1909 Kermit displayed great daring, courage and skill. The young man has a remarkably cool nerve, which he evidenced by photographing a live lion at close range when he was armed only with his camera.

He is an expert horseman, and on Aug. 27, 1908, he saved Mrs. Frank Hilton and her two young sons from serious injury by capturing a spirited team of runaway horses in a spectacular feat of horsemanship. This incident occurred at Oyster Bay. He also displayed his gentlemanly qualities on a train at Burlington, Ia., in 1905, by surrendering his comfortable lower berth to an aged couple and climbing into an uncomfortable upper compartment. Out in Sioux Falls, S. D., he passed up an opportunity for rare good hunting rather than kill buffalo that were fast becoming extinct.

It is understood that after the wedding the young couple will take up their residence at Sao Paulo, Brazil, where the bridegroom to be will resume his vocation as an engineer.

The political mission upon which Mr. Robinson is bent is to discuss with his famous uncle when he meets him regarding the stand to be taken by the New York state Progressives on the liquor question. It is said that Mr. Robinson will advise Colonel Roosevelt to advocate the optional local prohibition bill now pending in the New York legislature. The bill has the support of the Anti-saloon league.

DESCRIBES SCENES IN VICINITY OF MEXICO

Mrs. Harry S. Potter Writes An Interesting Letter to Her Parents.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. William A. Woodruff, of East Second street, from their daughter, Mrs. Harry S. Potter, of El Paso, discribing the excitement of last Thursday, when rumors to the effect that General Villa had returned to Juarez, just across the river from the Texas town. In speaking of the excitement of the day, Mrs. Potter refers to the wild rumors which so easily excites the population of El Paso.

Indications last Thursday, when the letter was written, pointed to another engagement at the Mexican city. The American artillery, which worked its way through the streets of El Paso on the run, finally rested on the hill residential section of the city, somewhat to the rear of the Potter home. This move placed the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Potter in the direct line of fire between the American artillery on one side, and the Mexican troopers on the other.

An interesting description of the encampment in front of the City Hall and the working of the wireless apparatus from the roof of the Court House was also given. The expected trouble from the Mexican side of the Rio Grande, however, did not materialize, and the residents of El Paso were once more able to rest easily. Mr. and Mrs. Potter are both safe unless activities along the border are resumed. Mr. Potter is connected with a public utility concern operating a trolley line from El Paso to Juarez.

WAR NEWS

A trainload of refugees from Mexico City arrived at Puerto Mexico this morning. They were transferred to the transport Hancock, in Monterey Harbor.

Engineer Eugene Hilton and traveling engineer Mitchell of the Mexican National railways are missing. It is believed that they have been arrested at Soledad by General Maas. Mitchell is said to be an Englishman.

Washington, May 1.—More than 1,500 Americans are virtually held prisoners in Mexico City, according to a despatch from Consul Canala, at Vera Cruz, to the State Department today. The last train from the capital reached the coast Wednesday, and the refugees are marooned. Admiral Cradock, the British naval commander has been asked to use his good offices in providing for their safe conduct to the coast.

The report from Consul Canada came as a distinct surprise to the State Department, who had believed that only a comparatively small number of Americans remained in the Mexican capital, and that those were residents of long standing, who refused to take advantage of the opportunity to get out of the country. It is believed that the American colony has been recruited largely by refugees from the surrounding country, who were seeking to get to Vera Cruz through the capital. The action of the authorities in asking the cooperation of the British Naval forces in aiding the stranded Americans has the approval of the department. In the present inflamed condition of Mexico, more harm than good would be done were an American relief party sent to convey the refugees to Vera Cruz or some other coast town. This the British are able to do without arousing animosity.

REBELS ARE ACTIVE.

El Paso May 1.—"On to Tampico" is the slogan of the rebel army. A conference held Thursday night in Jiminez, Chihuahua, between General Villa and his generals resulted in the formation of military plans for wresting central Mexico from Huerta's troops. Apparently the Constitutionalists are not going to let any armistice between the United States and Huerta stand in the way of immediate resumption of the campaign against Salillo, Tampico, San Luis Petosi and Zapatecas. Last night Roberto Pesquerias, diplomatic agent of the rebels said, "We are not going to sign any armistice which involves a cessation of hostilities aaginst Huerta, but will continue using our best efforts to overthrow him, and set up a Democratic government." General Carranza has not yet made any official statement on the armistice proposition, but Pesquerias is generally believed to express his views. General Villa returned to Chihuahua this morning.

ORIGINAL SKETCHES ARE WELL RECEIVED

Boy Scouts Made a Big Hit in Their Entertainment in 1st. Presbyterian Church.

Presenting sketches and a complete program full of original ideas in the rooms of the church last night, the boys of the First Presbyterian church, principally those interested in scoutcraft, entertained a large and thoroughly appreciative audience. The affair was given under the direction of Miss Hammond's Sunday-school class and as a result the amateur performers netted a sum estimated to reach $16.

The first part of the program consisted of a piano solo, rendered by Miss Edith Shotwell; recitation by Miss Ruth Hammond; vocal solo, Miss Adele Texier; recitation, Miss Georgia Ricker; vocal solo, Miss Marjorie Searing. An original minstrel sketch entitled, "Caught Unawares," and introduced as a pathetic scene in minstrely was full of pathos of the side splitting variety and the entertainers drew rounds of raptuous applause from their audience. The characters were "Slats," the Jackwar of Daroda, John Causbrook, leader of Wolf Patrol; "Jefferson Jackson," Woodrow Wilson Washington Brown, Charles E. Rice, leader of Eagle Patrol; "Archbold Maranduke," Sylvester Slewide de lie, Stockton Burr, Wolf Patrol; "Comedy Ike," George Patterson, Wolf Patrol; "Sleepy Sam," John Patterson, Wolf Patrol; "Constitutional Sam," "Him Behind the Scenes," "Harold Zeek, Leader of Beaver Patrol; "Blundering Curtain Raiser," "Deputy Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr.

The actors then introduced an original song which was one of the brilliant features of the program. It was entitled "Dig Down Deep" and depicted incidents connected with the collection for the boy's work.

The second part of the program included a vocal solo by Miss Dorothy Huntsman; piano selection, Miss Helen George; recitation, Miss Hazel Selby; vocal solo, Miss Ruth Sadler; recitation, Miss Marion Wean, "The Revival of Tim," a humorous sketch was then given by the scouts. The characters in this production were "Tim," Herbert Penny, of Raven Patrol; Chief of the Ambulance Corps, Thomas P. Fitch, leader of the Raven Patrol; the ambulance corps included Donald Wean, Charles Eaton, Clayton Ballentine, Edmund Valdorf, and Harry Hannigan, all of Raven Patrol.

This initiation brings the membership of Franklin Council up to four hundred and eighty-nine. There are already sufficient applications on hand to have another class initiation at some time next month, the date to be announced later.

Query—If a person does not want to have his mail delivered to his house can he have it held at the postoffice until he calls for it? For instance, by placing this sentence on the envelope: "To be held at postoffice until called for."—N. H. Y.

Answer—Yes, your mail will be held at the office until applied for at the general delivery window. The best way to do, however, if you do not want your mail delivered to the house is to rent a private box at the postoffice.

LOCAL BOY BACK IN RUTGERS' OUTFIELD

Return of Harold Schenck and Twing Boosts College Stock.

The students of Rutgers College were greatly encouraged this week when it was announced that Wainwright D. Twing, star first baseman for the past two seasons, is again eligible for the team and will play against Swartmore in New Brunswick Saturday. Twing led the team in batting last year and is a tower of strength to the infield. His return will necessitate the shifting of Ronald Acken, of Rahway, to right field, while Browning, who has been playing on the initial sack, will go behind the bat.

Harry Jennings, who is making an enviable reputation as a premier mound artist, will do the twirling for Rutgers, and has high hopes of repeating his no-hit contest of two weeks ago. In the last two games against R. P. I. and the University of Pennsylvania, Jennings has permitted but one hit. He promises to develope into the best pitcher that has ever represented Rutgers.

Charles Hruby, of Elizabeth, will take care of the second base, for the New Brunswick collegians, while Ned Hewlet, of Basking Ridge and Albert Leeds, of Brooklyn, will complete the infield. Ralph Seiler, of Elizabeth, Ronald Acken, of Rahway, and Harold Schenck, of Plainfield, will compose the outfield.

WATCHUNG COUNCIL TO ATTEND

LAWYERS WILL PLAY DOCTORS THIS YEAR

Judge William G. DeMeza Signing up Promising Talent for Annual Clash.

Professional men of a different type will take part in the annual benefit baseball game with the local doctors on Parker Field during the coming season, the lawyers taking the role vacated by the ministers who have given up the pastime. City Judge William G. DeMeza is handling the managerial reins for the lawyers and expects to put a crackerjack nine on the field that will put the rival clan to rout in short order.

It is a well known fact that some excellent talent exists in the ranks of the counselors and no little trouble will be experienced in getting sufficient material to form a formidable combination. Such notables as Judge DeMeza, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, Augustus Nash, William N. Runyon, Harry Runyon, Martin Stutsman, J. Henry Crane and John P. Owens are among those being considered for positions on the aggregation and many more will probably show up when the first practise is called.

Manager DeMeza is signing up all the talent available and will call a practise sometime in the near future in order to get a line on the material he has to pick a nine from. The doctors have a good team as evidenced by their performances of previous years against the ministers, and their experience will help a whole lot in this year's tilt. The proceeds will be devoted to some charitable cause as in previous years and although no date has as yet been set it is probable that the game will be played in June.

JIM NASH THE STAR HITTER OF TEMPLE

Collects Two Double Deckers and a Single in Three Times at Bat.

Playing behind the bat for the Temple University team in a contest with the Drexel Institute nine, of Philadelphia, at the latter place, yesterday afternoon, Jim Nash, the well-known local athlete, pounded out three lusty wallops, two of which were good for two bags. His team got but seven binkies during the contest and nearly half of these came from his bat. Drexel won by a score of 17 to 6, the Temple players chalking up nine errors behind Dalton, moundsman.

The game was well attended and was played on Drexel Field. It was called in the seventh inning because of darkness. Nash being at the bat three times and returning a bingle on each occasion. Four of his team's six runs were pushed across the platter as the result of licks from his bat. He also counted for four putouts and one assist.

Nash has earned a regular berth as catcher for the Temple team and has worked in all of the contests to date. He is recognized as one of the best hitters on the team and his steady work behind the bat has been a feature in each contest. Nash has entirely recovered from the injury sustained in an interscholastic league game here last Decoration Day and is at present playing the game of his life. He was also a member of the Temple basketball team and is one of the most prominent fellows in the Quakertown college.

American Champion Put Out of Running In Eighteen Holes.

Sunnydale, England, May 1.—Francis Ouimet, the open golf champion of America, was defeated by H. H. Hilton in the first eighteen holes of the Golf Illustrated tournament here.

Ouimet was far below his usual form, got a poor start and was far behind Hilton when the latter made the first turn in 35. Coming home Ouimet fell farther behind and finished with an 83 to Hilton's 74. This defeat put the American out of the running for the golf vase. Despite the rain a large gallery followed the noted golfers.

LOCALS RAN AWAY FROM IMPERIALS

Unfair Methods of Orange Referee Put to Rout in One-sided Issue.

Some exceptional officiating in the second half of the Imperial-All Plainfield basketball clash on the Saengerbund Hall court, last night, put a deplorable climax on a contest in which the locals played rings around their rivals from Orange. With the score standing 16 to 3 in favor of the Plainfielders the referee from Orange gave one of the plainest exhibitions of an attempt at "game throwing" ever seen on a local or borough court and one that will probably serve as a precedent setter in any community where the indoor pastime is harbored. Unfair tactics on the part of the rival official for a time jeopardized the best team's chances of taking the contest but some brilliant battling against seemingly unsurmountable odds finally landed them a victory by a score of 26 to 20.

The final score falls far short of showing just how better the locals were than their opponents. The chances of a Plainfield victory on real merits was never in doubt and the locals shot, passed and worked the ball up and down the floor in a bewildering fashion. So clever did the locals stage their fighting that the visiting clan appeared in a daze and the speed of the Queen City youth had a tantalizing effect on their heralded rivals.

With the score standing 16 to 3 the visiting official rendered many decisions that caused time to be called in several instances and although many threats were made by the local captain to "walk off the floor," he and his teammates stuck to the end in an effort to squelch the opposition's unfair methods and win at any odds. Decisions made by the umpire, who was the referee in the first half, went unrecognized by the Orange official and as a result there was no protection for the locals in the final period and everything went to the advantage of the weaker side. When his tactics brought forth an avalanche of adverse criticism from both sides the Orange referee threatened to "clean up" in a pugilistic style but was held in check by the minions of the law who happened to be witnesses.

ALL INTERNATIONALS SECURED THE DECISION

Some good playing in the second half was not enough to win for the Nonpariel team on the Saengerbund Hall court, last night, and as a result the All-Internationals romped away with a 33 to 20 victory. Although the score stood 14 to 5 in favor of the ultimate winners at the completion of one half of play the Nonpariels staged a complete revival of form in the last session and for a time had their opponents worried.

Good passing with little shooting featured the contest and some excellent shots were made during the evening, most of these chalked up being of the sensational variety. James McCrea, of the losing side, put up the best all around exhibition of the sport.

ROD AND REEL

A fisherman friend in Cape May county tells us that the weather is much warmer down there than it is in this section and that the codfish and ling left those waters several weeks ago. He also said that the bluefish were expected along the breakwater in another ten days, and the weakfish will shortly follow them.

The flounder fishing is very good and the eels are taking the bob in great shape. The latter are hungry after the winter sojourn in the mud and they greedily take the bunch of worms at a rush, while a little later they will refuse the bunch and look for the smaller bait on a hook. The flounders are biting well in the Shrewsbury river, and all other places where the bottom is clean.

The surf fishermen are expected to open their season along the shore, from the Highlands to Corson's Inlet, Sunday. The first Sunday in May is their opening day, even if there are no fish about, but quite a few of them think that the striped bass might be lurking along the shore, as the water is getting warmer every minute, and while the bass are a cold weather fish, they look for the warm spots in the spring.

FOR BANTAMWEIGHT TITLE.

London, May 1.—In a bout advertised as for the world's bantamweight championship, Charles Ledoux of France and Johnny Hughes, of London are to meet for 20 rounds in Cardiff tomorrow. Ledoux has held the French title, but his bouts in England and on the occasion of his visit to America several years ago did not stamp him as a world's champion. Hughes is a veteran of the London ring and stands at the head of his class. The meeting at Cardiff will be the third time that Hughes and Ledoux have faced one another in the ring. In their first bout Hughes lost on a foul in the second round and in the second he lost a close decision on points.

Trenton, May 1.—George J. Tobin, of Plainfield, who was secretary of the Vacuum Engineering Company, of New York, has been made defendant in a suit in the Supreme Court, brought against him by Frankland Briggs, of Newark, administrator of the estate of the late United States Senator Frank O. Briggs, of Trenton. The plaintiff is the son of the late United States Senator The suit is brought to recover $15,500 on a series of promissory notes.

The notes were drawn to the order of Mr. Tobin and Senator Briggs, and were executed by Mr. Tobin as secretary and D. H. Whitten, assistant treasurer of the Vacuum Engineering Company. In the declaration filed in the Supreme Court, it is stated that the company failed, and that the notes were not paid. Senator Briggs having to pay the whole amount. Senator Briggs died May 8, 1913, and his son was made his administrator. The notes represented loans of money made to the company by Senator Briggs.

CHIEF FOR 26 YEARS

six years as permanent chief, for this appointment came to him following the establishment of a paid department in this city. He first enlisted as a fire fighter in the year 1865 and has been active ever since. In 1870 he was second assistant chief. Previous to 1888, the fire matters were under the control of a Board of Fire Commissioners, elected by the property owners, and both city and borough fire matters were under the same jurisdiction.

The first step toward taking over the fire department by the city was in 1887, as the result of a man refusing to pay his fire tax. In order to collect it the local authorities seized his horse and buggy, but he replevined the rig and carried the case to the courts. There it was declared that the method of collecting fire tax was unconstitutional, because tax-payers are assessed for maintenance of a department which could cover only a part of the city and borough with its protection. When the department found itself without funds from a tax the next step was to turn the equipment over to the city. This included the fire houses, wagons and whole outfit.

At that time the department was made up of five companies—three steamers, Gazelle, No. 1, still in use; Plainfield Engine No. 2, which was sold a number of years ago; and Warren engine No. 3, still in use in the borough. There was also a hook and ladder operated at that time by the Zephyr Truck Company, and Alert hose wagon owned by that company. When the Plainfield and North Plainfield departments separated the borough bought a portion of the equipment and many of the old relics may still be found in the headquarters on Somerset street.

The first Board of Engineers under the present regime twenty-six years ago comprised T. O. Doane, as chief; Thomas Lyness, as first assistant; and Eugene Laing, as second assistant. In 1890 Lyness dropped out and Laing was made first assistant and James H. Martin, former postmaster, was made second assistant. Laing served in this capacity for two years and finally retired and Martin automatically succeeded him. John Murray, of West Fourth street, was at that time appointed as second assistant and served the local department for sixteen years in an efficient manner. He was appointed first assistant to Chief Doane in 1902 when Martin retired and acted in this position until 1906 when he resigned. During Mr. Murray's regime Andrew Jennings was second assistant and he automatically succeeded him. When Mr. Murray dropped out it was decided to abandon the office of second assistant because of conflicting conditions that presented themselves at that time as a result the present department has no second assistant nor has there been any need felt for one.

Under the old volunteer system Chief Doane was elected in 1876 with Jacob Kriney as first assistant, and B. Frank Corriell as second assistant. He was relected in 1877 and was succeeded in 1878 by Mr. Corriell for one year. At the elections in 1879, however, Doane was again chosen with Andrew L. Carney as first assistant, and James G. Van Winkle as second assistant. Chief Doane was then succeeded by W. H. Voorhees, F. W. Vail, A. L. Carney, A. D. Jennings, Augusta Saltzman, and J. Erwin Waters, when he was again elected chief in 1888 and has held the office ever since.

The Plainfield fire department dates back to the days when the Revolution was still fresh in the minds of some Plainfielders. On April 9, 1827 it was first organized, and named the Engine Company of Plainfield. The first hand engine used in the local department was bought on that date for $219 in New Brunswick. Simon Randolph, a former truckman who was well known hereabouts in his time was paid two dollars for hauling the new equipment over from that place.

The last of the old company's charter members was William C. Ayres, who died a number of years ago. Besides his name the names of the following appear on the old roster: Ira F. Randolph, Ely Ayers, Benjamin Stelle, Zachariah Webster, Peter M. Boice, James C. Ayers, Laing Webster, Samuel Stelle, James Leonard, Thurston Manning, John Edgar, Jacob R. Boice, W. W. Parker, Lindlay Vail, Edmund Webster, Joel Wilson, James M. Margin, Nathan Laing, John Stanford, Lewis Craig, Elisha Runyon, Eden S. Webster, J. R. Dunn, Randolph Marsh, Jonathan M. Kinsey, Jackson Pound, John H. Coward, Samuel Vail, Isaac M. Maxwell, Ephriam E. Randolph, Jacob Manning, Simon T. Randolph, John W. Craig, Robert Anderson, James B. Ayers, Abijah Titus, W. S. Webster, Silas B. Deeds, Elias Kirkpatrick, W. Dunn, Cornelius Boice and Ural Cary.

The first chief under the city fire department was John Rosell who was appointed in 1867. He was succeeded successively by Theodore F. French, J. F. G. Frazer, Jeremiah Van Winkle, W. H. Voorhees and John Chandler up to the time Doane was appointed in 1888.

The present fighting squad is made up of forty-nine individuals classed as follows: One chief, one assistant chief, four captains, eighteen firemen and twenty-five callmen. William Addis, one of the callmen, is acting captain of truck No. 1. The equipment consists of three motor driven vehicles, all of which are housed in the headquarters on East Second street. The equipment is distributed as follows: Headquarters, hook and ladder truck No. 1, automobile pumping engine, automobile combination wagon, chief's auto and supply wagon; No. 4 house in Netherwood steamer and combination wagon; No. 1 house on West Second street, hose wagon; No. 3 house on West Fourth street, combination wagon.

MAXSON ON SCHOOL TAXES

which was less than three points. If the valuation of the city is not increased as last year, of course the rate will be higher. If money is granted for a new school, the interest on the bonds for three fourths of a year will increase the tax about one point. But just study the different parts of the tax rate, when it comes out, and see for yourself how much of the increase is due to the schools.

According to figures given Mr. Clay by the Board of Education, the school budget for next year will probably be about $225,000.00, which is an increase of about $15,000 over the budget for this year. $7000 of that increase is for new teachers to meet the growth in the schools, $6600 is for the normal increase in teachers' salaries. The best school systems have a regular salary schedule, the beginner receives a minimum salary to which a definite increase is added each year, until the maximum is reached. This draws the best teachers to the city and holds them. Plainfield adopted such a system three or four years ago. When most of the teachers reach the maximum, this item of increased cost will decrease. $1,000 of the increase is for janitor service, coal, etc., for the enlarged High School. For the rest of the school maintenance, no increase is asked. We hope to economize enough to meet the increased needs in those lines caused by the increase in the number of pupils, but we can not economize in teachers. School expenses must increase just as all other expenses increase, with the higher cost of living.

In 1904 the schools cost was $118,092.00. Now government statistics show that in the past seven years, the cost of living has gone up 60 per cent. so that if the schools had not grown at all, they should now cost $188,947. But the schools have increased in numbers from 2961 pupils to 4017, an increase of 35 per cent. Allowing for this increase the schools should have cost, in 1912-13, $255,000. They cost only $190,000.

Possibly you will be surprised when I tell you that the local school tax rate is only 6.5 points higher than it was ten years ago. It is true that the state school tax has increased, but this is not due to anything done in Plainfield, and the increase does not bring Plainfield any more money. The State school tax money consists of two parts: money appropriated by the Legislature from the General Treasury, and money raised by the tax itself. The amount of these two must be equal to 1¾ mills for each dollar of ratables in the state. If the grant from the Treasury is large, then the money raised by the taxation is small, and the State school tax rate goes down. If, however, the money appropriated by the Legislature is small, then the money raised by taxation is large, and the rate of the State school tax goes up. Ten years ago, the grant from the General Treasury was over $1,000,000.00 and the State school tax rate was low. Since then the Legislature has found other uses for that $1,000,000.00 and the grant from the General Treasury has been reduced to a minimum. This has raised the State tax rate from 8.5 points in 1904 to 26 points last year but the increase in rate has brought no more money into Plainfield.

I have in my office a tabulation of the city tax rate which I have kept since the year 1889, showing the number of points given to each item in the city budget. A study of this sheet shows that in 1899 the school tax, including both, the local school and the State school rates, was 36.3 per cent. of the total city tax rate. Last year, these two items, with school bonds added were only 37.9 per cent. of the total city rate. That is, the proportion of the city tax rate which goes to school purposes has increased but little during these years, and until the new high school was undertaken, it was actually less than 14 years ago. Comparing the school tax with that of the other city departments, this table shows that in 1899 eleven points of the tax rate were devoted to fire; last year, that item took about 18 points, which means that in 14 years the part of the city tax devoted to fire protection has increased 63.3 per cent. The city and lights item took 32 points in 1899, last year, it took 45.4; i. e., the expense for that department has increased 42 per cent. in that time. The local school tax took 32.5 points in 1899; last year, it took 45.1 points, an increase of 40 per cent. about the same as "city and lights."

Now, I do not wish to be understood as criticising any of this increase. I believe that it is all justified and necessary for a progressive city. All the city expenses must increase, not only on account of the growth, but also because the cost of living has increased. I simply wish to impress the fact that the schools are not responsible for all the increase in the city tax rate, and should not be made the scapegoat.

FARCE WELL RECEIVED

Jane. Here Benjamin Moore arrives and is to marry the younger Jane before 6 o'clock on the day of the action, in an effort to save a fortune which will be lost if the marriage does not take place. Winkler is in love with kitty Binders, a notorious actress, but as Aunt Jane abhors the stage, he has concealed the fact from the rest of his family. He receives a letter from Kitty, saying she is coming to the hotel to see him, and the letter falls into the hands of Bobbie Baxter, whom Winkler is determined shall not marry the younger Jane. In an effort to force Winkler's consent to the match Bobbie dresses as Kitty, and the situations created may well be imagined, especially after the real Kitty arrives on the scene. Adding to the comedy are Ting, a bellboy who has been left in charge of the hotel during the proprietor's absence, and Sam, a colored portter of the type usually found in summer hotels who arrived, of course, Bobbie marries the younger Jane, and the others find mates before the action is completed.

The action of the play all occurs in the hotel office, the three acts being supposed to be timed as late morning, early afternoon and almost evening of the same day.

Upon Brown Rolston falls the hardest work in the part of Bobbie Baxter, and he is especially successful when disguised as Kitty. Mr. Rolston, while a member of the Princeton Triangle Club, frequently portrayed female parts, but he probably never excelled the work which he does in "The Arrival of Kitty." In make-up, manner, and even in voice he deceived even the members of the audience when he first appeared on the stage as the red-gowned actress; and when he and Miss Elizabeth McGee, who played the part of the real Kitty in an acomplished manner, were both on the stage, it was confusing to tell which was which.

Alson M. Abbott, as William Winkler, a sporty old gentleman, who wished to conceal that fact from his sister, because he hoped some day to inherit her money, gave a finished interpretation, such as he can always be depended upon to do. Mrs. Abbott played Aunt Jane, and her ability to take character parts is so well known to local friends of the Comedy Club that any praise given would not do her work justice. Miss Eva G. Browne as Jane looked and acted the part of an attractive young woman, and read her lines in a manner which left nothing to be desired in carrying out the plot. The difficult character part portrayed by Frederick W. Goddard, as Benjamin Moore, an elderly and inebriated individual who fell in love with all of the women in the cast before finally agreeing to marry the homely aunt of uncertain age, scored a hit, which indicates how pleased local people are to see him again in a Comedy Club show.

Not a little of the comedy work fell upon Rosewell G. Rolston, as the bellboy, and manager for the time being. Mr. Rolstons ability has gained for him an enviable reputation in Plainfield, and he added much to the success of the play by his interpretation. Donald A. McGee, as the colored porter, both in make-up and dialect, filled the place so capably that his very presence on the stage created almost continuous laughter. Miss Monica Sharretts, in a small part proved very acceptable. It might be truthfully said that probably never before has a performance by the club presented a better balanced cast than is the case in "The Arrival of Kitty."

The performance will be repeated tonight, when it is expected that a large audience will greet the players. The officers of the Comedy Club are Brown Rolston, president; Harry L. McGee, vice-president; Dr. F. E. DuBois, secretary; Leslie R. Fort, treasurer; Alson M. Abbott, business manager, and Henry C. White, stage manager. The officers, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lyman, Mrs. Hary L. McGee and William T. Pelletier form the executive committee, and the club has an active membership of forty, and over one hundred associate members.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which irritates and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—Adv.

CLEVELAND TO CHANGE TIME.

Cleveland, O., May 1—Cleveland's decision to change from central standard to eastern standard time was put into effect today, and it is expected that for a while at least it will be a case of "confusion worse confounded" for the people. The change is the result of a campaign that has been waged for a long time by the business interests of the city. Under the new arrangement the factories and shops will begin work an hour earlier in the morning and close an hour earlier in the afternoon, thus giving the employes the benefit of an additional hour of daylight after work. Much confusion is expected to follow the change, however, since the postoffice department, most of the railroads, the express companies and numerous other concerns have decided not to conform to the new time change because it would necessitate a complete rearrangement of their schedules.

BRUNSWICK ADOPTS FIRE LAW.

New Brunswick, May 1—By a vote of 8 to 3 the Common Council has adopted an ordinance for a paid fire department in which the age limit of members is from twenty-one to forty years. Volunteer and exempt firemen are to have the preference when the appointment of firemen is made. The size of the department is limited to not over forty-two men and the ordinance goes into effect July 1. The old ordinance made the age limit from twenty-one to thirty-five years, and did not give volunteers the preference. The firemen now in the service bitterly opposed this. The market commission reported in favor of buying the Amelia Ross property in Burnet street at a cost of $5,000 for a public market. It would be used two days of the week for farmers to sell their produce and for a playground other days. The commission asked $1,200 for maintenance, and said it would get this back in privilege fees. The report was referred to the finance committee.

The Central Federated Union in New York has decided to curcularize all the central labor unions throughout the country, asking them to join in opposition to prohibition laws in the State legislatures and in Congress.

ROOSEVELT NOW ON JOURNEY HOME

Has Successful Expedition In South America.

SUFFERING FROM BOILS.

Has a Nine Hundred Mile Journey to Coast Before Taking Steamer to New York—Arrives at Manaos From the Jungle.

Manaos, May 1.—Colonel Roosevelt arrived here from his expedition through the hitherto unexplored portion of Brazil. He was greeted with an enthusiastic reception. The colonel and the members of his party came on board a steamer sent to meet them by the governor of the state of Amazonas.

Colonel Roosevelt was suffering from boils, but was not seriously affected, although they caused him much inconvenience and made it impossible for him to stand up. He was in excellent spirits. All the other members of the expedition were in excellent health.

Colonel Roosevelt, with Kermit Roosevelt and Colonel Rondon, chief of the Brazilian mission which accompanied the expedition, took up their quarters at the International hotel. The former president intends to leave immediately for the United States.

The journey made by Colonel Roosevelt and his companions was carried out under particularly favorable conditions. The party explored the river Castanha, which was renamed the river Roosevelt. The river Duvida, or "River of Doubt," was found to be unquestionably the river Gyparana. The party followed this river from the end of the telegraph line to its junction with the Madeira, a distance of about 630 miles.

The results of the expedition are considered here to be of splendid service to Brazil and to science.

Had Been Ill.

Madrid, May 1.—Colonel Joseph E. Willard, the United States ambassador to Spain, whose daughter is to marry Kermit Roosevelt, received a cablegram from Colonel Roosevelt, dated Manaos, Brazil. The dispatch stated that all had arrived safely, but that Colonel Roosevelt was suffering from a slight illness.

New York, May 1.—The first news was received by Mrs. Roosevelt in a cable dispatch from Manaos by way of Rio de Janeiro. Frank Harper, Colonel Roosevelt's private secretary, who for a time was with the colonel on his South American trip, but returned to this city about a month ago, made the first announcement that Colonel Roosevelt had been heard from at the Outlook office.

"Mrs. Roosevelt has received a cable from Colonel Roosevelt saying that he has arrived at Manaos with his party safe and in good health and that the expedition has been a great success," said Mr. Harper.

As far as Mr. Harper knew there was nothing in the message received by Mrs. Roosevelt regarding her husband's illness. But a message received by W. Emlen Roosevelt, his uncle, left no doubt on the subject. Mr. Roosevelt declined to make the text of the cable message public, but it was learned that it contained, among other things, this language:

"Have had hard trip. Have been pretty sick, but am better now. Kermit all right."

REPORT NEW BECKER FUND.

Systematic Levy on Cafe Owners Is Charged.

New York, May 1.—Still another of the many reports preceding the second trial of Charles Becker was current, to the effect that a systematic and persistent effort was being made to "hold up" prominent Broadway cafe and hotel owners and managers of a number of gambling houses and certain members and ex-members of the police department for contributions to the fund to be used in Becker's defense. District Attorney Whitman would not deny that the details of such a "canvass" had come to his ears, but he declined to discuss it.

One prominent cafe owner, whose place of business is in Becker's old district, was asked for a $500 contribution. He is said to have met the request by saying with a touch of irony:

"I'm a good man to come to for a contribution when the Rosenthal murder put me out of business, ain't I, though?"

The "canvass" is said to receive its most vigorous backing in the district which Becker formerly controlled as police lieutenant.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

NURSERY DESIGN OF SUNBONNET BABIES FOR PATCHWORK APPLIQUE

Children always delight in having reminders of toyland about them, and this design of sunbonnet babies is particularly appropriate for use in the nursery. It is suitable for use on a runner or pillow of linen or rep, or on a crib cover. Pattern No. 14529 is for patch work appliqué and should be cut from bits of gay colored material.

Transfer the pattern to a piece of white cotton cloth, using this as a basis. Then cut apart the tissue pattern from which the transfer medium has been removed, and cut out each motif or part of the pattern on the line of dots. From these tissue patterns cut patterns from stiff cardboard and use these for cutting out the pieces of colored cloth, allowing ¾ of an inch all around for the seam, or for turning in.

These designs may also be embroidered in outline or appliqué with buttonhole-stitch. The birds, fence, sunflowers and trees, which are included in the pattern, are guides for the quilting, which is done with very fine running stitch.

The pattern contains 4 different groups of sunbonnet babies between 7 and 11 inches high and 4 children in nightclothes between 3¾ and 5¼ inches high.

The bed time kiddies should be cut from white material and appliqued onto a colored background or they may be simply outlined with colored mercerized cotton.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price, 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

The separate skirt this season has a first place in the wardrobe. It will be made of various materials, plain and figured. Plaids and stripes are popular to wear with plain coats, and there are some figured materials, combining several colors, that are attractive but not really practical if the garment is intended for general wear. Much white will be worn, and for dressy wear, with chiffon and lace blouses, white taffeta will be popular as well as serge, poplin, duvetyn and moire. These same materials are favored in dark colors also.

No. 7207 is a plain, tailored looking skirt that may be easily and quickly made and is suitable for any of the materials mentioned.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes; 22 to 32.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin, to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

WAYS OF SERVING BACON.

BREAKFAST MENU.
Fruit.
Cornmeal Muffins.
Broiled Bacon.
Latticed Potatoes.
Coffee.

BROILED bacon, properly prepared, is exceedingly good, and it makes an excellent appetizer for serving with other viands.

Chicken Livers With Bacon.—Clean the livers and cut each liver in six pieces. Wrap a thin slice of bacon around each piece and fasten with a small skewer. Put in a broiler, place over a dripping pan and bake in a hot oven until the bacon is crisp, turning once during the cooking.

Crisply Browned.

Broiled Bacon.—Grease an iron pan with bacon rind and heat it to the smoking point. Then put in the slices of bacon. Tip the pan at a sharp angle, so that the fat will run down, and with a fork keep the pieces of bacon from dropping into the fat. Turn them two or three times until they are crisp and dry and golden brown. Broiled bacon served with eggs makes a dainty breakfast dish for spring mornings.

Macaroni and Bacon.—Boil short lengths of macaroni in salted water until they are tender. Drain and mix a little butter with them. This keeps them from sticking together. Put them in a buttered baking dish and pour over them some thick cream sauce and season with salt and paprika. Chop some freshly broiled crisp bacon and stir it into the macaroni, sprinkle the top with fine buttered crumbs and bake brown.

Wholesome and Palatable.

Apples and Bacon.—Slice the bacon and fry it, letting the fat drain down into one side of the pan. Then put the slices of bacon on a little wire rack on a plate or pan in an open oven, where they will keep warm. Cut apples in half inch slices and fry them on each side in the bacon fat. Drain them for a moment on brown paper and then serve them with a slice or two of bacon on each piece of apple. The skins should be left on and the cores removed with an apple corer.

Bacon and Cheese Toast.—In a saucepan melt three tablespoonfuls of butter and stir in a tablespoonful and a half of flour. Then add three-quarters of a cupful of rich milk and stir until it thickens. In the meantime broil two slices of bacon for each person and make a slice of thin brown bread toast for each. When the cream sauce is thick and smooth add half a cupful of grated cheese and as soon as it is melted pour the mixture over the slices of toast. Put two slices of the bacon on each piece and serve at once.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Little White Footed Mouse Gets Into Trouble.

He Got His Feet Muddy.

EVELYN had always been fond of little mice. She thought they were so cunning and had such appealing little ways. So daddy thought it would be a good plan to tell the children a little mouse story for a change.

"I'm going to tell you this evening," began daddy, "about the little mice who have white feet."

"White feet?" cried both the children at once.

"Oh, no," said daddy; "indeed, no! They are very active and are not at all like the waltzing mice, for instance, who don't mind if they are caged so long as they have a little place to dance on. The white footed mice are very fond of the outdoor life. They live in nests, just like birds. Quite often, too, they will take the deserted nest of some bird and fix it up a little bit and then live in it. They always pick out a nest, though, that is in a bush.

"The family of white footed mice that I'm going to tell you about were very happy, and there was one little mouse who was the pet of all.

"One day, though, a sad mishap befell him. His sisters and brothers had gone off food hunting. As he had a cold he stayed home. Toward noon it was warm and sunny, and the little mouse thought he'd take a nice walk.

"So he got out of his comfy nest and started off. But on his walk he got into a swamp. When he saw he was on swampy ground he tried to get off it quickly, but at each step he'd get further and further into it. He did not get in so deeply that it was dangerous at any time, but he got in deeply enough to get his beautiful white feet all dirty and muddy.

"He was heartbroken to see his feet so muddy, for the white footed mice greatly admire their own feet.

"He reached home before his family did and tried to get the mud off.

"He was making his feet look nice and clean again when his family came home. They found him scrubbing his feet, and they asked him how he had managed to get them so muddy. So then he told them about his walk and how he got into a swamp.

"Of course they didn't mind as long as he hadn't caught any more cold, and they thought it was quite a joke. He took the joke well and laughed with them.

"After his feet were white once more his brothers and sisters felt quite disappointed, for they had had such fun in calling him 'Little Black Foot.' And he had thought it was a very funny name to be called too!

"He told his family, though, that he thought he would not go on any more walks alone, as his feet didn't seem to know where to take him."

CHAPTER XV.

A Brace of Lovers.

HAYING was over and the close, sticky dog days, too, and August was slipping into September. There had been plenty of rain all the season, and the countryside was looking as fresh and green as an emerald. The hillsides were already clothed with a verdant growth of new grass and—

The red pennons of the cardinal flowers
Hung motionless upon their upright staves.

How they gleamed in the meadow grasses and along the brooksides, like brilliant flecks of flame, giving a new beauty to the nosegays that Waitstill carried or sent to Mrs. Boynton every week.

To the eye of the casual observer life in the two little villages by the river's brink went on as peacefully as ever, but there were subtle changes taking place nevertheless. Cephas Cole had "asked" the second time and again had been refused by Patty, so that even a very idiot for hopefulness could not urge his father to put another story on the ell.

"If it turns out to be Phoebe Day," thought Cephas dolefully, "two rooms is plenty good enough, an' I shan't block up the door that leads from the main part, neither, as I thought likely I should. If so be it's got to be Phoebe, not Patty, I shan't care whether mother troops out 'n' in or not." And Cephas dealt out rice and tea and coffee with so languid an air and made such frequent mistakes in weighing the sugar that he drew upon himself many a sharp rebuke from the deacon.

"Of course I'd club him over the head with a salt fish twice a day under ord'nary circumstances," Cephas confided to his father, with a valiant air that he never wore in Deacon Baxter's presence, "but I've got a reason, known to nobody but myself, for wantin' to stan' well with the old man for a spell longer. If ever I quit wantin' to stan' well with him he'll get his comeuppance short and sudden!"

"Speakin' o' standin' well with folks, Phil Perry's kind o' makin' up to Patience Baxter, ain't he, Cephas?" asked Uncle Bart guardedly. "Mebbe you wouldn't notice it, hevin' no partic'lar int'rest, but your mother's kind o' got the idee into her head lately, an' she's turrible farsighted."

"I guess it's so!" Cephas responded gloomily. "It's nip an' tuck 'tween him an' Mark Wilson. That girl draws 'em as molasses does flies. She does it 'thout liftin' a finger, too, no more'n the molasses does. She just sets still an' is! An' all the time she's nothin' but a flighty little redheaded spitfire that don't know a good husband when she sees one. The feller that gits her will live to regret it, that's my opinion!" And Cephas thought to himself, "Good Lord, don't I wish I was regrettin' it this very minute!"

"I s'pose a girl like Phoebe Day'd be consid'able less trouble to live with?" ventured Uncle Bart.

"I never could take any fancy to that tow hair o' hern! I like the color well enough when I'm peeling it off a corn cob, but I don't like it on a girl's head," objected Cephas hypercritically. "An' her eyes hain't got enough blue in 'em to be blue. They're jest like skimmilk. An' she keeps her mouth open a little mite all the time, jest as if there wa'n't no good draft through, an' she was a-tryin' to git air. An' 'twas me that begun callin' her 'Feeble Phoebe' in school, an' the scholars'll never forgit it. They'd throw it up to me the whole 'durin' time if I should go to work an' keep company with her!"

"Mebbe they've forgot by this time," Uncle Bart responded hopefully; "though it's an awful resk when you think o' Companion Pike! Samuel, he was baptized and Samuel he continued to be, till he married the Widder Bixby from Waterboro. Bein' as how there wa'n't nothin' partic'ly attractive 'bout him—though he was as nice a feller as ever lived—somebody asked her why she married him, an' she said her cat hed jest died an' she wanted a companion. The boys never let go o' that story! Samuel Pike he ceased to be thirty year ago, an' Companion Pike he's remained up to this instant minute!"

"He ain't lived up to his name much," remarked Cephas. "He's to home for his meals, but I guess his wife never sees him between times."

"If the cat hed lived mebbe she'd 'a' been better comp'ny, on the whole," chuckled Uncle Bart. "Companion was allers kind o' dreamy an' absent minded from a boy. I remember askin' him what his wife's Christian name was (she bein' a stranger to Riverboro), an' he said he didn't know! Said he called her Mis' Bixby afore he married her an' Mis' Pike afterwards!"

"Well, there's something turrible queer 'bout this marryin' business," and Cephas drew a sigh from the heels of his boots. "It seems 's if a man hedn't no natcheral drawin' towards a girl with a good farm 'n' stock that was willin' to have him! Seems jest as if it set him ag'in' her somehow! And yet, if you've got to sing out o' the same book with a girl your whole lifetime, it does seem 's if you'd ought to have a kind of a fancy for her at the start, anyhow!"

"You may feel dif'rent as time goes on, Cephas, an' come to see Feeble—I would say Phoebe—as your mother does. 'The best fire don't flare up the soonest,' you know." But old Uncle Bart saw that his son's heart was heavy and forebore to press the subject.

"He ain't livin' up to his name much," remarked Cephas.

Annabel Franklin had returned to Boston after a month's visit and to her surprise had returned as disengaged as she came. Mark Wilson, thoroughly bored by her vacuities of mind, longed now for more intercourse with Patty Baxter, Patty, so gay and unexpected; so lively to talk with, so piquing to the fancy, so skittish and difficult to manage, so temptingly pretty, with a beauty all her own, and never two days alike.

There were many lions in the way, and these only added to the zest of pursuit. With all the other girls of the village opportunities multiplied, but he could scarcely get ten minutes alone with Patty. The deacon's orders were absolute in regard to young men. His daughters were never to drive or walk alone with them, never to go to dances or "routs" of any sort and never receive them at the house, this last mandate being quite unnecessary, as no youth in his right mind would have gone a-courtin' under the deacon's forbidding gaze. And still there were sudden, delicious chances to be seized now and then if one had his eyes open and his wits about him. There was the walk to or from the singing school, when a sentimental couple could drop a few feet at least behind the rest and exchange a word or two in comparative privacy; there were the church "circles" and prayer meetings and the intervals between Sunday services, when Mark could detach Patty a moment from the group on the meeting house steps. More valuable than all these, a complete schedule of Patty's various movements here and there, together with a profound study of Deacon Baxter's habits, which were ordinarily as punctual as they were disagreeable, permitted Mark many stolen interviews, as sweet as they were brief. There was never a second kiss, however, in these casual meetings and partings. The first, in springtime, had found Patty a child, surprised, unprepared. She was a woman now, for it does not take years to achieve that miracle; months will do it or days or even hours. Her summer's experience with Cephas Cole had wonderfully broadened her powers, giving her an assurance sadly lacking before, as well as a knowledge of detail, a certain finished skill in the management of a lover, which she could ably use on any one who happened to come along. And at the moment any one who happened to come along served the purpose admirably, Philip Perry as well as Marquis Wilson.

Young Perry's interest in Patty, as we have seen, began with his alienation from Ellen Wilson, the first object of his affections, and it was not at the outset at all of a sentimental nature. Philip was a pillar of the church, and Ellen had proved so entirely lacking in the religious sense, so self satisfied as to her standing with the heavenly powers, that Philip dared not expose himself longer to her society lest he find himself "unequally yoked together with an unbeliever," thus defying the scriptural admonition as to marriage.

Patty, though somewhat lacking in the qualities that go to the making of trustworthy saints, was not, like Ellen, wholly given over to the fleshpots and would prove a valuable convert, Philip thought, one who would reflect great credit upon him if he succeeded in inducing her to subscribe to the stern creed of the day.

Philip was a very strenuous and slightly gloomy believer, dwelling considerably on the wrath of God and the doctrine of eternal punishment. There was an old "pennyroyal" hymn much in use which describes the general tenor of his meditation—

My thoughts on awful subjects roll—
Damnation and the dead.
What horrors seize the guilty soul
Upon a dying bed!

(No wonder that Jacob Cochrane's lively songs, cheerful, hopeful, militant and bracing, fell with a pleasing sound upon the ear of the believer of that epoch.) The love of God had, indeed, entered Philip's soul, but in some mysterious way had been ossified after it got there. He had intensely black hair, dark skin and a liver that disposed him constitutionally to an ardent belief in the necessity of hell for most of his neighbors and the hope of spending his own glorious immortality in a small, properly restricted and prudently managed heaven. He was eloquent at prayer meeting, and Patty's only objection to him there was in his disposition to allude to himself as a "rebel worm," with frequent references to his "vile body." Otherwise and when not engaged in theological discussion Patty liked Philip very much. His own father, although an orthodox member of the fold in good and regular standing, had "doctored" Phil conscientiously for his liver from his youth up, hoping in time to incite in him a sunnier view of life, for the doctor was somewhat skilled in adapting his remedies to spiritual maladies. Jed Morrill had always said that when old Mrs. Buxton, the champion convert of Jacob Cochrane, was at her worst—keeping her whole family awake nights by her hysterical fears for their future—Dr. Perry had given her a twelfth of a grain of tartar emetic five times a day until she had entire mental relief, and her anxiety concerning the salvation of her husband and children was set completely at rest.

The good doctor noted with secret pleasure his son's growing fondness for the society of his prime favorite, Miss Patience Baxter. "He'll begin by trying to save her soul," he thought. "Phil always begins that way, but when Patty gets him in hand he'll remember the existence of his heart, an organ he has never taken into consideration. A love affair with a pretty girl, good but not too pious, will help Phil considerable, however it turns out."

There is no doubt but that Phil was taking his chances and that under Patty's tutelage he was growing mellower. As for Patty, she was only amusing herself and frisking like a young lamb in pastures where she had never strayed before. Her fancy flew from Mark to Phil and from Phil back to Mark again, for at the moment she was just a vessel of emotion, ready to empty herself on she knew not what. Temperamentally, she would take advantage of currents rather than steer at any time, and it would be the strongest current that would finally bear her away. Her idea had always been that she could play with fire without burning her own fingers and that the flames she kindled were so innocent and mild that no one could be harmed by them. She had fancied up to now that she could control, urge on or cool down a man's feeling forever and a day if she chose and remain mistress of the situation. Now, after some weeks of weighing and balancing her two swains, she found herself confronting a choice once and for all. Each of them seemed to be approaching the state of mind where he was likely to say, somewhat violently, "Take me or leave me, one or the other!" But she did not wish to take them, and still less did she wish to leave them, with no other lover in sight but Cephas Cole, who was almost, though not quite, worse than none.

If matters by lack of masculine patience and self control did come to a crisis what should she say definitely to either of her suitors? Her father despised Mark Wilson a trifle more than any young man on the river, and while he could have no objection to Phil Perry's character or position in the world, his hatred of old Dr. Perry amounted to a disease. When the doctor had closed the eyes of the third Mrs. Baxter he had made some plain and unwelcome statements that would rankle in the deacon's breast as long as he lived. Patty knew, therefore, that the chance of her father's blessing falling upon her union with either of her present lovers was more than uncertain, and of what use was an engagement if there could not be a marriage?

If Patty's mind inclined to a somewhat speedy departure from her father's household she can hardly be blamed, but she felt that she could not carry any of her indecisions and fears to her sister for settlement. Who could look in Waitstill's clear, steadfast eyes and say, "I can't make up my mind which to marry?" Not Patty. She felt, instinctively, that Waitstill's heart, if it moved at all, would rush out like a great river to lose itself in the ocean and, losing itself, forget the narrow banks through which it had flowed before. Patty knew that her own love was at the moment nothing more than the note of a child's penny flute and that Waitstill was perhaps vibrating secretly with a deeper, richer music than could ever come to her. Still, music of some sort she meant to feel. "Even if they make me decide one way or another before I am ready," she said to herself, "I'll never say 'yes' till I'm more in love than I am now!"

There were other reasons why she did not want to ask Waitstill's advice. Not only did she shrink from the loving scrutiny of her sister's eyes and the gentle probing of her questions, which would fix her own motives on a pin point and hold them up unbecomingly to the light, but she had a foolish, generous loyalty that urged her to keep Waitstill quite aloof from her own little private perplexities.

"She will only worry herself sick," thought Patty. "She won't let me marry without asking father's permission, and she'd think she ought not to aid me in deceiving him, and the tempest would be twice as dreadful if it fell upon us both! Now, if anything happens, I can tell father that I did it all myself and that Waitstill knew nothing about it whatever. Then—oh, joy!—if father is too terrible I shall be a married woman and I can always say: 'I will not permit such cruelty! Waitstill is dependent upon you no longer; she shall come at once to my husband and me!'"

This latter phrase almost intoxicated Patty, so that there were moments when she could have run up to Milliken's mills and purchased herself a husband at any cost, had her slender savings permitted the best in the market, and the more impersonal the husband the more delightedly Patty rolled the phrase under her tongue.

"I can never be 'published' in church," she thought, "and perhaps nobody will ever care enough about me to brave father's displeasure and insist on running away with me. I do wish somebody would care 'frightfully' about me enough for that, enough to help me make up my mind, so that I could just drive up to father's store some day and say, 'Good afternoon, father! I knew you'd never let me marry'"—there was always a dash here in Patty's imaginary discourses, a dash that could be filled in with any Christian name according to her mood of the moment—"'so I just married him anyway and you needn't be angry with my sister, for she knew nothing about it. My husband and I are sorry if you are displeased, but there's no help for it, and my husband's home will always be open to Waitstill whatever happens.'"

Patty, with all her latent love of finery and ease, did not weigh the worldly circumstances of the two men, though the reflection that she would have more amusement with Mark than with Philip may have crossed her mind. She trusted Philip and respected his steady going, serious view of life. It pleased her vanity, too, to feel how her nonsense and fun lightened his temperamental gravity, playing in and out and over it like a butterfly in a smoke bush. She would be safe with Philip always, but safety had no special charm for one of her age, who had never been in peril. Mark's superior knowledge of the world, moreover, his careless, buoyant manner of carrying himself, his gay, boyish audacity, all had a very distinct charm for her—and yet—

But there would be no "and yet" a little later. Patty's heart would blaze quickly enough when sufficient heat was applied to it and Mark was falling more and more deeply in love every day. As Patty vacillated his purpose strengthened, the more she weighed the more he ceased to weigh the difficulties of the situation, the more she unfolded herself to him the more he loved and the more he respected her. She began by delighting his senses, she ended by winning all that there was in him and creating continually the qualities he lacked, after the manner of true women even when they are very young and foolish.

ROCKEFELLER, JR., IS THREATENED

Agitators Blame Him For Colorado Strike.

TWO PICKETS ARRESTED.

Quiet In the Fighting Zone—Miners Are Submitting to the Regular Army. Now Intend to End Ten Days' Fighting.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., IS THREATENED.

New York, May 1.—Agitators of the Anti-militarist league took up a patrol in front of the home of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in West Fifty-fourth street. Two of the men were arrested.

Marie Gans, in company with Alexander Berkman, the anarchist, gathered a crowd about her in Bowling green earlier in the day and then attempted to see Mr. Rockefeller in his office. She threatened him when she was told that he was not there.

Upton Sinclair, Miss Elizabeth Freeman and Mrs. Donia Leitner began a hunger strike in the Tombs, all three having refused to pay fines for disorderly conduct. Later the fines of the women were paid. Sinclair continued to refuse food, although he is ill.

Trinidad, Colo., May 1.—A message of peace was brought to the battle torn coal district of Colorado by the federal troops.

Following his arrival at the head of the second squadron of the Fifth United States cavalry, Major William A. Holbrook held a long conference with strike leaders and then issued the following statement:

"Robert Bolton, William Diamond, John Brown and Armanda Pellizarri, local leaders of the strikers, have just conferred with me regarding existing conditions in Las Animas county. It is believed that as a result of this conference satisfactory relations have been established and that acts of violence will at once cease in the said county. The representatives of the strikers expressed themselves as willing to give all the assistance in their power toward bringing about a normal condition of affairs."

Major Holbrook announced that he would immediately send Captain C. C. Smith and one cavalry troop, numbering sixty-five men, to Walsenburg to take charge of the situation in Huarfane county, where fighting between strikers, mine guards and militia had continued for fifty-six hours up to last night with great bloodshed.

The quick action of the federal forces has raised great hopes here that the end of the ten days' war in southern Colorado is at hand. With the arrival of the regulars, mine guards and deputies who have been quartered in the county jail and courthouse began quietly to leave Trinidad.

Denver, May 1.—Hotheads among the ranks of the strikers are not willing to "give up the fight" now that the lives of so many of their comrades have been sacrificed. This is evident from the fighting of the last twenty-four hours, which has claimed anywhere from fifteen to twenty lives. On the other hand, the strikers must realize that the federal troops will not bear trifling with and that continued resistance will only make their cause more hopeless.

Forbes Coal Camp a Ruin.

Colorado stood aghast in contemplation of the bloody summary of the human havoc wrought within the past twenty-four hours by its own citizens, fighting one another to the death in the coal strike zone of southern Colorado.

As a result of a day of battling Forbes coap camp of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company, north of Trinidad, is today a smoking ruin, and militiamen and strikers at Walsenburg are resting under an armed truce, awaiting the arrival of United States cavalry to take command of the situation. That only the coming of federal soldiers prevented still greater carnage none now doubts. Strikers, militia and mine guards throughout southern Colorado are in a state of high excitement, but the counsel of their leaders prevents them from renewing the fighting.

The second squadron of the Fifth United States cavalry, with Major W. A Holbrook commanding, was due in Trinidad by noon. As soon as it arrives two troops will be sent to Walsenburg to restore peace and order and relieve the militia at that camp. Whether the strikers there will peaceably disarm remains to be seen. Their leaders have promised that they will turn over their weapons to the federal troops and to none other. Acting under the proclamation issued when President Wilson called out the federal soldiers demanding the surrender of arms, Major Holbrook will demand that the strikers keep their promise.

In his proclamation President Wilson served notice that the strikers who are classed as "insurrectos" must abandon all show of disorder immediately; otherwise they will be proceeded against just as though they were rebels against the United States government.

AMERICAN DOCTOR TO BE SHOT AS SPY

E. W. Ryan Is Held Prisoner In Mexico.

Washington, May 1.—The state department has been unofficially notified that Dr. Edward W. Ryan, a prominent physician of Scranton, Pa., has been arrested as a spy and would probably be put to death at Zacatecas, Mexico, today.

Scranton, Pa., May 1.—That Dr. Edward W. Ryan of this city is held as a spy at Zacatecas, Mexico, and may be executed was the substance of a report which reached Mrs. Henry V. Lawler, a sister of the doctor.

Although it was known that the young physician was in the center of the Mexican hostilities, the news came as a shock because he has done brave work in the Red Cross service and carried credentials from Huerta and Villa as well as a commission as special representative for the United States attached to the embassy at Mexico City.

Mrs. Lawler wired Secretary Bryan for details of her brother's whereabouts. A message from Secretary Bryan received in response to a previous inquiry said that the doctor was somewhere in the interior of the republic, having been sent from Mexico City three weeks ago to fight a fever epidemic at Torreon.

A letter written by the doctor at Torreon April 19 said that he was about to return to the capital, but it is thought that he was detained en route and prevented from reaching Mexico City in time to join the other Americans on the refugee train.

Dr. Ryan was graduated from Fordham university two years ago, where he specialized in the treatment of fevers. He is thirty-one years old, an amateur athlete of note and former member of the Thirteenth regiment, national guard of Pennsylvania.

FALLS DOWN SANTA'S ROUTE

Jim Thinks Chimney Is Too Small and Lands In Fireplace.

Burlington, N. J., May 1.—Looking at a new house under construction near his home, four-year-old James O'Grady wondered how Santa Claus and a pack of toys could get through so small a chimney as that on the new building.

The little fellow evaded the workmen and climbed to the roof to investigate. He was peering down the chimney when he lost his balance and fell in head first.

Carpenters heard his cries just before he plunged through the flue into an open fireplace on the lower floor and found him unconscious from concussion of the brain. Doctors say his condition is critical.

5 YEARS FOR YANKEE LOOTER

Mulcahy, "Searching For Arms," Took $5,000 From Gambling House.

Vera Cruz, May 1.—The United States showed that it meant it when it announced there would be no looting in Vera Cruz. An American, Mulcahy, volunteered last week to assist in the search for arms because of his knowledge of Spanish and his acquaintance with Vera Cruz. A squad of soldiers was assigned to him, and he did some effective work.

It was learned, however, that Mulcahy went with his squad to a gambling house, where he appropriated $5,000 gold in the name of the United States. The proprietor made a complaint.

BRAZIL GUARDING EMBASSY.

Secret Instructions Sent O'Shaughnessy at Vera Cruz.

Washington, May 1.—The state department was notified that the Brazilian government has taken over the American embassy and all other American interests in Mexico City.

New instructions were sent today to Charge O'Shaughnessy. Their nature was kept secret, but it was understood they directed him and Consul Shanklin to remain at Vera Cruz awaiting orders for their possible return to Mexico City.

CITY UNDER HOT FIRE.

General Carranza Will Continue Fighting — Rebel Leader Will Resume Combat With Federal Forces—Much Chagrin Among the Mediators.

HUERTA'S POSITION NOW DESPERATE.

Vera Cruz, May 1.—Word came to the commander of the French armored cruiser Conde, which is lying off this port, that President Huerta's position had become desperate as a result of the capture of San Luis Potosi by the rebels.

The dictator is said to be seizing the drinking places in the capital to get supplies of liquor for his soldiers, hoping thus to keep them loyal to his cause.

Huerta's friends, according to rumor, are becoming afraid that the steady approach of the rebels to Mexico City marks the end of his regime and that he may yet share the fate of Francisco Madero.

From various sources comes the persistent report that public sentiment in Mexico City is steadily turning against Huerta and that the latter is seriously considering the question of taking flight. Officials here refuse to discuss the possibility of Huerta trying to make his escape by way of Vera Cruz.

Vera Cruz, May 1.—Rear Admiral Mayo, commanding the United States ships at Tampico, reports to Rear Admiral Badger that Tampico was the scene of a fierce battle between the rebels, attacking the city, and the federal forces, defending it.

Admiral Mayo says the rebels are intrenched at Arbol, outside the city, and that they have much artillery, while more guns are expected.

From the rebels' position near the mouth of the Panuco river their artillery opened fire on the steamer Antilla, which flies the Cuban flag, but is owned by the Ward line, then lying in the river and supposed by them to be loaded with ammunition and equipment for Huerta's troops. One of the helmsmen on the Antilla was wounded by a shell.

Rebels Defiant to Protest.

The situation of the Antilla became so desperate that she sent out an "S. O. S." signal to all the ships in the neighborhood. The federal gunboat Vera Cruz responded and began shelling the rebel intrenchments. Under the protection of the gunboat's fire the Antilla steamed up the river seven miles to Tampico.

The fighting became so furious that Captain Doughty of the British cruiser Hermione went up to Tampico and notified the leaders on both the rebel and the federal sides that firing on merchant vessels was in violation of international law and must stop. The rebel leaders sent word back that they knew nothing about international law and would continue to fire on all ships that were known to have on board arms and supplies for Huerta.

Carranza Won't Stop.

Washington, May 1.—Although much satisfaction was expressed in official circles over the announcement by the representatives of Argentina, Brazil and Chile that General Carranza had accepted the "principle of mediation," absolutely no assurance has come from the rebel chieftain that he will cease hostilities against Huerta's forces.

Carranza's forces are proceeding against Saltillo and during the last few days have made serious inroads into the ranks of the federals contesting the approach on that city.

The attack on Tampico is still in progress, and confidential reports to the state department confirm earlier fears that the great oil fields in the vicinity of that city are in danger of destruction.

The report was circulated that, much to the chagrin of the mediators, the suggestion was being considered again in administration circles of recognizing the belligerency of the Constitutionalists.

There is no question here of the fact that the administration feels exceedingly friendly toward the Constitutionalists and particularly toward General Villa.

Secretary Bryan went into conference with the president; but, although apparently cheerful over the information he was carrying to the chief executive, he declined to state what it is.

Before Mr. Bryan saw the president John Lind had a long conference with the latter. It is understood that Lind told the president that he believed Huerta was "jockeying for position" in all of the negotiations, but that he would yield to the South American pressure now being brought to bear and would finally eliminate himself from the situation.

U. S. DEAD AT VERA CRUZ 16.

Number of Wounded Seventy, Secretary Daniels Reports.

Washington, May 1.—A revised list of dead and wounded in the taking of Vera Cruz was announced by Secretary of the Navy Daniels. It showed:

Dead, 11 sailors, 4 marines, 1 unidentified—total, 16.

NOSTRILS AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD? TRY MY CATARRH BALM

Instantly Clears Air Passages; You Breathe Freely; Dull Headache Goes; Nasty Catarrhal Discharge Stops.

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely, fullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleasing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear. Adv.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Sarah Bernhardt is planning a world tour.

The famous old melodrama "Siberia" is to be revived.

Nat Goodwin will appear in "Never Say Die" in California this summer.

May Vokes will star next season in a new musical comedy called "A Model Maid."

Messrs. Selwyn & Co. have accepted for production a new play by Charles Klein and will produce it in the autumn.

John Drew and Ethel Barrymore will open their season at the Empire Theatre on May 11 in Sardou's Comedy, "A Scrap of Paper."

Charles Frohman will produce in America next season de Flers's and Caillavet's newest comedy, called "La Belle Aventure."

The Liebiers have taken the Broadway Theatre, New York, for their production next fall of Mr. Sheldon's poetic play, "The Garden of Paradise."

Jack Lait, author of "Help Wanted," and J. C. Nugent of Denver have in preparation for production plays entitled "Birthright" and "The Eternal Question."

Marc Klaw is negotiating for the American rights to the sensational play, "Aphrodito,' in which a nude slave is crucified on the stage.

Sir James M. Barrie, Haddon Chambers, Somerset Maugham and Alfred Sutro are among the noted writers who will supply Charles Frohman with plays for next season.

It now appears probable that the American production of Reinhardt's pictorial play, "The Miracle," will be made at Madison Square Garden in New York next autumn.

"The Rabbi and the Priest" is the title of a new play by Bertha Cassell, which is to be produced next season by Walter Hast. Harry First will create the role of the rabbi, and Julian Le Estrange will be the priest.

E. H. Sothern gives as the reason for his decision to retire from the stage after two more seasons that the health of Julia Marlowe, his wife and co-star, will not allow her to continue in Shakeperean performances, and he cannot give these plays without her co-operation. It is expected that Miss Marlowe and Mr. Sothern will reside in England after their retirement from the stage.

Mine In Eccles, W. Va., Where 180 Were Killed.

Rescuers penetrated to the bottom of mine No. 5 of the New River Collieries company at Eccles, W. Va., and found five bodies. The victims were piled in a heap—dead from suffocation. Wading in water knee deep in places, the rescuers then began to explore all portions of the mine to find others of the 180 victims of Tuesday's explosion. The searchers carried canary birds in cages as gas barometers and plied axes to cut their way into lumber and debris as they proceeded.

TALK CONSOLIDATION

Purchase of New Bicycles for Policemen Authorized—Board of Trade Committee on Consolidation Attends Monthly Session.

A committee from the Board of Trade was heard last night at a meeting of the Borough Council to discuss "Consolidation" and it was pointed out that consolidation, not annexation, was under consideration—William Jeffrey, A. C. Pleydell, Herman Schived and others were heard. It was moved to refer the matter to the Committee on Public Affairs.

The Council accepted an agreement between the governors of Muhlenberg Hospital and the Council of North Plainfield for the care of indigent patients, the Council to pay $1,500 yearly to the hospital. A number of ordinances were passed on third and become law, as follows:

An ordinance to grade and macadamize West End avenue and the clerk authorized to advertise for bids; an ordinance to remove snow and ice; an ordinance to vacate a portion of Walnut street, effective June 1; an ordinance providing for the creation of the office of poundkeeper and dog-catcher, an ordinance houses on West End avenue, Clinton avenue, Hudson street, Jennings' Lane, and Green Brook road.

Building permits were granted as follows: To Guy D. Peck for addition to his house, 32 Park place; to Anna Coddington for house on Harrison avenue; to T. G. Sheelen for garage, 92 Manning avenue; to M. A. Korpf for garage on Watchung avenue; and to Geo. Veght, for chicken coop on Jackson avenue.

Recorder Hand reported 21 arrests and $275 collected in fines. Mr. Milne reported for the committee on streets an expenditure of $425.75. Mr. Mr. Stahl reported for Fire Committee an expenditure of $325.51, and authorized the painting of fire alarm boxes at a sum not to exceed $600; also a resolution to increase the salaries of drivers and tillermen; in the first-class an increase after 5 years to $70 a month; in the second-class an increase after five years to $65 a month; in the third-class after six months the increase to $60; and in the fourth-class after six months an increase to $50. Mr. Cowperthwait reported for the Police Committee an expenditure of $568.88. He offered a resolution to buy three more bicycles for the police department, the cost not to exceed $90. Mr. Milne offered a resolution granting $1,500 to the Overseer of the Poor. These

CHARLES STIEGMAN GIVES HIMSELF UP

Alleged Conspirator Walks Into Judge Haight's Court in Newark.

Charles Stiegman, formerly of this city, and later of New Brunswick, gave himself up to Judge Haight of the United States District Court in Newark yesterday. Stiegman, who has been a fugitive from justice for sometime past, is wanted on charges of conspiracy and the concealment of assets in connection with bankruptcy proceedings. He walked into court during a murder trial yesterday morning accompanied by a New York lawyer and at a hearing granted him later in the day was released on $3,000 bail, $2,000 on the conspiracy charge and $1,000 for the concealment of assets.

The accused is a brother of Louis Stiegman, of 131 East Fifth street, this city, who was apprehended by Detective Sergeant Flynn last week on a warrant sworn out by Judge Haight. The local man is wanted on charges similar to those preferred against his brother and was taken from the local jail to Newark Monday last to be arraigned. Appearing before Judge Haight he was held in $3,000 and later released when a bondsman was secured.

Louis Stiegman was formerly the proprietor of the "Surprise Store" on West Front street and it is alleged that he bought several thousands of dollars worth of goods which went in the front door and out the back to his brother Charles' store in New Brunswick, where they were disposed of at cut prices.

To be sung to the tune of "AMERICA"

My country 'tis for thee,
To make your women free,
This is our plea.
High have our hopes been raised
In these enlightened days
That for her justice, praised
Our land might be.

My native country thee;
Grant us equality!
Then shall we see
In this fair land of light
Justice and truth and right
Ruling, instead of might,
Trust liberty!

Our fathers' God, to thee,
Author of liberty,
To thee we sing;
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light;
Protect us by Thy might,
Great God, our King.

PLEASING EXHIBITION AT HARTRIDGE SCHOOL

Pupils Show Class Work and Give Many Attractive Dances.

Under the auspices of the Hartridge School, a pleasing entertainment was given in the school recitation hall, yesterday afternoon. From 3 until 4:30 o'clock the work of the children in the Montessori class and in all grades of elementary department was on exhibition in the class rooms, and the large studio at the rear of the auditorium stage the work done in the art department was shown to good advantage.

Miss Burt explained the purpose underlying the use of the material and pointed out specimens of work showing the individual development of each child. Some of the original work was especially good.

Owing to the death of her brother, Miss Tompkins was not able to be present in her first grade but the work was shown by Miss Lines of the third grade. Miss Tennant of the second grade had her room attractively decorated, as usual, and showed in addition to the regular work compositions bearing on the travel class and color work in connection with the study of bird. In the third grade the geography and arithmetic attracted much attention and in the fourth where Mrs. Strong is in charge the maps and the Junior Audubon Society aroused interest.

Miss Brouard, Miss Evelyn Wells and Miss Mary Wells explained the work of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades, showing the thoroughness with which it is done. Miss Hartridge explained to the visitors how with such a large staff of teachers it was possible to for any pupil who was weak in any subject to repeat the work without interfering with her progress.

BOARD CANCELS OLD CONTRACT

Two Nominees of Creditors' Committee to Be Selected to Finish High School.

TO PROTECT CREDITORS

John Abbott, by Request, Will Furnish Third Bid to Complete Work—There Will Be a Substantial Balance Over Cost.

The situation of the local creditors of the P. J. Exner Co., the general contractor for the High School addition, took a definite turn for the better last night, when the Board of Education at a special meeting passed resolutions cancelling the old contract, and offered to select two nominees of the creditors' committee as bidders to finish the work. The creditors will select their men before next Tuesday night when the board will receive bids for completing the building.

Much satisfaction is expressed among those locally involved in the Exner Company's failure at this action, which will ensure the work being completed as economically as possible, and give the local people as big a dividend on their claims as circumstances permit. During the past two weeks the board and its counsel, Judge Gilbert Collins, have been investigating the situation from both a legal and a financial standpoint with a view to saving as much as possible of the loss of the local men who did the work as subcontractors of the Exner Company.

As the situation developed it appeared that, owing to the care which Messrs Wilder and White, the board's architects, had exercised in certifying the payments earned by the contractor, there would be a substantial balance due on the completion of the work over and above the cost of finishing it. As this balance is the only fund from which the Exner creditors can look for payment of their claims, their interests demanded that as great an ecenomy as was consistent with good workmanship should be exercised in finishing. Under the terms of the contract the Board of Education in order to preserve its rights against the bonding company, must invite three independent bids to complete the building. It was recognized that as the local men had the greatest interest in completing the work at a reasonable figure, their interest demanded that they be asked to furnish at least one of the bids. The board has gone further than that and invited them to name two contractors to bid for the job, and has asked John Abbott, of this city, to furnish a third bid.

'ICE-WAGON' CONNORS LOSES OUT IN FIGHT

Alleged Burglar Turned Over to Chief Kiely Yesterday Afternoon.

Chief Kiely, of this city, and Assistant Prosecutor Martin O'Connor, of Union county, appeared in the Chicago police court yesterday morning, against Charles, alias "Ice Wagon" Connors, who is wanted in connection with the robbery at the home or former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman on January 3 last. The prisoner made application for a writ of habeas corpus but this was not granted.

Connors was turned over to Kiely and O'Connor, who left Chicago with him yesterday afternoon on their way to Elizabeth, where the prisoner will be turned over to the Union county jail. They stayed last night in Indianapolis and will probably arrive in Elizabeth this afternoon.

Connors' is making preparations to prove an alibi. He claims he was in Chicago at the time the robbery was committed and to substantiate his contention many of his relatives are hastening to Elizabeth to be present at the trial. Kiely expects to convict the alleged burglar on finger-print evidence.

AUTOMOBILE AND HACK COME TOGETHER AT RIGHT ANGLES

An automobile bearing license No. 0366 N. J. collided with a hack owned by Adam C. Blair of West Sixth street, at 10:30 o'clock last night. The automobile was travelling west on Fifth street and the rig was going south on Park avenue when they came together.

The chauffeur in his efforts to avoid the collision drove his car upon the sidewalk at the southwesterly corner of Park avenue and Fifth street hitting a fence on the Boice property. Notwithstanding his efforts the hack was badly damaged, but the ocupants escaped unhurt.

The automobile was travelling at a slow rate of speed. The hack was coming from the theatre.

DEFINITE FORM FOR MEDIATION

Said Today to Have Been Assured as Result of Conferences at Washington.

O'SHAUGHNESSY ANGRY

Former Mexico City Charge Said to Resent Statements Attributed to President Wilson—Latter Playing Golf Today.

Washington, May 2.—Mediation proposals have progressed so far as to have assumed definite form, was the statement in high official circles at noon today. The mediators from Argentenia, Brazil and Chile hope to be able to reconcile the differences between Huerta and the United States.

Officialdom reserved a complete silence regarding Carranza. He has asserted he will not stop fighting until he marches into Mexico City at the head of a victorious army and declines to make any promise as to his future behavior.

The representatives of the powers here have been intimating to the administration it would be a very unmaganamimous thing if the United States ultimatum that Huerta must go be withdrawn, and at the same time agents in Mexico City have been trying to persuade Huerta to quit.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy, formerly charge of affairs in Mexico City, bitterly resents attacks made on his conduct that Representative Flood alleged President Wilson made. It is said that if the President accepts sponsorship for the Flood charges O'Shaughnessy will demand that an inquiry be started to determine whether he erred in the performance of his duties. Such an inquiry, it is expected, would show up considerable friction between O'Shaughnessy and John Lind, and reveal an unwritten chapter in Mexican affairs.

President Wilson spent most of today golfing on a Virgina course on the advice of his physicians. Mr. Wilson apparently did not expect any developments in the Mexican problem as he did not go to his office at all today.

The Cruiser Montana, it was said at the State Department today, will probably sail from Vera Cruz on Monday, bringing to New York the bodies of the slain sailors and marines, who lost their lives in the fighting when the port was taken.

El Paso, May 2.—Saltillo has been evacuated and occupied by the rebels according to a letter received here from San Antonio. The letter was adressed to Rasel Musquiz, rebel commercial agent here and was from a Mexican who is said to be reliable. Every effort to confirm the report is being made. Saltillo is the last Federal stronghold in northern Mexico.

7,000 troops will parade the

The pupils of the Fourth grade were given a party by the Parent-Teacher Association, between the hours of four and six, yesterday afternoon, in the Whittier School for parents, of all the grades below the 6th, present at the recent meting of that Association. The afternoon was very pleasantly passed in playing games and the serving of refreshments, consisting of lemonade, cake and candy.

Last evening was "amateur" night at the local theatre, and the house as on the two former occasions was packed. The "Pride of Dunellen" in in the person of Goodwin Lawrence made his third successive Friday evening appearance on a Dunellen stage. This will probably be Goodys' last appearance in Dunellen as he became so riled at the reception tendered his strenuous efforts at clog-dancing that he forgot himself for a moment and gave the audience the nose and finger salute.

"Smiling" Jimmie Montross has signed a contract to manage the Dunellen Baseball team this year. Jimmie will have charge of arranging the games and securing the players. The first game will probably be played with Somerville at Somerville on May 16th. Just what players Jimmie will sign is not known as yet, but it is believed that he will attempt to secure the signatures of Joe Alberts Di Nitzio and players of like calibre.

(From the Century)

To meet life undaunted; to labor, to succeed or fail, as human individuals not by men; to seek their own success in self chosen appropriate paths unhampered by laws or conventions from which men are exempt—these, we take it, constitute the ultimate object of those working in the interests of Woman Suffrage.

Plainfield is particularly fortunate in being the headquarters of the Woman Suffrage League for the State of New Jersey. The advertising both by the Suffrage League and the Anti-Suffrage League should bring Plainfield to the front, and when talking on the Suffrage question a word of "boosting" for your home city will aid a good cause.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, ~~APRIL 25,~~ 1914.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. Today the entire edition is edited by members of the Plainfield Branch of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association.

VICTORY IN 1915!

The outlook for the success of the suffrage cause in New Jersey sixteen months from now is most hopeful. There are registered suffragists in four hundred of the cities, towns, boroughs and townships of the State, and active suffrage organizations in over a hundred places. The New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, of which the Plainfield and North Plainfield Equal Suffrage League is a branch, has sixty branch Leagues and five Suffrage Town Committees and its membership is growing at the rate of a thousand a month. The other State organizations, the Equal Franchise Society, the Women's Political Union and the Men's League for Woman Suffrage, all report substantial gains and most encouraging progress.

The increased vote for the suffrage resolution in both branches of our Legislature, in spite of the active lobbying which was done by those opposed to the suffrage movement, shows most significantly the changing attitude of all political parties toward the question. Another indication of this change is the fact that three men who said they were opposed to woman suffrage stayed away when the vote was taken rather than go on record against it. The far-seeing politician knows very well that inside of ten years the women of every state in the Union will be voting. More than four million women will vote for the next President of the United States even if no states win the vote between now and 1916, and the suffragists feel sure that at least four or five which are to vote upon the question next fall will be victorious, and hope that eight may. Then if two or three win in 1915, one-half the women of the country will be full-fledged voters before the next Presidential campaign.

Nevada, Nebraska, Montana, North and South Dakota, Ohio certainly, and Missouri and Oklahoma if their initiative petitions are completed in time, which seems likely, will vote on woman suffrage this year, and New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Iowa in 1915. Women now have a voice in the election of one-fifth of the members of the United States Senate to predict that the platform of every political ate and one-seventh of the House of Representatives, and it is safe to predict that the platform of every political party in party in 1916 will contain a strong woman suffrage plank.

The friendly attitude of the New Jersey newspapers has done much to advance the cause here. Sixty of the most prominent papers throughout the State print regular weekly bulletins of suffrage news and the number of friendly editorials, notices and cartoons which constantly appear is surprising when one remembers the small space alloted to suffrage views a year or two ago.

The organization of an opposition has also done much to advance the suffrage cause. The Jerseyman does not care for one-sided issues and finds a movement which is being strenuously opposed much more interesting than one which apparently has everything its own way. All we ask is a hearing and an opportunity to make people think, and we find the mass of the people vastly more interested than they were when there was no active opposition to the suffrage movement.

The spread of suffrage sentiment throughout Union and Somerset counties has been very rapid within the past year, suffrage organizations having been formed in Roselle, Westfield, Rahway, Town of Union, Watchung, South Plainfield, Somerville, and North Branch, while the older Leagues in Plainfield, North Plainfield, Elizabeth, Summit and Bound Brook have grown steadily.

Suffrage Day is being celebrated in over fifty cities and towns by outdoor meetings, parades, luncheons, teas, dances and bazaars. Hundreds of speeches are being made and thousands of pieces of literature will be distributed. At all these meetings resolutions will be passed urging Congress to vote favorably on the woman suffrage amendment to the National Constitution. Thirty-five states are conducting the same sort of state-wide demonstrations May ninth there will be a great national demonstration in Washington. Thousands of suffragists will march down Pennsylvania avenue to the Capitol to present to Congress the resolutions passed on May second, and the first mass meeting ever held there will be conducted on the steps of the nation's Capitol. Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, has notified the clerks in the Pension Department that he is perfectly willing that they should march in the suffrage parade and other government departments will no doubt follow suit. New Jersey will be well represented in this great demonstration, and a hundred or more women will march behind the banner of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association. On the whole the New Jersey suffragists feel that they have every reason for looking hopefully forward to victory in 1915.

LILLIAN F. FEICKERT.

NEARBY ORGANIZATIONS OF SUFFRAGE WORKERS

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield began its career as part of the Union County Equal Suffrage Society which was organized on May 19, 1895.

Among the speakers at the organization meeting were Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Mr. Aaron M. Powell, Rev. A. H. Lewis, pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church, and Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector of Grace Episcopal church. Great enthusiasm was shown at the time in regard to school suffrage for women, but when so modest and reasonable a request met with refusal at the hands of the voters of New Jersey a certain discouragement fell upon woman suffragists.

Dark years of despair followed and then a light began to dawn—golden yellow light—the sign of fresh awakening. The match was put to the red light of anti-suffrage when the New Jersey Legislature passed the suffrage resolution and placed the whole question beyond the academic stage and into the field of live issues.

At the present writing the suffrage resolution awaits a second passage by the Legislature. After that there will be taken a vote of the people at a special election in the fall of 1915.

Both friends and foes are aware of the imminence of a decision one way or another.

Both suffragists and anti-suffragists hold public meetings in the public library for the transaction of business, and both parties hold evening meetings in large halls for the dissemination of propaganda.

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield has taken its part in state and national enterprises. It has uever failed to respond to a call—whether to attend a hearing or a convention, to march in a parade, or to visit the president in the White House.

The League has also contributed to State headquarters in Newark since abandoned in favor of a State executive office in Plainfield; and has taken shares in the receently incorporated National Woman Suffrage Publishing Company.

News articles concerning woman suffrage have been occupying more and more place in the Daily Press until finally the May second edition was given over bodily to the suffragists. The Plainfield League held an anual election on April 28 and is begining a new year under most auspicious conditions with Mrs. Arthur B. Jones as president.

It has formed a plan of work which if faithfully carried out will acquaint every soul in the city or borough with the reasons why woman suffrage is the most important next step in the development of democracy—the most important, in fact, that the country has to solve at the present time.

NORTH MIDDLESEX EQUAL SUFFRAGE LEAGUE.

The North Middlesex Equal Suffrage League was organized April 3, 1914, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brantingham, South Plainfield. Mrs. E. F. Feickert presided at the meeting. The namo North Middlesex Equal Suffrage League was chosen so that people residing in Mt. Pleasant, New Dover, Alton and Oak Tree as well as South Plainfield might cooperate with us and feel a home interest in the league. The officers are Mrs. Bertha H. Jennings, president; Mr. C. Brantingham, vice president; Mrs. Grace D. Green, secretary; Miss Helen DeForest, treasurer.

The League voted to affiliate with the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association. At the close of the meeting delightful refreshments were served by Mrs. Brantingham.

April 7 a business meeting was held and plans formulated for a summer campaign. The League will hold a business meeting from 2 until 3 p. m. the second Friday in each month, and a public meeting from 3 until 5 p. m. on the same day. Notices of these meetings, to which the public are cordially invited, will appear in the press. The awakened interest in the equal suffrage question is so great that in order to cover the territory included in the North Middlesex Equal Suffrage League a number of extra meetings will be held through the summer. The first suffrage mass meeting will be held in Firemen's Hall, South Plainfield, at 8 p. m. Saturday evening, May 2. Mrs. Feickert and Mr. C. L. Riley will address the meeting. Mrs. Jennings will preside. The next public meeting will be held at Mt. Pleasant at the home of Mrs. Green, May 2, Mrs. 3 p. m. Mrs. Jennings will address the meeting and Mrs. Green will preside. Everybody in that locality is cordially invited to be present.

The League's membership is increasing rapidly and the number of married couples working for the cause together in our league, makes us smile at our anti friends' contention "that suffrage will break up the home." There are just about as many men as women members. We intend holding outdoor meeting this summer to reach all the people possible in our territory, so that when the suffrage amendment comes before the voters in 1915 the men in North Middlesex will give it an overwhelming majority.

Bertha H. Jennings.

One of the striking things about political opinions is that no two people draw the same conclusions from identical premises. In fact I have known antis who gave the very reasons for opposing Woman Suffrage that I would give for favoring it.

A political bias can hardly be dignified with the name of an opinion unless it has been reached through a certain amount of travail and doubt.

To think hard is the need of our time.

Every step in the march of civilization is clogged by a crowd of good thoughtless souls who offer up prayers for the early conversion of those who hold any opinion at all, not endorsed by the average man.

On the woman's question generally he had long made his position plain. He would move when the majority moved, and not before. And he expected all plain men (and women—if there were any, which he sometimes doubted) to act in the same way. In this policy he felt instinctively rather than consciously that there was no risk. No one—at least, no one that mattered, no plain, solid person—would move until he did, and he would not of course move until they did; in this way there was a perfectly plain position. And it was an extraordinary gratification to him to feel, from the tone of Politicians, the Pulpit, and the Press, that he had the country with him. He often said to his wife: "One thing's plain to me; we shall never have the Suffrage till the country wants it." But he rarely discussed the question with other women, having observed that many of them could not keep the temper when he gave them his plain view of the matter.

Can anything jar the complacency of the plain man into a recognition of facts?

Women know more, think more, and act more, than they used to—do you deny that?

Women have an instinct that dirty things need to be made clean.

Women feel that a beer-soaked keeper of disorderly houses should not be an alderman.

Women assume that those things which protect the home and children are best.

Women don't quibble over non-essentials as much as men do. They don't stick by the party right or wrong as much as men do. To get the woman's vote you must stand for the clean and decent thing and put up a clean and decent candidate.

The Mens' League does not deceive itself by believing that it is a necessary part of the apparatus by which women are to get the vote in New Jersey. It is fully aware that in a few years or a few months women will have the vote in New Jersey whether the men help them or not.

New steps toward greater liberty and democracy are a natural and spontaneous result of changed social conditions. No individual or group can do much to hasten or to retard the march of progress.

What we can do is to encourage and support those brave women by whom the brunt of the battle is borne and who offer up each her own sacrifice on the altar of democracy.

Byrons' lines take on a new meaning in the new struggle for the new freedom.

"Hereditary bondsmen! Know ye not who would be free themselves must strike the blow?"

SMILES

The Guidon Club of New York (anti-suffrage) has opened headquarters on Thirty-fourth street, near those of the Woman Suffrage Party. Nothing is more worthy of space in our humorous column than Mrs. William Force Scott's outline of the Guidon's plan of campaign, as reported in the New York Tribune.

"We shall meet yelling with music," she said, "and parading with high class entertainments. We mean to make this a place where may be found the fine and beautiful, the things that the suffragists are crowding out of life.

"We shall have exquisite music on the harp and stringed instruments. We shall have delicate French comedies and speakers of lofty ideas.

"Life is not all politics, you know. There are more important things to do than to clean streets and collect garbage. It does a woman more good to hear a nice harp concert than to listen to a discussion of white slavery. If women would pay more attention to the fine and noble things of life, the evil things would cease to exist."

Defeated Candidate is Sore.

Mr. Charles L. Underhill, one of the four ex-members of the Massachusetts Legislature whom the suffragists are credited with defeating, held forth with much feeling to the Congressional committee on the high and admirable character of the men whom the suffragists singled out for defeat. He said they were men who had voted for every deserving measure. Their constituents did not think so. The suffragists made no attack upon their personal character. They merely took the candidate's legislative record to his constituents; and in every case it was his record that killed him. Men who vote against suffrage are apt to vote against other good measures as well. If the Rules Committee had known what Mr. Underhill's personal grievance was, they would have thought his appearance before them rather a joke.

Neighbor: I s'pose your Bill's 'ittin' the 'arp with the hangels now?

Long Suffering Widow: Not 'im. 'Ittin' the hangels wiv the arp's nearer 'is mark!

Senator Helen Ring Robinson of Colorado says she once heard a distinguished anti-suffragist say that there is 7 per cent. of lime in men and only per cent. in women, and therefore the woman must be the less noble creature, and unfit to be trusted with the ballot. Sometime later, the Senator said, she learned that lions have only two per cent. of lime, while chickens have ten per cent.

THE WATCHUNG LEAGUE

The Equal Suffrage League of Watchung, N. J., was organized toward the end of March, crystalizing a growing sense in that community of the justice of Woman Suffrage. Mrs. C. C. Wheeler was elected President; Mrs. E. Kingman, Vice-President; Mrs. J. W. Schmidt, Secretary, and Miss Cass Treasurer.

The League believes that women should have a representation in the government of their country, but has expressed itself as distinctly opposed to militancy.

MORE TROOPS TO COLORADO

Garrison Sends Force at Request of Ammons.

STATE OFFICER ACCUSED

Coroner's Jury Is Told That Burning of Tents Was Deliberate—Washington Effort Toward Conciliation Still Futile—Rockefeller Remains Firm.

More troops were ordered to the Colorado strike district. Governor Ammons asked for them, saying that the situation in the north of the state is "extremely dangerous."

The Rockefellers maintain their attitude of "no arbitration." Washington officials have a conciliation plan, the details of which are kept secret, but the general feeling is pessimistic.

Two witnesses at the coroner's inquiry testified that the order to fire the tents in the Ludlow colony was given by an officer of the state militia.

Socialist agitators made an unsuccessful attempt last night to introduce a discussion of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., at a prayer meeting in Calvary Baptist church.

Upton Sinclair paid a fine for disorderly conduct and resumed his mourning patrol in front of Mr. Rockefeller's offices. Sinclair deprecates talk of violence.

Anarchist and I. W. W. sympathizers continued their patrol in front of Mr. Rockefeller's home.

Denver, May 2.—Interest in Colorado's coal strike situation was divided between the testimony at the inquest at Trinidad over the bodies of the women and children burned to death in the Ludlow tent colony and the activities at the headquarters of the United States troops in charge of the coal fields.

Witness after witness told the coroner's jury that the state militia deliberately fired the tents where it was known the women and children had taken refuge from the bullets of the machine guns. Mrs. Pearl Jolly, leader of the women in the Ludlow colony, described dramatically the attack upon the colony and its terrible results. On the witness stand she was calm, showing not the least trace of excitement. Her story was well connected throughout.

A former stenographer for the military commission which investigated the murders at the beginning of the strike seven months ago testified that he had heard one of the state army officers direct that the tents be burned.

Asks For More Troops.

Major Holbrook, in command of the federal troops, declared that the situation is far more serious than had been anticipated. He sent a telegram to President Wilson asking that more cavalrymen and horses be sent at once.

Governor E. M. Ammons joined in the request and also asked that federal troops be sent to the northern Colorado fields, which are more than 200 miles from the Trinidad-Walsenburg district.

Major Holbrook did not formally demand that the strikers surrender their arms. William Diamond, head of the Trinidad union of United Mine Workers, however, informed the mayor that the arms would not be surrendered.

"The strikers will hide their arms and ammunition to defend themselves in case the federal troops are taken from the district before the strike is settled," Diamond told the army officer. It is expected the demand for the surrender of arms will be made today.

A great crowd filled the Trinidad courthouse, where the inquest was in progress.

Blames Major Hamrock.

Nine witnesses, including R. J. McDonald, former stenographer for the Colorado military commission, testified before the coroner's jury which is investigating the history of the Ludlow massacre. McDonald, who witnessed the last stages of the battle as a spectator within the militia lines, told the jury positively that the order for the colony's destruction came either from Major Hamrock, in command of the state troops and mine guards, who participated in the fight, or from Captain Carson, one of Hamrock's aids. McDonald said he stood within a few feet of Hamrock and Carson, who were inspecting the colony from the top of a hill. It was well toward night.

"We've got just forty minutes to take and burn that colony," he testified that one of the two remarked, "before it gets dark."

REFUGEES TO PROTEST.

Five on Their Way to Washington With Complaint.

Washington, May 2.—A committee of five, appointed at a mass meeting of the American refugees from Mexico now in Galveston, is on its way to Washington to protest against the action of the United States authorities and to state the true conditions in Mexico, which they say the state department and the navy department are concealing.

One hundred men volunteered to come, but the sense of the meeting was that more could be accomplished if a smaller committee came.

SEVENTY-FIVE MORE BODIES RECOVERED

Deadly Gas and Timbers Hamper Rescuers.

Eccles, W. Va., May 2.—At daybreak at least seventy-five blackened corpses had been located in mine No. 5 of the New River Collieries company here, and rescuers after bringing them to the surface were searching for more victims of Tuesday's explosion.

"Every one of the men in that pit is dead," gasped a government mine rescue worker as he emerged from below ground. He had carried a canary bird until it died from the gas and then, with his companions, had adjusted his oxygen helmet and remained until the oxygen was exhausted. Their thumping temples and labored breathing told them to get out before death overtook them.

With seventy-five bodies found, there were still ninety-seven corpses somewhere within the clogged runways of the mine at daybreak.

Bringing out these will be slow work. The rescuers are hampered by gas and fallen walls and timbers. In the meantime the bodies brought to the surface were buried immediately. The graves were dug, the coffins ready, and the burials followed brief services in the Polish and other churches. Some of the bodies are in a terrible condition, and immediate burial was imperative.

Eight funerals have already been held. The bodies were taken from mine No. 6, from which sixty-seven men escaped alive.

In all 180 lives have paid the toll of the disaster.

PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP SIBERIA ARRIVES SAFELY

Manila, P. I., May 2.—The Pacific Mail Steamship Siberia, due here today, arrived on time, and Captain Zeeder reported an uneventful voyage from Nagasaki.

All yesterday afternoon the world was fearful for the fate of the Siberia, as it was reported she was either sunk or sinking off the coast of the island of Formosa, and that Chinese pirates were attacking her. United States, British and Japanese warships rushed to the location where the ship was supposed to be in peril. Captain Zeeder says the Siberia's wireless was not used yesterday except on transmit personal messages from members of the passenger list, early in the morning. After that it was quiet.

It is believed the steamship Persia sounding its call "E. M. S." was accidentally responsible for the rumor of shipwreck, as some other telegrapher copied it "S. O. S." the distress signal.

MINISTERS PREACH ON SUFFRAGE TOMORROW

About one hundred clergymen throughout the State including practically all denominations, have stated that they will preach on the subject of Woman Suffrage tomorrow. Twelve of these are in Paterson, and notable among them is the Rev. H. B. MacCauley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who recently made two strong addresses to the women of his congregation, urging them to become suffragists if they wished to be good citizens.

Six of the Montclair ministers will preach in favor, some in Jersey City and others scattered through the State, largely in the Southern portion.

The Plainfield clergy have been asked to put before their congregations the relation between the woman's vote and Christian citizenship, and doubtless many will respond.

The New York State Association opposed to Woman Suffrage has sent through its president, Miss Alice Hill Chittenden, an appeal to all clergymen of the State to refrain from preaching on May third, which is Mothers' Day, in favor of women's voting.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise has replied publicly in a New York paper, in part, as follows:

"I have your letter of the 27th, in which, on behalf of the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, you urge me, as one of the clergy of New York, 'not to preach on woman suffrage on Mother's Sunday, May 3.' Your circular letter earnestly requests me to 'refrain from bringing this subject into the pulpit' on the ground that 'such action would be a cause of offence to many of your congregation.'

"For one thing, I do not believe that such action would be a cause of offence to many of my congregation, for I know that most of the men and women in my congregation are just-minded enough to see the rightfulness of the cause of equal suffrage; but, on the other hand, permit me to make clear to you that I would introduce the subject into my pulpit even though it were 'a cause of offence to many in the congregation.' It is the office of the pulpit not to avoid giving offence, but to do battle against wrong doing and injustice.

Assuming from your letter to the churches of the State that you are interested in the well-being of the church, I beg to say that you are doing the church a great wrong in seeking to persuade it to take a position which will be hurtful to its interests. The church must in all ages and in all lands stand as the guardian of the interests of justice and righteousness. The denial of suffrage to women in our democracy is unjust and unrighteous—nay, more than that, it is immoral and irreligious. Therefore my pulpit, far from refraining from dealing with the subject of equal suffrage, will do what it can, as long as I remain its occupant, to further the cause of equal suffrage."

It seemed specially appropriate to us that on Mother's Day the women of America should be urged to adopt the best way to help in the conservation of home interests—particularly in regard to children, and this they can do under our constitution only with the ballot.

A. JOSEPHINE VERMILYE,
Chairman of Church Work.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

Since the recent introduction of feminine talent into the athletic world the girl athletes of the city, state and nation have entered into every branch of competition with a zeal that promises to some day place them on a par with the male contenders for the many titles. Today we have our feminine high jumpers, basketball players, runners and even baseball players and several high and preparatory schools are making a particular study of this phase of feminine work. Athletic coaches for women are employed in numerous institutions of learning and the good they have accomplished is evidenced in the records hung up by their understudies.

In the local Y. W. C. A. basketball and indoor athletics, both running and jumping, have assumed a prominent place on the schedule and classes in numerous features that have been heretofore confined exclusively to men are flourishing. Evidence of just what ca nbe done by girl runners is shown in the recent achievements of the Plainfield feminine athletes in the meet conducted in the Seventy-first regiment armory in New York last Tuesday night. Although competing on an organized program for the first time the Queen City entrants brought home a silver loving cup that signifies a superiority in hurdle racing. This is a new branch of sport to be introduced into women circles, but it nevertheless attracted a big field of contenders.

Just how popular artletics are becoming to the weaker sex and their ability as gymnasts and competitors was shown in New York Tuesday night when 150 girls from the Metropolitan district assembled to take part in sports that were formerly programmed for men alone. Running, jumping and other competitions were prominent on the program and the feminine talent competed in a manner that was marveled at by some A. A. U. experts at the time.

Plainfield has been most conspicuous in the feminine athletic world as a promoter of female basketball competition and the Queen City is noted for the calibre of teams turned out. Several years ago P. H. S. boasted of a team that won the State championship and the calibre of basketball displayed in the feminine Interscholastic League is guarantee enough of just how much progress has been made in the pastime by this sex. A number of the local basketball players have made records for themselves as premier basket cagers and star guards and if an All Star aggregration was forme dit would without a doubt be able to vanquish any girl team in the State.

Until this year field hockey has occupied a prominent place in the retinue of sporting endeavor in Plainfield but the Plainfield High School girls, for one reason or another, have delayed the formation of such an eleven for this season. This is a particularly healthful line of sport for women and ought to be encouraged by those interested.

A new branch of athletics has been recently introduced and this is the recreative game of "Newcomb." Played originally at Newcomb College, Tulane University of Louisiana, New Orleans, "Newcomb" was the result of an effort on the part of the director of gymnastics to place before her students a game that could be easily arranged, could include any reasonable number of students, could be played in any designated time, and in any available space. It first appeared before the public in an article, written by its originator, for the Posse Gymnasium Journal, and at that time it was decided to call the game "Newcomb," in recognition of the College. The article was further elaborated into a paper for the New York meeting of the American Physical Education Association, in April, 1895. It was illustrated by the students of Trniity School and met with hearty approval. Some months later the author, seeing an enthusiastic description of "Newcomb" in the Boys' Department of Harper's Weekly, decided to publish the rules. Much attention has been attracted to the game; it receives strong recommendation, and its growing popularity seems to insure for it a permanent place in our athletics.

THE SIBERIA SAFE, CAPTAIN REPORTS

Message Says Ship Had Been on Rocks.

Manila, May 2.—A dispatch received here by wireless from the captain of the Pacific Mail steamship Siberia, which was reported in distress off the coast of Formosa, says his vessel is in no trouble.

Corregidor Island, Philippines, May 2.—A message just received from the steamer Siberia by wireless says that the vessel is in good condition. It adds that the Siberia will arrive at Manila at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The message was relayed from the Siberia to the wireless station here by the United States cruiser Galveston.

San Francisco, May 2.—The message from Manila quoting the captain of the Siberia as reporting that his vessel was in no trouble brought great relief to the officials of the Pacific Mail Steamship company in this city. The message from Corregidor island had by no means convinced them that the vessel was safe. They said they felt confident that the message picked up and relayed to Corregidor island by the cruiser Galveston was sent out by the Siberia before she went ashore.

It was pointed out by the secretary of the company that the delay the Siberia must have suffered by going ashore would make it impossible for her to reach Manila by 9:30 a. m. Saturday, according to her schedule, as she was not due to arrive there until Saturday.

There is a standing order of the company for all commanders to send out a wireless message to a port they are approaching forty-eight hours before they expect to arrive telling when the vessel will reach port.

The stock expression for such messages is to report "All well" and give the hour of probable arrival. According to the officials of the company, it is probable that such a message was sent out by Captain Zeeder of the Siberia on Wednesday night and that the expression "All well" probably was garbled in transmission to read "In good condition."

MORE VERA CRUZ REFUGEES.

French refugees, who arrived at Vera Cruz from Guadalajara, said that American and English refugees had left that place and were heading toward Manzanillo. The Frenchmen said that many of the refugees were attacked and beaten by infuriated Mexicans before they got away.

STRONG SENTIMENT FOR SATURDAY CLOSING

Dr. Ida Hunt Reports Results of Work Done in Plainfield.

At the Forum meeting of April 2 there seemed to be an attitude of approval of this movement although the speakers were the merchants and not the shoppers, who are also a vitally interested party.

One of the objections there stated was, that the people would protest against any disarrangement of the established order of things, as shopping Friday instead of Saturday night through the month of August.

How to get the opinion of this class was a problem solved by drawing up a petition, asking for the closing. This has been widely circulated in King's Daughters' Circles, all the church organizations, benevolent and other societies, the Public Library, Charity Organization Society and in factories, and stores where the proprietor has expressed a desire to help.

These met with a cordial response almost everyone being willing to sign, not impulsively but after careful deliberation, only those refusing who were personally interested in the few stores opposed to the movement.

The second objection was "that Friday night shopping would be impossible because wages were not paid until Saturday noon."

A circular letter was sent to the factories, etc., asking "if Friday could be made the pay day through the month of August?"

All who did not pay on that day consented to do so, but the Rushmore Company, who did not approve.

This consent, which we consider also an approval, was very gratifying to the committee.

Third.—"The disadvantage to the commuter who unable to buy here on their half holiday would go elsewhere thus taking trade from Plainfield."

Personal interviews with a large number of this class proved "that fellow-feeling makes us wondrous kind" for they without exception expressed a desire to join the ranks of the approvers, and also resented the imputation that they could be so selfish as to enjoy their holiday at the expense of their fellow-workers.

Fourth.—"That the farmer would be seriously discommoded by the change of shopping day."

By careful inquiry among the sales people who are in direct touch with the country shopper and talking with them personally, it was found that there was no valid reason against the change, but habit.

Their work could be arranged if they wished, with but little inconvenience to stop at 5 o'clock on Friday as it does now on Saturday. In fact, the trip in town was more often a social than a business affair. The essential shopping is usually done by the women who can take any time.

We realize that every movement of reform has its martyrs. Some one must sacrifice and be sacrificed, but when these are willing to aid, that others may benefit, the cause receives an impetus that is incalculable.

As public opinion always largely influences every movement, we hope now that it has been expressed the merchants will grant this petition.

There is a fundamental reason why women, eventually, will be given the right to vote throughout the land and there is no human power that can prevent it. The reason is this—it is a Universal Law that our other self has the same right and privilege of freedom in every plane of thought and activity that we have, and any endeavor which conforms to the Universal Law of progress always materializes, and is an uplife and blessing to the race.

HOWARD A. COLBY.

April 25, 1914.

Woman needs the ballot for the sake of self-development. Her life, in most instances is devoted to minutiae and tends to nervousness that is not really broadened by reading alone or coming in contact with a wider life at second-hand.

She must have the responsibility of the ballot in order to share truly in the life of the community, the State and the nation.

CLARA De H. KRANS.

Two things are conceded in regard to women—they have more leisure than men and are morally better. The advantage of such an addition to political life is obvious. Leisure means time to read and ponder, that will result in thoughtful voting; while a higher moral sense will demand in legislation an effort to lessen the three great evils of human society—unhealthy environment, alcoholic excess and commercialied vice.

THE PLAINFIELD MOTHERS ASSOCIATION.

(By Mrs. C. G. Munro, President.)

The Plainfield Mothers Associa- Since its organization it has accom- Parent-Teachers Associations which are now established in every school in Plainfield and which have brought about untold good results in bringing parents and teachers together in mutual help for the benefit of children. Three years ago the Plainfield Mothers Association had the honor of entertaining for three days the New Jersey Congress of Mothers. It has assisted the home league in endeavoring to pass a law in New Jersey for equal guardianship of children, and has interested itself in vocational training and home culture classes in the rural schools. The most practical feature of its work is the establishment and operation of a public school lunch in the Bryant School where children can buy a hot, nourishing lunch for a penny a portion. This idea is to be carried out in every school in Plainfield. To support this work the Association gave a benefit lunch in the Park Club at which interesting speakers were heard and one hundred and thirty-five guests were served.

The Plainfield Mothers Association will continue its work along all lines of child welfare with regular meetings for discussion and help with the aid of literature and lectures to stimulate a new intelligent interest on the part of parents and the public in child study.

The Monday Afternoon Club.

(By Mrs. Orton Dale.)

The Monday Afternoon Club during its twenty-six years of life has steadily grown and developed, facing new and changing conditions and accepting them with a spirit of progress tempered with caution and conservatism. When the clock struck the hour of a new order of things, department club methods were adopted, and at the close of the first year's record pulse and respiration are still normal, and next year is looked forward to with zest.

Those who read the Constitution find the old ideals thriving, while those who would relegate such impedient to the executive committee, rejoice in opportunities for activity according to their choice.

In place of a compromised program which was the result of hard labor in the attempt to please all, we have groups—literature, art and miscellaneous—meeting separately and following out their preconceived plans in a definite, orderly way; while all come together in the general meetings where the solidairty of the club is emphasized, and for which discussions are planned, and lectures carefully selected with the aim to helping and rounding out the distinctive work of each department.

While experience is making history, the high ideals cherished will be approached as the club orients itself with those standards that time living must ever measure up to.

Better Care of Defectives.

(By Mabelle C. Phillips.)

While in some respects New Jersey leads all the other states in its care of defectives, there are a number of ways in which our provisions for the insane, the feeble-minded and the epileptic should be improved. The ideal care of the insane is full State control. The Commissioner of Charities recommends three colonies providing for 300 insane patients each, each colony to have 500 acres of land. At present we have 7,097 insane in the State and one State institution has 812 patients in excess of accommodations, another county institution has 301 more patients than it should have. Altogether the State is caring for over 1,000 insane persons in excess of the full normal capacity of the State and county hospitals and we must contemplate an annual increase of 250 patients. The present Legislature has given Morris Plains $20,000 for a new building and Trenton has been provided with a special building for the criminal insane.

The present public provision for feeble-minded in New Jersey is made at the State Home for Feeble-Minded Women and at the private Training School for Feeble-minded Children, where the State boards 350 patients. The present capacity of the Home for Women is 250 but its inmates number 301. A new building with a capacity of 100 is to be opened here, however, which will accommodate all whose applications are now on file. It is highly important to provide for applications which will undoubtedly be made after the present time. It is impossoble to tell how many feeble-minded women there are in the State at present, but the Commission on the care of Mental Defectives gives the number as 800 that should be cared for within the next five years. At the present time no provisions is made by the State for feeble-minded children under six or children of a low grade of mentality, such as idiots and imbeciles of any age. There are now on file 125 applications of feeble-minded children to the Training School at Vineland, some of them have been on file for over ten years. Children needing custodial care are not eligible for this institution and Plainfield has such a child for whom neither the State nor the City provide any care. It is estimated that there are 5,000 feeble-minded persons in the State not subject to any State care and many of them are a menace to the welfare of the communities in which they live. Better provision for the defective children has been secured in the last few years in special classes which are now being provided in all good schools. Over 1,600 children are in special classes througnout the State; 60 in Plainfield.

The present normal capacity of the State Village for Epileptics at Vineland is 450, and will soon be 600. The present Legislature has made a law of the recommendation which the Commission on the care of Mental Defectives proposed, namely: that all epileptic persons, whether insane, feeble-minded or undesirable in any way, should be sent to Skillman, where it is now the State's duty to provide a proper building for each class of these epileptics.

THE CHARITY ORGANIZATION SOCIETY.

(By Mrs. Kathleen Ryder.)

The various Committees of the Charity Organization Society of Plainfield and North Plainfield offer to all interested women opportunities to help in the good work of bettering conditions in the uplift of humanity in practical and useful ways. The Relief Committee holds weekly meetings during the year, when reports of cases are given by the Secretaries, and plans made to help those in immediate want. The second hand clothing bureau connected with this Committee is greatly appreciated. Clothing is given outright in some cases, while to those able to pay a small charge is made. A sub-committee of active young women keeps busy cutting out new garments, which are given out to be made up in exchange for groceries or coal.

The raison d'etre of the Friendly Visiting Committee largely explains itself—that its members visit in a friendly way those cases in need of a friend. The chairman says "We do need help very much. We want new members, women, girls and men who will take up the work because they see its worth—alive and filled with a desire to Friendly Visit."

The Membership Committee has mapped out a systematic plan, to reach all in Plainfield who may be able to contribute even the minimum sum of one dollar. Six months' work shows the result of 139 new members.

KATHLEEN RYDER,
Vice-President Charity Organization Society.

A Plea for Women on the Board of Education.

(By Mrs. Herbert E. Parker.)

Why do we have a Board of Education?

The Board of Education is a body of citizens chosen to act for the parents and the community in equipping and maintaining our schools in the best manner possible. It is an acknowledged fact that every child learns more in the first five years of its life than it does in the next ten years.

Who is his guide and teacher in thes most impressionable years? Almost always the child's mother.

Every mother will recall with what grief she parted with her little six year old when she placed him in the first grade in school where one-third of his waking hours are to be spent under other influences, in determining which neither she nor say any other mother has any part.

Who is it that visits the school rooms?

To whom is a note sent in regard to conditions of health or behavior and who does the investigating? Always the mother.

Is not a widowed mother with one or more children much more interested in the education of her offsprings than the man who sits on the Board who either has no children or whose children are beyond school age?

Consider the fact that in nearly every school building seventy-five per cent. of the faculty is made up of women teachers; in some cases this percentage runs as high as ninety-five. With no woman on the school board our teacners are without representatives.

Some persons assert that women should not serve because of their ignorance of business. Any woman who can manage the finances of a household is capable of carrying on any school business.

If some women are fitted to be superintendents of schools, certainly there must be others of the sex quite efficient enough to serve on the school board.

There are many women of college training who have both the equipment and the willingness to serve in such a capacity. The community needs such volunteers.

Who is it that plans for the child's higher education? You will find the average woman of today keenly interested in the education of her children. She is the one who helps them over the hard places in their home work or if she finds they are falling behind in their studies, it is generally the mother who persuades the father to hire a tutor that the child may continue with his class.

The precious boys and girls belong to us. We own the homes and the schools. The teachers and the members of the Board of Education are our servants who assist us in fitting our sons and daughters to become the worthy men and women of the next generation.

In several communities in this State you will find that the personnel of the Board of Education is equally divided between the men and women of the city or village.

In Ohio it has been the privilege of the women to not only serve on the Board of Education but to vote for past twenty years or more.

In fact there are a great many men and women who are strongly opposed to equal suffrage who will assert that there should of course be women on the School Board.

Women are by instinct and training house-keepers and home-makers. To give woman her rightful share of responsibility for school-keeping, is merely to extend her function as house-keeper and home-maker.

Public Recreation in the Public Schools of Plainfield.

(By Miss A. D. Melvin, Supervisor of Public Recreation Work in Plainfield).

Plainfield is awake to its two-fold responsibility for the people's leisure time. Through the police authorities it provides repressive measures to check the growth of objectionable amusement activities; through the public Recreation Committee and the Playground Commission it supports the development of counteracting attractions which are constructive. The work of the Public Recreation Committee has now been conducted for a year in the Public Schools of Plainfield. The committee is organized to socialize and to standardize public recreation. The work began with a weekly dance and other public or mass gatherings. At present in addition to the weekly social dance, occasional meetings, which attracts large numbers are lectures, a forum for the open discussion of mooted social and civic questions, the presentation of acceptable amateur plays and exhibition in folk dancing.

The small club groups organized for some definite social or educational purpose are another phaze of the work annually as important though not as spectacular as the mass activities. The several clubs in this category meet weekly. The Junior Municipal Orchestra is made up of young boys and girls who practice patiently in ensemble playing, the Washington Musical and Dramatic Club studies and presents plays, the International Club of Dancing makes an accurate study and practice of the historic national dances of various European countries, the Civic Club learns to debate and discuss processes and the Dunbar Social and Educational Club by its name explains its purpose, the Guilds of Play, meeting on Friday afternoon, composed of the Plainfield 8th grade pupils, are a pleasing reminder of the romantic social guilds of long ago—the young children play a variety of group games and are taught rhythmetic exercises of musical and aesthetic value.

With this growth within the first year the Public Recreation Committee looks forward to immediate broadening development due to the earnestness of its own members and the fine co-operation of the Board of Education.

PLAINFIELD PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION.

(By Mrs. G. Stuart Simons.)

The Parent-Teacher Associations of Plainfield and North Plainfield are real live wires in the community. About seven years ago the Plainfield Association of Mothers began the work of forming in every public school in the city an association of parents and teachers to cooperate for the good of the children.

The work was completed during the past year and we have an active association in each school.

A former Mayor once said he considered the Parent-Teacher Association one of the strongest forces for good in the city and promptly backed up his opinion by approving a request of the Association for an increase in the salaries of the teachers.

It was in the building of the Franklin School at a meeting of the Association that the subject of public playgrounds was thrashed out to a finsh and a formal request made of the Mayor, who was in favor of the movement, to appoint a Playground Commission. We all know the excellent work of this commission, and Plainfield would not give it up now if it cost twice as much, knowing, in the end supervised play saves many times its cost. The sanitation and fire conditions of the old school buildings were discussed, awakening an interest in parents in the housing of the school children, doubtless with the result that many pay school taxes much more cheerfully.

Question box meetings have been held in all the schools, fully discussing many questions pertaining to school work. Appointed times for individual and general discussion of the needs of the children have been arranged for the parents and teachers.

At the request of the superintendent a committee from the Parent-Teacher Associations planned for a wider use of the school buildings, in due time asking for the appointment by the Mayor of the Public Recreation Committee. Lack of space forbids the enumeration of the work of the Associations in detail, but the fact that parents and teachers are co-operating intelligently for the good of the children is no slight asset to the city.

NORTH PLAINFIELD PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION.

(By Mrs. J. A. Foulks.)

Just a year ago, a handful of eager women met to discuss the need of a Parent-Teacher Association in connection with the North Plainfield schools. The need seemed great! There seemed to be no connecting link between the home and the school, the Board of Education and the faculty.

After consultation with the president of the Board of Education, the supervising principal and several of the teachers, the same little body of women called a meeting of the mothers and the teachers. In spite of a severe rain we proudly recorded sixty charter members of the "North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association."

The result of this meeting is largely known. It has awakened men and women to the need of better things.

Instead of doubt of our members of the Board of Education, we feel trust and loyalty. The association was also the means of bringing before the citizens the need of new sanitary arrangements in the school, and I need not refere to the splendid way in which they responded to our appeal for this improvement.

The need of adjusting several items of equipment also received immediate attention by either the Board of Education or the supervising principal, and numerous smaller things have been done to add to the efficiency of our school, and greater things are coming!

In this wonderful age of progress, we hope to be among the foremost. To be really Mothers of Men.

THE WOMAN PHYSICIAN.

There is need in the world of the woman physician. An increasing number of her sex seek her counsel. Some women will suffer rather than consult a man, and, if forced to do so, will feel a humiliation quite natural if the priceless virtue of modesty is to be retained.

If a woman wishes to be treated by one of her own sex she should be able to feel that the service is equally as valuable and reliable as is that of a man doing the same work. How is medical and surgical skill obtained? First, by the course in the medical college, where woman may now obtain the same instruction as men. Second, by work in hospitals where the necessary practical experience with the sick is obtained and where the young physician is trained by those most skillful in the profession. This opportunity is yet largely denied to women.

As taxpayers and subscribers women give generous support to all classes of hospitals. May we not expect that equal suffrage will hasten the time when the hospitals will be open alike to men and women graduates in medicine, that those of corresponding ability may acquire the same skill?

POLICEWOMEN.

By Mrs. Nannie Melvin, Acting Supervisor of Recreation Work in Plainfield.

First, what is a policewoman? She is a motherly woman with police authority. She is a public chaperon, paid by the public and authorized by the public to help take care of the unprotected. She is a social worker who has more power for good than the unofficial social worker; her commission by the city or the State is at once a support to her work and a protection to her in carrying it on. She is the friend and adviser of young girls and boys, and because she has a badge from police headquarters she is not meddling when she offers assistance, sometimes unasked, sometimes unwanted, however much needed. The policewoman is not a detective. She should not be set on the track of petty misdoers to apprehend them. She is not an Amazon with a stick. Her power to make arrests she holds in reserve. The policewoman is not a regular patrolwoman with a given beat. She goes to those places where she is most needed at varying hours of the day—at the factories and shops at closing time and at public places of commercial amusement during the evenings.

The new cry for policewomen has grown out of the increasing belief that the mother point of view should be more represented in public life. There is a great lack of woman's tact, woman's conservative and preventive method in our public social scheme. The policewoman, for instance, does not wait until somebody has done something "disgraceful," but she corrects the little thing which she knows can so easily grow to be the big thing. "That's not wrong" is the frequent protest of persons approached and reproached by the commissioned public chaperon. "But it is not becoming" or "is not proper" is nine times out of ten, a sufficient reason to gain a respectful hearing for motherly talk and then a "Thank you ma'am" on parting. The policewoman is at the shops and factories at closing time, because she knows that whenever hundreds of young people are gathered together, there is danger for some few of those young people. In public dance halls, moving picture places, and all resorts of commercialized amusement the policewoman is ready to protect the young from themselves, from their own heedless love of pleasure, sometimes, at any cost. Leisure is ever a time of more or less danger, as removal of restraint easily brings on wreckless abandon. All philosophy testifies to the fact that the great thinkers have realized that pleasure must be kept in bounds. The stoic philosopher, the Christian ascetic, and the late Puritan is each an illustration of the man who felt that since pleasure often defeats its own purpose he would be without all enjoyment. But pleasure is necessary for the masses of our young people, and since they must have pleasure, and since great commercial establishments have grown up to provide pleasure, it is the business of the public to see to it that pleasure is made safe. The moneymaker offering recreation in the market is not more a man of altrusim than the seller of drugs and foods. The public censor and the moving picture censor are both developments which have come out of the belief that the public owes its citizens protection from temptation just as surely as it owes them protection from fire and contagion and deleterious adulteration of foodstuffs.

Every bathing beach should have one or more public policewomen to warn and advise the forgetful during the bathing hour. There is no one psychological axiom truer than this. People, when released from the usual conventional costume and manners, more readily do the unusual thing, which is often the unwise thing, than when under conventional restraints. Freedom which is necessary and good on the beach, easily become objectionable unless there is some reminder to the thoughtless ones in the crowd. Freedom unchecked is apt to break bounds and become license. The force of example, also, must be considered. For instance, one very bold and impudent girl and man may do a certain forbidden thing, not patently "disgraceful;" others see their act, and soon by the mere force of example several other couples will be found doing that very same thing, not because they are bold or bad at all, but because they are imitating the one bold and bad couple. Imitation is one of the strongest forces moulding our social habits and conventions. The policewoman on a bathing beach who goes quietly up to a too-familiar couple on the sands and says: "I wouldnt do that," will generally be thanked. At all events, if the authorities are standing back of her she can press her claim and her request for public better conduct. She need almost never make an arrest, because most people want to behave properly. On the other hand, no one really enjoys being corrected, and therefore the policewoman must have full authority to protect her from the ready accusation of meddling which can close off all protective interference from a non-commissioned social worker.

To conclude, a policewoman must be a woman with a heart and mind, a woman who has eyes and ears with which to learn what is happening about her, a woman with a sense of relationship of present happenings to the future extremes to which they may lead, a woman with a feeling for the crowd and with a knowledge of crowd conduct and group behavior. The increase of crime in our large modern cities has led to the plea for a more efficient police; and the woman police is a part of the response to this demand. She performs duties for duties which a woman can do for the the young of the community, for the weak of the community, better than a man can. She is not primarily to apprehend criminals. Her first duty is to prevent the development of criminals, to add, in a mother way, protection to the order and peace of the community household.

Work of the Civic Committee of the College Club of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

(By Katherine F. Ball.)

Until the civic committee of the College Club undertook to secure Saturday half holidays during August for the clerks in the Plainfield stores, very few persons outside of the club knew of the existence of such a committee. But it has been doing various kinds of civic work ever since the club divided, about a year and a half ago, to include in its program, a study of recreation, and employment conditions of the girls in Plainfield.

The first work undertaken was a systematic study of the recreation facilities of Plainfield, which were pitifully inadequate. At that time the schools had not been opened for recreation purposes, and the Public Recreation Committee was not organized. Later on a regular weekly inspection of the moving picture theatres was undertaken, the reports showing that as a rule the character of the films and the conduct of the theatre are good, but that, contrary to law, children under sixteen unaccompanied, do succeed in gaining admission.

At Christmas time a vigorous "Shop Early" campaign was conducted. All the ministers and priests in town were given material to use in appeals to their congregations; the principals of all the schools, both public and private, supported the movement; and many of the merchants used the "Shop Early" slogan in their advertising. The newspapers gave invaluable assistance by keeping the matter constantly before their readers in a variety of clever ways.

When the Consumers' League was pushing the bill to establish a "State Welfare Commission" to investigate the conditions under which girls and women work, the civic committee offered its assistance in collecting evidence of the need for such a commission. A survey was made of the boarding houses for working girls, and the actual habits of girls employed in Plainfield were secured. But many girls were often afraid to give such information lest somehow it might lead to dismissal.

None of the work hitherto undertaken by the civic committee has awakened such widespread interest as the Saturday half holiday plan. Several merchants already close their stores Saturday noon, nearly all are willing to do so provided it is generally done. Hundreds of patrons of the stores have signed petitions asking for the half holiday and agreeing to shop on Fridays during August. It has been found that all the manufacturing concerns except one, pay their employes before Saturday, so that one of the chief objections is already answered.

It now remains to put the plan into operation and see how it works. The civic committee looks for the support of all those who have an interest in the welfare of the whole community, and confidently believes that the plan will work not only for the advantage of the clerks, but also for the ultimate advantage of the merchants and their patrons.

THE W. C. T. U.

(By Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson.)

In the death of our national president, Mrs. Lillian M. H. Stevens, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union has sustained an irreparable loss. Her last words written for the public should be in every paper. "The movement for national constitutional prohibition is meeting with greater favor than I dared to hope on that memorable evening, September 10, 1911, when on behalf of the World's and National Christian Temperance Union, I made the proclamation—and I dared to hope almost everything for the temperance cause. I knew we are to win. In whatever world I am my activities will be devoted to this end. The destruction of the liquor traffic will glorify God in heaven and on earth, and will hasten the establishment of the kingdom of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ." This was her proclamation:

"In the name of the World's and National Womans Christian Temperance Union, we hereby make this Proclamation for a Great Crusade to carry the vital truth to the peoples themselves in all lands, and through them to place prohibition in the organic law of all nations and ultimately in the organic law of the world ond to this high end, we invoke the blessing and guidance of Almighty God and the co-operaation of the men and women of all lands who love their fellowmen, and

"To America, the birthplace of the local, State, National and World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union, we hereby proclaim that within a decade, prohibition shall be placed in the Constitution of the United States; and to this end we call to active co-operation all temperance, prohibition, religious and philanthropic bodies; all patriotic, fraternal, civic associations and all Americans who love their country."

It has been introduced in Congress by R. P. Hobson.

The work will go forward in every State, and we believe that woman's vote will help to bring the victory.

Her voice has cheered Him onward
When by biggest burdens bowed.

Of the earth and sea and stars.

She steered Him through Geography
And History, and yet
Politically She's anchored
To a lifelong Alphabet.

The name of Molly Pitcher
To a thousand minds will come.

He yields a seat within the car

But standing room within the polls
For Her would never do!

SUFFRAGE SUCCESS IN NEW JERSEY HELPED BY WESTERN REPORTS

Mrs. Everett Colby, Chairman of Legislative Committee, Draws Conclusions From This Year's Victory.

Mrs. Everett Colby and Daughter.

A prominent Senator of our State said not long ago: "The question of Woman's Suffrage has now become a political issue in New Jersey. During the last year the subject has been so widely and earnestly discussed and the Suffrage organizations have grown so enormously that it is a subject not to be ignored by politicians, or, in fact, by the general public."

Both the Republicans and the Democrats had a plank in their last platform favoring a referendum on this subject, and our resolution passed the Legislature of 1914 with a vote of 64 in favor and only 7 opposed, whereas in 1912 in the entire Legislature there were only 3 votes favoring the Woman's Suffrage resolution. The conclusion is obvious!

In connection with the Legislative work the chairman obtained letters from some of the Governors of the Western States, extracts from which she is glad to publish, in the hope that they may prove helpful to those who are in doubt about the actual working result of Woman Suffrage, where it has been tried.

From John M. Haines, Governor of Idaho.

"The State is unquestionably a cleaner, purer, better place in which to live than it was before women were granted the right of suffrage, and it is safe to say that no man in public life in this State, at the present time, would think of urging that the right of Woman's Suffrage be abolished. There is absolutely no ground for belief that it has been harmful in even the slightest particular, and this being true, we feel here that it is a right which our women are properly entitled to, and concerning which there can be no further honest question."

From Oswald West, Governor of Oregon.

"While this right has been enjoyed but a short time by our women, they have been making excellent use of it. They are prompt to register and vote, and their influence is most always found upon the side of better government. The result of their efforts is already being reflected in a number of important measures recently adopted in this State, which will make for the public good.

"The movement for equal suffrage for women is spreading in the United States, and it is only a question of time until every State will have placed women on an equal footing with men."

From Ernest Lister, Governor of Washington.

"The women in this State have enjoyed full suffrage now for about three years.

"I believe that the best recommendation for its success in the State of Washington is the fact that I know of no one who was in favor of granting that right, when the constitutional amendment was adopted, who today opposes it. I do know of a large number of those who opposed the amendment who are now strongly in favor of it. The question of considering such a thing as the repeal of this amendment is never mentioned in our State. Personally I believe the giving to the women of the State the right to vote has been of benefit rather than otherwise in the proper consideration and management of public affairs."

Governor Hunt of Arizona.

"The protests that were at first heard against the new order of things involving equal enfranchisement of the sexes in governmental affairs have greatly died out in the face of concrete evidence that the women of Arizona not only are perfectly capable of maintaining an intelligent grasp on questions of political import, but are also awake to their opportunities for public service through the able use of the ballot.

"Thus far there have been apparent none of the alleged evils or disagreeable conditions so greatly emphasized by opponents of universal suffrage, nor has there been a single instance to show that the addition of Woman Suffrage to our laws has been other than a wise and thoughtful provision for cleaner politics in the future.

"I have heard many arguments against Woman Suffrage notably that women will vote more according to the heart than the head—that they can never understand or take more than a perfunctory interest in political issues and, last but not least, that it is more or less demoralizing and 'the place for woman is the home.'

"I cannot agree with any of these opinions. The women of Arizona, as elsewhere in the United States where the universal suffrage law is in effect, appear to have taken a deep interest in the issues involved, considered them intelligently and thoughtfully voted directly in accord with their convictions. That women, as yet, understand little of the 'game', or business of politics, is immeasurably in their favor as voters, for the crying need in this country at present is a counteraction of the evil of 'machine' politics.

"The tendency, at present, is strongly toward reform. Publicity has been the great educator in this respect and the people are learning that a great many of the existing evils can be corrected by conscientious voting. The women voters of this country are taking a deep and vital interest in the reform movement and it is safe to say that the great majority of their votes are cast for the best interests of the community, and after very careful deliberation.

"I believe that the votes of women whose greatest interest is 'in the home' will always be cast thoughtfully and conscientiously for the best interests of that home and the other homes of the nation, and thus such votes will do more than anything else to break up the cut-and-dried system of politics which depends, fundamentally, for its success on machine organization. I think furthermore, that women, as voters, will always produce a safe majority on the side of reform, especially in the betterment of local conditions. The truth of this has been demonstrated in Arizona, and while it is difficult and, perhaps, unwise to predict, the cause of Woman Suffrage is daily growing stronger in this country. It has ceased to be an experiment, for its virtues have been tried and proved to the last degree."

The fundamental argument in favor of Woman's Suffrage is that the extension of the suffrage to woman is another step in the direction of democracy. The government thereby becomes more fully expressive of the collective will and wisdom of the entire community.

But there is a more obvious need for Woman's Suffrage. It is the need of protection from petty oppression of women property owners by administrative officers of the law. If some tax assessments are low, others must be high. If activity must be shown by a street commissioner, it were safer to round up a non-voter than a voter. If a sewage disposal plant is to be located, a neighborhood owned by non-voting women is quite obviously the most desirable for such a purpose from the point of view of the practical politician. Everywhere, except perhaps in Plainfield, non-voting women suffer these petty injustices. And injustice is always demoralizing, however petty it may be.

American Clothes

By Kathryn Sminck

Pedro, the barber, had become a naturalized American citizen and in the course of events he became valuable to Avvocato, the money-lender, who was a servant of the "Tiger." Avvocato's influence in the quarter was beginning to wane now that the vote belonged to the women also; for they followed the "American Signorina" (an enemy of the Tiger) into strange paths and robbed his coffers of many precious lire.

Julia, Pedro's wife, had been filled with fear when she watched from her high window in the tenement and had seen how often his steps turned to the shop of Avvocato. She had learned from the Signorina what penalty the American laws held for barbers and in her mind she had seen Pedro swallowed in the prison. She had shuddered with thought of the days she would live alone, caring for crippled Elena and her heart had burned with hate of Rosalia Suigini who had smiled in Avvocato's shop and lured Pedro into the Tiger's mouth. Rosalia's lips were touched with carmine and her charm was a tentacle to grasp many men.

Julia's eyes had narrowedin scheming through the long hours. At last came the solution. Ah! She remembered Salvatore, the Scrivener, who had taught Elena to read!

"I will ask his aid." and she sped away down the stairs to Salvatore's cellar.

* * * * * * * *

On the day of his first voting Pedro wore new clothes, and anointed his hair with fresh oil. Julia made foolish prate of a pledge to the American Signorina and declared that she, also, would attend this festa of the 'laws!' Pedro made sport of her half-shod feet and faded shawl.

"Dost thou think to follow the Signorina with thy feet uncovered like swine?" he taunted.

"Yea, I will go," she seemingly rebelled, "just as Maria and Lena and all in the quarter. Even Mona, with shrivelled-apple face has pledged her word to vote against Avvocato, that soft-padded cat—her voice rose shrilly—and presently she heard Salvatore's step faltering on the lower stair and knew that he had heard the quarrel's echo. It was the signal they had agreed upon.

"Because of Rosalia thou wouldst keep me from the festa," she stormed. "Rosalia, who does not stand to work, who wears shoes and keeps a foul heart beneath a smooth garment."

The scrivener entered and barely missed the blow that measured Pedro's wrath.

"Santa Maria, a thousand pardons, padre," begged Guinla, looking steadily into his deep-seet eyes. Then, pointing to a closely-written paper in his hand, she questioned him lightly.

"Have thine eyes grown dim again that thou canst not read thine own script?" she asked meaningly.

"Yea, by the sanits, they grow more dim with every day," he lied suavely. "Again I have brought a message for thy little one to read that I may know the words are smooth."

With votalite gesture Guinla led the way across the dark landing into the half-light of the tenement room.

"Why has thou the table scoured white as a pearl cliff, cara mia?" asked the old scrivener with fluent Latin metaphor.

Guinla crossed herself.

"At the mass of Santa Cecelia the Little One was spared by a miracle," she replied, tremblingly conscious of Pedor, scowling in the doorway. "The dirt that was here would have sucked the life from her like a leech—so said the doctor of the American. Now I make clean the table, and the chicken that ran under our feet have sold to the ignorina who brought the rose."

On the window-ledge a squat brown bottle held a yellow rose and with childish care Guinla carried it close under the eye of the scrivener that he might more surely appreciate its golden heart. "The Signorina's pledge," she exclaimed.

"Bella," murmured the scrivener, forgetful of his errand, "On the dark wall at San Sebastian they grew even like this one—yellow stars in a deep night."

Pedro grumbled between his teeth. Unlike Guinla he could not assimilate the cultivated idiom of Salvatore's speech.

"The letter—let the little one read!" he commanded harshly.

"Hast thou a lesson of letters for me today?" she chirped eagerly.

"One written in thine own tongue," replied the scrivener gently. "Read, little daughter, that I may hear the progress," and he lay the folded sheet of paper in her slim hand.

"Bella, Father Salvatore!" she cried, delighted with the broad capitals and shaded flourishes.

"Read, little cuckoo, and miss not a word," besought Guinla with strong insistence. She turned to Pedro, shuffling his feet against the doorjamb. "Come nearer and listen how learned is our bambina, even though her limbs are crooked." As Pedro stepped forward she watched him with wistful fear while Elena read. Would he suspect? She longed to strangle the white throat of Rosalia who had caused this deception.

"Padre mio—"

It is many months since itold thee of the new shop and now I send word that I have enough put by to pay the passage to this country. There is work for everyone and ways, also to make money without work. Last week a man of our race, who has lived here so long that he is now become a man of America, promised me six hundred lire to vote for the sindaco (mayor), this man wants. By the blessed Virgin, father, I swear this to be true. In America many men choose to be sindaco and they buy the votes from each other. Besides the lire he promises to me, he also gives ten lire to every man who promises to vote as I vote on the day of the elections. This man spoke for Avvocato, the money-lender, who is a servant of the Tiger and"—

Elena was hushed by an oath from her father and caught her breath in terror of his eyes, red-dimmed with anger.

"Dio mio! thou tool of Satan!" cried Pedro, his arm raised in threat over the scriveners head, "to make script of men's secrets and crush us in the jaws of the Tiger—"

"Maria is old and frail as a leaf in autumn," said Guinla. "Remember, Pedro, he has been of service to us these many years!"

Pedro snatched the letter from Elena's hand and tore it several times across—then stamped the bits beneath the heel of his American shoe.

"That is the way to grind such grist," he menaced, though his face was gray with self-betrayal, "and have a care that thy feet do not tread again where the ice is thin for the power of the Tiger sweeps the current below," he finished in feeble imitation of Avvocato's warning to informers.

With knees trembling he turned from the room like a guilty child, half mad with rage at this balking of his plan to gain the lire Avvocato had promised. What should he say to his master?

Quinla, from the high window in the tenement, watched him thread his way through the crowded quarter His fellows jostled him in holiday abandon on the way to Taddeo's bar, but he paid no heed. Rosalia smiled in Avvocato's shop and hung fresh cherries over her ears when she saw him coming. But in vain! For he crossed the narrow street before he reached her door and did not turn his head, even when she called to him in vexation.

Quinla laughed mockingly in the window.

"A good trick well played, Maria Salvatore!" exulting. "He does not suspect a fake, but is bowed with fright that the truth may leak farther. He knows not what word to give his master and fears a spy at every corner. Already, he feels the iron of the prison! See how he walks as though he feared following! Thus do I snap my fingers at Rosalia, may the devil take her!" Quinla chattered. "He thinks he has failed and dares not go near the shop of Avvocato!"

Truly, there is no scrivener like thee in the quarter, Padro Mario!" In rapid glee she gathered the bits of torn paper from the floor and scattered them out of the window. "Ecco!—the American Signorina will have pleasure when she hears of this—for she seeks to break Avvocato—he fights the tenement-house law and cheats our people!"

With one nervous jerk she pulled the bundle from beneath Elena's cot and released the contents.

"Bellissima, madre mia,—American clothes!" cried the bewildered child. "Yea, little cuckoo, see how I shall become them," laughed her mother as the faded shawl whirled to her feet in neglect—then the scarf with crimson figures and the petticoat with stripes. She bent to life the scarf for an instant. "In Napoli," her voice low with tenderness, "we bought it from the Sicilian in the bazaar at the Feast of Mt. Carmel—and Pedro drove the mules with bells."

The scrivener said nothing; he was old and knew when to keep silent. Elena was hushed with awe of this glowing creature who had been her mother, plodding from morning till night with lustreless glance.

"Tis well that I sold the lace on Ascension Day—and that the Signorina paid me well for that chicken!" Guinla laughed metallically and fastened a new silk girdle about her waist. Suddenly the laughter fled and she fell upon her knees at Elena's cot to hide her tears in the child's dusky hair.

"Oh! My little one! For thy sake I follow the American Signorina, bring deception on thy father, and curse my soul with lies—for thy sake and for all the other little ones housed in these foul tenements of Avvocato." She straightened and brushed the tears from her face. "Ecco!" she whispered softly, "and for the son that shall come when the Virgin wills!"

She sprang to her feet, caught the yellow rose from the window-ledge and fastened it in the broad girdle with swift neapolitan instinct. Laughter returned.

"The pledge of the American Signorina!" and she kissed her hand to Salvatore and Elena with exotic fervor. "Addio! I, also, wear American clothes and go this day to vote for a new sindaco!"

WOMAN SUFFRAGE HAS PASSED EXPERIMENTAL STAGE; RESULTS OF QUARTER CENTURY TEST

If You See it in the "Sun" It's So!

We are constantly told that it would be very dangerous to try such an "experiment" as woman suffrage. Opponents of the movement seem to forget that one state has been "experimenting for forty-five years, and eight others for periods ranging from one and a half to twenty-four years. Men are largely in the majority in every one of these States and either the men of Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming must be easily duped or else woman suffrage has proved perfectly satisfactory, for they could have disfranchised the women very easily if they had not been satisfied with the results of their "experimenting" with an electorate composed of women as well as men.

The New York "Evening Sun," a paper neither owned nor controlled by woman suffragists, published on January 5th an article from which the following extracts are made. This seems to prove pretty conclusively that woman suffrage has gotten beyond the experimental stage in the United States of America.

Do women who have the vote vote?

What laws have their votes passed?

Is Woman Suffrage considered a success by the States that have it?

The gist of an exhaustive questionnaire sent out by The Evening Sun is in the three sentences above. Eight questions in all were forwarded to correspondents of the newspaper in the suffrage States, with orders that the investigation be absolutely unbiassed.

Women who have the vote do vote. Their ballot has already passed a considerable body of law. The suffrage States seem to be satisfied to have women go on voting.

That is the gist of the inferences to be drawn from a compilation of the correspondents' replies.

The actual legislation directly resultant from the woman vote was what the correspondents paid particular attention to. The legislation runs along parallel lines in every State where the women have the ballot and deals largely with the labor questions particularly affecting the working conditions and wages of women and children, the social evil, pensions for mothers and education and care of children.

Arizona.

The most important Arizona law directly traceable to woman suffrage is the female labor law—8 hours for women in some occupations and 10 hours in others.

The women vote in about the same proportions as the men.

Their interest in legislation leans toward moral and social reforms.

On the liquor question they are strongly in favor of prohibition.

The vote of women of the disorderly houses does not count in any way.

California.

But one session of the California Legislature has been held since women were granted the ballot in this State. The following laws, all of which had the official indorsement of which had the official indorsement of the women's organizations were passed:

The minimum wage law, creating a commission of industrial welfare, with powers to investigate industries where women and children are employed and regulate conditions of employment.

An amendment to the women's eight hour law, already in force, extending its provisions to nurses in training and workers in apartment houses. (This amendment is being tested in the courts).

The child labor amendment, providing that no minor under 18 shall be employed more than eight hours a day, and that no minor under 15 shall be employed for wages or profit. Certain exceptions are made. (The previous law read 12 years).

A law establishing a State training school for delinquent girls, with an appropriation of $200,000.

The equal guardianship act, giving the mother equal rights with the father to the custody, service and earnings of a legitimate unmarried minor child.

Colorado: Suffrage a Success.

The most notable thing about Colorado in the large percentage of women who take advantage of their voting privilege. Of the 125,000 women who are registered in the State, fully 90 per cent. go to the polls regularly. The report is as follows:

Since the adoption of equal suffrage in Colorado important laws, owing their inception or final enactment to women suffrage, have been placed on the statute books.

Eight hour law for women. Minimum Wage Board consisting of one representative of labor one woman and one employer. Determines minimum wage for women and minors and orders are binding upon employers.

The initiative, referendum and recall have been adopted, with a disorderly house law.

Woman suffrage is generally considered a success in Colorado and has resulted in cleaner politics.

Idaho: Conditions Better.

Women have voted in Idaho for seventeen years. The subject of working conditions for women and children and in general the care of children, the putting down of the social evil, the restricting of the sale of liquors, and similar legislation have been particularly noticeable rately from her husband in cases concerning her separate property, her right to homestead property, etc.

A law defining crimes against women and raising the age of consent from 16 to 18 years. A law raising the penalty for such crimes; now ten to fifty years imprisonment, formerly five to ten years.

Idaho has a good labor law affecting women and children, including a nine hour restriction for women and the same for children over the school age. It is forbidden to employ children in theatres or resorts.

"A white slave law was passed and a disorderly house law giving city and village authorities power to suppress these places. Inmates of these houses and proprietors are not allowed to vote.

"The benefits that women have derived from suffrage was mainly through legislation affecting their work and status in marriage.

"The women voters are not any more radical than the men.

"On the liquor question they favor restriction. In factory legislation they appear to favor legislation looking for the bettering of the conditions of workers.

"Woman suffrage has aided in bettering conditions generally."

Illinois: Betterments Under Way.

"On factory laws the women take the credit for recent legislation for bettering working conditions.

(Since this report the recent Illinois elections have taken place in which the women made a splendid showing. Seventy-three per cent. of the women registered voted as against 72 per cent. of the men. For details as to the vote see Mr. Millar's article on Woman Suffrage and the Liquor Question.—Ed.)

Kansas.

Equal suffrage has been the rule in all municipal elections in Kansas for the past fifteen years. The new law giving the women the vote in State elections does not go into effect until November, 1914.

The influence of the women, however, has been behind many reform measures, according to the report which follows:

"In municipal elections the women have voted in about the same proportion as the men.

"Kansas women generally favor the initiative, referendum and recall, prohibition and factory legislation which betters working conditions.

Woman suffrage as far as it has extended in Kansas is considered a success and politics are cleaner.

Oregon: Showing is Good.

Woman suffrage in Oregon already is beginning to show results. Laws indirectly benefiting women have been passed and the general tone of politics is better. The report follows:

Registration which is statewide shows that 40 per cent. of the women entitled to vote are on the rolls. As many women as men, in proportion to their numbers, voted in election of city officers.

Industrial welfare commission established with power to decide hours of work, standard conditions of labor and minimum wage; orders binding an employers' State Industrial School for delinquent girls. Training of dependent girls in the industrial arts provided for in the public schools.

Utah: Voting Has Helped Women.

"In considering woman suffrage in Utah it must be noted that suffrage came with Statehood, so that all sessions of the State Legislature have felt the effect of the women's influence. The adoption of the anti-gambling law, the radical State liquor law and legislation looking toward the abatement of the social evil and the care of children especially are noted as showing the effect of the 'vote.'"

The following are listed as legislation directly due to woman suffrage:

"Appropriations for children's institutions, law giving husband and wife joint guardianship of minor children and joint rights to earnings of children, minimum wage scale for women, abandonment or wilful neglect of wife or child made punishable, mother's pension bill.

"Probably 95,000 or 100,000 women of Utah have been benefited by the passage of laws.

"Generally speaking, the women of Utah are in favor of either prohibition or strict regulation.

"Woman suffrage has improved the tone of politics."

Washington.

The report from Washington was in general the best in favor of the women voters.

The report is as follows:

"Among the laws in Washington which are directly traceable to woman suffrage are:

"An act providing for the creation of a women's industrial welfare commission.

"Mothers pension law by which widows and deserted wives in destitute circumstances receive pensions from the counties in which they live.

"Red light abatement law, similar to the Iowa statute.

"Abolition of capital punishment through the Goss bill.

"'Lazy husband' law, by which deserting husbands are forced to work in a county stockade and $1.50 a daye is paid their families for each day's work.

"Among the laws which are being agitated are: State home for fallen women and more women on the school boards.

"It is estimated that 175,000 women are entitled to vote at the next election over the State. Seventy-five per cent. of those women registered vote.

"The attitude of the woman is strongly against open vice and in favor of the limiting of the sale of liquor. The women favor better factory legislation.

"The women are no more radical than the men. The percentage of disreputable women voters is low.

"Suffrage is generally considered a success and has helped politics."

Wyoming.

"The most important and notable victory forced and gained by the influence of the women's vote in Wyoming was the passage of the anti-gambling law in 1901.

"There are approximately 18,000 women voters in the State.

"Women in Wyoming have benefited from suffrage. They incline toward radical legislation.

"They are strong for strict regulation of the liquor traffic.

"The vote of disreputable women has not been noticeable.

"Woman suffrage is considered a sucess in Wyoming and has improved politics."

Montclair Antis Wish to Be Human Alarm Clocks!

TO THE MEN OF MONTCLAIR.

Whether or not in 1915 full Suffrage is exttended to New Jersey women, the intermediate months must be filled with discussion. Won't you endeavor to make this discussion intelligent and profitable by helping to put in the field trained speakers—specialists who can, through the press and from the platform, get before the people the facts and principles of this campaign?

You are tired of the whole agitation! So are we. But it will never be settled until it is settled right. You know "it takes only 15 minutes to drop little pieces of paper in the ballot box" that will decide the matter. Most of you also know it will take all of these fifteen months to adequately prepare the voters to cast that vote.

Perhaps you have already made up your mind on the subject. Good! How about your brother, the Indifferent voter? Waking him up is your job. But here's a bargain: We'll enter into an emergency partnership with you that will save you a lot of trouble. Help us with money for legitimate and necessary expenses, and we will be the human alarm clock.

Both sides have organiations, local, State, national. These are sometimes wise, occasionally otherwise. But don't shoot, they are doing their best. Each is a sincere, financially responsible body with funds so limited that every dollar entrusted to them must be spent ingeniously enough to do the work of two.

Line up, men of Montclair! If you have convictions, how much are they worth? If you haven't, how much are you worth, especially to those of us, who, differing radically as to means, have still one common end in view—the adjustment of woman to modern conditions in such a way as to conserve her largest usefulness.

Your convictions in cash may be sent to Miss Aletta L. Tower, treasurer, 145 South Mountain avenue, Montclair, N. J.

MONTCLAIR BRANCH NEW JERSEY ASSOCIATION OPPOSED TO WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

I am not opposed to Woman Suffrage, but I have never succeeded in going wild over it, possibly because I am quite convinced that women want the vote. If they don't, I should like to arrange things to suit them if possible. Of course it may be their duty. That complicates things. I think they have a right to vote if they wish; and it's all poppycock to say that they would then have to be soldiers and policemen and sheriffs and what not. There can be equality of right without identity of function.

Women as a class will never show as consisteent an interest as men in politics as a game, or seriouly in routine government; and goodness knows that it is precisely the indifference of men in their public affairs which is the curse of democracy.

On moral issues the voting of women would always help tremendously. Perhaps this is reason enough to make them vote, whether they want to or not. How would it do to establish universal Suffrage with a qualification test severe enough to eliminate at least half the men who vote but don't know how? Of course we would let the ladies in on this; fee $1 for everybody, and a strict rule that if you pass and register and then ever skip an election as long as you live, you can't vote at the next succeeding election, no excuses of any kind to be accepted, not even sickness, out West on business, or babies.

LEIGHTON CALKINS.

Permits Issued During April Aggregate a Total of $68,290.

However, the showing of April is a great improvement over March, when the conditions in this city and the immediate surrounding territory was far below what it had been in previous seasons.

The permits issued during April show an estimated cost of $68,290 for new buildings and $3,000 for alterations, making a total of $71,290. This is a net increase of $44,000 over the month of March. April of last year had permits calling for the expenditure of $97,650.

JUST NOTES

Membes of the Presbyterian church, lay and clerical, are discussing with great interest the opinion handed down by the Court of Appeal, of New York, in the case of the Westminister Presbyterian church, of New York, against the trustees of the Presbytery of New York, sustaining the right of the church corporation to possess the church property which was taken away from it when that congregation was dissolved by the Presbytery.

Formidable opposition to the plans for the elevation of the tracks of the Central Railroad at Cranford, developed at the hearing held by the Public Utilities Commission, Tuesday afternoon. Realty owners were the cause of a large amount of the opposition.

Low figures have been marking the prices of building materials in the metropolitan markets during the past few weeks. Keen competition in basic commodities are likely to keep the prices down for some time. The filing of plans have been along a restricted level, and these conditions are similar in all large cities east of Pittsburgh.

Within the past three years, the development of the Pennington road as a home site, building operations have been moving along with leaps and bounds, until Wednesday, when more than $100,000 worth of buildings started in the course of construction.

New Brunswick citizens are considering two buildings worthy of note—a public market to cost $5,000 and a moving picture theatre to cost $25,000.

A deal involving one hundred and sixteen acres of land at Convent, and several buildings in Brooklyn, N. Y., in which over $1,000,000 is pending.

Improvements about the fire headquarters are to be in order within the near future, the doors to undergo slight operations.

Among the encouraging features of the building news locally, is the note that Jacob Sachar and the Blooms Construction Company will erect eight dwellings on the old Harburger estate on West Front street and Girard avenue within the course of the near future. Four of the houses will be for two families, while the other four are to be for single families.

Lodge buildings are becoming the fashionable topic among the fraternity members of the city. The F. and A. M. lodgement are now thinking of raising funds for a Masonic Temple for this city. Push it along, brothers, it's a good thing.

Among the several building alterations still pending are the improvements, and 32x18 feet cement block addition to Calvary Baptist church. The addition makes provision for a pastor's study on the main floor, as well as for a reception room. A ladies' room will be placed in the basement. A modern steam heater is also to be installed. R. L. Robinson, of Westfield, is the architect of the improvements.

TROLLEY EXTENSION A LAND DEVELOPER

W. Henry Rogers Tells of Benefits to Be Derived from Rapid Transit.

An interview printed last week on this page relative to the possible increase in value of real estate in this city when the South Plainfield trolley becomes a reality, was the cause of a revival of interest in a trolley line from this city to Stirling, thus conecting the Central and Lackawanna Railroads. W. Henry Rogers in discussing the improvement said:

"Such a line as this would be one of the best means of developing Washington Valley. The building sites in this section are superior to those in Montclair. Bernardsville is no place for people of moderate means. With these facts in view, a development of the properties adjacent to any route taken by a trolley line across the mountains would follow almost immediately.

"North Plainfield and Warren townships have offered franchises to the proper parties on several occasions, but no action was ever taken. A trolley line in such a section as this would give the people a chance to spread out, and enjoy life as it should be enjoyed. Here they buy acre and half-acre plots where homes might be erected as reasonable as possible. This section is ideal for summer homes and, no doubt, would be recognized as an ideal place for an all-year home resort.

"While the auto-bus line has done much to bring much trade to Plainfield because of its infrequent trips the section cannot become developed to the greatest possible degree. It would more than please me to have the Plainfield Board of Trade and the Watchung Improvement Society get together on this question, go over the ground at their convenience, and see what might be done in pushing the trolley across to Stirling."

ONLY TWO PERMITS ISSUED DURING WEEK

One for Frame Garage and the Other for Dwelling in Second Ward.

But two permits have been issued by Building Inspector T. . ODoane during the course of the past week, the Second ward drawing both of the prizes. The permits call for the erection of a frame garage for Arthur L. Seidler, at 1109 Helena avenue, and for a dwelling for Mrs. Lucy Van-Buskirck, on Prospect avenue.

The former will be a one story 14 by 1 fo6ot frame structure and will cost in the vicinity of $200. Mr. Seidler will care for the contract himself.

The latter will be a nollow terra cotta block structure, two and a half stories high. The cost of the building will amount to $21,000. The foundations will be of concrete and the roof of a shingled peak type. Heat will be furnished by a modern hot water system. A. L. C. Marsh, of East Sixth street, is the architect. B. F. Tallamy & Brothers have been awarded the masonry contract, while the M. Byrnes Building Company, of Elizabeth, will handle the carpenter work.

The basement of this dwelling will contain a 24x14 foot cold storage room, a toilet, and up-to-date laundry, as well as a store room of well apportioned dimensions. The living-room on the first floor will be of elaborate nature and will be 17x25 feet long. A fireplace and tile hearth will occupy a prominent position in this room. A 13x20 feet sun-room with a composition floor and fireplace as well as a dining-room of 16x18 feet long will occupy the first floor. A servant's dining-room 7x10 feet is also provided for on the first floor. The reception hall with the dining and sun rooms on either side, which is to be 9 feet 8 inches in width, will run from the front to the rear of the house. The second story will have four well arranged sleeping rooms, with an abundance of closets. Two balconies, one of which will be arranged for sleeping purposes are called for on the second floor.

The third floor will contain three rooms for the servants, a play room and a sewing apartment, together with a bath.

The young husband was talking impatiently to his wife about the English militants. "What if the House of Commons did let the women's bill come to its third reading? It wouldn't do any good,—the House of Lords would throw it out.

Quick as a flash the wife threw back: "Not when the House of Lords have all married American wives they won't throw out the women's bill!"

SUBURBAN BUILDING IS UNUSUALLY DULL

No Present Indications of a Boom in Nearby Towns.

The real estate and building conditions in the suburbs in the immediate vicinity of this city, have been unusually dull during the past fall and winter, and from the indications at present, there is no hope for any great revival in these towns. While Dunellen, Scotch Plains, Fanwood and South Plainfield all offer advantages of their own, as places for home sites, the money stringency has been in too much of a condition to overcome.

In an interview with a Daily Press reporter during the early part of the week, C. E. Tinsman, of Dunellen, said:

"The scarcity of money during the past ten months has worked havoc in both the real estate and building lines in this borough. From indications at present, any movement along the 'boom' line will take a long time before it strikes Dunellen. There is absolutely no relief in sight as far as this time is concerned. Since the shops in this vicinity have struck a slump, families are doubling up in their dwellings, thus saving a good portion of their rent. This has greatly decreased the demand for dwellings, and many houses are now vacant throughout the town. There have been several out-of-town people looking over local properties during the winter, but the selling part of the visits have been among the missing."

A client complained to his lawyer that his neighbor knocked him over the fence and told him to go to the devil.

"Well now," said the lawyer, "don't you go, for there is no law on the statute books that will compel you to do it."

So is it with the antisuffragists. If you don't want to vote when you've got the right, don t do it, for there is no law under heaven that will compel you, and why make so much fuss about it? If you want to stay at home, stay, but let your sisters, if they want to become full-fledged citizens, go their way unmolested.—L. S. Richards in Boston Advertiser.

"A woman ought to stay at home attending to the dinner," said the man who resents present-day tendencies.

"No," replied Mr. Meekton, "that's where the human race made its first great mistake. If Eve had been out lecturing instead of passing round the fruit, we'd have been spared an immense amount of trouble."

ELECTED HEAD OF JERSEY CENTRAL

W. G. Bessler Chosen to Succeed G. F. Baer.

STARTED ON $5 A WEEK

Has Been In Railroad Business Since He Was Seventeen Years Old—Besler Also Will Be General Manager, His Old Office of Vice President Having Been Abolished.

New York, May 2.—The directors of the Central Railroad of New Jersey met and elected W. G. Besler, formerly vice president and general manager of the road, to the presidency, made vacant by the death last week of George F. Baer. As long ago as two years when it was reported that Mr. Baer would resign, Mr. Besler was frequently spoken of as his successor.

Mr. Besler has been in the railroad business since he was seventeen years old. He began as a general factotum at $5 a week in the office of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad At the end of five years he was making $15 a week. It was then he decided to leave railroading and go to college.

A few years later he was back at railroading as night yardmaster. This yielded him $150 a month. From this time on his rise was rapid. First he built a branch line for the Burlington and then became superintendent of the St. Louis division of the road.

When he was thirty-six years old he became superintendent of the Reading at $10,000 a year. Then other roads began to bid for him. Two years later he went to the Jersey Central for $5,000 a year more. Next he became vice president at $25,000. Now he goes to the presidency. Mr. Besler also will be general manager, his old office of vice president having been abolished.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat Also Take Glass of Salts Before Eating Breakfast.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Thickness and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wipsy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—Adv.

THIRTY REASONS FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Dr. W. L. Saunders Presents Practical and Pithy Reasons For Votes for Women.

1. In a republic it is only by the consent of the majority that real free government can be peacefully and permanently maintained. To exclude women from the ballot is to exempt about half the people, hence such a government is not a government by majority.

2. A free government can only obtain and exercice just powers by and through the consent of the governed. Women are governed, yet so long as the vote is denied them they cannot be said to consent to any act of government.

3. The Constitution of the United States defines citizenship as "all persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof." Are not women "persons" and can it be denied that they are "subject to the jurisdiction of the United States?" It follows then, that they are "citizens" and as such should share the responsibilities and duties of citizenship.

4. As women hold property and are subject to taxation they should have a voice in the selection of those who impose the taxes and who spend the money so acquired.

5. The enfranchisement of women means a large increase in the independent vote, the vote that is influenced more by the virtue and fitness of a candidate for office than by tradition or by loyalty to party.

6. If women vote politics will become a popular subject in the home. The principles of government will be studied and discussed in the family. The things which concern only some members of the household are not, and can never be, subjects of general interest and co-operation.

7. The ballot is a great educator and women should be as broadly educated as men.

8. There is no work entailed by having the franchise, except that incurred by study, reading and thinking. The actual time spent in voting is less than one hour per year.

9. One of the greatest evils of our political government is the spoils system through the party boss. A boss cannot direct and control a large body of voters as easily as he can a small body. The votes of women would almost double the number of voters.

10. Women are not as easily dominated by a political boss as men.

11. All, or nearly all, the arguments against Woman Suffrage apply with equal force against women going into business, yet no one now denies women the right to participate in industrial service, nor does any one question its beneficial effects.

12. Woman Suffrage has been tried for a long period of years in three sections of the world—Scandinavia, America and Australia. In all of these places it is a success, and the best reason for believing this is the fact which cannot be denied, that it has never lost an acre of ground but on the contrary there has been a steady growth or extension to adjoining countries and States.

13. Woman Suffrage can do no harm; it has done no harm where it has been tried.

14. When women have full suffrage rights do exercise these rights to approximately the same extent as men.

15. Where women vote they excite greater interest in politics and increase the men's vote. Much of the evil we now suffer from comes from indifference and neglect. How important it is therefore to stimulate political study and attention.

16. There are more good than bad women in the United States and more educated than illiterate women. We are not dealing with Russia or India or Africa, but with free and enlightened America.

17. There are more women of the leisure class than men. How can any one be better employed than in an effort to purify our social and political life? The roots of immorality and crime have their nurture and growth in bad government.

18. To enlarge the franchise will have a tendency to quiet unrest, and to prevent the growth of socialistic tendencies.

19. Women are more moral than men, they are not as easily influenced or tempted by graft. Only about five per cent. of the prisoners are women.

20. Women are more emotional and sentimental than men. A little sentimental emotion should be beneficial to our present system of practical politics.

21. Woman Suffrage tends to stady political feeling and to substitute reason and independence for party zeal.

22. To give the vote to women is to give practical and effective means of protection to working girls.

23. Woman Suffrage would increase the proportion of intelligent or educated voters.

24. The presence of women will exercise a wholesome influence on the moral atmosphere about the polls and throughout all election machinery. It has had this result in all the Suffrage States.

25. It is woman's duty to vote and in so doing bear a part of the government burden and responsibility.

26. Voting is a privilege and is not compulsory. Millions of women want that privilege and it is not a sufficient reason for denying it that there are also millions of women who do not want it.

27. Every woman who pays a dollar in taxes has the right to demand the franchise.

28. Important functions of government are to safeguard the home, to propertly educate the masses, to install measures of sanitation, to maintain hospitals, and to guard public morals; in all of these women are as much concerned as men and they are quite as competent to act.

29. Women vote as stockholders of corporations, as members of women's clubs, in church meetings, and in many ways of minor importance; why then should they not exercise this privilege in government which enters into every part of our life and which is at the bottom of all our happiness and prosperity?

30. The fact (if it is a fact) that women are different from men, that woman's sphere is distinct from man's is a reason for and not against Woman Suffrage. Popular government to be just and effective should be made up of representatives of all classes. Each has its rights and its aims, each is best qualified to understand and promote its interests.

THE BIVOUAC OF THE BREAD.

(Suffragists in Chicago have challenged the Antis to a bread and pie-baking contest as a means of disposing of the charge that vote-seeking women neglect their homes.)

The flour through the sifter whirled,
The smothered yeast cake's sigh,
Proclaim to all the listening world
The suffrage battle cry.
Let envious Antis sneer no more,
But shrink in shuddering dread—
Their arguments fall flat before
The bivouac of the bread.

Till they beside their kitchen stoves,
Can line their pantry shelves
With rows of crisp and flaky loaves
That they have baked themselves,
Till they the sponge can deftly pat
To fleecy, fluffy foam,
Let them not tell their sisters that
Their place is in the home!

The hand that fashions golden crust
And crullers brown and light,
We fancy we can safely trust
To mark a ballot right.
As long as we remain well fed,
While here below we dwell,
We'll think the hand that kneads the bread
Must need the vote as well.
—Chicago Examiner.

The Woman Suffrage cause is progressing because it is a part of the process of civilization, as the advancement of humanity nears perfection only in proportion to the amount of consideration shown to others.

Good will is an important factor in bringing mankind to a higher standard of human existence, and woman's natural element is goodness. Therefore, since no one will say that she is inferior to man, except those who use their power to make her so, it must be granted that she is at least man's equal and capable of the highest ideals of life. By what method of reasoning then should she be deprived of any of the rights and privileges enjoyed by man?

It may be that woman is superior, since most men so claim when having in mind those near and dear to them, and if that is so, does it not follow that improved conditions must result when woman exercises the same right as man.

SUFFRAGE VICTORIES OF 1914; WOMEN'S VOTES AND THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Alexander Millar Criticizes Antis for Failing to Give Women Voters Due Credit for Recent Illinois Victory.

The first four months of 1914 have shown remarkable results in the Woman Suffrage movement, and whatever the coming years may have in store those months will long remain bright in the memory of those who are giving their time and talent to this great moral reform.

On April 12 wide publicity was given to a statement attributed to Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, president of the National Association of Women Opposed to Suffrage, as follows:

1. "That the talk of what women will do as reformers is merely a fable."

2. "In the majority of cases they do not vote at all."

3. "The evidence would seem to show that when they do vote they are very liable to vote wrong."

4. "It all backs up the contention of those opposed to Woman Suffrage that men who are trained to make laws, and to govern, know their business, and give it their attention, thereby securing the most satisfactory results."

Those charges were made five days after the remarkable election in the State of Illinois.

On April 5 a statement was issued by Mrs. Dodge's association declaring, among other things, "that in no State where women have voted on the question has State-wide prohibition been adopted, while Nine States where men alone vote have State-wide prohibition. This shows how woefully the Suffragists have misled many people on the liquor question. After quoting some isolated cases where the defeat of prohibition is attributed to woman's vote, the statement goes on to say, "In the face of the above facts it is about time for Suffragists to give up their false claims on the subject of prohibition. These are additional proofs that Suffragists when given the opportunity have done nothing to aid prohibition, and a great deal to injure it."

A frank statement of the facts would have given women the full credit for the splendid work they have done in the local option States of Idaho, Utah, California and Oregon, as well as in the prohibiton State of Kansas.

The object of this article, however, is not to enter into any discussion with the ill informed or mis-informed leaders of the opposition, nor to point out the manifest prejudice or blindness of such leaders in ignoring the work done by the women of Illinois on April 7 when the whole country knew, if Mrs. Dodge did not; that a great sweeping moral victory over the liquor interests had been secured, and admittedly secured by the women's votes in the territory involved. Other great moral questions were fought out in Chicago, and the whole battle has been admirably presented by the intelligent western editor of "The Congregationalist," of Boston, a religious weekly of the highest character, but which is not committed to the cause of Woman Suffrage.

Chicago's Bitter Contest.

It should be clearly borne in mind that the struggle between the women and the representatives of vice in Chicago had nothing to do with the liquor business, as that question was not voted upon in the election. The test in the First Ward between "a courageous young woman, Miss Marian Drake," and her powerful and unspeakable opponent, "Bath-house John" was typical of what the women were trying to do in the city. "For some hours," the writer says, "I had listened patiently to the jeering of Bath-house John's precinct captain as he pretended here and there to pick out stray votes against his leader; as he contended with vigorous profanity that woman's place was in the home; as he described frankly the 'unbeatable' system by which they take care of the down and outs for 36 days—feed the hungry—clothe the child—house the homeless—bail out the imprisoned—in order that on one day they may return a hundred-fold by perpetuating the 'system.' To all this the Irish policeman asented with re-affirmative and friendly oaths and added 'Woman's place is in the home. But inside the polling place, the ill-smelling, smoke-laden tailor shop, four women were fighting for the good fight for civic righteousness and public decency. Coming out into all the byways and hedges, splendid Mary McDowell of the University Settlement, told the women of the tenements what an incompetent and worthless alderman had cost them and their babies. The story of bad milk, wretched housing, and disease and damage which he had permitted to go on unprotested, and inactive, where he might have changed much, and she was beaten by only a scant 100 votes. Think of that in a fight against entrenched machine bossism among the poorest of the poor, and the depths of alien ignorance at the first exercises of the franchise by women. Throughout the city at large the result show opponets battered down. There be those favorable to Woman Suffrage as a theory who still maintain that women won't use it if they have the right. More women voted than men in proportion to their registration, about 160,000 all told."

Slaughtering the Saloons.

Is seems as if the effort made by the good women of Chicago, doubtless including many who once were opposed to Suffrage, would appeal to every Christian man and woman no matter how disposed toward Suffrage who wants to see conditions in our great cities improved. In them the children and the young men and women are exposed to the evils from which we are trying to shield our own. Our sympathy and our God-speed rather than our cold-blooded antagonism should be extended to the women who are facing insult and contumely for the sake of their homes and their communities.

While public opinion is more or less divided as to the best methods for controlling the liquor business, the opponents of Woman Suffrage appear to expect the Suffragists to fight it to the death, as shown by the statement at the beginning of this article. They ought to be satisfied with the attempt made by the women of Illinois on April 7. Let the western editor tell the story:

"Twenty-two more counties were added to the 'dry' territory of the great comonwealth, wiping out considerably over 1,000 saloons and placing nearly a dozen large cities in the ranks of temperance. The details of the voting on this policy alone are of large significance and explain why there is today exceeding gloom and despair among those who administer distilleries and draw dividends from brewery stock. In round numbers nearly 85,000 men voted on the saloon question, of whom nearly 75,000 registered in favor of 'wet' conditions. Of the nearly 70,000 women voters involved in the same election only 22,000 were found in that division. In other words, the women's vote was for temperance by about two to one."

Another prediction as to the women's vote is now in order from Mrs. Dodge.

1. As to the number of women who vote.

2. As to whether they vote right.

3. As to whether the best results were obtained by the men's vote in favor of the saloon.

"Illinois comes out of the first important experiment with her new auxiliary to citizenship confident and enthusiastic. To be sure in nearly every county one can pick out horrible examples and dreadful conditions which justify nearly every argument ever made against granting women the vote, but when the results are considered in large, and weighed in the great balance of civic progress, Woman Suffrage has not at all been found wanting. Young and old, fashionable and poor, women responded to the call of civic duty with a splendid contribution. Nay, more, for very shame's sake, the men could not do less, and therefore did more in many instances than they did perform for lo, these many elections."

Duffy-the-Goat—A Militant Anti.

One murder darkened the record in Chicago, when a California Suffragist, claiming that women had a right to vote, was shot dead by Duffy-the-goat, who for the time being at least, ranged himself with the deadly oponents of Woman Suffrage.

Lessons of the Victory in Illinois.

The magnitude of the work done by the women voters of Illinois is all the more impressive when we realize that Illinois is the largest whiskey producing State in the Union, and that there is a very large foreign element who have always been accustomed to their beer. The New Jersey edition of the "American Issue," the organ of the Anti-Saloon League, which doubtless prepared the way for local option, says: "As we predicted in the last issue, the Illinois saloon-keepers have found their Nemesis in the women who have so long been compelled to suffer from saloon outrages without any method of effective remonstrance. At one blow they have put out of existence 974 saloons (exact number is not yet settled) with more to follow April 21, and have reclaimed from salon domination twenty-two counties in the Prairie State, and not one dry town, city or township has voted 'wet.'" The Newark Star says equally emphatically, "The prediction that Woman Suffrage would spell ruin to the liquor traffic is justified by the result of yesterday's Illinois election. The outcome in Illinois will have a powerful effect both ways. The utmost power of the liquor industry will now be exerted against votes for women." Yes, and the Christian conscience of the church women will tire working side by side with the liquor industry.

At the Conference of New Jersey Congregational churhes held in Westfield last week, James K. Shields, superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, paid a glowing tribute to the fine work done by the women in Illinois. As he was for years superintendent of the League in that State he knew the situation there exactly.

What the men of Illinois, church, temperance and prohibition men, have for years tried and failed to do, the women have cleaned up at their first election. In view of that fact how pitiable and how contemptible is the attitude taken toward votes for women as shown in the statement circulated throughout the country by the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, and quoted at the beginning of this article.

From the foregoing it is obvious that the buoyant confidence and hopefulness to be found everywhere in the Suffrage ranks are based on the deeds accomplished in the recent past, and the courageous supporters of the cause may well go forward in the approaching campaigns with every assurance of ultimate success.

The subject, "Woman Suffrage," cannot be limited to the space of a night letter (fifty words). There are so many reasons why it is right and proper, that I should hesitate to start on that side of the argument without unlimited space. I have yet to hear one valid argument against "Woman Suffrage."

Order Fleet of Reos for Frisco Exposition.

Reo trucks will carry the sightseers of the world at the coming Panama Exposition. It was a truck in Tahiti that brought about this decision. Last summer a cocoanut grower in that mid-Pacific island decided to buy a Reo, equipped with a special body, and start a "rubberneck" service to Tahiti. This special body was constructed in Frisco. The maker of it was struck with the originality of the design, and put together a replica of it for a Frisco sightseeing company. As a result of the performance of that rubberneck during the past few months, the Frisco corporation is ordering a complete fleet of Reos to serve during the coming summer. The E. & C. Auto Sales Co., of 124 Madison avenue, are the agents of this wonderful truck.

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEWS ON VOTES FOR WOMEN

S. B. Howe Says Girls Have a Greater Sense of Civic Responsibility Than Boys.

I have always taught that in a democracy, any limitation of the suffrage is fraught with danger. While disposed toward the idea that the right to vote should be exercised only by those citizens who are capable of intelligently using that right, in other words toward an educational standard for voting. I recognize that such a standard is difficult to establish and more difficult to maintain. This being the case, I believe that all citizens should exercise the franchise, who have reached the age of discretion, and who are not disqualified by wrong-doing.

The success of the woman suffrage cause is assured, even as the triumph of democracy is assured. The so-called arguments against woman suffrage are as ineffectual as they are for the most part puerile. They remind me of the arguments used against the extension of male suffrage in the early part of the nineteenth century. Exactly the same dire prophecies were made of what would happen if the bars were let down. And there were men non-voters then who fought against their own enfranchisement with the same conservative motives as seen to actuate the women of today who are so exercised lest they be contaminated with the "pitch of politics." But reason triumphed and we laugh today with tolerant amusement at their struggles to prevent the inevitable.

On a train from New York to London, in 1910, it was my good fortune to meet a small party of English Colonials from New Zealand, three men and their wives. I asked the men, "Well, how does suffrage work with you people?" One replied, "We never stop to consider, because it never seems possible that any other condition could prevail in a civilized country." This from one of the men who told me he had served two terms as a member of their Colonial Parliament. I can imagine an "anti" sniffing. "He had his wife along, and didnt' dare say anything else." Of such stuff are most of their arguments.

For ten years I have taught High School seniors American history in Plainfield and Newark, and I can say without reservation that at the close of their work, not one girl out of 100 possesses less political sense than her male class-mates, and on the average, I find girls keener along the lines of civic responsibility, pride, and betterment than are the boys.

My best wishes are for the speedy success of the movement in this state.

THE FORUM.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:—Permit me to express my appreciation of Mrs. Feickert's sugestion that the regular anti-suffrage column, should appear in Saturday's issue of the Press.

It seems, however, more suitable that those representing the two sides of the suffrage question, should not encroach on the issues controlled by each other.

Thanking you for every courtesy accorded by you to our Association.

Yours truly,

WORKING WOMEN NEED THE VOTE

Dr. Eaton Says Social and Economic Changes Make Women's Votes Necessary.

By Charles A. Eaton, D. D.
(Pastor Madison Avenue Baptist Church, New York City.)

The right of women to vote if they so desire seems to me almost a self-evident proposition. This right has nothing to do with sex, either male or female. A woman has no more right to vote because she is a woman than a man has because he is a man. Voting is not a sex function.

There was a time when men did not vote. They were governed by absolute rulers. The divine right of Kings made voting superfluous. But the great pregnant principle which inspires and undergirds all political progress is Democracy. Indeed, the history of political progress is identical with the development of Democracy. The chief business of life is government whether it be State government or self-government. You cannot have a stable and progressive State government unless it finds support in the enlightened self-government of its people. As nations advanced these two facts flowed together.

The self-governing individual was impelled to seek a part in political government. Thus Democracy was born when the moral sense of the individual projected itself in social and political relations. "The consent of the governed" is simply an appeal to the moral responsibility of the individual. God has ordained that each person shall have a right to his own life. The Almighty Creator and Ruler of the world respects this right. "Come let us reason together" is His word. Human government, which is but an echo of the divine, has steadily broadened its field of authority until today in the most advanced nations it rests upon the whole people, except the women. We cannot stop, we cannot deflect nor defer this process. It is going forward everywhere with the inevitableness of a glacial drift until every person in the world becomes resposible for his or her share of government.

Democracy of all life may prove followed by Democracy in economics, education and religion. This complete Democracy of all life may prove to be the golden age—it may end in chaos. All depends upon the moral quality of the individual. You cannot avoid the consequences of folly by multiplying the number of fools who participate in it. Good men will make a good society and bad men will make a bad society no matter what their form of government.

Because of these considerations I am in favor of Woman Suffrage and opposed to Feminism. Women have no right to vote because they are women any more than men have because they are men. Women have a right to vote in America because they are moral agents and have reached the intellectual plane which fits them to discharge this duty with the same intelligence that they have shown in discharging other moral obligations. It was not necessary a generation ago. But now our social machinery has penetrated the home and drawn women out into the economic struggle. If our industrial fabric is to be built up by women working side by side with men, then women must have a voice in the government under which they work. Not because they are women, but because they are workers.

The ground of woman's appeal for the vote lies in the principle of a progressive democratizing of all life. Those well-meaning but deluded folk who have joined the shrieking sisterhood of the Feminists male and female and neuter, in an attepmt to make Suffrage a matter of sex do the cause infinite harm. Men obtained the vote because they became social agents subject to government as such and therefore had a right to a voice in their government. Now women have reached the same socail status and for the same reasons they have the same right. Woman's Suffrage is simply a stage in the normal development of civilized society. Feminism is a disease which marks a period of decadence. If the right of men to vote rests upon the fact that they are masculine then certainly the right of women to vote cannot rest upon the fact that they are feminine. But if the right to vote belongs to those who do work which must come under the control of government and which adds to the commonwealth, then in so far and as fast as women reach this position they must become voters.

To me the most disheartening thing about the movement for equal suffrage is the fact that such a movement should be necessary. It seems a waste of energy that we should be forced to devote so much time to erfecting the machinery of government when our attention should be centered on the product of that machinery of government when our attention should be centered on the product of that machinery. Perhaps, however, the fight is worth while as training for the larger work that the men and women alike will be called upon to do and that soon. Of the eventual success of the movement I have no doubt.

CARRANZA SAYS NO NEUTRAL ZONE

But Promises Not to Molest Oil Operators.

DR. RYAN REPORTED SAFE

American Physician Has Been Released by the Governor of Zacatecas—Was to Have Been Shot as a Spy—Worried the Administration.

Washington, May 2.—The fate of the effort to bring peace in Mexico hangs in the balance.

The success or failure of this effort seems to be in the hands of General Carranza, "first chief" of the Constitutionalist movement. The situation is complicated by several things, among them the renewed revolutionary attack upon Tampico and the preparations that General Villa is making for an advance upon Saltillo, where the Huerta government is concentrating its forces.

Carranza's apparent hostility to the efforts to bring peace was demonstrated in a very pointed way when the state department received word from him that he would not agree to a proposal made by this government for a neutralization of the Tampico oil district. Under the plan proposed both federals and Constitutionalists were to regard the oil region around Tampico as a neutral zone, within which there should be no fighting by their respective forces. But Carranza, to whom the proposition was made by this government, has declined to enter into any formal arrangement of this character, although he has given assurances that his forces will not molest the oil operators if they resume work.

The following formal announcement on the subject was made this evening:

"Carranza has notified the state department that he is not willing to make an agreement in regard to the neutralization of the oil well zone, but so far as his forces are concerned the operators may return to the oil wells without being molested."

Ryan Released.

Vera Cruz, May 2.—Authentic information received here is to the effect that Dr. Edward R. Ryan, special agent of the state department, who was arrested and sentenced to death as a spy by General Medino Barron, military governor of Zacatecas, has been released and is now on his way to Mexico City. President Huerta has assured the United States he will have safe passage to Vera Cruz.

Washington, May 2.—Strenuous efforts were made by Secretary of State Bryan to ascertain through official channels the exact facts regarding the physician's plight.

He sent a telegram to Consul Canada at Vera Cruz to get into immediate communication with the Brazilian representatives at Mexico City and ask them to make inquiries of the federal officials there.

Consul Canada was instructed to ask the Brazilian representative to apprise General Huerta of the situation and to demand Ryan's immediate release. While this action is in progress renewed preparations are being made here for the possible resumption of hostilities at an early date.

Chairman Fitzgerald of the house appropriations committee and Representative Hay, chairman of the committee on military affairs, had a long conference with President Wilson. They reported to the president the fact that the joint resolution asked for by the president last week making the money provided for the army appropriation bill immediately available had been introduced in the house and could be acted on at once if he so desired. The president told the congressmen that he was not ready to give the word now, but suggested that the resolution be kept on calendar for consideration at any time.

Funston In Control.

A growing feeling of pessimism prevailed here in official circles. In many quarters it was predicted that a "blow up" of the peace negotiations was liable at any minute.

General Funston's Fifth brigade is now in full control of Vera Cruz. The army relieved the navy without a hitch, the change being made so quietly that it would not have been noticed except for the review of the marines and jackies as they marched back to their ships. General Funston announced that it would be his policy to have as few soldiers as possible on the streets, so as to allow the life of the city to go on as if there were no American troops in command. The night patrols, however, will continue as usual.

Reo the Fifth---A Super-Car

It has a 35-horsepower engine, but every driving part is made to stand 50-horsepower tests.

Test chassis have been run for 10,000 miles—run night and day at high speed on rough roads. Then taken apart and inspected. And every vital part is built so that all that reckless driving leaves it practically like new.

The steel is made to formula. The gears are tested for 75,000 pounds per tooth. The springs for 100,000 vibrations.

The car has 15 roller bearings. It has 190 drop forgings. It has oversize tires. It has a very costly clutch to prevent all the damage of gear clashing.

In a hundred ways which mean strength and endurance it offers you a super-car.

THE CAR TO KEEP

The car is for men who buy cars to keep. For men who want cars to stay new. Each car is built as Mr. Olds would build it for himself.

It is also for men who want the last word in beauty and equipment. It has the new streamline body. It has electric starter and lights. It has the one-rod control which makes gear shifting easy. It has perfect finish, deep upholstery, hand-buffed leather, etc.

NOW $220 LESS

This year's model sells for $220 less than last year's model with electric starter. This is largely due to the fact that all special machinery for building this chassis has been charged against previous output.

Now, for the first time, a car built like this and equipped like this is sold for $1,175 f. o. b. factory.

Every spring, the demand for Reo the Fifth exceeds the factory output. Production this year has been largely increased. But the demand for this car keeps ahead of supply.

We urge you, therefore, to come this week. If you want this car for early delivery come while we can supply you. The time is bound to come when we can't.

DECENT HOMES FOR WORKING GIRLS

Mrs. Richard Boardman Tells of the College Club's Attempt to Solve Problem.

Through a committee organized this past winter by the Plainfield College Club, there was accomplished the Boarding and Rooming House Investigation, on behalf of the factory girl of New Jersey.

In answer to an advertisement sent to the Plainfield Press and the Courier-News for "room and board wanted by factory girl," the committee received about twenty letters. These were carefully followed up at once. The committee visited between fifteen and twenty houses. The rooms as a rule were very sunny with two and often three windows and usually of good size.

They were without exception badly furnished, and in some cases practically empty, but for a bed.

In every instance, the room was in the home of a mother or wife, who was helping "on the side," as she put it, to make a bit extra.

Every variety of circumstance was encountered. Four of the addresses were houses in the most destitute artsp of town, forlorn inside and out giving the impression of great poverty.

Over these the others improved a bit, but the general atmosphere was needless to say, one of real want.

In every house we met a cordial welcome, and a distinct interest in our work which we made known to them at once, was shown by most of the women. More than one assured us "you have a noble errand" for "she" (the factory girl)" sure don't get enough to live on."

| No. of houses in respectable part of town. | 7 |
| No. of houses in destitute or poor part of town, | 8 |
| No. of houses not found | 1 |
| Cheapest room rent, | $1.00 |
| Most expensive room rent, | 3.00 |
| Majority were from | $1.50 to 2.00 |

Not many women wished to give board, but if urged, would consider it.

"Light housekeeping" was offered in two places, under the most favorable conditions.

In one instance, this "privilege" as they deemed it, was allowed the factory girl in a little two or three room home where a deserted mother washed and cooked and ironed to keep the wolf from the door.

How and when and where was "light housekeeping" for an outsider possible?

THE MASTER.

Female! Wilt thou court disaster
Striving hard against the light?
Man declares that man is master—
Man is Wright

Shouldst thou press for why and wherefore,
Woman's reason thou'lt invite;
Man is boss because he's master;
That's all Wright.

Hence, with thy mistaken "movement,"
Puny, servile parasite!
Status quo and self-improvement
Sounds all Wright.

Almroth thus succeedeth Almroth
Have we not convinced you quite?
Female! Thou wouldst make a lamb wroth;
That's not Wright.

"Bradley Beach has two policewomen," said the hostess. "Who is Bradley Beach?" asked her English guest. "Bradley Beach is a New Jersey town." "Oh, I thought he was a man! One like Asquith, who has to be protected, you know." The two policewomen of Bradley Beach, by the way, are both suffragists.

(Extracts from The Antiquary.)

A weekly Journal edited and published by real ladies and opposed to female enfranchisement.

Announcement.

There will be an anti-suffrage parade in a month or two, and all the faithful are called upon to prepare for the gorgeous event. Our indefatigable worker, Mrs. Goit, is planning some novelties, which are to be sprung as surprises. We understand one is called Our Political Peers, and that she has secured a choice idiot, a harmless lunatic, an amiable criminal, a cherubic minor and a rich nonresidenter to combine forces and make this a truthful representation of existing conditions. We are proud of this feature. There will be numerous floats of great beauty. One, depicting The Inferiority of Woman, will show numbers of the female sex holding flat-irons, mops, scrubbing brushes and dusters, kneeling at the foot of a male bearing aloft in his outstretched hands a violin, a picture, a book and a sword. The one called Fragility will be very graceful, as one of our young beauties will swoon every five minutes, to show the utter helplessness of the feminine sex. The hands will play "We're No Good and We Know It" and other favorite songs. All in all, this is an occasion to look forward to and to work for with unceasing energy.—Oreola Haskell in Judge.

One of the strangest things in this world is why a woman who can trim a pencil with a pair of scissors is not considered competent to vote alongside of a man who can't bake a batter cake on a hot griddle.—Dallas News.

A Mobile woman, Mrs. Mary L. Fisher, takes exception to the recent statement of Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge of New York, that 'all through the South the cry is 'We are opposed to suffrage; come and tell us why.'" "I do not understand the latter part of her remark,' says Mrs. Fisher, 'but had Mrs. Dodge been present at the business meeting of the newly formed suffrage club here in Mobile she would have witnessed a practical refutation of the first. This infantile club numbers 96 members, with good prospects of speedy increase."

Should Woodrow Wilson Vote?

With sensational headlines, crying "Danger!" New York anti-suffragists have been warning the public against votes for women, on the ground that the majority of women in New York State are not native-born and of pure native parentage. M. B. George in the New York Tribune asks what is the matter with native-born men and women of wholly or partially foreign parentage, and points out that one of the parents of our President was born outside the United States; yet the President is considered fit to vote.

Cadillac Standard of the World

The car twelve months ahead

From the Manchester, England, Dispatch:

"IT is only after mature reflection that one is able to grasp the importance of the enormous improvements embodied in the Cadillac chassis. We have been so long accustomed to believing and being told that the English car is indisputably ahead of any other construction in the world that it comes as something of a shock when we are faced with a car successfully embodying features which are as yet in the merely experimental stage in British car builders' workshops.

"On the Cadillac car will be found an interesting example of a two-speed back axle, and we may here remark that the construction has been thoroughly tested and found serviceable and reliable, both in the United States and in Europe. There is no element of experiment about the work; it has proved itself. The pressing of a button throws the low or the high gear on the axle into operation as required, and that is all about it. They tell me that, as a test, the car was driven from London to Edinburgh with a full load without handling the gear-change lever at all. Pressing the button was all that was required.

"Having admired the axles to our heart's content, we are at liberty to examine the many other features of the Cadillac chassis, which calls for close examination. There is the self starter, which will start the engine a thousand times without a miss. There is the neat little mechanical tyre pump. This is one of the finest chassis, taking all things into consideration, that ever left the United States just as an ordinary proposition. All her improvements are practically thrown in. I should term her the push-the-button car. So far as ordinary practice is concerned, she is equal to any. Her unique improvements have placed her twelve months ahead."

FIRST CIRCUS OF YEAR HERE TODAY

Open Air School Benefit Under Way With Local People Taking Part.

PARADE THIS MORNING

All of Receipts Today Will Go to Help School, as Advance Sale More Than Covered Expenses—Boxholders Include Prominent Plainfielders

With every respect for a most successful show and substantial receipts to be used to continue the work of the Open-Air School, the circus being given for that worthy cause is in progress this afternoon on the show lot at Grant avenue and Front street. The committee in charge is pleased to report that a goodly sum is promised for the purpose, as practically every cent taken in at the door today and tonight will go to the school, the advance sales having more than covered every bit of expense.

The performance is being provided by the Frank A. Robbins All-Feature Circus, which has visited Plainfield many time in the past, and enjoys a splendid reputation. While not the largest show on the road today, it is far and above all others in its class, and the acts provided in the single ring are of a high order of merit. At this afternoon's performance a large number of women and children are in attendance, while tonight there is promise of a large and fashionable audience as is indicated by the list of box holders which were printed in Saturday's Daily Press. There has also been a large advance sale of reserved seat tickets for tonight's show.

The circus arrived in town early yesterday, and all day long hundreds of visitors were at the show lot, watching the men erect the big canvas and do the other work around the show lot. This morning there was a street parade, a feature of which was the presence of the children from the Open-Air School, who rode in automobiles, which were loaned by a number of people. In the parade were also a number of young people from this city, dressed as clowns, who added much to the merriment. Maximus, the local strong man, who is doing an act in the show to aid along the work, was also in the parade, driving his automobile.

The performance tonight will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Assisting at the shows as ticket sellers and takers, peanut and lemonade venders, side show barkers, ushers and in other ways are a large number of well-known local men, boys and young women, so that everyone who attends will find friends helping the work in some way.

THE PHARISEE WAS NOT A HYPOCRITE

He Was a Good Man, Says Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong in Sermon.

Rev. Dr. Strong preached on the parable of the Pharisee and the publican as a fitting preface to the baptismal service at the First Baptist church, last night. "The Pharisee who stood and prayed thanking God that he was not wicked like other men was not a hypocrite, as we have generally supposed," said Dr. Strong. "He was a good man; perhaps as good as any man of his time, but the trouble with him was that he boasted of his goodness and would not acknowledge that he was a sinner.

"What is sin? It is any unlikeness to God; any violation of His law. Which one of us has not sinned not merely in a few particulars, but many. The only possible way of becoming reconciled to God is by acknowledging that we are sinners, that we are unable to pay the penalty of sin, and that we need a Savior. Not till then can God do anything for us.

Not one of us realizes how grievously we have sinned. Not one of us know how bad we would be but for some merciful restraint which kept him from yielding to some awful temptation. Sin blinds us to its own awfulness, too, by constant familiarity with it. The worst thing that can happen to us is that we cease to be sensitive to sin." Dr. Strong then baptised ten candidates.

LARGE ACCESSIONS TO CHURCH MEMBERSHIP

Holy communion was celebrated in many of the local churches yesterday, and in several cases, a number of new communicant members were given the right hand of fellowship. At the Grace M. E. church, the borough, twenty-eight were received on probation and ten on confession and by letter. Those taking communion at this church numbered one hundred and eighty.

Ten were received into fellowship at the First Baptist church. At this service, Charles Conover and Wilbur F. Randolph were installed as deacons. Nineteen were received at the First M. E. church, three on probation, five by letter and fourteen on confession of faith. At the Congregational church, one was received on confession of faith and one by letter.

There were baptized last Sunday night at the First Baptist church, Mrs. Della A. Morse, Mrs. Ada T. Pierson, Miss Elsie Organ, Miss Gladys Lee, Percy Stelle, Howard Stelle, Everett N. Case, Charles White, Horace Bunker, Lester V. D. Chandler. Last evening the candidates baptized were Mrs. Robert Love, Mrs. D. F. Randolph, Miss Victoria Crater, Hamlet L. Luckey, Eugene McLaughlin, Ashley Burner, Elmer H. Morrison, John Dike, Edward Mobus, Howard Firstbrook.

FEELING IS STRONG FOR IMPEACHMENT

Plan to Raise Permanent Fund for Future Strike Indebtedness.

Denver, Colo., May 4—In the matter of providing funds to meet the State past, present and future strike indebtedness placed squarely before it and with threats of impeachment of Governor Ammon and Lieutenant-Governor Fitzgerald and the proposed compulsory arbitration law promisinb to take up much time, the Colorado Legislature met in extraordinary session at noon today following the Governor's call. The demand for the impeachment of the Governor is still vigorous among those in the House and Senate who are in line with the labor faction.

No further steps to enforce disarmment in the southern Colorado striks district will be taken by the military authorities until the arrival at Trinidad of the United States cavalry from Fort Oglenthrope, due to morow.

Following the voluntary surrender of forty-three guns at the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company's mines in the Walzenburg district, no weapons have been turned in and no demand has been made. Major Holbrook has issued an order placing an embargo on the importation of firearms.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC SUFFRAGE MEETING AT SO. PLAINFIELD

The North Middlesex Equal Suffrage League hel dits first mass meeting at Firemen's Hall, South Plainfield, Saturday evening. A representative audience filled the hall and seemed much interested in the suffrage question. Mrs. Bertha H. Jennings, president of the league, presided and spoke of the reform work the women of Illinois had taken part in by using their votes to close over 1,000 saloons and helping to make Chicago a better place for the family and the home.

Champlain L. Riley, president of the New Jersey Men's League for Woman Suffrage, and Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, were the speakers of the evening. Mr. Riley gave a practical talk and answered the anti suffrage assertion that "women have a right to be exempt from political responsibility." 'In former years," said Mr. Riley, "women were responsible for the food, clothing, and education. In this present age, the food is largely prepared by bakeries, canneries and packing houses and laws on pure food are secured through political influence.

"Clothing formerly woven and sewed in the home is now largely manufactured in factories, and sweat shops and may carry contagious disease into the home; formerly children were taught at home, but now in the public schools which are all under political control."

Mr. Riley contended that women should vote and so have a voice in those things which affect their homes.

Mrs. Feickert gave an address that covered every phase of the question, her story of the brave men who signed the Declaration of Independence when signing meant death if captured brought to mind how readily our ancestors of those early times would risk their all and life itself, rather than to submit to taxation without representation.

CONNORS HERE AFTER HARD FIGHT

HELD IN LOCAL JAIL

Notorious Criminal Wanted for the Ackerman Robbery Brought to Jersey After Much Opposition in Chicago Courts.

When the lock on the cell door in the local police station clicked behind Charles alias "Ice-wagon" Connors at 8:50 last night, it marked the completion of one of the greatest legal battles ever put up by a prisoner wanted in this State for a criminal offense and a victory for Chief of Police Kiely, of this city. Three experts in criminal law engaged by Connors to defend him in his fight against extradition built up a "stonewall" defense in the Chicago police courts that took some clever work on the part of Chief Kiely and Martin O'Connor, assistant prosecutor of Union County, to combat and when the magistrate handed down a decision in favor of the local head he hustled his prisoner aboard a train and had him out of the State inside of the next hour. Fearful that Connors would gain a further stay from the Federal authorities Chief Kiely took immediate steps to get him out of reach of the long arms of Chicago law and his efforts were crowned with success.

Connors who is wanted on an indictment found against him by the Union County Grand Jury, for the robbery of former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman's home on West Seventh street January 5, made every effort to squelch the New Jersey authorities' efforts to have him extradited. His three lawyers and two sisters aided him in his effort. The relatives took the stand and swore that he was in Chicago the night the robbery was committed and he presented a receipt for the purchase of jewelry from a Chicago jeweler on that date. The receipt was taken by detectives to the jeweler's place of business and he was found to be a notorious Chicagoan, who has been under police surveilance for sometime past. The evidence of this nature, therefore, was thrown out.

Giving himself up to the police last Monday, after he had been let out on $3,000 bail furnished by a Chicago politician, Connors applied for a writ of habeas corpus. A hearing was granted for Tuesday morning and it was later postponed until Friday morning, bail being raised to $5,000 which the defendant had little trouble in getting from the same bailiff. Arraigned Friday morning he attempted to prove his alibi but the evidence of Kiely and O'Connors was stronger and he was turned over to the Union County officials shortly after noon.

Taking every precaution to keep his quarry in captivity, Kiely shackled Connors and started immediately for Jersey, and, after a strenuous journey, keeping a night and day vigil over the notorious criminal, arrived in Plainfield on the 8:46 train last night from Jersey City.

Speaking of the fight for extradition this morning Chief Kiely had nothing but praise for the "Windy City" authorities for their courteous treatment of himself and Assistant Prosecutor O'Connors and commented with enthusiasm on the neat defense put up by the prisoner. Enroute from Chicago to this city Connors talked of everything but his own case and expressed considerable enthusiasm over the discussion of the four gunmen's cases recently disposed of in New York State. He was intimate with each of the men put to death and in commenting on the question said:"

"Dago Frank" Cirofici was innocent of any part in the shooting of Herman Rosenthal but the Governor of the State did well to get rid of the other three men."

He also took considerable interest in several noted New Jersey criminals with whom he claimed intimacy. Among these for whom he asked was "Old Man" Welsh, the well-known automobile thief who was recently found guilty of stealing automobiles and who is now serving a ten year sentence in State's prison. Many other questions were asked by the prisoner dealing with notorious New Jersey characters too numerous to mention.

Queried concerning his age in police headquarters this morning the prisoner said he was thirty-two years old and lived in Chicago. Occupying a cell in the local jail he appears clean shaven and dressed in good clothes. He is short and stocky with a mop of thick auburn hair. Peering through the cell bars at the reporters this morning he flashed a pair of clear, keen eyes that took everything in at a glance and when he had finished sizinz up his watchers his face relaxed into a broad grin. Although he had lost considerable ground in

"JINX" PURSUED LOCAL MOTORISTS

Twenty-eight members of the Plainfield Motorcycle Club enjoyed one of their periodical runs yesterday, the outing covering considerable territory in South Jersey. The local arganization joined forces at New Brunswick with the Rex Club, of Jersey City, and the group was "snapped" by one of the Plainfield association. An accident occurred as the party was entering Trenton, owing to the bad condition of the road. Herbert Allen sustained a sprained ankle and Miss Higgens a bruised hip as a result of the skidding of the machine.

A passing autoist volunteered to take Miss Higgens to the Trenton House, where a substantial repast was served. While the dinner was served, a camera valued at $75 was stolen from the members of the club. On the return trip Mr. Alberts and Miss Higgens were placed under arrest for speeding and were ordered to appear at the Trenton police court on Wednesday. Among the women who were on the run were the Misses Thompson, Ball and Higgons, Mrs. Hampson, Mrs. Jack Horner and Mrs. Pope.

FRIENDLY WRESTLING BOUT RESULTS SERIOUSLY FOR ONE

Charles "Buck" Anderson, sometime wrestler, sometime pugilist, engaged in a friendly wrestling bout with John "Sue" Newman while on a "May Walk" yesterday afternoon, and floored his adversary in a finished style. So thorough did "Buck" do the work that Newman was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital this morning, where it was found, upon examination, that both knee caps had been fractured.

Anderson is a powerfully built all-around athlete of the rough-and-tumble variety, and although his opponent in yesterday's bout is smaller in stature he is a finished pugilist. His knowledge of upper cuts and kidney punches, however, proved futile in warding off the clever toe-holds and neck grips of his herculean rival and he was soon counted out. Anderson is the same athlete who was defeated in a fistic encounter staged in a stall of an East Second street livery stable some months ago by Frank Dodge, formerly of Central avenue. On that occasion Anderson was floored by Dodge's hard right hand blow and in falling had his ankle broken.

O. G. ALLEN TAKES FIRST PRIZE AT SOMERVILLE

The golf links at the Somerville Country Club were formerly opened for the season Saturday afternoon, with members and friends out in full force. Those who played reported the course to be in the best of condition and, for an 18-hole course, second to none in the State. During the Spring the course has been greatly improved under the direction of Ed. Erickson just returned from Brantford, Ont., Canada, where he had charge of the construction of a large course.

The first prize for the day was won by O. G. Allen and the second by J. S. Frelinghuysen, both of Somerville.

In the evening there was a reception with dancing, music being furnished by Cohen's orchestra of Brooklyn. The members of the club are planning for a number of similar affairs to be given for the young people during the Summer.

BOY SCOUTS RAISE FLAG AT CAMP KING

The local troops of Boy Scouts held a flag raising on Saturday afternoon at Camp King, on Prospect avenue. The youngsters met at 3 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church, from which place they marched through West Front street, Watchung avenue, and Woodland avenue to the recently instituted camp, the marchers being escorted by the engineering squad, under the direction of Deputy Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., and Scout Master W. A. W. Thompson, of Troop No. 5.

The exercises at the camp opened with prayer by Chaplain Nathaniel Pennington, of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., the members of the post being in attendance, they making the trip to the camp by stage. The presentation of the flag was made by John King, while the address of aceptance was made by the commissioner.

Among those who were present and made addresses were Captain William Hand, who spoke on "What the Flag Cost This Country;" Mayor Percy Hamilton Stewart, who was accompanied by Mrs. Stewart, and addressed the citizens of tomorrow on "Patriotism," and Deputy Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., who outlined the purposes of the camp. Mrs. John Manley, senior vice-president of the Womens Relief Corps of New Jersey, conducted the singing of patriotic hymns.

Mr. Houston, who donated the use of the eight acres of ground already being used by the camp, has extended the use of an additional two acres to the Boy Scouts of the city. Those in charge of the Scout movement are in hopes that funds for the securing of agricultural implements so that the grounds may be tilled.

400 AMERICANS LEAVE MEXICO

STEAMER IS DESTROYED

Several Small Towns Reported on Fire—Rumor That Huerta Has Resigned Discredited — Bitter Feeling Against Americans.

San Diego, Cal., May 4—Wireless reports received here today say that hundreds of Americans and other foreigners are fleeing from Mancanillo in fear of violence. The city pier has already been destroyed by fire.

Chirsuasau Mex., May 4—Wireless message from Chapulpapoc at Mexico City to General Josquin Pelles, Federal commander says President Huerta resigned late Saturday night. The message was caught on the Constitutionalist wireless station at Prus de Peidras, a short distance from the Federal stronghold. It was sent to General Carranzo here.

Washington, May 4—The reported wireless message that President Huerta had resigned is characterized here as a rank fake, as a peace mediator has been in direct communication with Huerta within the last few hours.

Mexico City, May 4—Carrying more than four hundred American refugees another special train will leave here today for Puerto, Mexico. The Americans will be met there by ships sent from Vera Cruz by Rear Admiral Badger. All will be returned to the United States. The Brazilian legation made all arrangements for the train, but the details of the three hundred mile trip to the coast were worked out by a committee of Americans.

More anxiety is felt over the safety of Americans here following the report today that a Mexican steamship had been blown up by Americans yesterday. It is feared that Mexicans will believe the report and feel that the United States did it in revenge.

The rumor has been received that the steamer Luella was sunk by the explosion of a mine which had been planted to blow up the United States cruiser Raleigh. No loss of life was mentioned. The Luella belonged to the Cananea Rio Yaqur and Pacific Railway.

On April 3 it was reported that the Luella was destroyed by a boiler explosion. The noise of the explosion gave rise to rumors that United States war vessels were bombarding the towns. Then it was reported that several small towns were on fire. The reports were corrected by Mexico City newspapers and caused a bitter feling against Americans.

WILL MEET FUNERAL SHIP.

Case and Smith were the battery for the local team while Johnson and Schuman were in the points for the Plainfield aggregation. Three of the five runs secured by the Plainfield boys off "Johnnie" Case's delivery were earned, the other two being chargable to Centerfielder "Bill" Mundy, who let a fly ball sift through his fingers with two on, both of the runners scampering across the plate on the error.

Arthur O'Leary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence O'Leary, of Whittier avenue, met with a painful accident Saturday afternoon while playing second base for the Plainfield High School against the Seton Hall College team at South Orange. In the eighth inning with two down a slow grounder was knocked towards first base, William Victorson, another local boy, ran in to field the ball and O'Leary, who ran over to cover the initial sack, had no more than reached that station when he was bumped into and knocked a sprawling by the runner, a two hundred and forty pounder. In falling young O'Leary's teeth closed upon his tongue and on being examined after a minute or so of vagueness his member of articulation was found to have been cut quite badly. The cut, however, bled but little and he gamely finished the inning, which was the last in the field for the Plainfielders. While able to be about yesterday Arthur's tongue was so sore and swollen he could barely speak.

It was an especially interesting day yesterday for the members of the church and congregation of the Methodist church. It was the first occasion on which the pastor has conducted the sacrament of the Lord's Supper since arriving in Dunellen. The roll of the church membership was read by William W. Giddes, the local preacher, and the response of those present evidenced the fact that the pastor's efforts to secure a large attendance has not been futile. The attendance at the church during the new pastor's brief incumbancy has been exceptionally large, but that of yesterday morning exceeded all previous marks. The pastor, in a few well chosen words, delivered a short address, which was followed by the communion. There were in attendance not only those from this community, but also many from out of town. The effectiveness of the service was increased by special music sung by the choir. Missionary Sunday was observed in the Sunday-school, at the close of which Rev. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, of Plainfield, delivered a pleasing address on missionary work to be done at home. RARELY indeed does an occasion arise to make possible such a tremendous Selling Event as that which began this morning at Aeolian Hall.

Two great Warehouses about to be abandoned, cleared of their vast stock of stored and reserved instruments and the whole immense accumulation placed on unreserved, public sale.

The great Annual May Sales at Aeolian Hall have become internationally famous. Because of the character, quality and number of instruments involved they are the recognized leading sales events of the music industry.

The Sale, this year, far overshadows any of its predecessors. The Aeolian Company is moving from its two large Warehouses on East 36th and East 32nd Streets to an enormous new Warehouse recently acquired in Long Island City. It does not wish to move a single unnecessary instrument or music-roll to its new building. In consequence every exchanged instrument, every discontinued style instrument, every instrument which for any cause whatever is susceptible to special pricing, has been brought to Aeolian Hall and will be offered, at a price reduction so great as to insure its sale.

Lot No. 1

78 Aeolian-built Player-pianos

Many contain entirely new player actions, and every instrument is backed by an unqualified guarantee. You cannot appreciate what remarkable bargains these instruments are until you have seen them and tried them. They are simply tremendous values! # FALL OF HUERTA DECLARED NEAR

Officials Believe Dictator Is Ready to Quit.

FAST LOSING HIS PRESTIGE

Armistice Violated as Mexicans Fire on Outposts at Vera Cruz—American Garrison Ready, but General Engagement Is Averted.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN MEXICAN SITUATION.

Carranza refuses to stop fighting against Huerta pending mediation of the Mexican situation, asserting that such a move would accrue only to the benefit of the dictator.

Funston, threatened by 10,000 Mexican federals at Vera Cruz, is reported to have telegraphed Washington for instructions.

South American envoys go steadily on with their mediation plans, and Huerta and Carranza are expected to name delegates in the next day or two.

Tampico's water supply is entirely cut off, and food supply is almost exhausted. Eggs bring $1 apiece and potatoes 50 cents a pound. Prices of other supplies are proportionately high.

Washington, May 4.—Information received in Washington within the last twenty-four hours has strengthened the belief that Huerta's day in Mexico City is rapidly drawing to a close. Officials here are confident now that the utter collapse of the dictator's power will come within a few days. They would not be surprised to hear of his resignation at any moment.

Washington was alive with rumors of an impending change in Mexico City, and although no official information was given out on the subject, it was apparent that the administration had reason to credit them. One of the reports that reached Washington from Mexico City through unofficial sources was that Huerta was about to signify his intention of resigning provided he would be assured of safe conduct from the country.

While these reports of Huerta's tottering were received at the capital, word was flashed from Chihuahua that Carranza had formally declared he would not enter into any armistice with Huerta. Carranza's stand on this proposal had been anticipated in Washington for several days, but so far as was learned the formal reply of the Constitutionalist chieftain has not yet reached the South American mediators.

Vera Cruz, May 4.—Peasants entering the American lines reported that General Gustavo Maas is steadily moving his troops toward the city. There has been no further clash between the Mexicans and the American outpost at El Tejar, ten miles to the south, since the Mexican commander under a flag of truce demanded the surrender of the waterworks. He gave Major John H. Russell, commanding the marines there, ter minutes with which to comply with the demand.

"Hurry right back," replied the major, "and do not waste any of the time your commanding officer has stipulated."

Major Russell immediately communicated by wireless with headquarters, and his force of 240 marines was augmented to 1,200 men, while the whole garrison of Vera Cruz made ready to move out against the Mexicans. There were about 500 Mexican cavalrymen menacing Major Russell's outpost at the time. Preparations were also made to put bluejackets ashore if necessary.

When the demand for the surrender of the waterworks was refused the Mexicans fired four shots, but hit no one. Only a single shot was fired in answer from the American lines.

Violation of Armistice.

The action of the Mexican commander in demanding the surrender of the works and the shooting is a clear violation of the armistice to which General Huerta agreed, but as there were no casualties it is said the incident is not regarded as being one of any especial gravity.

Some of the re-enforcements sent to El Tejar have been withdrawn, but two battalions of marines remain there to hold the position and to prevent cutting off a large part of the city's water supply.

Lieutenant Bellinger, the navy aviator, was sent on a scouting trip soon after the Mexicans fired on the Americans. He reported that the cavalry had retired some distance. Other aviators flew over the Mexican positions to report on the disposition of General Maas' troops.

THE CITY MANAGER.

The Engineering News, which has been printing many articles about the city manager plan and commission government, in a recent issue, tells of the development of the manager idea in Titusville, Penn., under employ of a city commission. There the city engineer has been given the added power of a city manager, because in the past nine years in the former position, he demonstrated his worth sufficiently to warrant him being given the broader powers. The ordinance of the commission creating the office, summarized has the following provisions:

Council may appoint an officer to be known as City Manger who, under the direction of the Superintendents of the various city departments and the Council shall have general supervision over and direction of the administration of the city's affairs. Said appointee to hold office until removed by Council and be paid the sum of $75 per month, in addition to salary as city Engineer.

The City Manager shall see to it that the laws and ordinances relating to the city and its affairs are enforced; that the employes in the various departments faithfully and efficiently perform their duties and that the property of the city is properly cared for.

The City Manager shall have power to purchase necessary material and supplies for the city where the amount involved does not exceed $25. He shall carry out the instructions of Council and of the superintendents of departments, and shall recommend to Council for appointment necessary servants and employes and for dismissal all unnecessary and inefficient servants and employes. Amounts in excess of $25 must be advertised for and bought on contract by him.

The City Manager shall, when requested, attend meetings of Council and report, in writing when requested, on any matters pertaining to the city's affairs, and shall, from time to time, recommend measures for its welfare.

The City Manager shall take the oath required by law of municipal officers, and shall give bond for the faithful performance of his duties and the prompt accounting for funds and property which may come into his possession, in the sum of $3,000, to be approved by Council.

It will be interesting to watch for further reports from the Titusville experiment, for under it every department is directly responsible to a single head, who in turn can be removed at any time by the City Commission in case his work is not satisfactory.

Why some such plan would not be possible in Plainfield, we cannot see. It might be necessary to seek special legislation permitting the appointment of a manager by the present Council, but if it were done it would relieve the overworked members of the local governing body from much which they now do. In a community like Plainfield the plan would be well worth trying.

GOVERNMENT SEEDS.

The indiscriminate distribution of government seeds under congressional franks at the cost of a fortune to Uncle Sam, has brought no other results than a disaapointment to the voter who accidently is overlooked by his representative, said voter in nine times out of ten having no inclination or intent'on of actually planting the seeds annually expected from Washington. The abuse of government seed distribution is so flagrant that it has become a joke in which everybody indulges.

Since the present methods, already indulged in this season by the national law-makers, are ineffective, defective and devoid of good results either from the standpoint of gardens or polititcs, and since it is evident that the distribution of government seeds must continue, why not turn the project to good account? Instead of sending seeds indiscriminately to one's list of friends for political fence patching, will it not be better to hand out the seeds in suitable selections for school gardens, vacant lot gardens and farm schools?

The Daily Press commends to Congressman Tuttle and to Senator Martine of this State that they revise their seed lists and, instead of sending out packets to ordinary voters who waste or laugh at them, that they take measures to obtain a more practical and useful selection of flowers and vegetables from the department of agriculture and then place such packets and selections of seeds in the hands of garden and school organizations. Flower beds and vegetable gardens will then thrive in city and around the country schoolhouse to be an annual testimonial to the thoughtfulness of one's representative in congress.

Occasionally something of this kind has been done in response to petitions from garden clubs, but the congressmen themselves should take the initiative. The voter who has been receiving and throwing aside the seeds sent to him in the past, will very readily give up that "privilege" of citizenship, especially when he learns that the seeds are to be used to beautify the city or school district and reduce the high cost of living by stimulating the cultivation of vacant lot gardens.

his fight to prove his innocence of the crime of which he is charged he is by no means crest-fallen and appears to be taking things as they come. He will be taken to the Union County jail in Elizabeth late this afternoon.

Connors' sisters and several of his friends are making preparations for the legal battle in the Jersey courts and the issue will probably be taken up during the coming term of court. He refuses to discuss his plans for the fight for liberty but seems to be harboring an inward confidence which he is making efforts to conceal under his good natured countenance.

Chief Kiely's victory in Chicago reflects with credit on the work of the local police head and the assistant prosecutor and they were the recipients of a shower of congratulations this morning. Going to Chicago with the darkest outlook possible confronting them and in quest of a notorious bail jumper who was at that time out on bonds, the Union County representatives played their game with an expertness that finally landed the much sought quarry.

MILITIAMEN FACE CHARGE OF MURDER

May Also Impeach Governor Ammons of Colorado.

Denver, May 4.—With the entire membership of Company A, Colorado national guard, facing both court martial and trial by the civil authorities on charges of murder as a result of the killing of two women and eleven children in the destruction by fire of the Ludlow tent colony on April 20, the real interest in the strike situation centers in Denver.

Members of the state legislature are arriving by the dozen for the special session. Secret caucuses are being held in three of the big hotels. On every side it is rumored that well defined plans to impeach Governor E. M. Ammons and probably Lieutenant Governor Stephen R. Fitzgerald are being formulated.

That a resolution to impeach Ammons will be introduced is virtually certain. Whether the house will adopt such a measure is still a question.

The report submitted by the military commission, a board created by Ammons himself, finding that the soldiers deliberately set fire to and looted the tents where the women and children were cremated, will be urged as the strongest evidence of Ammons' alleged inability to govern the state. When the legislature assembles a body of women, at least 300 of them, will march on the statehouse and demand an audience. These women, members of the Colorado Woman's Peace league, sent a committee to Ludlow to investigate the situation. This committee has returned with the report that not half of the horrors of what they term the massacre of the women and children has been told. They will present their facts to the legislature and urge that such action as seems necessary be taken immediately and that those responsible be punished to the full extent of the law.

Major W. A. Holbrook, in charge of the federal troops in the Trinidad district, let it be known that he has construed Secretary Garrison's proclamation as to the disarming of all persons in the strike zone who are not in the active service of the United States army to include members of the Colorado militia as well as strikers, mine guards and others. Consequently the order is being carried out on that theory.

CALLS ROCKEFELLER FOE.

Greater Enemy Than Huerta, Says Henry Frank.

New York, May 4.—On the suggestion of a woman member of the congregation that listened to the address by Henry Frank in Leslie hall at Broadway and Eighty-third street on "Huerta or Rockefeller, Which Most Offends the Flag?" the congregation voted to send a copy of the address to President Wilson.

Frank urged that President Wilson order the United States troops to seize the mines and hold them for the good of the nation, to be operated by government superintendents.

CONDUCTING CAMPAIGN AGAINST CIGARETTES

James J. Jeffreys, who is conducting a campaign through this section of the country in the interest of the work of the Anti-Cigarette League of America, spoke eight times in this city, yesterday, addressing the Sunday-schools of the Temple Baptist, Park Avenue Baptist and First Baptist churches. The Crescent Avenue Presbyterian and Grace M. E. church; also the Christian Endeavor Society of Hope chapel; Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church and at the Rescue Mission.

Mr. Jeffreys this morning spoke at the Franklin and Bryant schools of this city and the North Plainfield High School. # GEN. SICKLES DIES; WIFE AT BEDSIDE

Hero of Gettysburg Succumbs to Illness.

RECONCILED WITH FAMILY

Was the Last Corps Commander on Either Side In the Civil War—He Raised a Regiment of Democrats For Conflict.

New York, May 4.—Major General Daniel E. Sickles, civil war hero and last of the corps commanders at Gettysburg, died in his home in 23 Fifth avenue in the arms of his wife, to whom he had become reconciled after a long estrangement.

His death was brought on by a complication of diseases incident to old age but directly to an attack of apoplexy.

The old soldier was in his eighty-ninth year and up to a few months ago was unusually active. Continued worry resulting from his unending financial troubles had much to do with undermining his health.

Those at the bedside were Mrs. Sickles, her son, John J. Kirby, who is attorney for Mrs. Sickles, and Miss O'Neil, a nurse.

Daniel Edgar Sickles, major general, retired, last of the great commanders of the civil war, was a congressman when the war began. He was a Democrat and had not voted for Lincoln, but he went to the president and offered his services. He had served many years in the national guard of this state and had resigned with the rank of major at the time he went to England as secretary of legation under Buchanan, then the minister. Lincoln told him to go ahead and raise a regiment.

A Regiment of Democrats.

The first regiment he raised was composed mostly of Democrats. He established Camp Scott on Staten Island and began to train his volunteers.

He succeeded Hooker in the command of a division of the Third army corps and led the division in the battles of Antietam and Fredericksburg. In November of 1862 he was made a major general of volunteers and had command of the Third corps at Chancellorsville.

Having defeated the Union army there, General Lee set forth on his determined march to the north. General Meade had succeeded Hooker, and General Sickles' corps was ordered to Emmetsburg. After the first day's fighting at Gettysburg General Howard called for help.

The second day found General Sickles in command of the Union left. On the extreme left and beyond the line as first established by Meade were the Round Tops. In front of General Sickles' troops was the Peach Orchard ridge. General Sickles saw that if he could gain that ridge he might be able to prevent Longstreet from reaching the Round Tops. Had Longstreet done that his artillery could have raked Cemetery ridge, his forces could have worked their way into the rear of the Union army after turning the left, and the whole plan of battle would have been upset. An hour before the battle began and without waiting for orders General Sickles took a position on Peach Orchard ridge.

At the Famous Bloody Angle.

They called that portion of the battlefield the bloody angle. The fight lasted from 3 o'clock until 7 at night. Many men died there, more than in the two other days of the battle. Half an hour before the fighting ended a shell shattered General Sickles' knee. He buckled a strap around his leg and stayed on his horse until the last gun was fired. His leg was amputated that night. After he had recovered from his wound President Lincoln sent him on an inspection trip through the south, and he was with Sherman's army on the march to the sea. After the war he was military governor of the department of the south, which included the two Carolinas.

General Sickles was born in this city. Some historians place the date as Oct. 20, 1820. Others vary, but the date is approximate. He was admitted to the bar in 1844 and three years later went to the assembly.

In 1859 General Sickles shot dead in the streets of Washington Philip Barton Key, son of the author of "The Star Spangled Banner." The trouble was over Mrs. Sickles. She had been Teresa Bagill, the beautiful daughter of an Italian music teacher. General Sickles was acquitted, and he and his wife were afterward reconciled.

POSTMASTER FIRED ON.

Thieves Pay Their Second Visit to Him Within a Week.

Nyack, N. Y., May 4.—For the second time in a week the postoffice at Nanuet, Rockland county, was entered by burglars. Postmaster Fisher fired at three men seen running away from the office and believes two of his shots took effect. The men fired back, bullets flying around the postmaster's head, but not hitting him.

Valuable papers were stolen three nights ago when the safe was blown up.

Weather Forecast.

Partly cloudy today, probably followed by showers in north portion; tomorrow, fair; fresh south winds.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

North Plainfield's great exhibition of the national pastime on Hyde Oval Saturday was a creditable example of just what a little thorough coaching will do for any aggregation that has material ready to be worked out. Tommy Mullin's advent in the borough athletic circles has injected new life into a hitherto gingerless combination and the wiry little leader got all the good there was in his players out in that eleven inning clash with New Brunswick. The work of the combination as a whole, was a pleasing revelation to those who have watched the aggregation this year and as the result of a "once-over" we gave it on that occasion our dope is that the "Canadians" will pull up strong in the final sprint of the Interscholastic race this season.

Saturday's exhibition on Hyde Oval was a case of "Tommy Mullin everywhere." The peppery little balltosser was on the coaching lines, behind the bat warming up the pitchers, on the players' bench and pitching to the batters during the afternoon. Wherever there was anything to be done Tommy was right on the job putting it through and the boroughites responded to his calls for "a little pep" with a vim that has heretofore been a minus quantity in North Plainfield.

Plainfield High School's beating at South Orange Saturday came as a cruel but not altogether unexpected blow to the red and blue cohorts. The locals were up against a stiff proposition in the Seton Hall youths, and the fact that the South Orangers have been disposing of all that comes their way has given them a reputation to be highly respected by opponents. With Brick out of the game, Donald Sminck will have a pretty hard road to travel during the remainder of the season as most of the work will fall on his shoulders from now on. "Don" is equal to the emergency, however, and he will no doubt keep the locals' colors in the fore unassisted.

The unexpected happened in the walloping administered to the Staten Island Academy boys by Leals Saturday morning. Captain Faber had everything on the ball on that occasion and the visitiors were breaking their backs trying to connect with his twisters. As a first string mound artist Faber will probably make good with the private school crew this year and his flinging will keep the opposing batters on their wits end in the Interscholastic race.

Arthur Grisley and Hyman Abrams came to the fore in hitting circles over the week end. The former smashed out four out of five appearances sporting Hope Chapel regalia, while the latter cracked out a trio of beauties on Hyde Oval.

Dope handed out by Central League managers:
March—No team this year.
April—Will organize club of local talent.
May—Outside stars begin to show up.
June—Call for Central League meeting.
July—My club is the one sure bet for the pennant.
August—Clubs begin to lose money.
September—Expensive talent dismissed.
October—Plainfield and Somerville tied for first place.
November—The Central League is a thing of the past.

Although it has been stated emphatically that there will be no Central New Jersey League this season we would not be in the least surprised to hear a call for organization sounded within the next month. Similar things have happened in other years.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:
Query—Kindly inform me as to the number of mints in the United States? Where are they located? Why are some dimes lettered and others not?—L. G. T.

Answer—The United States mints are located in Philadelphia, New Orleans, Denver, San Francisco and in Carson City, Nevada. The letters on some coins are the mark of the particular mint where they are coined, but not all from any one mint are marked. There does not seem to be any rule about it at least none known to the generl public.

Sporting Editor:
Query—Is there a chaffeur's union in Plainfield? If so give me the address of the secretary or one to whom I may apply for further information?—K. G. P.

Answer—We know of such union here.

Sporting Editor:
Query—When will the next examination be held here for mail carrier? Who does the examining and where?—L. J.

Answer—Postmaster Elias Bird will supply you with all the information you want on the subject. You can see him at the postoffice during the day.

Sporting Editor:
Query—Where could two girls secue employment as motion picture actresses near Plainfield? What are the wages per month?—C. S. A.

Answer—The moving picture companies employ none but accomplished professional actors and actresses in preparing their films for the "movies." The best thing for two anxious, incompetent, untrained girls, such as your note shows you to be, to do is to find some quiet, respectable employment in or near Plainfield and settle down to it.

Sporting Editor:
Query—Kindly inform me if the United States government still gives land to those desiring it and, if so, under what conditions?—H. P. O.

Answer—There are no longer any public lands open for free entry by bona fide settlers. They have all been taken up. Whether in the future by agreement with remaining Indian tribes any reservation land in the far West will ever be opened for settlement by whites, we do not know. There are some public lands still open "for entry and sale" in the far West and Southwest. To learn where they are and the conditions for securing them write to the commissioner of the United States Land Office, Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C.

FANWOOD FIELD CLUB REVENGES OLD SCORE

Mount Pleasant Aggreagtion Trimmed in Good Game Played Saturday

Playing on their home grounds Saturday afternoon, the Fanwood Field Club nine got revenge on Mt. Pleasant for the defeat of several weeks ago when they trounced the visitors by a 10 to 6 score. Three counters were registered by Mt. Pleasant in the first round, but the club nine came back with five in the second and held the lead for the rest of the game.

Venizia went the whole nine innings for Fanwood and was found for only eight hits while Glaser and Mown were touched for twelve, three being for extra bases. Wahl was the star of the contest. Besides making several sensational stops at short he made two two-baggers, knocking in five runs and crossing the pan with one himself. With three on and two out in the second he walloped one to deep center sending in three men and repeated the stunt in the third, scoring two more. Venizia also made a double with no one on. Wahl and Venizia led in hits with three apiece.

VICTORY IN THE ELEVENTH INNING FOR N. P. H. S. SLUGGERS WAS WELL DESERVED

After losing three games in succession, the North Plainfield High School baseball team "came back" last Saturday afternoon and gave their supporters one of the finest articles of ball they have ever played and defeated the New Brunswick High School team in an eleven inning contest by the score of 4 to 3. Earlier in the season the locals were defeated by a large score, but hit the ball hard Saturday for a victory.

"Dan" Denny was in the box for the home team and he was supreme at all times. For the first seven innings of the game he had his opponents swinging in all directions and sent a couple back every inning with a strikeout. His curves were working the best that they have this year, and with good support the visitors were held scoreless for seven innings.

North Plainfield pulled a run over the plate in the early part of the game on two hits and a pass. In the sixth with two on the bases, Smalley cracked the ball in left field for two bases, scoring both. At other times the locals had good chances to score, but Dienger, the visiting slabman, settled down and drew himself out of a few tight places.

The break that almost proved fatal to the Canucks came in the eighth when three errors filled the bases with New Brunswick players and Manley's double scored two of them. A misjudged fly scored the tying run and then Denny settled and renewed his strike-out methods. The ninth and tenth rounds were blanks for both teams and victory came in the eleventh for the locals. With two down Townley singled and went to second on the next play. Smalley then cracked one to right field and Townley started from second. The right fielder made a low throw to first base in an effort to catch Smalley, but the ball went past the baseman and into the crowd. Townley never stopped and crossed the plate with the winning run.

CARLSTROM HITTING HARD.

Albin Carlstrom, who is playing this season with the Buffalo team of the International League, is keeping up his record for pounding out bingles and returns daily with one, two and three of the safe variety. In Saturday's game with Newark he counted for a pretty life giver and also recorded two of his team's six runs Newark won, 7 to 6. Carlstrom, although he played short for the Plainfield team, is now cavorting around the first corner for the leaguers and in the Newark contest accepted eleven chances, one a double play, without an error.

WILL LEAD THE LAWYERS.

"Bill" Nash, the well-known Elk bowler and former diamond star, has been chosen to act as field captain of the lawyers' baseball team which will play the doctors on Parker Field next month. Nash is a pitcher. He will shortly sound a call for the first practise and has had a big squad lined up ready to go to the front. City Judge William G. DeMeza is the manager of the team.

RICKETS OUT AGAIN.

Jack Ricketts, of Westervelt avenue, the well-known local athlete, who sprained his ankle two weeks ago while practising baseball, is able to be about again with the aid of crutches. He was one of the spectators at the N. P. H. S. game Saturday and expects soon to be able to play again.

NEW HIGH JUMP RECORD.

Edward Beeson, of the San Francisco Athletic Club, broke the world's record in the running high jump at the Pacific Coast Conference meet Saturday afternoon, clearing the bar at 6 feet, 7 5-8 inches, 5-8 of an inch better than the previous mark held by George Horine.

HOPE SWATS OPEN THE BALL SEASON

Chapelites Put Park Avenue to Rout in a Garrison Finish on Hope Common.

Hope Chapel ushered in its baseball season in an auspicious fashion Saturday afternoon, putting the Park Avenue Baptist nine to rout by a score of 15 to 1. A masterly exhibition of twirling by Dick Schott and some hard swatting by the Chapelites was responsible for the verdict. The winning side scored three runs in the first two innings and led from the point until the finish, pulling across an avalanche of twelve counters in the last two rounds of a battle curtailed in the stretch stanza after the Parks had been made to cry for help.

Schott let the losing side down with two hits, Blum and Kling being the lucky batters, and made thirteen whiff the empty atmosphere. While in the box Mills did some good twirling, fanning twelve of the hard-hitting Hope contingent. Grisley's batting featured the playing of the Chapel crew, he being responsible for four safeties out of five time at the rubber.

The runs were made as follows:

First inning—A. Schott singled, going to second on Mills' wild throw to Tice; Grisley singled to left field scoring A. Schott. Grisley stole second and went to third on a passed ball to Blume. E. Terry struck out and Luthman struck out. 1 run.

Second inning—Thorn walked and went to second on Blume's passed ball. Klinsman sacrificed to Waller, Thorn going to third. R. Schott singled to left field scoring Thorn, R. Schott stealing second and third and coming home on a muffed ball by Cummings. 2 runs.

Fifth inning—Gage was safe on A Schott's muffed thrown ball. Blume struck out, Houston went to first on a fielders choice, Gage going to second and third on a wild throw by Snyder; Houston went to second and third when Luthman threw over Grisley's head, Gage going home. 1 run.

Sixth inning—T. Heron singled to center field; Luthman doubled to left field, T. Heron going to third. J. Heron singled scoring T. Heron and Luthman going to third. J. Heron stole second and R. Schott doubled scoring Luthman and J. Heron. 3 runs.

Seventh inning—Grisley doubled to Center, Overland singled to right scoring Grisley and Overland going home on Gage's wild throw. Bowlby then went in to pitch. T. Heron walked and stole second and third; Thorn went to first, being hit with a pitched ball. Thorn stole second and J. Heron hit for two bases sending T. Heron and Thorn home. J. Heron went to third on Cummings' muff. J. Heron then stole home. R. Schott was safe on a fielders choice and went to second on Grisley's single to center. Grisley stole second and R. Schott stole third, Schott coming home on a passed ball and Grisley going to third. Overland was out Kling to Tice. T. Heron went to first on a fielders choice and Grisley coming home. Luthman was out, Kling to Tice. 9 runs.

CLEVER TWIRLING BEAT P. H. S TEAM

Seton Hall "Prep" Combination Had Little Difficulty Coming Out on Top.

The Plainfield High School baseball team traveled to South Orange Saturday afternoon and crossed bats with the Seton Hall "Prep." School nine, losing by a score of 8 to 12. Sminck was unsteady at times and gave free passes at the wrong time, while Heine, of Seton Hall, had the "Indian sign" on most of the local players.

Sminck had an off day Saturday allowing seven bases on balls, filling the bases in the first inning then forcing the first run across the plate. Again in the seventh with a man on first he issued two free passes and filled the bases. The local boys had a poor day in fielding, making six errors while Seton Hall made but two.

SKILLMAN'S SLANTS EASY FOR WESTFIELD

Veteran Twirlers Yields Fifteen Hits During Nine Inning Swatfest.

Fifteen hits cracked out at the expense of the veteran Skillman put a crimp in the Monroe Avenue team's winning strak Saturday afternoon, and as a result the Westfield A. A. combination romped home with a 12 to 2 verdict. Consistent hitting by the fast visiting clan early rang up a good lead for them and after the third round the Plainfielders were never in the running. Skillman was plainly experiencing a off day and his backers contributed to his hard luck by throwing in seven misplays during the afternoon.

Cowperthwaite and Douglas, the visiting slab artists, were in fine fettle and held the speedy Monroe youths to three bingles. They were accorded good support and when the Monroe players got on bases they seldom proved troublesome. Vallean, Douglas and Dallas were the leading hitters for the winning crew, each poling out a trio of the safe species.

BAPTISTS SHUT OUT BY SAURER RIVALS

Kalsomine Brush Wielded by Johnny Dixon on the Pitching Mound.

Saurer ball players won a decisive victory over the First Baptist team on the West End avenue grounds Saturday afternoon, and avenged their former defeat by a score of 9 to 0. Johnny Dixon pitched for the Saurer team and held the Front street boys at his mercy throughout. In the eighth Fulton took his place, but had such difficulty in locating the plate that Dixon was called to the rescue. With the bases full and one out, Johnny faned Smith, the Baptist's heavy hitter and Barnes popped weakly to Garretson.

In the ninth Banks and McLaughlin hit safely with two down, but were left when Patterson fanned. Saurer was unable to score on VanZandt until the third inning; then hits by Harrison and Garretson and Downs' overthrow put one over. In the fourth they got two more by clean hitting on the part of Bergen, Alberts and Coyle, the latter driving in both runs with a double. In the fifth Dixon counted on two errors by Banks. In the sixth hits by Jaeger and Alberts and a pass to Wilson, added two more in the ninth. Bergen and Alberts did great work with the stick for Saurer and Garretson starred in the field. The Baptists were away below par and their only redeeming feature was Barnes' good work on third.

RALLY IN SEVENTH WON GAME FOR LEALS

Locals Trimmed Staten Island School Boys in Late Come-back.

In a game featured by Captain Faber's good twirling and the array of errors chalked up by both teams, the Leal School baseball team, of this city, defeated the Staten Island Academy youths on Parker Field Saturday by a score of 8 to 5. Consistent playing won the game for the locals who were behind until the seventh inning when they garnered three tallies. The hitting was light on both sides, the winners getting five against their opponent's three. The score:

The armored cruiser Montana sailed for New York from Vera Cruz with the bodies of the marines and sailors who were killed after the American troops landed there on April 21. All the bodies will be taken to New York, whence they will be shipped to the homes of the dead heroes. The Montana will be met by the three battleships Iowa, Indiana and Massachusetts, either outside the Delaware breakwater or off the New Jersey coast. The battleships will then convoy the Montana with the nation's dead to New York. Rear Admiral Badger's fleet observed the sailing of the Montana in solemn fashion. The flags were all placed at half mast, the crew dressed ship and stood at attention, while the bands played dirges as the Montana passed out.

ATTEMPT TO INVADE ROCKEFELLER HOME

I. W. W. Pickets Turned Back by Armed Guards.

New York, May 4.—The I. W. W. carried Upton Sinclair's free silence picket movement to the gates of the Rockefeller estate at Pocantico Hills, where six of their members took up stations while their fellows were patrolling in front of the city homes of the Rockefellers in West Fifty-fourth street, while Upton Sinclair's mourners continued to watch at 26 Broadway and while Socialists from the Rand school, with mourning bands on their arms, marched to and fro in front of the Calvary Baptist church, in West Fifty-seventh street, where the Rockefellers worship.

The demonstration at Pocantico Hills was the most daring, but not the most spectacular, of half a dozen designed to convince John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and his father that the sympathy of the workers of the country was enlisted on the side of the striking Colorado miners, who attribute the slaughter of their fellows in the mine war to the stand taken by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., against enforced membership of unions.

Across the street from 26 Broadway a clergyman wearing the vestments of the Episcopal church appeared with a prayer book in his hand near nightfall. He arose on a soap box while the Sinclair mourners marched up and down and held a funeral service "for the dead in Colorado." Following the reading of the service the clergyman was ordered to move on by Police Sergeant O'Grady of the Greenwich police station. He then moved to Bowling Green park, where he delivered a sermon against war. He said he was the Rev. Dr. William Miller Gamble and that he represented St. Stephen's Episcopal church at Coytesville, N. J.

1,500 U. S. TROOPS SENT.

Secretary Garrison Gets No Disquieting News From Colorado.

Washington, May 4.—Secretary Garrison said that he had received no news of any disturbance in the mining region of Colorado, where federal troops are now stationed.

Several reports were received from Major Holbrook, who is in command, but none of them was of a disquieting nature concerning conditions in the zone where the federal troops are in control.

There are now either at the scene of the mining troubles or en route there about 1,500 troops. Of this number 960 are on the way to Trinidad, 280 are in the vicinity of Trinidad, 140 are at Boulder and 140 are at Canyon City.

No Comment to Make on Whitman's Talk of Investigation.

Albany, N. Y., May 4.—Governor Glynn declined to comment on the declaration of District Attorney Whitman that he would investigate the vote on the constitution election in every district within his jurisdiction.

The governor likewise refused to say anything when he was informed that four election officials had been arrested for alleged fraud in connection with the special election.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

7715

The vest still continues to be one of the most favored details of dress and suit. Some of the prettiest are made of bright moire, figured silk crepe and brocade. They are seen a great deal on wash blouses too, and there are numberless cottons with designs that are pleasing and becoming for this purpose. If this pretty blouse, No. 7715, were made of a plain white cotton crepe the vest would be extremely attractive in one of the Dolly Varden crepes, with a dainty flower design. If preferred, the vest and collar may be of lawn or voile, as it is very modish to make them of these sheer materials, crepe, voile and organdy even on silk and wool frocks. It is a fresh, becoming fancy, especially for dark colors.

This blouse may be made in size 36 with 2¾ yards of 36 inch material.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes; 32 to 42.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SALADS YOU WILL LIKE.

SALADS that appeal to the eye and palate are always popular. The appended recipes are for salads that unite these qualities, yet are also quite novel. For luncheon or supper these salads are delicious.

Cottage Cheese Salad.—Mix some cottage cheese with a tablespoonful of finely cut or grated onion, salt and pepper to taste and a tablespoonful of chopped parsley. Mix well. Line the bowl with lettuce, put the cheese in center and garnish with stuffed olives cut into rings and finely cut parsley. Pour over one-half cupful French dressing.

Nutritious Foods.

Cheese and Jelly Salad.—Wash and drain some crisp white lettuce and lay it in a very cold dish. Prepare some small balls of cream cheese mixed with a little cream and salt and make a little depression like a miniature well on top of each one. In this drop any rich red jelly. Put French dressing on the lettuce in generous quantities and on top arrange the little cream balls.

Egg Salad.—Cut hard boiled eggs in quarters and serve on crisp lettuce, with a boiled dressing. For the dressing mix in the following order: A tablespoonful of sugar, a tablespoonful of salad oil, a teaspoonful of dry mustard, the same of cornstarch. Add salt and pepper. Stir until smooth. Add three-quarters of a cup of salad oil, one-third of a cupful of tarragon vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of common vinegar and the beaten yolks of three eggs. Boil until thick, stirring all the time.

A Popular Salad.

Cooked Vegetable Salad.—Take a large pickled beet, cut it into slices and then into strips. Cut three cooked potatoes in a similar manner. Arrange these in layers in a salad bowl containing three tablespoonfuls of best salad oil and one large tablespoonful of vinegar mixed with a hard boiled egg yolk, a little mustard, salt and pepper. Wash and trim half a small bunch of white celery and cut it into fine shreds. Mix these with the other vegetables and place three to four filleted anchovies on top, cut into small strips. Garnish the salad with a few sprigs of watercress and serve.

The Boy Set Up a Carpentry Shop.

The Usefulness Of a Little Boy's New Jackknife.

JACK had had great trouble that day with a splinter which had somehow found its way into his hand. It was such a big, deep one that he had had to go to the doctor's to have it taken out.

"Well, how does the hand feel this evening?" asked daddy.

"Much better, thank you, daddy," answered Jack.

"You know, I think you need a jackknife," said daddy. "Then you could just cut out any splinter yourself."

"How dreadful, daddy!" said Evelyn. "Why, he might hurt himself!"

"Am I really to have a jackknife, though?" asked Jack.

"Yes," said daddy; "I have been thinking for some time that you needed one—one with plenty of blades in it. I will bring it back with me tomorrow evening."

"Oh, that's splendid!" said Jack. "It is just like you, daddy, to think of the very thing I would want most and to give it to me."

"This evening," said daddy, "I am going to tell you about the little boy who was given a jackknife as a birthday present. He did so many things with his knife that I think it might give you some ideas and suggestions of things you might make with the help of the knife, although I don't really suppose any boy needs to be told much about a jackknife, for, I fancy, as soon as you have it you'll be able to use it."

Jack smiled and said:

"Yes; I will be able to use it, I think. But do tell us the story just the same, for I would love to hear of the things the other little boy made with his knife."

"This little boy," continued daddy, "was very fond of making all kinds of things. He set up a little carpentry shop in his room with a workstand.

"He would make little bird houses, little squirrel houses, chairs, stands, boats, an express cart, and, oh, countless other things! In fact, he just made all the things that boys like.

"Before he had his jackknife he was not at all interested in carpentry. But his knife helped so much. It was far more useful to him than his other tools."

"I can hardly wait now for my knife," said Jack. "Telling me about all those things the other little boy made has made me want to get right to work. But I will get my room all ready tomorrow for the shop."

"And I have a little chair which will just be the right size for you to use working," said Evelyn.

"Yes," said Jack, "and I can make lots of nice things for Evelyn's dolls."

Evelyn looked happy at that speech, for she was pleased that Jack always wanted to share everything in some way or other with her.

CAILLAUX WOULD FIGHT.

Issues Challenge to Political Foe to Fight a Duel.

Paris, May 4.—Joseph Caillaux, who was re-elected to the chamber of deputies in the general election held last week, has challenged Fernand d'Allieres, the Liberal candidate to the chamber against him in the Mamers district, to fight a duel. M. Caillaux was involved in the Gaston Calmette affair, and he resigned the ministry of finance after the killing of Calmette, editor of Le Figaro, by his wife last March.

The challenge was sent, it is explained here, because M. d'Allieres insulted the Mamers voters by posting bills saying clean electors would refuse to become "accomplices in crime." M. Caillaux sent his seconds, General Daletein and Deputy Pascal Oeccaldi, to M. d'Aillieres.

CHAPTER XVI.

A State o' Maine Prophet.

SUMMER was dying hard, for although it had passed, by the calendar, Mother Nature was still keeping up her customary attitude.

There had been a soft rain in the night, and every spear of grass was brilliantly green and tipped with crystal. The smoke bushes in the garden plot and the asparagus bed beyond them looked misty as the sun rose higher, drying the soaked earth and dripping branches. Spiders' webs, marvels of lace, dotted the short grass under the apple tree. Every flower that had a fragrance was pouring it gratefully into the air; every bird with a joyous note in its voice gave it more joyously from a bursting throat, and the river laughed and rippled in the distance at the foot of Town House hill. The dawn grew into full morning, and streams of blue smoke rose here and there from the Edgewood chimneys. The world was alive and so beautiful that Waitstill felt like going down on her knees in gratitude for having been born into it and given a chance of serving it in any humble way whatsoever.

Wherever there was a barn, in Riverboro or Edgewood, one could have heard the three legged stools being lifted from the pegs and then would begin the music of the milk pails; first the resonant sound of the stream in the bottom of the tin pail, then the soft, delicious purring of the cascade into the full bucket, while the cows serenely chewed their cuds and whisked away the flies with swinging tails.

Deacon Baxter was taking his cows to a pasture far over the hill, the feed having grown too short in his own fields. Patty was washing dishes in the kitchen and Waitstill was in the dairy house at the butter making, one of her chief delights. She worked with speed and with beautiful sureness, patting, squeezing, rolling the golden mass like the true artist she was, then turning the sweet scented waxen balls out of the mould onto the big stone china platter that stood waiting. She had been up early, and for the last hour she had toiled with devouring eagerness that she might have a little time to herself. It was hers now, for Patty would be busy with the beds after she finished the dishes, so she drew a folded paper from her pocket, the first communication she had ever received in Ivory's handwriting, and sat down to read it:

She Sat Down to Read the First Communication She Had Ever Received In Ivory's Handwriting.

My Dear Waitstill—Rodman will take this packet and leave it with you when he finds opportunity. It is not in any real sense a letter, so I am in no danger of incurring your father's displeasure. You will probably have heard new rumors concerning my father during the past few days, for Peter Morrill has been to Enfield, N. H., where he says letters have been received stating that my father died in Cortland, O., more than five years ago. I shall do what I can to substantiate this fresh report, as I have always done with all the previous ones, but I have little hope of securing reliable information at this distance and after this length of time. I do not know when I can ever start on a personal quest myself, for even had I the money I could not leave home until Rodman is much older and fitted for greater responsibility. Oh, Waitstill, how you have helped my poor, dear mother! Would that I were free to tell you how I value your friendship! It is something more than mere friendship. What you are doing is like throwing a life line to a sinking human being. Two or three times of late mother has forgotten to set out the supper things for my father. Her ten years' incessant waiting for him seems to have subsided a little, and in its place she watches for you. [Ivory had written "watches for her daughter," but carefully erased the last two words.] You come but seldom, but her heart feeds on the sight of you. What she needed, it seems, was the magical touch of youth and health and strength and sympathy, the qualities you possess in such great measure.

If I had proof of my father's death I think now perhaps that I might try to break it gently to my mother, as if it were fresh news, and see if possibly I might thus remove her principal hallucination. You see now, do you not, how sane she is in many—indeed in most ways—how sweet and lovable, even how sensible?

To help you better to understand the influence that has robbed me of both father and mother and made me and mine the subject of town and tavern gossip for years past I have written for you just a sketch of the "Cochrane craze," the romantic story of a man who swayed the wills of his fellow creatures in a truly marvelous manner. Some local historian of his time will doubtless give him more space. My wish is to have you know something more of the circumstances that have made me a prisoner in life instead of a free man. But, prisoner as I am at the moment, I am sustained just now by a new courage. I read in my copy of Ovid last night, "The best of weapons is the undaunted heart." This will help you, too, in your hard life, for yours is the most undaunted heart in all the world.

IVORY BOYNTON.

The chronicle of Jacob Cochrane's career in the little villages near the Saco river has no such interest for the general reader as it had for Waitstill Baxter. She hung upon every word that Ivory had written and realized more clearly than ever before the shadow that had followed him since early boyhood—the same shadow that had fallen across his mother's mind and left continual twilight there.

No one really knew, it seemed, why or from whence Jacob Cochrane had come to Edgewood. He simply appeared at the old tavern a stranger, with satchel in hand, to seek entertainment. Uncle Bart had often described this scene to Waitstill, for he was one of those sitting about the great open fire at the time. The man easily slipped into the group and soon took the lead in conversation, delighting all with his agreeable personality, his nimble tongue and graceful speech. At supper time the hostess and the rest of the family took their places at the long table, as was the custom, and he astonished them by his knowledge not only of town history, but of village matters they had supposed unknown to any one.

When the stranger had finished his supper and returned to the barroom he had to pass through a long entry, and the landlady, whispering to her daughter, said:

"Betsy, you go up to the chamber closet and get the silver and bring it down. This man is going to sleep there, and I am afraid of him. He must be a fortune teller, and the Lord only knows what else!"

In going to the chamber the daughter had to pass through the barroom. As she was moving quietly through, hoping to escape the notice of the newcomer, he turned in his chair and, looking her full in the face, suddenly said:

"Madam, you needn't touch your silver. I don't want it. I am a gentleman."

Whereupon the bewildered Betsy scuttled back to her mother and told her the strange guest was indeed a fortune teller.

Of Cochrane's initial appearance as a preacher Ivory had told Waitstill in their talk in the churchyard early in the summer. It was at a child's funeral that the new prophet created his first sensation, and there, too, that Aaron and Lois Boynton first came under his spell. The whole countryside had been just then wrought up to a state of religious excitement by revival meetings, and Cochrane gained the benefit of this definite preparation for his work. He claimed that all his sayings were from divine inspiration and that those who embraced his doctrine received direct communication from the Almighty. He disdained formal creeds and all manner of church organizations, declaring that sectarian names were marks of the beast and all church members to be in Babylon. He introduced rebaptism as a symbolic cleansing from sectarian stains, and after some months advanced a proposition that his flock hold all things in common. He put a sudden end to the solemn "deaconing out" and droning of psalm tunes and grafted on to his form of worship lively singing and marching, accompanied by clapping of hands and whirling in circles, during the progress of which the most hysterical converts or the most fully "Cochranized" would swoon upon the floor, or, in obeying their leader's instructions to "become as little children," would sometimes go through the most extraordinary and unmeaning antics.

It was not until he had converted hundreds to the new faith that he added more startling revelations to his gospel. He was in turn bold, mystical, eloquent, audacious, persuasive, autocratic, and even when his self styled "communications from the Almighty" controverted all that his hearers had formerly held to be right, he still magnetized or hypnotized them into an unwilling assent to his beliefs. There was finally a proclamation to the effect that marriage vows were to be annulled when advisable and that complete spiritual liberty was to follow; a liberty in which a new affinity might be sought and a spiritual union begun upon earth, a union as nearly approximate to God's standards as faulty human beings could manage to attain.

Some of the faithful fell away at this time, being unable to accept the full doctrine, but retained their faith in Cochrane's original power to convert sinners and save them from the wrath of God. Storm clouds began to gether in the sky, however, as the delusion spread, month by month, and local ministers everywhere sought to minimize the influence of the dangerous orator, who rose superior to every attack and carried himself like some magnificent martyr at will among the crowds that now criticised him here or there in private and in public.

"What a picture of splendid audacity he must have been," wrote Ivory, "when he entered the orthodox meeting house at a huge gathering where he knew that the speakers were to denounce his teachings. Old Parson Buzzell gave out his text from the high pulpit, Mark xiii, 37, 'And what I say unto you I say unto all, watch.' Just here Cochrane stepped in at the open door of the church and heard the warning, meant, he knew, for himself, and seizing the moment of silence following the reading of the text, he cried in his splendid sonorous voice, without so much as stirring from his place within the door frame: 'Behold, I stand at the door and knock. If any man hear my voice I will come in to him and will sup with him. I come to preach the everlasting gospel to every one that heareth, and all that I want here is my bigness on the floor.'

"I cannot find," continued Ivory on another page, "that my father or mother ever engaged in any of the foolish and childish practices which disgraced the meetings of some of Cochrane's most fanatical followers and converts. By my mother's conversations (some of which I have repeated to you, but which may be full of errors, because of her confusion of mind) I believe she must have had a difference of opinion with my father on some of these views, but I have no means of knowing this to a certainty, nor do I know that the question of 'choosing spiritual consorts' ever came between or divided them. This part of the delusion always fills me with such unspeakable disgust that I have never liked to seek additional light from any of the older men and women who might revel in giving it. That my mother did not sympathize with my father's going out to preach Cochrane's gospel through the country, this I know, and she was so truly religious, so burning with zeal, that had she fully believed in my father's mission she would have spurred him on instead of endeavoring to detain him.

"You know the retribution that overtook Cochrane at last," wrote Ivory again, when he had shown the man's early victories and his enormous influence. "There began to be indignant protests against his doctrines by lawyers and doctors, as well as by ministers; not from all sides, however, for remember, in extenuation of my father's and my mother's espousal of this strange belief, that many of the strongest and wisest men, as well as the purest and finest women in York county, came under this man's spell for a time and believed in him implicitly, some of them even unto the end.

"Finally there was Cochrane's arrest and examination, the order for him to appear at the supreme court, his failure to do so, his recapture and trial and his sentence of four years' imprisonment on several counts, in all of which he was proved guilty. Cochrane had all along said that the Anointed of the Lord would never be allowed to remain in jail, but he was mistaken, for he stayed in the state's prison at Charlestown, Mass., for the full duration of his sentence. Here (I am again trying to plead the cause of my father and mother), here he received much sympathy and some few visitors, one of whom walked all the way from Edgewood to Boston, 115 miles, with a petition for pardon, a petition which was delivered and refused at the Boston statehouse. Cochrane issued from prison a broken and humiliated man, but, if report says true, is still living, far out of sight and knowledge, somewhere in New Hampshire. He once sent my father an epitaph of his own selection, asking him to have it carved upon his gravestone should he die suddenly when away from his friends. My mother often repeats it, not realizing how far from the point it sounds to us who never knew him in his glory, but only in his downfall:

"He spread his arms full wide abroad.
His works are ever before his God.
His name on earth shall long remain,
Though envious sinners fret in vain.

"We are certain," concluded Ivory, "that my father preached with Cochrane in Limington, Limerick and Parsonsfield. He also wrote from Enfield and Effingham in New Hampshire. After that all is silence. Various reports place him in Boston, in New York, even as far west as Ohio, whether as Cochranite evangelist or what not, alas! we can never know. I despair of ever tracing his steps. I only hope that he died before he wandered too widely, either from his belief in God or his fidelity to my mother's long suffering love."

Waitstill read the letter twice through and replaced it in her dress to read again at night. It seemed the only tangible evidence of Ivory's love that she had ever received and she warmed her heart with what she felt that he had put between the lines.

"Would that I were free to tell you how I value your friendship!" "My mother's heart feeds on the sight of you!" "I want you to know something of the circumstances that have made me a prisoner in life instead of a free man." "Yours is the most undaunted heart in all the world!" These sentences Waitstill rehearsed again and again and they rang in her ears like music, converting all the tasks of her long day into a deep and silent joy.

VIEW SCENE OF FATAL ACCIDENT

Autoists Observe Spot Where Three Were Killed.

WEST HUDSON AROUSED.

Crossing Has Been Scene of Several Fatalities and of Numerous Narrow Escapes—Efforts Were Made Without Avail to Get Erie to Erect Gates and Keep Watchman There.

Kearny, N. J., May 4.—Hundreds of automobilists motoring over the Belleville turnpike, a highway which connects all of northern New Jersey with Jersey City, stopped at the crossing of the Greenwood branch of the Erie railroad to look at the ruins of a burned automobile lying at the side of the road and to observe the spot where three persons lost their lives on Saturday night.

Officials and citizens of West Hudson have been thoroughly aroused by the accident. The crossing has been the scene of several fatalities and of numerous narrow escapes. Efforts have been made without avail to get the Erie railroad to erect gates and to keep a watchman at the crossing. Officials here declare that they will now ask the public utilities commission to force the railroad to protect the public from the crossing.

John J. Walsh, the Jersey City lawyer, whose wife was burned to death under the overturned automobile with Samuel S. Willis, the owner of the car, and Walter Willis, his eighteen-year-old son, made desperate efforts to free his companions while the fire blazed high from the machine and the victims moaned as they were slowly roasted. Walsh and Mrs. Willis had been hurled clear of the car when her husband turned it down the embankment to avoid a collision with a train as they were returning to Jersey City about 10 o'clock Saturday night.

When Walsh finally had helped to drag the burned bodies from beneath the car several of his friends from Jersey City placed him in a taxicab and started home. He collapsed, and they took him to the home of Dr. A. A Mulligan in Harrison. The doctor examined Walsh and found that several of his ribs had been broken when he was thrown from the machine.

CLEARING HOUSE IN ORANGES

Banks In Future Will Have Their Own Organization.

Orange, N. J., May 4.—By an arrangement agreed upon by the leading banks of the Oranges they are to have their own clearing house, the Orange National bank acting in that capacity. The arrangement will go into effect on June 1. All the banks in the agreement will practically eliminate their New York correspondents, the Orange National acting alone in that capacity.

The banks in the agreement besides the Orange National are the Second National of Orange, the Mutual Trust company, also of that city; the People's bank, the East Orange bank and the Essex County Trust company of East Orange and the First National bank of West Orange.

SON IN MEXICO, MOTHER DIES

Participated In Capture of Vera Cruz. Rejoiced at Child's Patriotism.

Hackensack, N. J., May 4.—Robert Lumis, one of the American hero marines who participated in the capture of Vera Cruz, has sad news awaiting him, for his mother, Mrs. Kate L. Lumis, who died at her home in Bogota on Friday, was buried.

Rev. Dr. C. R. Kuebler in his sermon said, "A week ago this fond mother rejoiced because her son had been given an opportunity to display his patriotism, and she was happy because a recent letter stated that Robert was to come direct home to his mother on June 1 when his enlistment ended." Mrs. Lumis died of pneumonia after a week's illness.

HOUSEMAIDS TO GO TO SCHOOL

Montclair Has New Plan to End Servant Problem There.

Montclair, N. J., May 4.—If the plans of the Housewives' league of Montclair mature that organization, co-operating with Superintendent Don C. Bliss of the public schools, will effect an improvement in the quality of household help in this village.

Superintendent Bliss has informed the league that in connection with the domestic science course now in progress at the central school for the housewives of the village he will have a class for housemaids. Members of the class will be taught scientific household management, domestic hygiene and the economic use of foodstuffs.

CONDENSED STATE NOTES.

Mrs. Grace Deer of Preston street, Ridgefield Park, has been granted an absolute divorce from Henry M. Deer.

Measles and diphtheria in the homes in Nutley of ten high school students caused the junior class to postpone its play which had been scheduled for this week.

After making the trip by automobile with his wife from Delaware, O., where he had filled a pastorate, the Rev. Edmund Melville Wylie assumed charge of the Central Presbyterian church of Montclair, preaching at both services.

GOLDEN JUBILEE OF DEAN SMYTH

PLANS BEING MADE

Former Pastor of St. Mary's Church, Plainfield, to Receive a Purse of Gold—Father Bogan to Have Part in Program.

The parishoners of St. Joseph's church, Jersey City, will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of Very Rev. Dean P. E. Smyth's admission to the priesthood on May 17.

The venerable rector has been in charge of St. Joseph's since 1902, after eighteen years of service in St. Mary's church, this city. What he did for this church he nas duplicated for Jersey City, and his golden jubilee is to be made one of the most auspicious affairs ever neld in St. Joseph's church.

Dean Smyth was born in 1841 in Ballyjamesduff, County Cavan, Ireland. He attended the Latin School of this place, entered St. Partick's College at Cavan and having completed his course here went to the institution beloved by all Irish priests, Maynooth. His kindly disposition, even at this age, endeared him to the students of this far-famed college, where he had a fellow-competitor for college honors and student popularity, the present Cardinal Logue, of Armagh. After five years he was ordained to the sacred priesthood. His priestly ministrations were first exercised in the Cathedral at Cavan, where he spent seven years, being at that time administrator of that church. He then came to America and was kindly received by Bishop Bailey and given a curacy in Phillipsburg, with the Rev. Cornelius Reilly. In a short time he was sent to build a church at Little Washington, where Father Smyth found it hard to make any progress. His zeal exerted him to go collecting through all New Jersey to obtain funds to liquidate the debt of his church. He met with success owing to his kindly and holy disposition.

Later he became pastor at Madison where he had jurisdiction over all the surrounding country as far as Summit. At the present time there are five churches in this neighborhood.

He was soon called by his bishop to take charge of St. Bridget's church, Jersey City, where he remained for seven years. His health being threatened he found it necessary to relinquish his duties there and take an extended trip abroad to recuperate his wasting strength.

After a sojourn of some months abroad, Father Smyth returned and his bishop sent him to take charge of St. Mary's church, this city, succeeding Father Morris. This was in 1883. Under his leadership the church advanced rapidly, in a few years becoming one of the most influential in the Newark diocese. The present parochial school on West Sixth street was built through his efforts, the original convent house and the Young Men's Catholic Lyceum were also brought about by his work. In 1901 he succeeded in clearing the last dollar of debt from the handsome church edifice and it was consecrated in the fall of that year. It was shortly afterward that Father Smyth was transferred to Jersey City.

What Dean Smyth has accomplished in St. Joseph's church is worthy of recording. The church has been redecorated, a magnificent school built and splendidly equipped, the attendance at the school greatly increased, a convent enlarged and beautified, a hall reconstructed and decorated. In addition to these improvements the debt has been reduced to $25,000. But greater than all this, he has added a monument more lasting than brass in the virtue that he has inculcated into his parishoners, in the good example he has set to the thousands of children who have passed through his hands, all of whom look up to him as a kindly father and a holy exemplar. They feel that in him they have a real old "Soggarth Aroon," to whom they can go for correct and kindly advice and from whom they can seek instruction ripened by a long experience.

His administration in St. Joseph's church has been blessed with a great many graces from God and also with a kindly attachment on the part of his parishoners towards him, fruits that every good priest really values.

It has been his desire that no acclaim should accompany the celebration of his fiftieth anniversary. As far as it is known there has been only one priest in Jersey City who has attained the golden anniversary of his priesthood. This event was not at all—or at least very quietly—celebrated. The parishoners of St. Joseph's church do not wish that it

ANOTHER EFFORT TO WIDEN STREET

NAME COMMISSIONERS

New Plumbing Ordinance Introduced—A.H. Atterbury Complains About Operation of Auto Buses West in Seventh Street.

The Common Council being unable to agree with the affected property owners in the matter of widening Madison avenue, steps were taken by that body last night to bring about the improvement through the appointment of commissioners to treat with the owners. Councilman Francis J. Blatz's resolution that Arthur E. Smith, A. H. Atterbury and J. Fred MacDonald be named as such commissioners, was adopted, and Monday night, May 25, was fixed as the time when they will meet with property owners. This is another one of a series of attempts to widen Madison avenue.

An ordinance introduced by Councilman Blatz, last night, and read once for information, provides for more strict regulations in the matter of making sewer connections to houses. The ordinance was drafted at the request of the plumbers and sets forth in detail just how the connection shall be made, the same to be under the supervision of the plumbing inspector of the Board of Health. The ordinance as originally drafted permitted only plumbers to do this work, but it was changed last night to include contractors, as well. For violations of the ordinance there is attached a penalty of $20 or ten days. The ordinance will come up again at a future meeting.

Albert H. Atterbury, of West Seventh street, in a communication to the Council, again complained about the automobile buses which are allowed to use West Seventh street. He set forth that such traffic through that street is not necessary and if the buses are to run about the city they should be licensed. The matter was referred to the committee on public affairs.

In this connection, Mayor Percy H. Stewart called the attention of the Council to the complaints he had received concerning the operation of buses about the city. He thought that steps should be taken to adjust the matter in a satisfactory manner. He said that he had been informed that the owners of the buses had stated that they could run their buses through any streets of the city and no license was required. If this was so, the Mayor was of the opinion that the legal point should be settled and that the city should have some control over the operation of these heavy motor vehicles.

MUSICAL CLUB'S ANNUAL MEETING

Mrs. Leighton Calkins Chosen President of Local Organization.

Officers were elected and some changes made in the constitution at the annual meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club, held at the Hartridge Auditorium, yesterday afternoon. The principal change in the constitution provides that hereafter the annual meeting shall be held the first Monday in February instead of May. This is done to allow the chairman of department committees sufficient time to make up their programs for the year.

There was a brief discussion of the past year's work, it being the opinion of the members that it had been one of the most successful in the club's history. Mrs. Orton G. Dale, as president; Mrs. M. B. Mellor as recording secretary and Mrs. J. E. Kimball as corresponding secretary, hold over another year. The new officers chosen are as follows: Vice-presidents, Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mrs. Edward G. Read and Mrs. Eugene H. Hatch; treasurer, Mrs. F. W. Cornwell.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING.

The Bryant-Lincoln Parent-Teacher Association will meet at Bryant School tomorrow afternoon at 3:15. At 4:00 o'clock Dr. Harold D. Corbusier will address the meeting on "The Defects of the Framework of the Body in the School Children." A large attendance of the membership is desired.

—Neuman Brothers are receiving each day new lines of fresh fruits and vegetables, which are offered at their Watchung avenue market.—Adv. ***

JUSTICE BERGEN DISMISSES STAY

CITY TO SELL BONDS

Owing to Importance of Matter Court Promises Early Decision—Arguments of Lawyers Chiefly on Technical Points.

Justice James J. Bergen, sitting at Eliabeth, this morning, heard arguments on the application of the Borough of Middlesex for a continuance of the stay against the City of Plainfield and other municipalities in the matter of building a trunk sewer, on a rule to show cause why the acts of Plainfield should not be reviewed as to the sale of bonds. The stay was dismissed by the court, but counsel on both sides were ordered to file briefs within three days. Justice Bergen promised an early decision realizing the importance of the matter.

The court while giving the affected municipalities the right to go ahead, added that if they did they must do so at their own risk. Plainfield will doubtless plan to sell its $30,000 sewer bonds tomorrow night as arranged. If Justice Bergen grants a certiorari, it would be an easy matter to take the money from the sale to pay off the bonds, but it is not believed that this will be necessary.

The hearing this morning was on an application made by William A. Coddington for a writ of certiorari to carry the act under which the sewer is to be constructed to the Supreme Court, to test its constitutionality. Judge Coddington has associated with him in the case Prosecutor George S. Silzer, and each spent half an hour arguing for their side. Lindabury, Depue & Faulks, who represent the Joint Sewer Commission, had Mr. Ashmead of their office in court, and he spent an hour summing up for his side. Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed was an interested spectator at the proceedings.

It sems to be the opinion that Justice Bergen will not grant the certiorari asked for, thus upsetting the action of the State Board of Health which has already approved the plans for the joint trunk sewer project.

SIRENO COMPANY'S OFFER IS REFUSED

Somerville Council Declines to Settle Bill for One Hundred Dollars.

Somerville, May 5.—Representatives of the Sireno Company, which placed one of its blowing machines on the fire house as a fire alarm, appeared before the Borough Council, last night, and endeavored to get a settlement for $100. The offer was refused, but the Council informed the representatives that it would take the machine down and ship it back to the company. A suit for $400 brought against the borough by the company some time ago, has since been dropped.

The Second National Bank, upon request of counsel, Judge D. H. Beekman, was allowed to encroach three feet and eight inches on the building line on Main street, to meet requirement of plans for its new building.

Residents of Division street complained about the rule of placing garbage cans on the street, and the street superintendent agreed to remove them one hour after they were placed there. The Council accepted the invitation to attend the town exhibit at Westfield on May 12. Additional street lights were ordered on East Cliff street and Coddington place. The Mayor and clerk were authorized to arrange to have the borough's employes insured against accident. Through an ordinance the Council decided to accept Vanderveer avenue. No less than six ordinances are in process of passage in response to petitions for new sidewalks. The bills for the current month amounting to $2,600, were ordered paid.

LOCAL LAWYER WILL REPRESENT CONNORS

William Newcorn Engaged as Counsel for Alleged Jewelry Thief.

Pending further examination on the part of those interested in the Ackerman robbery case and various other similar burglaries that have been committed in various parts of the State recently, Charles, alias "Ice Wagon" Connors is being held a prisoner in the local police headquarters and will probably be turned over to the Union county jail authorities at Elizabeth late this afternoon or tomorrow morning. William N. Newcorn, it was announced this morning, has been engaged as counsel by Connors and his friends, who are working in his behalf in an effort to free the alleged second-story man.

The Union county authorities anticipate a strenuous fight on the part of Connors when his trial come in Elizabeth on indictments found against him in the Ackerman case. A former magistrate from New York city visited Plainfield yesterday to arrange certain details in Connors' behalf and while here engaged the local lawyer to represent the prisoner.

Seated in a cell at police headquarters Connors has little to say and has conversed with only a few of the many attendants who have visited him. Queried yesterday afternoon concerning his early life he would only comment briefly on his varied career, telling among other things how he came to be called "Ice wagon." When a boy in the "Windy City" he and a group of companions were drilled on the city streets under the direction of an army officer who put them through the numerous war manouvres.

Connors had a tendency to get out of line because of his awkward stride, which is still noticeable today, and becoming exasperated the leader finally dubbed him "Ice Wagon." The nick-name was soon picked up by juvenile Chicagoans and this became the name by which he was formally recognized. The handle clung to him throughout his teens and he is still known by it today. He is now thirty-two years of age.

PARENTS AWAIT WORD FROM SON ON U. S. BATTLESHIP

Among the many Plainfield youths on board various battleships and cruisers bearing the American flag in the scene of turmoil on the Mexican border is John Goff, the nineteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Goff, of 203 Grant avenue. The local young man enlisted in the United States navy in October, sailing from New York on board the North Dakota.

He has not been heard from since the outbreak of the trouble in Mexico and his parents in this city are anxiously awaiting any word that he may have sent since being ordered to Mexico by the government authorities.

AMERICANS ARE AGAIN IN PERIL

Mexicans Have Again Placed Ban on Their Peaceful Departure.

SITUATION IS TANGLED

A. B. C. Mediators Affect Cheerfulness, But It Is Feared That Carranza's Attitude May Cause Trouble.

Washington, May 5—Americans are again being prevented from leaving Mexico. Word to this effect was received at the Navy Department in a despatch from Rear Admiral Howard in command of the Pacific fleet. American ships are prevented from leaving or entering any port of the State of Vera Cruz, the coast line of which is several hundred miles long and includes many ports, notably Tuxpan. The collector of customs at this port has admitted the receipt of strict orders to this effect.

With a basis of negotiations shifted over night through the elimination of the Constitutionalists from the mediation program the envoys of Brazil, Argentina and Chile began a series of important conferences today. The mediators affected cheerfulness but their optimism appear forced and was reflected in the State Department. The situation today looked to be more hopelessly tangled than ever. It is feared in some quarters that the abrupt anouncement eliminating General Carranza from the peace parties will result in drawing Mexicans closer together and may even lead the Constitutionalists first chief to join hands with his ancient enemy in opposing American invasion if such becomes necessary. It is intimated too, that Carranza drew the mediators into the present situation by adroitly appearing to favor mediation, while taking advantage of the lull to press his military campaign. Now that this is well advanced he believes that he can throw off the mask and dictate terms.

The military situation at Vera Cruz is giving the War Department great concern, although it will not acknowledge that it has any doubt of Gen. Funston's complete ability to handle the situation. It has been reported, however, that constantly increasing numbers of Mexican Federal troops are slowly closing in on the Mexican port. Denial was made that a second demand had been filed by the Federals for the surrender of the water works at Tejar. The situation, said Secretary Garrison today was quiet, and there was no cause for alarm. The Secretary, however, is reported to have had a pointed request from Gen. Funston for more liberalized orders. In the case of an artillery attack on the water works an advance would be imperative and under the existing orders to the American troops this would be virtually impossible.

Emphatic denial was also made to persistent reports that Tampico was to be occupied by a landing party from the fleet, under Rear Admiral Mayo. The report had it that the administration had determined on the occupation of the port to prevent the reptition of the Antilla affair, which might complicate the existing delicate situation and embroil the United States with other nations.

New York, May 5—Bolstered up by a despatch from Vera Cruz, there was a strong rumor this morning that Gen. Felix Diaz was on his way to Vera Cruz, believing that the time was ripe for him to make his appearance in the country over which his uncle was for many years dictator.

William H. Ellis, a broker, of 25 Pine street, who is a close friend of Gen. Diaz and who was in constant communication with him while the Mexican leader was in this city, said today:

"Gen. Diaz is not on his way to Vera Cruz. He is not in New York at present, although I am not free to tell you where he is."

In response to questions Mr. Ellis would not say whether or not Vera Cruz would be the port through which Gen. Diaz would enter Mexico; nor whether he would return soon; nor whether Diaz was making preparations to return to Mexica; nor whether or not there was any special significance i the absence of Gen. Diaz from New York at this time.

Vera Cruz, May 5—Military experts estimate that it would be necessary for the United States to send 95,000 men into Mexico to successfully occupy Huerta's territory. This estimate declares that General Funston would require 25,000 men to take the capitol; more than 10,000 more would be necessary to protect the railroads in the rear of the advancing column, and to hold territory occupied , 30,000 would be required at once and 30,000 more six months

The Sum of $117,000 to be Raised for General City Purposes—Schools, County and State Yet to be Heard From.

The annual tax budget for the coming year was introduced at the May meeting of the Common Council, last night, adopted on two readings and ordered advertised. ## Watchung.

The Watchung Chemical Engine Company had another forest fire to combat with yesterday afternoon. The fire, which raged for over four hours, was ignited, perhaps, by some careless wanderer and started in the rear of Wilson's crusher. In an incredible short time the fire swept over the entire mountain slope. A house belonging to Seraphino Triano was burned to the ground and the handsome bungalow of Richard J. Fell was again threatened. Practically two hundred acres of woodland was burned over and at a late hour the firemen were able to extinguish the fire.

A large party of Watchungites attended the Robbins' circus for the benefit of the Plainfield Open-Air School. Charles Nash, of Valley road, was among the Plainfield clowns.

The concrete base of the addition to the Lincoln school has been completed and the forces of Firman H. Gise commenced laying the brick for the walls of that addition yesterday.

Contractor Charles Wrage is inclined toward the opinion that the fire which started very mysteriously in a clothes closet in the kitchen of his residence on Walnut street, about nine o'clock yesterday morning, while he was busily engaged in making a new screen door in his back yard and his wife was making Mrs. Siedentop a short morning call next door, was started by some matches which he had in a coat that was hanging in the closet. Mr. Wrage is congratulating himself that his wife did not prolong her short morning call another minute as it was she who discovered the fire upon her return. He said that if the fire had another minute of leeway his home would have been doomed. Among the articles of clothing destroyed by the fire was a new raincoat of Mr. Wrages and a coat containing some very important papers. The members of Defender Fire Company No. 1, now consider Mr. Wrage, who recently joined that company, a full fledged member by reason of his first baptism with fire and water.

Ex-Mayor William Wyckoff and a stranger from out of town, had a bad collision on their bicycles in front of the pharmacy of Edward Pennock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Wyckoff had just been in the postoffice and as he jumped on his wheel to cycle in an easterly direction along North avenue on his way home, his view along that avenue was partially obstructed by a wagon standing in front of Jack's pool parlors. It was just after Mr. Wyckoff rounded this wagon that the bicyclists came together head-on. They were both thrown off of their wheels on to the macadam and received bad shaking ups. After recovering their equilibrium they were both, however, able to proceed on their respective way without receiving medical attention.

A decision affirming the decree of the Court of Chancery which dismissed the suit brought by the Grand Court of New Jersey, of the Foresters of America, against Court Cavour, of Newark, has been handed down by the Court of Errors and Appeals. The action was brought to get possession of the funds and the property of the Newark Court, upon the ground that it had been dissolved and under the constitution and by-laws of the order, the title to the money and property vested in the complainant. It was shown in the Court of Chancery that Court Cavour was duly incorporated, and the Court held that it could not have been dissolved even though its relation to the Grand Court might have been severed. The suit was, therefore, dismissed, and this decision is now upheld by the Errors Court.

GIMBEL BROTHERS Announce A Sale of MEN'S SUMMER APPAREL

Out for a New Record!

In closing out the NEWELL stocks last year, we established what was probably a high record for volume of distribution in Men's Furnishings.

Successful merchandising requires that such records be made only to be surpassed next time.

To beat last year's extraordinary figures required extraordinary preparation this year. This has been successfully accomplished through the heartiest sort of co-operation between manufacturers and ourselves.

Not only have we excelled the high character and desirability of much of the NEWELL merchandise in tomorrow's offerings, but the economies are in many cases even greater than those of that Sale.

Everything is new, desirable, up-to-the-minute—a great deal of it made up specially to our order. Lots are in many cases limited.

The Sale will continue all this week, and into next—but BEING EARLY is the safest way to secure the pick of the goods.

GIMBEL BROTHERS
BROADWAY — NEW YORK — 33rd STREET

CITY IS FREE OF MOSQUITOES

Season Opens With Fewer Ponds and Swamps Than Last Year.

INSPECTORS ACTIVE

Union County should be the freest of mosquitoes this year of any time in its history from the present outlook, is the opinion of the men connected with the Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission. The Meadows, which last year at this time were in a very flooded condition, are now so dry that they can be walked over in ordinary street shoes, and this is due in a large measure to the drying out of the meadows from the ditching which has been placed there in previous years by the New Jersey State Experiment Station and the Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission.

There will be practically no salt marsh mosquitoes hatched out this year to trouble the people of the county. The first brood which is generally due within a week from now is entirely absent, and unless the high tides of May flood the meadows for an exceptional period the second brood will be as small as the first. For the past month and a half, the County Mosquito Extermination Commission has had about 30 men on the meadows cleaning nearly three-quarter of a million feet of ditching on the salt marsh. This work is being pushed rapidly, and as a result what were formerly bad breeding spots on the meadows are now placed beyond the power of producing even a single wriggler.

Another aid to the work has been the co-operation of both Essex County to the north and Middlesex County to the south, whose Commissions have been very active, not only in putting their share of the salt marsh which stretches along the New Jersey coast in a mosquito proof condition, but in taking care of inland breeding places along the boundary line. The Middlesex County Mosquito Extermination Commission is now working in conjunction with the Piscataway Township Board of Health in draining the Guina Egg Ponds at the Plainfield-Dunellen line, and in cleaning out the brook for over a mile leading from the ponds to Dunellen. This brook was grown up with grass during the past season and produced several broods of malarial mosquitoes.

Plainfield is going to be freer from the house mosquito, the kind that troubles indoors at night, than last summer, which was notable for its absence of these pests. Inspector Frank Putnam has already inspected every yard in Plainfield and finds that the people are co-operating very heartily in abolishing such stagnant water breeding places as rain barrels, tubs, cisterns, pails, cans, open cesspools, etc., or in properly covering the same so that no mosquitoes can lay their eggs on the surface of the stagnant water.

This inspection work will be kept up during the summer and all premises will be regularly inspected so that there is the least possible chance of any of these backyard breeding places producing mosquitoes this summer. The Plainfield Board of Health, through its health officer, N. J. Randolph Chandler, is also aiding the work of the Commission by having all the dumps in the city properly graded off before warm weather commences, so that there will be no pools of filthy water around the edges of these dumping grounds to send out brood after brood of mosquitoes this summer. Two of the dumps which cannot be permanently finished before warm weather commences, will be kept open and the marshy ground which is being filled in, will be watched carefully and oiled as often as necessary while this dumping is going on.

Several low spots throughout the city of Plainfield have been filled in in this manner during the past winter, and a number of breeding spots materially reduced in this way. Several prominent land owners in this city and Fanwood are aiding the work of the Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission in a substantial manner, by having their premises freed of any stagnant water, either actual breeding places of mosquitoes, or places that are likely to be. The Commission is working at present on the extensive property of former Senator Ackerman in Fanwood, draining eight ponds on the south side of Westfield road. This work is being done under contract for which the owner is paying for the largest share of this work. Several swamps in the vicinity of Morse avenue in Fanwood have just been drained. The Baylis property along West Front street in this city, has been ditched out and considerable stagnant water drained into Green Brook.

Plainfield opens its summer season with far fewer ponds and swamps than last year, due to the activity of the County Mosquito Extermination Commission and the co-operation of the people of Plainfield. Mosquito extermination work is now looked on as a good business proposition and is worth far more than the small amount expended from the economic standpoint alone, to say nothing of the increased freedom from disease which is carried by mosquitoes, and the incalculable increase of summer comfort. The efficiency of mosquito reduction work will be greatly increased by more property-holders putting their premises in a good condition. Eliminate all stagnant water! No stagnant water, no mosquitoes, should be the slogan to everyone, and Plainfield will enjoy the most comfortable summer it has ever put in.

CONNER'S RETURN.

Chief of Police Kiely is receiving congratulations on all sides upon the successful termination of his trip to Chicago to bring back "Ice Wagon" Conners, the man who is alleged to have robbed the residence of former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman. Conners has several times escaped conviction by various methods, and is said to be notorious as a bail jumper. That some one has known of his whereabouts since the Ackerman robbery was proven beyond a doubt by the fact that the jewels, or part of them, were returned to the insurance company, but the manner in which they were returned would lead to the belief that the company was more anxious to avoid paying the insurance money than they were to apprehend the thief.

Chief Kiely went quietly to work on the matter and he waited until Conners got out of New York state, before he said much about the case. Then he circularized the country and in Chicago the man was soon picked up, none of that mysterious "something" which protected him in New York being in evidence in the western city.

The Plainfield police force has frequently been commended in these columns as an unusually efficient one for the number of men employed, and the success of the local officers in apprehending Conners is another evidence that the city has nothing to be ashamed of in that branch of the service.

NEW USE FOR BASEBALL.

It is practically assured that two all-star baseball teams picked from the cream of the major leagues will tour Central and South America next year, playing in Cuba, Panama, down the east coast of South America and back on the west coast and winding up at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, the tour in many respects being similar to the world tour of the Giants and White Sox during the past winter.

Aside from all else, here is a plan to effectively back up the Monroe Doctrine and, which the Monroe Doctrine does not do by itself, pave the way for a greater interchange of business between the two American continents. While sport fans will welcome the incursion into the rich and growing countries to our south, business everywhere and the government at Washington must realize the value of the trip of the players.

There is a friendlier feeling throughout the belt of the world traversed last winter by the Giants and Sox. Perhaps nothing in the century has so welded Great Britain and the United States together in peace as the game played in London before King George and the multitude of cheering Britishers. The best of it is that the South American trip of the players will yield without doubt even greater results for good. It will encourage and enervate the friendship between the three Americas; it will open the pathway to American consumption of American goods and it will go farther than battleships to back up the Monroe Doctrine.

Wherever the national American sport invades, its occupation is a friendly and congenial one. Where nations gather together in recreation the spirit of rivalry is really a spirit of co-operation. Send Matty and Baker and Johnson and Speaker and Wagner to South America and they will be remembered as long as Roosevelt and other American emissaries of peace and longer than the nobles of Europe sent there to direct commerce to European ports.

Snap judgment in the impeaching of the Governor of Colorado is contrary to every principle of American fair play. Mr. Ammons may have done wrong in the way in which he handled troops in the mine strike in that state, but on the other hand he may have been a very much misrepresented individual. The Legislators in a matter as serious as this one, should take plenty of time and carefully consider the charges to be made before beginning action. In the Sulzer case in New York the Tammany people laid out their plan of campaign very carefully before they intimated that they intended to impeach Governor Sulzer, and when the work was started it was with the assurance that it was going to be successful. If Governor Ammons has been indiscreet in his handling of the strike matter, it does not necessarily follow that he has violated his oath of office, and no man can be impeached if he has done his duty, no matter whether the performance of that duty is popular or not.

The financial success of the circus given yesterday for the benefit of the Open Air School shows that the people of Plainfield can always be depended upon to support worthy local institutions which are doing good for the welfare of the people of the city as a whole. Nearly eight hundred dollars was derived to continue this excellent work.

THE FORUM.

Editor of the Daily Press:—"Heaven will protect the Woi-King Goil" sang May Irwin, while the theatre rang with applause and encores. The American public is very sympathetic and bedews its cambric handkerchiefs and audibly sobs as the shop-girl faints behind her counter in the hot, stuffy store, at the "Movies."

Which is really an emotional expression of the warm sympathy and love of liberty that beats in the great majority of American hearts, when not hindered by greed or thoughtless indifference and heedlessness.

The civic committee of the Plainfield College Club that is at present engaged in striving to secure a Saturday half-holiday during August for the toilers in stores and shops, is deserving of every commendation and encouragement from the human residents of this Queen City.

And, at the request of citizens who are interested in this movement, I crave space in your widely read columns for a word of appeal to the public sentiment in this municipality, to which end every worthy cause deems itself fortunate in securing the co-operation of the local press.

The month of August has been chosen because the minimum of trade is then transacted.

As an experiment there can be but little loss to the store and shop-keepers at that season, and those interested feel confident that the issue will prove that not only will the employes gain tremendously in recuperation of fagged and exhausted energies, but that a net profit will accrue to the employers in the renewed efficiency of their service power.

It is an undisputed axiom that the longer the consecutive period of rest and recuperaion, the more pronounced and prolonged will be its effect; therefore, if the labor period ends at noon on Saturday and is not resumed until Monday morning these forty-four recess-hours will result in approximately double the benefit that can be secured from the twenty recess-hours obtainable from a half-holiday on any other week day.

The most attractive baseball games are played on Saturday afternoons and the arrangement petitioned for, would obviate the brain-fag attendant, in the case of employers of small boys, or keeping score of the probabilities concerning the periodical demise of distant relatives.

With all stores closed, entire families could go on extended outings and visits, thus cementing the bond of that primary American institution—the family; or all the members, fresh and unjaded, might even unite in filling the family pew in church, which in August frequently remains empty under existing conditions.

It is true that an almost universal habit of Saturday shopping prevails, and that this is fostered by the prevalent custom of distributing pay envelopes on Saturday noon, but this could readily be obviated, for the month of August at least, by the general adoption of the method already prevailing in a majority of the Plainfield factories, for reasons of their own convenience, of paying on a day other than Saturday, which has the added argument in its favor that workmen paid off in the week, bring their earnings home to their wives and families in preference to spending them in the dram-shop, as is apt to be done on a Saturday afternoon.

So far as the farmers are concerned, they come to town on Saturday mornings, and can and do purchase then, so that they may be free to take their families to the moving picture shows in the afternoon and evening, and, of course, at that time of year, their farms are furnishing most of the produce for their own consumption, as well as for market—so that their purchases would be confined to the department stores, and could be readily accomplished in the morning.

In conclusion, we present a very strong argument in calling attention to the fact that at the People's Forum, a majority of the merchants put themselves on record as favoring the scheme.

On this brief, therefore, and in the name of humanity may I urge upon the people of Plainfield this cause? asking them to express in those varied ways so well known to public opinion the impetus of their co-operation, and especially requesting all who have opportunity to do so, to become signatories of the petition now being circulated.

The granting of its prayer would be but a tentative trial of what appears upon its face to be a humanitarian action, and even should the issue prove the fallacy of the appearance, the great cause of human charity would have gained by the effort, and the experiment need not be repeated.

Very truly yours,
WARREN E. L. WARD.

SEWER BOND SALE DEFERRED

Pending Decision in Court Case to Review Action of Common Council

FIVE BIDS ARE RECEIVED

Resolutions Providing for Appropriations Are Adopted—Public Service Corporation Promises New Cars on Fourth Street Line.

It was the intention of the Common Council at its May session, last night, to receive and open bids for the sale of the $30,000 sewer bonds, but upon advice of special counsel, Lindabury, Depue & Faluks, the matter was laid over until tomorrow night, in view of the fact that W. A. Coddington, representing the Borough of Middlesex, had secured a rule, which was returnable today, to show cause why the acts of the Council in selling the bonds should not be reviewed. On motion of Councilman Leighton Calkins, chairman of the finance committee it was voted to defer action on the bonds until tomorrow night, when the Joint Sewage Commission will also have a meeting. Five bids were received last night, for the bonds but they were not opened.

The monthly report of Horace G. Adams, clerk of the District court showed receipts of $181.55 and expenditures of $49.55. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported the granting of 32 permits during April, and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett reported the granting of fifteen sewer permits during the past two months.

Mr. Calkins explained, in offering a resolution which authorized the appropriation of $3,500 for Muhlenberg Hospital for the care of indigent patients that charges of $1 a day is made for ordinary cases; $2 a day for those in the contagious disease ward and $2 a day for those using the maternity ward. Another resolution offered by Mr. Calkins and adopted, provided for an appropriation of $500 for the police pension fund, to cover the retirement of Police Captain Christian Frederickson on June 1, his resignation being accepted to take effect at that time. He will retire on half pay.

Mr. Calkins offered a number of resolutions, which were adopted, providing for several appropriations in connection with the adoption of the annual tax budget. They are all included in the budget. The sum of $2,000 was transferred from the general to the fire fund, and the New York Telephone Company was authorized to install an extension to the telephone in Mayor Stewart's office, for the benefit of Tax Collector W. R. Townsend at an additional expense of $6 a year.

Mr. Calkins returned a number of petitions for appropriations and increased amounts, expressing his regrets that the finance committee could not grant all the requests.

Resolutions by Councilman Francis J. Blatz and adopted, authorized the street committee to purchase asphalt from the Barber Asphalt Paving Company, as needed, and to make a contract with John E. Keeley for cleaning the brick pavement and sprinkling streets for a sum not to exceed $400. Another resolution by the same member authorized the laying of sidewalks where property-owners have failed to comply with the ordinance, and an ordinance providing for an extension of the sanitary sewer system was adopted on third readng.

Councilman R. A. Claybrook informed the Council that he had been informed by the Public Service Corporation that it intended soon to place open cars on Fourth street, and in the fall would put larger cars on that line.

Councilman T. F. Hylan recommended the installation of several new lights and the changing of others in response to a request from the West End Civic Association. The new lights are to be located in the West End; also on East Front street, between Jackson and Netherwood avenues, and one on Netherwood avenue near the brook.

Mr. Calkins called up on second reading the supplement to the ordinance to license inns and taverns, which fixes the number of licensed places according to the population and it was adopted and ordered advertised.

Upon motion of Councilman Blatz public hearings were granted on ordinances to open up Spooner avenue, East Fourth street and establish the side lines on Park avenue, between the railroad bridge and Fifth street. All the matters pertaining to the retirement of Police Captain Christian Frederickson were referred to the finance committee and will be acted upon at the proper time.

George M. Clarke, in a communication, sought to sell the city insurance covering the city's employes, but Mr. Calkins stated that the matter had been attended to already.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 52 degrees; 11 a. m., 57 degrees; 1 p. m., 60 degrees.

REV. DR. PIERCE WILL ADDRESS C. E. CONVENTION

The Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce, of this city, will address the annual convention of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union, to be held next Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Second Presbyterian church of Elizabeth. A junior rally will be held at 4 p. m.

The veteran badge banner which for many years has been awarded to the society whose percentage attendance at the evening session of the convention is highest, has become worn and useless, and the executive committee of the union has therefore furnished two new pennants—one for the juniors of the county and the other for the young people.

Dr. Pierce, the speaker of the evening, is a man of much fame in church circles. His well-known crayon talks, depicting in a remarkable way truths that he wishes to press home to the thought of his audience, always attract people. Dr. Pierce is now in Richmond, Va., where he is conducting revival services. He expects to return to New York on Friday next, and will come to Elizabeth for the county rally.

There will be a report of the year's work. Walter O. Anderson will preside and make a brief statement as to his work as president during the year, and Willard C. Forman, the secretary, will submit his report. There will be special music. The public is very cordially invited to be present.

Passaic, May 5.—The Passaic Fire Department was near destruction by fire early today while the 29 or more paid firemen of the city were peacefully asleep on the second floor of the municipal building. Edward Kiefit, a former councilman discovered the blaze while on his way home. He rushed into police headquarters, woke up the policemen and then went to fire headquarters and awakened the firemen. By the time the flames were spent the automobile used by Inspector of Weights and Measures Peter B. Gallagher, was partially destroyed. The blaze originated under the police department garage, which adjoins the fire department.

MT. ZION A. M. E. CHURCH HAD A SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The official board and the board of trustees of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church met last night and completed the business of the church for the conference year. Resolutions were passed thanking the local papers for the publicity given to the various activities of the church. The past year has been a prosperous year for this church. Five conversions and twenty-two accessions to full membership of the church were noted in the report of the pastor, Rev. William Hicks. The financial reports of the church indicate that over $3,000 was raised for various sources. Of this amount, $200 was used for conference benevolence and $800 for defraying the mortgage indebtedness.

Several improvements have been made to the church property and buildings, at a cost of over $100. Disbursements for charitable purposes amounted to $31.95. The institutional work of the organization is being carried on by auxiliaries and clubs. The church membership of the church now numbers 170. Rev. Mr. Hicks will attend the conference of the denomination to be held at Asbury Park.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH HAS A RED-LETTER DAY

It was a red-letter day at the First Baptist church, Sunday. In the morning ten received the righthand of fellowship at the communion service which was one of the largest in the history of the church, and perhaps, the largest during the present pastorate, and in the evening ten more were baptized, while still others await the ordinance. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, can always be found at the church Wednesday evenings one-half hour before the regular mid-week service for the purpose of conversation with any who wish to talk with him upon religious or other matters. This new featur has already been productive of great good. At the morning communion service also a formal recognition of the election of Wilbur F. Randolph and Charles Conover as deacons was made and these brethren were given the righthand of fellowship by the pastor. Both Mr. Randolph and Mr Conover are highly esteemed by the church and their election as deacons gives unanimous satisfaction.

The mid-week services of the First Baptist church which under ordinary circumstances are always large have never been better attended or more enthusiastically supported than recently, despite several unfavorable evenings as to weather. The meeting this week promises to be one of unusual interest and helpfulness. Important action was taken Sunday by the Bible school looking to the permanent change of the sessions of the school to 9:45 in the morning. There is a very strong feeling on the part of many that such a change would be of benefit to all the services of the church and its departments.

WILSON SELECTS RESERVE BOARD

Olney Named by President as Its Head.

FOUR OTHERS ARE CHOSEN

They Are P. M. Warburg, A. C. Miller, W. P. G. Harding and H. A. Wheeler. Board Will Control In Large Measure the Finance of the Country.

Washington, May 5.—President Wilson has asked the following to accept membership on the federal reserve board:

Members—Adolph Caspar Miller of Berkeley, Cal., educator and economist, now assistant to the secretary of the interior; Paul M. Warburg of New York, banker, member of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; W. P. G. Harding of Birmingham, Ala., banker, president of the First National bank of that city; Harry A. Wheeler of Chicago, former president of the chamber of commerce of the United States and former president of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Should these five accept the federal reserve board will be composed in addition of the following:

Members Ex Officio—William G. McAdoo of New York, secretary of the treasury and chairman ex officio of the board; John Skelton Williams of Richmond, Va., comptroller of the currency and member ex officio of the board.

A List of Available Men.

A Californian in the house, who admitted he had not been taken into the president's confidence, said that he believed if a banker from his state were picked he would come from the following list:

Frank B. Anderson, president of the Bank of California; Richard M. Welsh, secretary of the California Bankers' association; Herbert Fleishhacker of the London-Paris National bank and I. W. Hellman, Jr.

All of these men are San Franciscans.

A report here which bore out the unofficial statement that the western representative would cause surprise was to the effect that he would not be a banker, but probably a student of economic questions with academic experience.

The tender of the chairmanship of the board to ex-Secretary Olney and the selection of Mr. Warburg as New York's representative were predicted. The question of greatest interest in the president's selections aside from the identity of the western member relates to Mr. Olney's attitude toward the offer. Strong doubt existed in the minds of many persons in the capital that Mr. Olney will accept.

It was pointed out that he refused the ambassadorship to Great Britain last year, giving as his most important reason his advanced age. He is now seventy-eight years old, and although he is vigorous it is difficult to convince some persons familiar with his present attitude toward arduous official duties that he will be willing to undertake the great task of heading the board which is to install the new currency system.

Visited by Colonel House.

Mr. Olney was visited in Boston last week by Colonel E. H. House of Texas, who informed him of the president's desire to name him chairman of the board. He consented to take the proffer under consideration, but his final answer has not yet been sent to the White House.

If Mr. Olney accepts he will represent New England on the board. Mr. Warburg will represent the east, Mr. Harding the south, Mr. Wheeler the middle west, and the fifth member will represent the far west.

The president under the provisions of the Glass-Owen currency law is empowered to select the five members of the board aside from the secretary of the treasury and the comptroller of the currency with due consideration to geographical, financial and commercial requirements. He is specifically forbidden to select more than one member from any one of the twelve reserve districts which have been designated by the organization committee of the reserve board.

The five members of the board named by the president are required to devote their entire time to the business of the reserve system and are allowed an annual salary of $12,000 each. They are debarred from holding any position in any member bank of the reserve system during their incumbency and for two years thereafter.

RAILWAY STRIKE THREATENS

Officials of Boston and Maine to Confer With Engineers and Firemen.

Boston, May 5.—The possibility of a strike of engine drivers and firemen on the Boston & Maine railroad hinged on a conference to be held between officials of the road and a joint committee of the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers and of Firemen and Enginemen. The officials had agreed to announce their final decision as to whether they would grant the demands of the men for a remedying of grievances regarding hours of labor and train runs.

The brotherhood representatives had announced that in case of an adverse decision a strike vote would be ordered at once. The claim of the engineers and firemen was that the company had violated the terms of the working agreement with its employees.

READING ACADEMY TEAM SWAMPED IN GAME WITH FAST N. P. H. S. BASEBALL TOSSERS

Stahl Exhibited Rare Form in Yesterday's Contest.

Hard hitting throughout the game and the excellent pitching of Ernest Stahl, gave the North Plainfield High School baseball team an easy victory over the Reading Academy nine at Flemington, yesterday. The final score was 16 to 7. The game was a swatfest throughout and the local stickers fattened their batting averages at the expense of the opposing slabman. This is the second time the boroughites have defeated this team this season.

Nineteen hits were gathered by the boroughites, three of which were for extra bases. Stahl twirled great ball for the entire nine innings, but his support weakened in the last part and in the eighth the home team scored three times without hitting safe.

VanMater started off by striking out, and Abrams drew a pass. Dunning bunted up the first base line and beat out the throw, Abrams going to second. On an error by the catcher and a single by Dilts, three runs crossed the plate. The home team scored once in the first stanza. Bellis flied out and Wyckoff tripled into deep left field and scored on a passed ball. They were blanked for the next five innings, due to Stahl's headwork and his stonewall support. With two on and none down in the second period, VanMater sent the sphere over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks for three bases, scoring two. He scored on an error, and Abrams was perched on first. Dunning and Townley singled in succession, scoring two more, making a total of five for the inning. The boroughites received a goose egg in the third and scored once in the fourth.

Burner started the lucky fifth with a single while Dilts flied to the catcher. Conroy made his first hit of the game, and the battery, Stahl and Smalley, each cracked out a double. VanMater singled but was caught at second. In the last half of the sixth just three batters faced Stahl and every one went to the bench after taking three clean swings in the air. On three hits and four errors the "Canadians" scored four times in the seventh, which made a total of sixteen runs to their opponents one. In the last part of the seventh Stahl eased up a bit and the home team touched him for two doubles and a single, which mixed with two errors, two passed balls and a stolen base, netted three runs. The eighth was the bad inning for North Plainfield. Giddes singled and Opdycke fanned. Denny now playing shortstop for Dilts, mussed one up and likewise did the same with the next one that went his way. Hawke flied out and on a bad play in right field three runners touched the rubber. In the ninth Smalley's single was the only thing of interest to the boroughites. The game was then ended in a quick manner. Deiney flied to Newkirk, Hearley popped to Burner and Smalley nabbed Giddes' foul fly ending the battle.

Stahl struck out ten men and passed two. VanMater, Townley, Stahl and Dunning each made three hits for the locals, while Hawke, Bellis and Young hit the ball hard for the home team.

TWO PLAYERS INJURED.

Two North Plainfield High School ball players were unlucky in the game with Reading Academy yesterday and received bad cuts from their opponents' spikes. They are Ralph Smalley and Ronnie Conroy. Smalley received a nasty slash in the shin that may keep him out of the game for a short time. When Conroy was sliding to second, the baseman jumped for the ball, and in landing, planted the steel in the runner's knee, causing the blood to flow freely. Both players are now lame and may not play tomorrow.

TWO NEW MARKS SET BY WALDORF PINNERS

Smashing two tournament records the Waldorf team, of the Elks' Bowling tournament, romped away with three in quick succession at the expense of the Laing combination on the Watchung avenue shutes last night, with comfortable margins to spare in each encounter. Thirteen pins separated the rival forces in the first battle and this advantage was raised to twenty points in the mid contest.

The third game was a hair-raiser from all standpoints, Anchor-man Waldorf smashing the individual high score record and incidentally boosting his team's score high enough to pass the high water mark for team scores. Captain Waldorf's new tally is 245 and his team registered 898 counters. Waldorf's pinning was good in all three games he having double centuries in the first and third and being the only pin-knight to annex these double deck marks. The score:

A quartet of teams are now tied for first place in the Elks' Club bowling tournament, the Waldorf, Cose, Stout and Campbell teams being the first place occupants at the present stage of competition. The closeness of the first division set has been the cause for considerable enthusiasm in the tourney and the race promises to be an unusually hot one from now on. Nash and Kiely players are in the cellar berths far below their rivals.

UNION COUNTY REPRESENTED ON RUTGERS TRACK TEAM

The Rutgers College track team will inaugurate its season tomorrow afternoon with a dual meet with Stevens Institute, of Hoboken, on Neilson Field. The New Brunswick team has worked hard during the past two months and is in excellent shape for a hard contest.

Union county will be well represented on the New Brunswick aggregation. Captain Arthur Mershon, of Rahway, holder of the college records for the mile and two mile runs, will participate in these events and is looked upon as a sure winner. William Bawles, of Elizabeth, is Rutgers one big bet in the sprints, and will be supported in the hundred yard dash by Frank Walton, of Elizabeth. In the 880 and mile run, Howard Huber, of Rahway, is almost certain to place and is expected to break the college record in the latter event. Reginald Lukens, of Rahway, has been the leading varsity high jumper for the past three years and is in excellent condition this season.

The Rutgers team is exceptionally strong in the track events with the exception of the hurdles. The team is also certain to gain points in the high jump and pole vault, but in the weigh and broad jump firt places are conceded to Stevens. The New Brunswick college has not lost a dual track meet for the past three years and the men are especially anxious to continue this remarkable record.

DUNELLEN TRYOUTS SET FOR SATURDAY

Many Promising Recruits Have Been Signed to Play for Club.

Aspirants for positions on the Dunellen baseball team this year will be given their first tryout Saturday afternoon on the Washington avenue field and it is understood that Manager Jimmy Montross has a big squad in line for the trials. A wealth of home talent is available this season and several stars from nearby towns are also known to be seeking berths on the Montross crew.

The placing of Jimmy Montross at the helm of the Dunellen club has been the cause of a big boom in the diamond sport in that burg where the local boy has always been a popular favorite during the ball season. He has twirled many games in a Dunellen uniform and performed at the initial corner in a number of the contests staged last year. Montross has a line on talent of all classes in this section and a number of promising youngsters have been approached by him during his pre-season campaign. He will be assisted in his managerial work by the veteran George Voehl, another familiar figure in Dunellen baseball circles, who will handle the finances.

While no definite date has been announced, negotiations are known to be under way for Dunellen's opening date on the Somerville Field, May 16. By that time Montross expects to have a pretty good line on what he has to pick from and will be able to put a team of full strength in the playing arena.

ROD AND REEL

At last New Jersey is to have some real fresh water fishing that should place it on the map as a progressive State as far as fishing is concerned. Acting for the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners, Fish and Game Protector Jas. Stratton emptied sixty-five cans of landlocked salmon into the waters of Lake Hopatcong, Saturday, and men who stood by and saw the fish dart out of sight say that they were the finest lot of fish ever seen. This is no doubt but an experiment that has been practically assured as a successful one from the start, and if things turn out as well as the commissioners think they will a hundred cans of the same kind of fish will be placed in the same lake.

Here is good news for the deep sea fishermen. Sea bass came up the coast Sunday and several of the advance guard got too close to the shore and were caught in the nets, but if it hadn't been for that we would not have been able to hand out this welcome news to our boys. While the bass are a little late they will be received by an army of fishermen next Sunday when a flotilla of boats will go out to the fishing banks.

The warm spell brought out all of the eels that were in the winter headquarters of the Shrewsbury river and so many of them were taken in the pots and on set-lines that it was almost impossible to find customers for them. As many as fifty eels were taken from one set-line during the evening's fishing close to the Water Witch property.

The hand-line fishermen of Atlantic City are catching sea bass and getting good prices for them at the big hotels of that place. They are also getting a few bluefish, but very few; although they think that in a few days the fish will be biting very well. They get most of their blue at this time of the year down on the bottom in sixty feet of water, the fish going that deep because of the few menhaden about.

To those who have not in the past killed their fish let them the coming season do so and note the improved flavor when cooked of their flounders, blackfish, weakfish, bass, fluke and bluefish. Time consumed in the killing is nothing. Use a sharp-pointed knife, stab your fish betwen the eyes; the fish is dead instantly. By doing this your fish when laid down remains where placed instead of jumping all over the bottom of the boat. It will add greatly to the comfort of boat fishing, besides benefiting the flavor of your catch when eaten.

May 1 was the opening day for fresh water fish in the following States:

Pike—Vermont, New York.

BOARD MEETING TONIGHT.

Owing to the fact that several of the members had secured reservations for the circus which was held last night, the monthly meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education was deferred until tonight and will be held in the High School at 8 o'clock.

LOCAL SCHOOLS WILL ENTER NATIONAL MEET

Plainfield High School One of the Likely Union County Participants.

Plainfield, North Plainfield, Westfield and Somerville High Schools have been mentioned as possible entrants in the national interscholastic track and field championships of the United States to be held under the auspices of the New York Athletic Club, May 30, and efforts are being made to interest the local and surrounding high school athletes in the big athletic fest. Plainfield High School's records in several metropolitan meets during the past few months have attracted considerable attention in athletic circles and the committee in charge is making special efforts to induce Ralph Runyon and Alfred Day, the local school's best track representatives, to compete.

It is understood that both will accept the entries offered them and that several from Westfield are also contemplating entering. Somerville and North Plainfield are not so strong in this line of sport, however, and it is doubtful if these schools will be represented. Pingry, Battin, Roselle and Rahway High Schools are also possible Union County delegates and some clever track and field men will be sent by these institutions.

Entry blanks were mailed to all of the most prominent schools in the United States today. Fifteen events are provided for, consisting of nine track contests and six field competitions. The entries close with M. P. Halpin, Chairman Committee on Athletics, on May 23.

50 DEAD IN VALPARAISO FIRE

Large Number of Buildings In Commercial Quarter Destroyed.

Valparaiso, Chile, May 5.—A disastrous fire occurred in the commercial section of the city. The police authorities estimate that more than fifty lives were lost.

The firemen fought bravely against the flames, but owing to the light construction of the buildings they were unable to make any headway in their efforts to check the fire. Several buildings were burned to the ground, the occupants of them being trapped and meeting a horrible death.

James Boyle, who has resided for several years at 46 Lincoln place, the borough, has removed to 185 Somerset street.

CIRCUS BRINGS $800 FOR OPEN AIR SCHOOL

Many Local People Participated to Make Success of Benefit Yesterday.

Nearly $800 was realized at the benefit circus given yesterday afternoon and last night for the Open Air School, which is doing such splendid work in Plainfield for tubercular children. Not a thing happened to mar the day's enjoyment and the Frank A. Robbins circus, which provided most of the show was declared to be as good a circus of the size as has ever been seen in this city. At the matinee performance the children from the school occupied a big box erected especially for them, and they enjoyed the show as much as the hundreds of other young people present.

About the show were a number of local men acting as ticket sellers and takers, and in other capacities, and a number of boys and young women also assisted at one performance or another. Among the men were William S. and C. B. Tyler, City Judge William G. DeMeza, Frederick E. Mygatt, James Boyd Potter, Allen E. Beals, Levis M. Booth, H. A. Robinson, Leslie R. Fort, George M. Holstein, Charles H. Lyman, C. B. Morgan, William R. Townsent, A. E. Force, Herbert E. Parker, John J. Carty, Dr. Edward S. Krans, Howard Lapsley, Owen Fleming, Samuel Rothberg, H. B. Berse, David B. Doyle, Lewis G. Timpson and Dr. B. Van D. Hedges. The young women assisting as ushers were the Misses Gertrude Butler, Marion Snyder, Marion Loizeaux, Leila Hedges, Abby Holstein and Ruth Timpson, while in the afternoon Dick Williams, Judson Blake, Harold Condict, John Hammann, William Morrell, Irving Wiltse, Heyward Erickson, Russell Tomlinson, Reginald Bulkley and Slade Dale sold peanuts, lemonade and popcorn. They were succeeded in the evening by Orton G. Dale, Jr., Wallace Zimmerman, Robin Parvin, LeRoy Stringham, Carter Goodrich, Donald Updike, Lorenzo Brower and Robert Stevens.

One of the most pleasing features of the show was the act by Maximus, the local physical culture teacher and strong man, who performed some wonderful feats of strength, being assisted by Warren Ackerman, who "clowned" the act. Maximus was awarded a hearty welcome by the Plainfielders when he appeared both afternoon and evening. At the evening performance another pleasing feature was the work on the mat by Riley Hansen, a member of the local Y. M. C. A., whose efforts were liberally applauded by his many friends in the audience. Nearly a dozen local young men acted as clowns, several being students at Leal's School, including among others Warren Ackerman, Reginald Rowland, "Pete" Phillips, Harold Campbell and Leo Berse.

Mrs. Stephen G. VanHoesen, agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, visited the show at both afternoon and evening performances, and she complimented Mr. Robbins upon the excellent condition in which all of the horses with the show were kept. In the afternoon one of the stallions in the feature act of the show was found to be a little lame, and at Mrs. VanHoesen's suggestion he was withdrawn from the ring, necessitating dropping the act, but in the evening another horse was substituted and well merited applause was bestowed upon the performance.

By

MARGARET LAWRENCE

Pillows for the library or living-room may be made of very inexpensive materials such as linens, cotton poplin, burlap and jute fabrics. Stenciling, braiding and simple embroidery are all suitable for decorating these pillows.

The stencil design, No. 14431 may be developed in one or more shades of brown, green or blue and, if desired, it may be accentuated with outline stitch. This design is two inches wide and the pattern also includes a motif for a border 3 inches wide, and a lamp shade design 14 inches wide and 8 inches high.

Stenciling is very simple to do, and anyone who follows the directions carefully need have no trouble. The main points to be remembered are: to always have a dry blotter beneath the material, and to rub the brush almost dry before applying it to the fabric.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers for 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

Soft shirts will be favored by men this season more than ever before. They are being made up in the usual shirting materials and silks, crepe de Chine, China silk, etc., instead of the plain colors to which we have so long been accustomed, many of the new shirting silks show rather bright stripes on plain grounds; blue, pink, lavender, etc., on white.

This model No. 5848 is simply cut and may easily be made at home. It has a yoke back, detachable high or turned-down collar and the sleeves are finished with French cuffs.

To make this garment in size 34, requires 3 yards 36-inch material.

In selecting this pattern, one must be governed entirely by the neck and breast measurements.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

NEW ASPARAGUS.

THE advent of fresh green asparagus makes possible the preparation of many tempting additions to the menu. Among them may be mentioned the following:

Asparagus With Carrots.—Boil the young carrots and cut them in small pieces. Mix them with an equal quantity of asparagus, boiled tender and cut in short lengths. Cover with cream sauce or else make a drawn butter dressing, using the water in which the carrots were cooked for the foundation.

A Variety of Foods.

Asparagus and Macaroni.—To prepare it, cook the asparagus until tender, and in the meantime cook macaroni in cold, salted water until it, too, is tender. Drain both and put the asparagus, very hot, on a dish. Surround it with the macaroni, cut in short lengths and mixed with melted butter, so that it will not be sticky. Season both with salt and pepper, sprinkle with grated cheese and serve at once.

Asparagus Vol au Vont.—Remove crusts from a five cent baker's loaf in four pieces and cut out the center of each so as to leave a box shaped case, having walls three-fourths inch in thickness. Beat three eggs, add six tablespoonfuls of milk and season with one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Dip bread case in mixture and turn until soaked. Drain, fry in deep fat, fill with creamed asparagus.

A Vegetable Novelty.

Asparagus Omelet.—Cut two inches off the tops of one bunch of asparagus, wash and boil carefully until tender. Break into a bowl four fresh eggs, add a pinch of salt, a dash of pepper and four tablespoonfuls of hot water. Beat one minute. Put on the fire a very smooth frying pan, in which heat, but not brown, one teaspoonful of butter. Pour the beaten eggs into the pan, and after a few seconds the fold will form; it will form again quickly, and after the third forming the omelet is sufficiently done to receive the asparagus tips, which should be poured in the center. Have a hot platter ready, slip the omelet half way in the platter and allow the other half to fall over and envelope the asparagus. Garnish the omelet with asparagus.

She Would Pick the Loveliest Ferns.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Marion's Fern Garden Flourished In the Spring.

DADDY thought there was nothing nicer for children to be interested in than flowers. To be sure, Jack and Evelyn were devoted to them. Now that the nice spring weather had come, they spent hours every day roaming in the woods and fields getting all kinds of lovely flowers. These they would arrange themselves, and they always had one especially beautiful or rare bunch for the desk in daddy's study.

"You know I have a splendid idea for you children," said daddy one evening.

"What is it?" cried both the children. "Do tell us about it!"

"Well," continued daddy, "I once heard of a little girl named Marion whose greatest pride was her fern garden, or 'fernery,' as she called it."

"I am so glad you are interested in my idea," said daddy, "for a fernery is just the thing for you and Jack to have, I think, and you will find it is a great joy, for every year the ferns will come up again. You can take that nice little shady bed under the lilac trees in the garden, and then I will tell you the way Marion arranged hers."

"I think ferns are lovely," said Jack, "and I can dig big holes to put the roots in, so they'll be sure to live."

"That's the way," said daddy. "I see you know just what ferns need. And now to tell you more about Marion's fernery.

"Marion had a little shady bed, much the same as the one you two children are to have. Every spring at just about this time she would go into the woods with a trowel and basket and pick out the loveliest ferns. These she would carry home in her basket. Then in the shady afternoon she would go to her fernery with a watering pot. First she would dig a little hole, and then she would put some water in it to see that the roots of the fern got plenty of moisture, for that is what ferns love. Then she would put the root of the fern in the hole and put soft earth firmly around it. After she had planted her ferns she watered them some more, for she was very careful that her ferns should be planted just right, and that is why she had such good luck with them.

"Every spring she would add to her fernery, and the ferns that she had planted the year before came up more beautifully than ever.

"She would get interesting looking rocks and stones and put them between ferns here and there in the little fernery. It was very delightful to see the plants come up in the spring and then go to the woods and get some more beautiful ones. She was very particular, you may be sure, to get nice young ones, for they are the best to transplant."

"We'll start ours tomorrow, won't we, Jack?" said Evelyn.

The STORY of WAITSTILL BAXTER

Copyright, 1913, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

BY KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

Author of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm"

CHAPTER XVII.

At the Brick Store.

THERE were two grand places for gossip in the community, the old tavern on the Edgewood side of the bridge and the brick store in Riverboro. The company at the Edgewood tavern would be a trifle different in character, more picturesque, imposing and eclectic because of the transient guests that gave it change and variety. Here might be found a judge or a lawyer on his way to court, a sheriff with a handcuffed prisoner, a farmer or two stopping on the road to market with a cartful of produce and an occasional teamster, peddler and stage driver. On winter nights champion story tellers like Jed Morrill and Rish Bixby would drop in there and hang their woolen neck comforters on the pegs along the wall side, where there were already hats, topcoats and fur mufflers, as well as stacks of whips, canes and oxgoads standing in the corners. They would then enter the room, rubbing their hands genially and, nodding to Companion Pike, Cephas Cole, Phil Perry and others, ensconce themselves snugly in the group by the great open fireplace. The landlord was always glad to see them enter, for their stories, though old to him, were new to many of the assembled company and had a remarkable effect on the consumption of liquid refreshment.

On summer evenings gossip was languid in the village, and if any occurred at all it would be on the loafers' bench at one or the other side of the bridge. When cooler weather came the group of local wits gathered in Riverboro, either at Uncle Bart's joiner's shop or at the brick store, according to fancy. The latter place was perhaps the favorite for Riverboro talkers. It was a large, two story, square brick building, with a big mouthed chimney and an open fire. When every house in the two villages had six feet of snow around it roads would always be broken to the brick store, and a crowd of ten or fifteen men would be gathered there talking, listening, betting, smoking, chewing, bragging, playing checkers, singing and "swapping stories."

Some of the men had been through the war of 1812 and could display wounds received on the field of valor, others were still prouder of scars won in encounters with the Indians and there was one old codger, a revolutionary veteran, Bill Dunham by name, who would add bloody tales of his encounters with the "Husshons."

"'Tis an awful sin to have on your soul," Bill would say from his place in a dark corner, where he would sit with his hat pulled over his eyes till the psychological moment came for the "Husshons" to be trotted out. "'Tis an awful sin to have on your soul—the extummination of a race o' men, even if they wa'n't nothin' more'n so many ignorant cockroaches. Them was the great days for fightin'! The Husshons was the biggest men I ever seen on the field, most of 'em standin' six feet eight in their stockin's—but Lord! how we walloped 'em! Once we had a cannon mounted an' loaded for 'em that was so large we had to draw the ball into it with a yoke of oxen!"

Bill paused from force of habit, just as he had paused for the last twenty years. There had been times when roars of incredulous laughter had greeted this boast, but most of this particular group had heard the yarn more than once and let it pass with a smile and a wink, remembering the night that Abel Day had asked old Bill how they got the oxen out of the cannon on that most memorable occasion.

"Oh," said Bill, "that was easy enough. We jest unyoked 'em an' turned 'em out o' the primin' hole!"

It was only early October, but there had been a killing frost, and Ezra Simms, who kept the brick store, flung some shavings and small wood on the hearth and lighted a blaze, just to induce a little trade and start conversation on what threatened to be a dull evening. Peter Morrill, Jed's eldest brother, had lately returned from a long trip through the state and into New Hampshire and his adventures by field and flood were always worth listening to. He went about the country mending clocks and so many an old timepiece still bears his name, with the date of repairing written in pencil on the inside of the door.

There was never any lack of subjects at the brick store, the idiosyncrasies of the neighbors being the most prolific source of anecdote and comment. Whenever all else failed there was always the latest story of Deacon Baxter's parsimony, in which the village traced the influence of heredity.

"He can't hardly help it, inheritin' it on both sides," was Abel Day's opinion. "The Baxters was allers snug from time 'memorial, and Foxy's the snuggest of 'em. When I look at his ugly mug an' hear his snarlin' voice I thinks to myself, he's goin' the same way his father did. When old Levi Baxter was left a widder man in that house o' his'n up river he grew wuss an' wuss, if you remember, till he wa'n't hardly human at the last, and I don't believe Foxy even went up to his own father's funeral."

"'Twould 'a' served old Levi right if nobody else had gone," said Rish Bixby. "When his wife died he refused to come into the house till the last minute. He stayed to work in the barn till all the folks had assembled and even the men were all settin' down on benches in the kitchen. The parson sent me out for him, and I'm blest if the old skunk didn't come in through the crowd with his sleeves rolled up—went to the sink and washed, and then set down in the room where the coffin was, as cool as a cowcumber."

"I remember that funeral well," corroborated Abel Day. "An' Mis' Day heerd Levi say to his daughter, as soon as they'd put poor old Mrs. Baxter int' the grave, 'Come on, Marthy; there's no use cryin' over spilt milk; we'd better go home an' husk out the rest o' that corn.' Old Foxy could have inherited plenty o' meanness from his father, that's certain, an' he's added to his inheritance right along, like the thrifty man he is. I hate to think o' them two fine girls wearin' their fingers to the bone for his benefit."

"Oh, well, 'twon't last forever," said Rish Bixby. "They're the han'somest couple o' girls on the river, an' they'll get husbands afore many years. Patience 'll have one pretty soon, by the looks. She never budges an inch but Mark Wilson or Phil Perry are follerin' behind, with Cephas Cole watchin' his chance right along too. Waitstill don't seem to have no beaux; what with flyin' around to keep up with the deacon an' bein' a mother to Patience, her hands is full, I guess."

"I remember that funeral well."

"If things was a little mite dif'rent all round I could prognosticate who Waitstill could keep house for," was Peter Morrill's opinion.

"You mean Ivory Boynton? Well, if the deacon was asked he'd never give his consent, that's certain, an' Ivory ain't in no position to keep a wife anyways. What was it you heerd 'bout Aaron Boynton up to New Hampshire, Peter?" asked Abel Day.

"Consid'able, one way an' another, an' none of it would 'a' been any comfort to Ivory. I guess Aaron 'n' Jake Cochrane was both of 'em more interested in savin' the sisters' souls than the brothers'. Aaron was a fine appearin' man, and so was Jake for that matter, 'n' they both had the gift o' gab. There's nothin' like a limber tongue if you want to please the women folks. If report says true, Aaron died of a fever out in Ohio somewheres. Cortland's the place, I b'lieve. Seems 's if he hid his trail all the way from New Hampshire somehow, for as a usual thing a man o' book learnin' like him would be remembered wherever he went. Wouldn't you call Aaron Boynton a turrible l'arned man, Timothy?"

Timothy Grant, the parish clerk, had just entered the store on an errand; but, being directly addressed and judging that the subject under discussion was a discreet one and that it was too early in the evening for drinking to begin, he joined the group by the fireside. He had preached in Vermont for several years as an itinerant Methodist minister before settling down to farming in Edgewood, only giving up his profession because his quiver was so full of little Grants that a wandering life was difficult and undesirable. When Uncle Bart Cole had remarked that Mis' Grant had a little of everything in the way of baby stock now—black, red an' yaller haired, dark and light complected, fat an' lean, tall an' short, twins an' singles—Jed Morrill had observed dryly, "Yes, Mis' Grant kind o' reminds me of charity."

"How's that?" inquired Uncle Bart.

"She beareth all things," chuckled Jed.

"Aaron Boyton was indeed a man of most adhesive larnin'," agreed Timothy, who had the reputation of the largest and most unusual vocabulary in Edgewood. "Next to Jacob Cochrane I should say Aaron had more grandeloquence as an orator than any man we've ever had in these parts. It don't seem 's if Ivory was goin' to take after his father that way. The little feller, now, is smart 's a whip an' could talk the tail off a brass monkey."

"Yes, but Rodman ain't no kin to the Boyntons," Abel reminded him. "He inhails from the other side o' the house."

"That's so. Well, Ivory does for certain, an' takes after his mother, right enough, for she hain't spoken a dozen words in as many years, I guess. Ivory's got a sight o' book knowledge, though, an' they do say he could talk Greek an' Latin both, if we had any of 'em in the community to converse with. I've never paid no intention to the dead languages, bein' so eckerpied with other studies."

"Why do they call 'em the dead languages, Tim?" asked Rish Bixby.

"Because all them that ever spoke 'em has perished off the face o' the land," Timothy answered oracularly. "Dead an' gone they be, lock, stock and barrel; yet there was a time when Latins an' Crustaceans an' Hebrews an' Prooshians an' Australians an' Simesians was chatterin' away in their own tongues, an' so pow'ful that they was wallopin' the whole earth, you might say."

"I bet yer they never tried to wallop these here United States," interpolated Bill Dunham from the dark corner by the molasses hogshead.

"Is Ivory in here?" The door opened and Rodman Boynton appeared on the threshold.

"No, sonny, Ivory ain't been in this evenin'," replied Ezra Simms. "I hope there ain't nothin' the matter over to your house?"

"No, nothing particular," the boy answered, "only Aunt Boynton don't seem so well as common, and I can't find Ivory anywhere."

"Come along with me, I'll help you look for him, an' then I'll go as fur as the lane with yer if we don't find him." And kindly Rish Bixby took the boy's hand and left the store.

"Mis' Boynton's had a spell, I guess!" suggested the storekeeper, peering through the door into the darkness. "'Tain't like Ivory to be out nights and leave her to Rod."

"She don't have no spells," said Abel Day. "Uncle Bart sees consid'able of Ivory, an' he says his mother is as quiet as a lamb. Couldn't you git no kind of a certif'cate of Aaron's death out o' that Enfield feller, Peter? Seems 's if that poor woman oughter be stopped watchin' for a dead man; tuckerin' herself all out an' keepin' Ivory an' the boy all nerved up."

"I've told Ivory everything I could gather up in the way of information and give him the names of the folks in Ohio that had writ back to New Hampshire. I didn't dilate on Aaron's goin's on in Effingham and Portsmouth, 'cause I dassay 'twas nothin' but scandal. Them as hates the Cochranites 'll never allow there's any good in 'em, whereas I've met some as is servin' the Lord good an' constant an' indulgin' in no kind of foolishness an' devilry whatsoever."

"Speakin' o' Husshons," said Bill Dunham from his corner, "I remember"—

"We wa'n't alludin' to no Husshons," retorted Timothy Grant. "We was dealin' with the misfortunes of Aaron Boynton, who never fit valorously on the field o' battle, but perished out in Ohio of scarlit fever, if what they say in Enfield is true."

"'Tis an easy death," remarked Bill argumentatively. "Scarlit fever don't seem like nothin' to me! Many's the time I've been close enough to fire at the eyeball of a Husshon an' run the resk o' bein' blown to smithereens!—calm and cool I allers was too! Scarlit fever is an easy death from a warrior's p'int o' view!"

"Speakin' of easy death," continued Timothy, "you know I'm a great one for words, bein' something of a scholard in my small way. Mebbe you noticed that Elder Boone used a strange word in his sermon last Sunday? Words air cur'ous things sometimes, as I know, bein' had consid'able leisure time to read when I was joggin' 'bout the country an' bein' brought into contack with men o' learnin'. The way I worked it out, not wishin' to ask Parson any more questions, bein' something of a scholard myself, is this: The youth in Ashy is a peculiar kind o' youth, 'n' their religion disposes 'em to lay no kind o' stress on huming life. When anything goes wrong with 'em an' they get a set back in war or business, or affairs with women folks, they want to die right off, so they take a sword an' stan' it straight up wherever they happen to be, in the shed or the barn or the henhouse, an' they p'int the sharp end right to their waist line, where the bowels an' other vital organisms is lowcated, an' then they fall on to it. It runs 'em right through to the back an' kills 'em like a shot, and that's the way I cal'late the youth in Ashy dies, if my entomology is correct, as it gen'ally is."

"Don't seem an easy death to me," argued Ezra, "but I ain't no scholard. What college did you attend to, Tim?"

"I don't hold no diaploma," responded Timothy, "though I attended the Wareham academy quite a spell, the same time as your sister was goin' to Wareham seminary where eddication is still bein' disseminated though of an awful poor kind compared to the old times."

"It's live an' larn," said the storekeeper respectfully. "I never thought of a seminary bein' a place of dissemination before, but you can see the two words is near kin."

"You can't allers tell by the sound," said Timothy instructively. "Sometimes two words 'll start from the same root an' branch out diff'rent, like 'critter' an' 'hypocritter.' A 'hypocritter' must natcherally start by bein' a 'critter,' but a critter ain't obliged to be a 'hypocritter' 'thout he wants to."

"I should hope not," interpolated Abel Day piously. "Entomology must be an awful interestin' study, though I never thought of observin' words myself, 'cept to avoid vulgar language an' profanity."

"Husshon's a cur'ous word for a man," interjected Bill Dunham with a last despairing effort. "I remember seein' a Husshon once that"—

"Perhaps you ain't one to observe closely, Abel," said Timothy, not taking note of any interruption, simply using the time to direct a stream of tobacco juice to an incredible distance, but landing it neatly in the exact spot he had intended. "It's a trade by itself, you might say, observin' is, an' there's another sing'lar corraption! The Whigs in foreign parts, so they say, build stone towers to observe the evil machinations of the Tories, an' so the word 'observatory' come into general use! All entomology; nothin' but entomology."

"I don't see where in thunder you picked up so much larnin', Timothy!" It was Abel Day's exclamation, but every one agreed with him.

JUDGE CONGDON IS LAID AT REST

Jersey Notables Attend Funeral at Paterson.

FLAGS IN CITY AT HALF MAST

Church Filled With Mourners, Among Whom Were Judges of State Supreme Court and Court of Errors and Appeals, of Which Deceased Was Lay Member.

Paterson, N. J., May 5.—Flags on all public buildings and silk mills in this city were at half mast out of respect for the late Judge Joseph W. Congdon, who was a leader in the silk industry here and whose funeral was held from the Second Presbyterian church, which was filled with mourners, among whom were judges of the New Jersey supreme court and court of errors and appeals, of which the deceased was a lay member; city officials, many prominent silk manufacturers, bankers and Masonic dignitaries.

In compliance with the request made by Judge Congdon in his will, there were no flowers at his bier, and the money which would otherwise have been spent for flowers was turned over to the hospitals of the city.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Hugh D. MacCauley, pastor of the church. Rev. D. Stuart Hamilton delivered the eulogy. Masonic services were conducted by members of the grand lodge, of which Judge Congdon was a past grand master. Members of the Paterson Light guards and the old First battalion, N. G. N. J., and grand lodge of Masons marched in a body from the Hamilton club to the church.

The honorary pallbearers were former Governor John W. Griggs, Chief Justice William S. Gummere of the New Jersey supreme court, John Macgregor, Charles N. Sterrett, Benjamin Tilt, William Berdon, Edward T. Bell, Albert A. Wilcox. Burial was in Cedar Lawn cemetery.

Speakers will include Governor James F. Fielder, Representative Carter Glass, chairman of the committee on banking and currency of the house of representatives; former Representative Martin W. Littleton, and B. F. Harris, chairman of the agricultural committee of the American Bankers' association.

Newark, N. J., May 5.—A. Judge Osborne said that Jennings probably would not be sentenced until the rest of the bank cases have been disposed of.

Jennings may be called as a witness by the state in the conspiracy cases that will be tried May 25 before Chief Justice Gummere. Raymond E. Smith, secretary and treasurer of the wrecked bank, and those alleged to have been involved in looting the bank are defendants.

SEMINARY FAILS TO GET HEAD

Princeton, N. J., May 5.—The directors of the Princeton seminary failed to elect a president of the institution at their annual meeting. It had been expected that the directors would choose a successor to Dr. Francis L. Patton, who tendered his resignation a year ago. One of the committee said that the selection of a man was "up in the air."

Professor Benjamin B. Warfield, the senior member of the faculty, was named as president pro tem. for a term of one year. Dr. Warfield has been acting as president since Dr. Patton's resignation.

DUNELLEN BORO ADOPTS BUDGET

Estimate Expenses for the Coming Year to Be $13,161.50.

LESS FRANCHISE TAX

The adoption of the annual budget was the principal business before the Dunellen Council at its May meeting, last night. The total estimate of expenses of the borough for the coming year is $13,161.50, less $3,806.55 as income from hotel licenses, second-class railroad and franchise tax, making the actual amount $9,354.95.

The various items of expense are made up as follows: Streets, $4,100; fire and water, $1,042; sidewalks, $835; finance, $3,402.50; law and ordinance, $1,200; building and parks, $530; lighting, $2,052. The ordinance was adopted on two readings and ordered advertised.

The Council received a number of petitions which were quickly disposed of. Following a communication from the Tidewater Oil Company, relative to furnishing oil for streets, and a discussion of the question, the matter was referred to the street committee with instructions to report the number of square yards that are deemed necessary to be covered this year.

The Watchung Investment Company in a petition requested that the grade be established on the northerly side of Penfield place. This was referred to the proper committee. R. F. Bogardus and A. F. Sampson complained about the dusty condition of the New Market road which is maintained by the county. As yet the county has done no oiling. A water wagon has been used to some extent, but not with much satisfaction. This matter will be taken up with the county authorities.

The map of Columbia Park was submitted by Frederick Harrington and approved by the Council. This tract lies east of Columbia and Orange streets. The street committee submitted a bill of $179.15 for the removal of snow along North avenue and the Bound Brook road and directed the clerk to notify the Public Service Corporation of its share of this expense, which is one-half the amount.

Mrs. Eliabeth Merschrolt opposed the ordinance to lay a concrete sidewalk on North avenue, west of Chestnut street, to the Hall Printing Press Works, on account of the condition of the cinder path. However, the Council passed this ordinance and that for the flagging of Front street, east of Madison avenue, on first and second readings and ordered the same advertised.

Mayor E. B. Latham presented the Council with three electric chandeliers, which he had installed and the lighting of the new quarters, which were used last night for the first time is perfect with this gift of the Mayor.

The Council directed Mr. Haight to lay a pipe across his driveway on the northerly side of Walnut street as the water is held up by this obstruction and fills up the gutter for a considerable distance. The street committee was directed to repair the holes on North avenue from Jefferson to Washington avenues with the use of Tarvia and fine stone. The sidewalk committee reported that the owners of property along Lincoln avenue would lay their walks and did not think an ordinance necessary.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

REVILLE NOT TO HAVE THE JOB

So Says Senator James E. Martine in An Interview.

HE HAS WITHDRAWN

But Postmaster Bird's Successor Will Not be Named Until Investigation of Former Letter-carriers' Record is Completed.

Washington, May 6.—Like most every other piece of federal patronage for the New Jersey Democracy, the appointment of the patriot, who is to be postmaster at Plainfield is subject to indefinite delay. Perhaps it is unnecessary to make such a statement because the inevitable sign of a New Jersey patronage question is delay, linger and wait, or, as the Spiggoty would say, "manana."

Senator Martine is handling the Plainfield postmastership. That is his prerogative, inasmuch as Plainfield is his home. He will hold back the appointment until the postoffice department finishes its investigation of Patrick J. Reville's discharge from the postal service at Plainfield.

Reville, who has withdrawn as a candidate for the appointment, besought the aid of Martine to clear up the incidents that were cited by Republicans then in power for Reville's discharge eighteen years ago. He was a carrier and it was charged that he loitered on the job and otherwise proved incompetent. These allegations, Reville claims, have unjustly hurt him through all the intervening years.

So the Senator more than a month ago, saw Postmaster-General Burleson about it. Burleson looked up the files of the time, and found evidence that a hot fight had raged against Reville, and for him, too. Among those who had written in Reville's defense to the department was James E. Martine, then better known as "the farmer orator" and undreamt of as a future United States Senator. Burleson agreed to make an investigation of the old charges, and it is for the result of the investigation that the Senator is waiting.

Martine says he wants it distinctly understood that there's nothing to the story that Reville will be appointed if the report whitewashes him. When Representative Tuttle turned over the appointment to the Senator, Martine said he would not appoint anyone who could not be satisfactory to Tuttle, and Reville falls within that class.

"If I were to name the postmaster now" explained the Senator, "folks up home would say that I turned Reville down because of this old story. Even if the department report should show Reville the innocent victim of political machinations, as I believe him to be, people would still say the report was only to let Reville down easy. Reville isn't in the race any more, but I'm expecting the report along soon."

The term of the present postmaster Elias H. Bird, expired April 15, last. The Senator has no idea how soon the department will conclude delving into the past.

On one point the Senator was obdurate. He may have picked the postmaster, said he, and then again, he may not have. The plum might go to this one and it might go to that one, but whether he had picked a man, or whether he had not, the Senator said he had decided not to give the slightest intimation of his state of mind until Reville's discharge emerges from the mill of the postoffice department investigation.

ELEVEN PATIENTS ADMITTED DURING MONTH OF APRIL

Dr. John E. Runnells, in charge of Bonnie Burn Sanitorium, in his report for April states that during the month eleven patients were admitted, seven men and four women, including three patients who were re-admitted. They are classified as follows: Incipient, one male and one female; moderately advanced, four male and two female; far advanced, two male and one female.

There were thirteen patients discharged, including six deaths. The smallest number present during the month was 74 and the largest number was 78. The daily average was 75.9.

ELECT FIVE MEMBERS TO BOARD OF TRADE

Civic Body Growing at Rate of Ten New Members a Month.

Bad weather kept down the attendance at the May meeting of the Board of Trade, held last night in the rooms in the Coward building, but those present transacted considerable business of interest. H. H. Pennoyer, United States Senator James E. Martine, former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, James Cran and George M. Hoagland were elected members of the organization, which was reported to be growing at the rate of about ten a month. It was voted to hold another round-up meeting in June, similar to that held a year ago, to which delegations from other Boards of Trade will be invited, and former Governor J. Franklin Fort and Frank Bergen will be asked to address the meeting.

Invitation was received from the Westfield Board of Trade to attend the opening of a town exhibit to be held there next Tuesday, at which Governor Fielder will be present, and the Elizabeth Board of Trade sent a copy of a resolution protesting against placing New Jersey in the Philadelphia division of the new federal bank reserve. No action was taken on the latter matter.

A. E. Force, for the trolley committee, reported on the recent hearing before the public utility commission at Newark, and said that he was satisfied that the plea of the Plainfield and South Plainfield people, urging the construction of a trolley line between the two places, would receive favorable consideration. President Jeffrey said that he hoped to be able to take Arthur E. Smith to the next hearing on May 14 at Newark, to testify as an expert that the cost of building the line would not be over $14,000 a mile.

President Jeffrey reported on the work thus far of the consolidation committee, and said that the present law gives power for North Plainfield to hold an election. He said that the Board of Trade committee had been courteously received by the Borough Council, and that he felt sure the members of that body meant to do something about the matter. Herman Schwed said that he had heard that it would not be necessary to go to the expense of special election, but that it could be voted on at either a primary or a general election. It was decided to take no further action, pending possible move by the Borough Council.

The question of the establishment of a technical school in Plainfield was brought up, and after discussion by President Jeffrey, John A. Gaffney, Prof. A. S. Herr, F. A. Dunham, and Herman Schwed it was decided that there was not enough demand for such an organization in Plainfield to warrant the Board taking the matter up.

After a brief discussion of the complaint being made against auto busses in town it was decided that no action was necessary until more people protested against them. The trustees were authorized to enter a protest in the name of the board against the busses being stopped in case it looked as if they might be.

LOCAL YOUNG MEN PASS STATE TESTS

Albert Bryniarski and Chas. K. Wendell Receive Pharmaceutical Certificates.

Charles K. Wendell, of Arlington avenue, and Albert Bryniarski, of West Second street, were notified by Secretary Jordan, of the State Pharmacy Board, this morning, that they had successfully passed their examination for registered assistant. The marks in both instances were unusually high and the young men have received numerous deserved congratulations since the figures were made known. Their success is all the more commendable from the fact that it was the first time either had appeared before the board for examination. Their certificates or registration entitles them to every privilege with the exception of conducting or managing a pharmacy.

Mr. Wendell prepared for the examination at the New Jersey College of Pharmacy, at Newark, where he recently concluded a very creditable year. He is at present in the employ of Frank Rowley. Mr. Bryniarski is a graduate of the Plainfield High School and was tutored for his pharmaceutical preparations by Prof. Paresen, of Perth Amboy. He has been employed by Charles H. Hall.

CO. K TO ENGAGE IN ARMY MANOEUVRES

Local Militia Will Be Part of Attacking Force at Washington.

Captain Charles Peterson, of Co. K, Second Regiment, has received information, which will soon come in the form of orders, that the local militia will engage in army maneuvers between August 5-20 in the vicinity of Washington, being part of the attacking army on the Capitol City. These plans will be carried out, unless the trouble in Mexico should take on a more serious aspect and require the services of the New Jersey National Guard.

There will be a school of instruction for the officers at Sea Girt on June 5, the purpose being to bring the staff up to the highest efficiency. There seems to be a feeling among the guardsmen of the State that they are not likely to see service in Mexico, but if they are needed they will be ready on short notice to go to the front.

The wedding of Miss Mary Keech Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Turner of Charles county, Maryland, to Francis A. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sprague Martin, of this city, took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Keech, 12 West Fifty-second street, New York City. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Sothoron of Baltimore in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends from Baltimore, New York and this city.

The bride, who was given away by her uncle, wore a gown of white satin trimmed with duchess lace, made with a long court train that was embellished with orange blossoms. A long veil of tulle was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. Mrs. Frank Knowles was the matron of honor. Her costume was of pale pink taffeta finished with a girdle of turquoise blue satin.

The Misses Mary Owens, Janetta Lee and Carolyn Martin were the bridesmaids. They were dressed alike in costumes of ecru lace over pale pink taffeta and wore white Leghorn hats trimmed with pink roses and pale blue ribbon. They carried bouquets of pink sweet peas. Miss Edith Bushnell was the flower girl. She wore a white frock finished with a pink satin sash and carried a basket of pink sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

Immediately after the ceremony there was a reception. Later Mr. and Mrs. Martin left on their wedding journey. They will reside in this city upon their return.

ENJOINED TO SEVER RELATIONS

Particular Synod Says Minister Must Leave Christ Church at Once.

VICTORY FOR CLASSIS

High Church Body Decides Against Disbandment of Newark Body—Ministers Engage in Lovely Debate at All Day Session.

The Particular Synod of the Reformed church of New Jersey in session at New Brunswick, yesterday, unanimously adopted a resolution enjoining the Consistory of Christ Reformed church, of Newark, to sever at once all relations with Rev. Percival H. Barker as pastor of that church and at the same time decided against the Classis of Newark in its action of disbanding the church.

The decision of the synod is considered a signal victory for the reason that the removal of Mr. Barker as pastor of the church, was the point at issue and in fact the only thing desired by the Classis of Newark. Much to the surprise of those present Rev. Dr. Isaac W. Gowen, of Hoboken, led the opposition in the fight against the action to drop Mr. Barker or disband Christ Reformed church.

The arguments presented by both sides stirred Particular Synod and a lively debate resulted. However, when the resolution was offered enjoining the Newark church to sever its relations at once with Mr. Barker, it was carried unanimously. The fact that this matter was to come up brought out a large representation of the churches in the Classis of Newark.

Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, this city, assisted materially in bringing about the adoption of the resolution to have Christ Reformed church sever its relations with Mr. Barker. It is said that the Newark church is highly incensed over the action and intimates that it will not sever the relations with its pastor. If it does not, then the church will probably be disbanded.

During the session of the Synod, two new classis were established, the Classis of Paterson and Passaic, showing that the church is growing rapidly in New Jersey.

Rev. Jasper S. Hogan, of New Brunswick, was elected president of the Particular Synod to succeed Rev. T. F. Bayles, of Bayonne. There were about 75 Reformed church ministers in attendance at the meeting. The other officers chosen were: Vice-president, Rev. Eugene Hill, of Garfield; stated clerk, Rev. Dr. Isaac P. Brokaw; temporary clerks, Rev. Charles Roeder and Rev. Charles Herge.

FINED $50 AND COSTS FOR STARTING A FIRE

John LaMair Enters Plea of Guilty Before Justice Thomas Snape.

John LaMair was arraigned last evening before Judge Thomas H. Snape, in the borough court, on the charge of having started forest fires on the valley road, where he owns lands adjoining the tracts owned by Frank Mobus and C. Frank French. LaMair entered a plea of guilty, stating that he had started to burn some rubbish on his own property, and that the blaze had spread to the adjoining tracts after he had lost control of the fire.

The complaint was made by Assistant Fire Warden E. T. Canning, while the case was prosecuted by Fire Warden William Lindsay, whose headquarters are at Dover, and whose territory includes all of this section of the State. The minimum fine of $50 and costs was imposed owing to the fact that the fire was started without a permit.

The law covering such cases as this one, calls for a minimum fine of $50 where the fire is started without a permit from the proper authorities. This amount may be reduced to the costs and the actual damages to the adjoining properties under the recommendations of the wardens.

PARK CLUB HOLDS ITS ANNUAL MEETING

H. M. Fisher, Dr. F. E. DuBois and H. L. McGee Chosen Governors

The annual meeting of the Park Club, was held last night, there being present just a quorum, the stormy weather preventing many others from attending. The only business of importance transacted was the election of three governors to serve for three years. Those chosen are Horace M. Fisher, Dr. Francis E. DuBois and Harry L. McGee. The governors will meet within a few days and elect officers for the coming year.

While the report of the treasurer was about complete, it was decided not to read it entire, last night, but the annual statement will be sent to the members within a short time. There was an informal discussion of plans for the season and as soon as the committees are named various activities will be taken up in social and athletic events.

SITUATION AT VERA CRUZ BECOMING SERIOUS—AMERICANS ON DEFENSIVE

Mexican Federal Troops Have Virtually Started a Siege and War Department Refuses to Give Full Information.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, May 6.—The situation at Vera Cruz today assumed the character of a seige by the Mexican Federal forces rather than an occupation of the port by the American troops, according to advices. Dispatches from General Funston to the War Department brought the information that while no definite knowledge of the minor movements of the Mexican troops had been gained, it was known that the tracks of the Inter-Oceanic railroad had been torn up, cutting off the last rail communication with the interior. The Mexicans have concentrated along the lines of both railroads, "to guard the roads in case we advance," Gen. Funston cabled.

No food is reaching Vera Cruz from the Interior, Funston said. Food is coming in from the North and South to some extent, however, although it is not believed that the supply will prove adequate. Possession of Tejar by the American forces now is imperative, as it is not only the site of the water works, but the principal channel for food supplies.

Secretary Garrison made public only portions of the dispatches from General Funston and the belief is growing in official circles that the situation at Very Cruz is momentarily growing more serious.

United States Consul Bonney, of San Luis Potosi, on whose account the State Department has been uneasy is reported safe in Mexico City. He will leave tomorrow on the refugee train for Puerto Mexico. All other Americans in San Luis Potosi were safe five days ago, Bonney reported.

Consul Alger, of Mazanillo and a number of refugees from Salina Cruz, and Mazatlan, were among the passengers on the steamer City of Mexico, which has arrived at San Francisco.

It developed that the raising of the restrictions placed upon Gen. Funston's military plans actually was authorized yesterday. The action is said to have followed a long dispatch in which he reported the growing force of Mexican Federals on his front and their apparent concentration near the waterworks at Tejar. While the text of the orders was not made public, it is understood that Secretary Garrison instructed General Funston "to take such steps as may be necessary for the protection of your outposts." This, it is recognized will embrace the advancement of the American lines. How much further out the lines will be thrust is not known, but it is regarded as certain that Gen. Funston will not stop until he is convinced his riflemen are far out enough to afford protection to the waterworks.

"The pumping plant has been at the mercy of General Maas's artillery" said a high military officer today. "Had he opened fire on the water tower, with his artillery, he could have ruined the plant and have completely cut off the water supply of Vera Cruz. Such an occurrence would have been a calamity and, indeed, might have forced an evacuation of the city."

Secretary Garrison has the utmost confidence in the good judgment of General Funston, and the war department is convinced that the forward movement will be far enough only to furnish adequate protection to the Tejar pumping station. It is declared with emphasis that the flinging out of the outposts is in no manner of means the commencement of a general advance and that such is not contemplated at the present time.

In the meantime the mediators are laying plans for the conference at Niagara, Ontario, May 18, when formal efforts will be made to bring about a diplomatic adjustment of the differences between the United States and Mexico. The mediators today were seeking to get in touch with General Carranza in the hope that he might be induced to send a representative to the Canadian conference. They declined to say what progress they were making. One phase of the situation that is worrying the mediators is the reported break between Gen. Carrabza ad his fighting ally, General Pancho Villa. It is feared that the severing of relations between the two men would mean the inaugural of another revolutionary movement. This might lead to a complete upset of the plans of the A. B. C. conference.

Vera Cruz, May 6.—It is rumored here that accommodations are being held on board a foreign cruiser for some "hign Mexican official," who is expected from the Mexican capital. The report persists that Huerta facilitated the departure of Americans from Mexico City with the object of keeping the road open for his own flight, and that he and Gen. Blanquet, or either, may be expected here any day now.

CONNORS COMMITTED TO ELIZABETH JAIL

Will Be Arraigned Before Judge Connolly to Plead to Indictment.

Charles Connors, the second-story man, who is alleged to have robbed the home of former State Senator Ernest B. Ackerman, on West Seventh street, January 3, last, was removed from the local police headquarters to the county jail in Elizabeth this morning. He left Plainfield in the custody of Chief Kiely and Detective-Sergeant Flynn, attired as he came Snuday night, in a dark suit, dark hat and long black overcoat. His ever-present cigar was in evidence as usual and he appeared to be in the best of spirits. He chatted freely with his guardians dealing with topics other than those pertinent to his own case and when leaving shook hands with the reporters and others in the courtroom.

He will be committed to the county jail pending arraignment before Judge James C. Connolly to plead to the indictment found by the January Grand Jury. When he enters his plea he will also ask that bail be fixed for his appearance for trial on a date which will be set at the time of the arraignment. Shortly after Connors' arrival in Plainfield, Former Magistrate F. H. Wahle, who was chief counsel for the New York gunmen during their fight for life, appeared here in the prisoner's behalf and engaged William Newcorn, of this city, to represent him in the Union county proceedings, it being necessary to retain a New Jersey lawyer in the case.

Connors has many influential friends in Chicago, many of whom are active in politics, and a number have already come east in his behalf. If bail is set by Judge Connolly it is anticipated that the defendant will have little trouble in securing the cash bonds required. It is probable that his case will come up Friday morning of this week.

Although he has cleverly eluded all direct questioning by reporters and police officials, Connors has made statements to the effect that he is innocent of any part in the robbery and expects to successfully prove an alibi. Those interested in the prisoner's case have cautioned him to "keep a stiff upper lip," and refuses to comment on his case. The admonition was unnecessary, however, for he has been dumb to questioning since arraigned in the Chicago police court.

DR. JAMES LEFEVRE DIES AT SOMERVILLE

Was Prominent in Religious and Educational Work for Half Century.

Rev. Dr James Le Fevre, aged eighty-six years, died at his home in Somerville early this morning, after an illness of almost a year. The funeral arrangements have not as yet been completed but it is probable that they will be held Friday and will be private.

Dr. LeFevre was born at New Paltz, New York, January 19, 1828, and was of Huguenot ancestry, being the sixth generation from Simeon Le Fevre, one of the twelve Patentees who in 1663 bought from the Indians 144 square miles on the banks of the Waukill in Ulster county, New York, afterward called New Paltz. He graduated from Rutgers College in 1854, and from the New Brunswick Theological Seminary in 1857.

Dr. Le Fevre was pastor of the Reformed Dutch church at Raritan for seventeen years and of the Middlebush Reformed church for twenty-eight years. His entire active life was spent in Somerset county.

In 1893, he received the degree of D. D. from Rutgers College, of which institution he was a trustee for twenty-six years. For an equal period he was secretary and treasurer of the Alumni Association of the Theological Seminary in New Brunswick.

Dr. Le Fevre was for many years an energetic promoter of Sunday-schol work, being for thirty-six years county secretary for Somerset. He was the author of the "History of the Reformed church of Middlebush, N. J.," "The Twelve Huguenot Patentees, or Duzine of New Paltz," and many magazine articles. He was a member of the Huguenot Society of America.

Dr. Le Fevre is survived by a wife and four children, J. Hosbrauch Fevre, Welland, Canada; Mrs. George H. Brown, Miss Cornelia Bevier Le Fevre and Miss Esther De Witt L. Fevre, of Somerville. His eldest son, Egbert Le Fevre, M. D., died suddenly a few weeks ago.

WILL CONTESTED.

Elizabeth, May 6—The will of the late Lydia Phillips, who died in Plainfield on January 18, was filed for probate today at the office of County Surrogate Parrot. The bulk of the estate goes to a niece. The remainder going to Mrs. Mary Hampton, a relative, of Newark. The Union County Board of Freholders entered a protest against the settling of the estate under the terms of the will owing to the fact that relatives of Mrs. Phillips are confined at the Morris Plains Hospital, for the support of whom no provision had been made. A further hearing will be held on May 21.

WILL PRESENT AWARDS.

An informal reception and dance will be held in the Park Club tomorrow night, at which time the prizes won by bowlers during the various tournaments of the bowling season will be awarded. The affair will be held for the benefit of club members and friends and dancing will be a feature from 8:30 to 12 o'clock. Refreshments will be served.

LOCAL CONTRACTOR TO COMPLETE WORK

Three Bids Received From Local Men for Remaining Work on High School.

The Plainfield Board of Education met in the Plainfield High School, last night, and it was announced at that time that local contractors would be engaged to finish the work left undone by the P. J. Exner Company in the construction of the new addition to the present structure on West Ninth street. Three proposals were received at the meeting, John S. Dahl, Alexander Milne and John Abbott submitting their figures at the request of the board.

When the bids were opened it was found that the choice lay between Dahl and Milne. The former's bid was $46,726.73 with an alternative bringing it up to $48,092.58; and the latter's bid was $47,500 with an alternative increasing it to $49,935.35. Mr. Abbott's figures were $56,394. All of the proposals will be taken under consideration by the board and the contract will be awarded during the next few days.

The Exner creditors were present at last night's meeting, at the invitation of the board, and it was found that either of the two low bids would give the creditors a substantial sum to divide after the work is completed.

OFFERS STONE FOR NEW SCHOOL

Newton B. Smalley Agrees to Furnish Material for Borough Buildings.

ANOTHER TO GIVE SITE

Repairs to Cost $10,000 Are Discussed at School Board Meeting—Committee Announces List of Teachers for Next Year.

The probabilities of a new school for the borough of North Plainfield loomed up strong at the special meeting of the Board of Education, Monday evening. The possibilities of such a move were increased by an offer on the part of Former Mayor Smalley to donate the necessary stone with which to erect the proposed building, while it was stated that another taxpayer of the borough would be willing to contribute a site for the institution.

The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the alterations to the Somerset School as per the suggestions of the State board. The plans for these alterations, the details of which received favorable reports from the building committee, of which J. A. VanMater is chairman, include the remodeling of the staircase, so as to make it fireproof, furnishing additional light to several of the classrooms and the erection of fire escapes on the east side of the building. The estimated cost of these improvements is in the vicinity of $10,000. A further discussion of the erection of a four-room addition to the Watchung School took place, but this matter was laid over owing to the new building proposition.

The teachers' committee of the board met and announced the appointment of teachers for next term. Miss Sarah E. Mackey was made principal of the grammar department of the institution. The committee was authorized to fill the vacancies caused by its failure to re-appoint Principal Albert Earley, who has been an instructor in the schools for the past three years, and a manual training instructor to succeed Mr. Stilliman. Those who were re-appointed are the following:

The Misses Bertha B. Agnew, Bernice M. Attaer, Edith M. Beers, Lora M. Bushnell, Nellie Mantz, Margaret E. Sampson, Ruth G. Easton, Ruth Stauffer, Lillian D. Whitall, Isabella Williams, Sarah E. Mackey, Grace M. Winnie, Nettie L. Bauersachs, Elizabeth C. Claypool, Jane H. Crawford, Katherine Dumark, Edna L. French, Elizabeth Kiernan, Roxanna R. Love, Cora P. Lyndon, M. M. Montague, Katherine B. Nelson, Helen R. Ray, Mary A. Robley, A. Marriee Spidl, Laura Sydenham, Emma N. Tantum, Eva G. Terry and Jesse M. Utter. Bertha E. Spencer was re-engaged as a manual training instructor.

SAIL FOR EUROPE.

Miss Mary O'Sullivan, of Arlington avenue, and Miss Ella Sullivan, of Central avenue, sailed yesterday on board the steamship "Campania" for Europe. They will visit their parents in Ireland, not having seen the parental home for a number of years. The local young women expect to spend the entire summer abroad, returning to this city in the fall.

BASEBALL NOTES

Wheat is putting up a great game for Brooklyn. The whole Superba outfit, in fact, is stepping along at a fast clip.

Miner Brown has said right along that his Feds were the best team in St. Louis, and "by cracky" we are beginning to believe him.

Murray, the new outfielder of the Boston Braves, throws left-handed and bats right-handed. He looks like a comer.

That was a poor trade that Fred Clarke pulled off when he landed Ed. Konetchy, formerly of the Cardinals, in Pittsburgh. Poor for the Cards.

The chances are Manager Callahan will wait for more favorable weather before he lets "Big Ed." Walsh go the full distance for the White Sox.

Sherwood Magee seems to be out to give "Gavvy" Cravath a tussle for the home run record. The captain of the Phillies is clouting homers regularly.

Lou Criger, Cy Young's old battery mate, is confined in a private hospital in Boston. He is a very sick man and unable to walk without the aid of crutches.

Manager Hank O'Day is not worrying over the threat of several of the Cubs to jump to the Feds. He has all the Cubs he cares to keep signed up to long-term contracts.

Pitcher A. Rankin Johnson of the Red Sox won the favor of Boston fans when on his first appearance as a big leaguer he whaled his namesake, the great Walter of Washington.

The Giants claim that they play better ball at home because they get better food. They miss the home cooking when living in first-class hotels around the circuit. Whaddyeyu mean, "home cooking?"

Jack Hendricks' Indianapolis team is proving to be the real surprise in the American Association race. Before the opening of the season the Indians were figured to be just about strong enough to get onto the grounds

Dr. Edward H. Moriarty of Mt. Clemens, Mich., whose experiments in an endeavor to find a cure for a cancer have attracted public attention, is an old ball player. Ten years ago he was a star pitcher with the Newark, N. J., team.

WILLIAM S. CORY, AGED 75, DIES AT THE 'PLAINS

The funeral of William S. Cory, aged seventy-five years, who died at his home in Scotch Plains, Monday night, will be held there tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will be in charge of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of this city, of which organization Mr. Cory was a member. The burial will be at Scotch Plains.

He was a veteran of the Civil War, a member of the Baptist church at Scotch Plains and the Royal Arcanum. There survives a widow, a son, William P. Cory, of Washington, and a granddaughter, Miss Edna Requea, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS REPORT LARGE INCREASE

In his report before the delegates attending the biennial convention of the Columbia Union Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists now being held at Baltimore, Elder A. R. Sanborn, of Trenton, president of the New Jersey Conference of that denomination, announced that advancement has been made in nearly all lines of the work in this State during the past two years.

The ministerial forces has been increased, the membership has been considerably enlarged and the believers have been faithful in the payment of their tithes, which goes towards the furtherance of the denomination in New Jersey, as well as in the contributions of foreign missions.

HOUSING CONDITIONS IN CITY AND BOROUGH REVIEWED

"Housing Conditions in Plainfield and North Plainfield" is the title of a pamphlet which has just been issued by the Charity Organization Society and the Anti-Tuberculosis League. It is based on an investigation made by Miss U. D. Brown, an investigator of the National Housing Association, during January and February of this year.

The report, from which detailed extracts will be printed in tomorrow night's Daily Press, states while there are conditions in some parts of the city and borough which need material betterment, the general situation here ranks well with other cities. It reviews in great detail, and shows by illustrations, just what can be done to improve matters, tells of the many good conditions in this city, and makes a number of recommendations, some of which seem to be almost unnecessary. The book has been printed and will be distributed today to members of the two organizations, and such other people as may be interested.

BOROUGH COLLECTOR BROWN TO ENFORCE THE LAW

Marshal Pope, of the borough, is this afternoon, resuming his campaign for the collection of delinquent taxes under the direction of Collector George F. Brown. Mr. Brown stated that the campaign is on in earnest, and those who do not pay their debts to the borough may expect the law to be enforced to the fullest extent. There will be no let-up in the endeavors to clean up the tax books of the community.

A SERIOUS OUTLOOK.

With a promised tax rate of 2.12 or $2.14, as compared with $1.89 last year, Plainfielders will not look forward to next December with a great deal of pleasure, unless there is a decided readjustment of the ratables when the new Board of Assessors gets through. There are some sections of the city where in the past residences have been assessed at eighty per cent. of their value, and other places where the assessment is not over fifty per cent. of the figure at which the owners are holding the property. Truly in these hard times, with money tighter than it has been for years, it is not encouraging to learn that our tax bills are going to take a bigger boost than ever before. Another fire engine, better streets, the new sewage system, new schools, more police and other things seem to be needed, and the growth in ratables does not seem to be able to take care of the constantly increasing demand.

There is no telling where we are coming to, and almost before they realize it the people of Plainfield will find that the tax rate will keep investors from putting their money into property in this city. The tax rate situation is the most serious one that has confronted Plainfield in many years, and the puzzling part of it all comes from the fact that no one seems to be able to devise any plan to keep it down.

NIX FOR REVILLE.

Senator Martine now says that P. J. Reville is not to get the Plainfield postmastership whether or not he is cleared of the old charges against him. As a news dispatch says about the Senator, there is one point on which he is obdurate, and every candidate for the local postoffice can testify to the fact. That is that no one knows where he does stand. In a Washington telegram this is the way in which the situation with "our Jim" is described: "He may have picked the postmaster, said he, and then again, he may not have. The plum might go to this one and it might go to that one, but whether he had picked a man or whether he has not, the Senator said he had decided not to give the slightest intimation of his state of mind until Reville's discharge emerges from the mill of the post office department investigation."

When all this becomes known about town it is a safe bet that all of the fifty-seven varieties of candidates will immediately begin to clear up their personal affairs, preparatory to assuming the job, for didn't Jim say that he will not tell what he is going to do, and that can only mean that he has renewed hope in the minds and bosom of all of the 57.

There is one happy solution of the whole problem that the Senator might still offer, and we believe that it would have the commendation of everyone in town except that self same 57. That would be to rename Postmaster Elias H. Bird, regardless of his politics, for the experience of the people of Plainfield with Mr. Bird in office has been such that they know that the office would continue to be satisfactorily conducted. As much cannot be said if it were placed in charge of some people who would like to get the job.

SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT.

How soon the American people may look for the resumption of greater business activities, and how soon the present crisis in the industrial world will pass over are questions often asked nowadays.

Hugh Rielly, who occupies a high place in the labor union world, recently said: "When hard times come in this State, Plainfield is the first to feel the ill effects of the conditions, and the last to recover the normal state. Considering the conditions in other portions of the State during the past winter, Plainfield has more than held its own, and should not complain, as others have been worse off than this city. However, it should be said that the reaction for the better has started in, and the time is not far distant when improvements in the industrial and financial conditions will be noticed."

State President O'Neill, of the Painters, Paperhangers and Decorators' Union, made this statement at the recent banquet of the local union: "The painting business has passed through one of the hardest seasons on record, but the recent improvements in this line have brought the conditions very close to normal. It will not be long before an era of posperity will be upon us."

With these two statements of representative men of organized labor before us, we cannot help but believe that a wave of prosperity is not far distant.

Although it is not designated specifically in the tax budget, one appropriation made therein is concealed under a general heading, to which attention should be called. We refer to the $500 added to the amount for the poor fund, which is to be used by the Anti-tuberculosis League. This organization is doing an excellent work, and has been entirely maintained by the subscriptions of charitably inclined people. It conducts a clinic, supports the open air school, and is teaching many people, through the nurse, how to avoid the white plague. This is the first time that provision has been made by the Council to help the cause, and no taxpayer who has taken the trouble to look into the work being done by the league will regret the small increase which the $500 will make in the tax rate.

Careful inspection of the tax budget fails to reveal any appropriation which might be construed as one to aid the Public Recreation Committee, who asked for $1,500 to carry on the commendable activity which they have been showing for nearly two years. This is greatly to be regretted, but with the rapidly increasing tax rate, the Council had to cut somewhere, and could not begin making new appropriations.

BOY SCOUTS SPENT RAINY NIGHT AT NEW RENDEZVOUS

Seven Boy Scouts of Troop 11, under the leadership of Assistant Scoutmaster Manley, made up an "all night party" at Camp King, Monday. This is the first of a series of trips which will be held during the season at the new six-acre tract recently set apart by Mr. King for the use of the Boy Scouts.

CASE AGAINST BORO MAN DISMISSED ON TECHNICALITY

Alleging a technical error in the drawing of the indictment against Herbert VanFleet, of North Plainfield, charged with the theft of chickens, Robert Newton Crane, of this city, counsel for the defense, applied for a dismissal of the indictment in the Somerset County Court at Somerville, yesterday, and the motion was granted by Judge Daniel H. Beekman this morning, after reserving decision. In requesting the action the counselor stated that it was illegally drawn and so defective that it would be illegal to try the defendant under it.

The trial was scheduled to be held in Somerville yesterday, but following the action of the counsel for the defense the matter was put off until today pending Judge Beekman's decision. No witnesses were examined.

TWO BECKER JURYMEN.

New York, May 5—Two jurymen have been chosen this morning for the second trial of Police Lieutenant Becker. At 1 o'clock Bourke Cochran moved to commit District Attorney Whitman for contempt for prejudicing the mind of people through newspaper interviews against Becker. Judge Seabury said the matter was trifling and refused to entertain the motion. F. Meredith Blagden, a Harvard graduate, and sponge salesman, who studied law, is the first juryman and he was accepted by both sides without trouble. William B. Dalton, retired, was the second, twenty-four being examined to secure these two.

Sable Island, N. S., May 6.—A wireless dispatch from the steamer Manhattan says that she has picked up fourteen members of the crew of the steamer Columbian, burned at sea, among whom is Captain McDonald. An engineer was killed by the explosion and one man was drowned while leaving the ship. The rescue occurred in 41.19 north latitude and 59.35 west longtitude. This makes the number of known dead three and the number of saved 27. The Manhattan and the Haverford are searching for the other boat, which held 19 men.

PARENTS HEAR FROM SON NOW IN MEXICO

Ensign William Burtis Writes Letter on Old Mexican Typewriter.

An interesting letter was received by Mrs. Murray Burtis, of Fairview avenue yesterday, from her son, William, who is an Ensign in the U. S. Navy and at present is stationed in Mexico on the U. S. S. New Jersey. Burtis was on guard in one of the lighthouses near Vera Cruz and happened to find an old Mexican typewriter and wrote the message.

In the letter Burtis stated that he expected to be relieved from duty in the near future by the arrival of the army and then he would go back to his ship. The New Jersey was one of the first ones to go to the scene of disorder and has been there ever since.

The Plainfielder tells one exciting incident in one of his letters. While he and a few other officers were passing through a court yard they were suddenly fired upon and two of the men fell. The shots came from Mexican guns that were stationed in one of the houses. Burtis has sent many interesting pictures of war scenes to this city.

FOUR BIG HITS FOR ANNUAL P. H. S. SHOW

Unusually Fine Array of Talent for Minstrel to Be Given Saturday Night.

Plans have been completed for the annual minstrel show of the Plainfield High School Boys' Athletic Association and the entertainment will be given in the Plainfield Theatre Saturday night, under the direction of a student committee. It was originally planned to conduct the minstrel in the school's new auditorium but the delay in the construction work has made this impossible. The show this year will be divided into four parts as follows: The main minstrel performance, a sketch by Ralph Green, Fred Vaughn, and Gerard Nelson; comic sketch by Joseph Carty and Valentine Goldsmith and an original sketch written by Sewell Ulrich.

The minstrel scene is laid in a typical southern plantation, the end representing the workers. Sewell Ulrich, who has taken an active interest in the P. H. S. minstrel shows, for some years past, is coaching the players again this year and has selected the following as end-men, Curtis Dall, Daniel F. McNamee, Gerald Linke, James Noonan, Cortlandt Fleming and Harold Williams. A large assortment of snappy topical jokes of the side-splitting variety will be disbursed by the end-men and the opening portion of the program promises to be a continuous laugh.

The Plainfield High School orchestra, under the leadership of Mrs. J. C. Evans, will render the music for the affair. The following will sing in the chorus: Bruce Buttfield, Ralph Runyon, Alfred Day, Harold Burdick, Roger Cockburn, Dean Worden, Craig Blair, Ogden Lindsey, Robert Moyer, Elton Greenleaf, Randolph Stelle, William Peacock, Miner Trowbridge, Adelbert Whitford, Arthur Dealaman, Charles Phelps, Clement Moore, Robert Pollock, George Vollmers, Donald Grossett, Donald Hylan, Carlton Dunham, Soloman Weintrob, Roscoe Blanchard, Edward Crone, David Fitch, Parker Newell, Wright McAneny, Frank Van Hoesen, Fred Van Norden, Nicholas Zelmas, Fred MacIntyre, Chester Alpaugh and Allen Campbell.

Trouble In Portugal; Present Administration Called a Failure

ALTHOUGH a revolution has practically taken place in Portugal, about the only news that the outer world has had on the subject is that at the beginning of last month Dr. Alfonso Costa's ministry went out of office and has since been succeeded by a number of the old republican revolutionaries headed by Bernardino Machado as premier—many of whom had been kept out of office since the establishment of the republic by the machinations of the Carbinarios, the Portuguese "machine."

The obvious reason for the ministers' resignation is to be found in a communication which was sent by President Arriaga to the premier, Dr. Costa, in which the president expressed the intention of suggesting to the leaders of the different parties that a ministry should be formed which should endeavor to allay the existing political passions.

This new ministry, the president added, should try to secure from parliament the passing of the budget, the amendment of the law of public worship and a wide amnesty for political offenses. The new cabinet, moreover, would be in power during the forthcoming general elections.

An explanation of the situation is given by a person who for several months has been in a position to observe the inside working of politics in Portugal. This explanation takes due note of the fact that the resignation of Dr. Costa and his friends may have been after all merely a political maneuver—a temporary surrender of power, so that they may later establish themselves more firmly.

Dr. Costa, recently retired as prime minister, was for long the real ruler of Portugal. President Arriaga has been a mere figurehead and is old and feeble and without sufficient stamina.

An appalling picture of the existing political conditions in Portugal was recently published by Francis McCullagh in the Nineteenth Century, the conclusion of the author being that the present government is a "nightmare republic," and that the Portuguese people are utterly unfit for a constitutional regime. He does not pose as an advocate of monarchism, but as between two evils he considers the rule of the king vastly to be preferred to that which has dragged Portugal in the dust and made it a byword among the nations. Although in name a "republic," the people, according to Mr. McCullagh, today enjoy far less freedom than they did before. Every privilege has been taken away from the municipalities, their officials are appointed by the government at Lisbon and the peasants of the country are going in a stream to Brazil with their wives and families.

The parliamentary elections, Mr. McCullagh asserts, are a shame and a scandal. The 75 per cent of illiterates which Portugal contains have all been stricken off the registers because they are illiterates, and of the remaining 25 per cent the 15 per cent of royalists are also disqualified on the ground that they did not make application for the right to vote.

Little is to be hoped for, in Mr. McCullagh's opinion, from the royalist emigres, for, while there are courageous and capable men among them, they are handicapped by the weakness, the unreliability and the corruption of the instruments they have to employ. Scores of corrupt bosses who have been driven from Portugal are now thriving by pretending to promote royalist uprisings, and it is doubtful if these men want a restoration. Conspirators in and out of the country have been found to be futilely incompetent. "Portugal has had a constitution too soon, she has had a republic too soon, and the monarchy should not try to return too soon" is the judgment of this observer, who offers no opinion as to the outcome.

PRIEST A NOTABLE COMPOSER.

"Moses," an Opera by Mgr. Perosi, to Be Produced During Exposition.

Noteworthy among musical events arranged for the Panama-Pacific exposition will be the production of an opera, "Moses," composed by Mgr. Dom Lorenzo Perosi, a secular priest and the musical director of the Sistine chapel in the Vatican at Rome. It is further announced that the composer has been invited to conduct the orchestra at the first performance in San Francisco.

Mgr. Dom Perosi is a Venetian and forty-one years of age. In his boyhood he found a friend and patron in Pope Pius X., then patriarch of Venice. Soon after the elevation of Pius

MGR. DOM LORENZO PEROSI.

X. to the papacy Dom Perosi was called to the Vatican. The opera "Moses" was originally presented at the Royal theater at San Carlos in 1906. Mgr. Dom Perosi was the conductor then, and his opera created a sensation in musical circles throughout Italy. Signor de Pasquali, a well known Italian tenor, who was greatly impressed by the composition, suggested the production of the opera in San Francisco during a prolonged stay in that city last year, and he has now completed arrangements for bringing out the opera during the exposition.

As now planned the first production will be in the Greek theater, the classic auditorium presented to San Francisco by Mrs. Phoebe Hearst. There will be four or five special performances, at which there will be a chorus of at least 1,500 voices. This chorus will come from the Catholic churches in and around San Francisco, and its members are already being trained. There will also be performances of the opera in the exposition grounds.

BECKER FIGHTING FOR LIFE.

Preparing Notes In Tombs to Aid Counsel In New Trial.

The illustration shows former Police Lieutenant Charles Becker just as he was about to leave the death house at Sing Sing, where he was for sixteen months, to be conveyed to the Tombs prison in New York city. In sitting for this picture he borrowed an overcoat to conceal his prison garb. After the verdict convicting him of the murder of Herman Rosenthal was reversed by the court of appeals and a new trial granted Becker was taken to the Tombs, where he is busily engaged in preparing notes for use of counsel in his new fight for life.

On the other hand, District Attorney Whitman is examining reams of testimony and notes that he will use to guide him in the next trial of the former police lieutenant. Realizing that his every move is being closely watched by friends of Becker, the district attorney is carrying out his plans for the new trial with absolute secrecy and is taking only one or two members of his staff into his confidence. He has, however, confirmed the report that Becker will be tried again and has further said that he would move for a new trial during April or May. He said that he was unable to fix the exact date because of the great amount of work involved in rounding up witnesses and getting the evidence in shape for legal presentation.

Relatives and friends of the four gun men convicted of the Rosenthal murder are working hard to save them from the electric chair, despite the refusal of the New York court of appeals to grant new trials. They insist that "Lefty Louis" Rosenberg, "Gyp the Blood" Horowitz, "Dago Frank" Cirofici and "Whitey" Lewis are innocent of the murder of the gambler Rosenthal.

—If you have a really desirable house or apartment to rent, your "ad" will constitute GOOD NEWS to some anxious people in this city.

HE WHO LAUGHS LAST, LAUGHS BEST, EGGLEBERT KISTLEBING

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

ROPED AND ROSINED ARENA HAD NO ATTRACTIONS FOR FITZSIMMONS, JR.

When Bob Fitzsimmons announced that he was training his son and heir to become the next heavyweight champion there were many who were heed to his words. It was felt that the son of so great a fighter must necessarily also be a great fighter. Consequently the sporting world is awaiting the youngster's debut with some impatience and is wondering why it does not take place.

The reason came to light recently, when someone on the inside divulged the facts in the case. Young Fitzsimmons does not want to be a fighter. In fact, he wouldn't care if he never saw a boxing glove again.

Now this unexpected lack of warlike spirit in his offspring has grieved the old warrior sorely. His son is a complete puzzle to the veteran Queensberry gladiator, who cannot understand why such a husky young athlete should be averse to picking up a fortune in the ring.

Fitzsimmons has tried to alter his son's view with every argument at his command, but all to no avail. Bobbie cannot see things as his father would have him, and old Bob has given up the job in disgust. Of course, all of this has been kept strictly private. Whenever the two are interviewed on the subject of Bobbie's future during their tour of the country with their boxing stunt needless to say Bobbie talks in a different strain.

Recently, in telling of his exploits, Fitz, Jr., remarked, with becoming modesty, "Maybe the reason I licked those fellows so easily was because they knew my name was Fitzsimmons."

However, there was one occasion when his illustrious name did not save young Fitzsimmons. In fact, it had quite a contrary effect.

It all happened years ago, and might come under the head of his first fight; but it is one of the stories that he does not tell. At the time he was a mere urchin of nine or ten, traveling with his dad, who was starring in "The Honest Blacksmith," then at Hamilton, Ont., for a week's run.

The news that the great Fitzsimmons was in town attracted the rising generation in swarms to the front of the theatre. Few, however, could muster up enough nickels and dimes to gain admittance. Therefore, when young Fitzsimmons strolled out into the lobby he was instantly surrounded by a horde of hero worshippers, who, deprived of the chance to feast their eyes with the sight of the noted pugilist, seized the opportunity to lavish their pent-up enthusiasm upon his offspring.

But there was one little fellow there in whose veins ran a strain of real fighting blood. He had read the accounts of Fitz's great battles, and he was filled with the spirit of conquest. Elbowing his way through the ring, formed by the awestruck youngsters, he found himself face to face with Fitz, Jr.

Only for one moment he hesitated. It took him that long to spit on his hands and motion for a clear space. Master Fitzsimmons eyed these warlike preparations with considerable astonishment, not only because he had done nothing to cause them, but also because the other was his inferior in size. However, he ewas given little time for speculation as to the newcomer's intent. A left to the eye, instantly followed by a lusty right to the nose preceded the loud-voiced announcement that young Fitzsimmons was easy prey, even if his pop was a fighter.

And did young Fitzsimmons straightaway annihilate his impudent foe with one well placed wallop copied from his father's noted collection? He did not.. Instead he beat a masterly retreat, with one hand held to his eye and the other to his damaged nose.

And it is even so to this day. Bob, Jr., would have peace at any cost, and all his father's arguments, cajoleries and blows cannot make him alter his opinion.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—Please let me know how great a distance the big guns of the battleships carry. How far do the biggest fortress cannons and guns shoot?—N. S. W.

Answer—The effective range of the ships' 14-inch guns is about 12 mile. The 16-inch guns mounted on land have a range of about 25 miles.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the fastest mile ever made on a motorcycle?—C.V.F.

Answer—The fastest mile was made by Lee Humiston on an Excelsior machine in 36 seconds flat.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Who are the players on the Brooklyn Feds and what positions do they play?—H. F. R.

Answer—Watch the box scores, old man, and you will be able to find this out for yourself.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where can I get a marriage licens in this city?—J. I. O.

Answer—At the Board of Health offices in the City National Bank building.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the correct pronunciation of "Amateur?"—D. C. B.

Answer—The pronunciation experts, as represented in the dictionaries, give a good deal of latitude to the word "amateur." The one thing to avoid is the pronunciation of the word as though it were spelled "am-a-choor" with the accent on the last syllable. Good usage calls for it being pronounced as if it were spelled "am-a-tur" with the acent on the last syllable the "u" being sounded as the "u" in urge. The "a" in the second syllable should be sounded like the "a" in asked.

WITH THE BOXERS

That $5,000 offer to Georges Carpentier for three bouts in Australia has proved to be a flivver. Promoter Snowy Baker of Sydney has blue-penciled the bid.

Jack Blackburn, the colored boxer, may be one of the principals in a rumpus to be staged at the Atlas A. A. of Boston in the near future.

J. Pray, a Boston amateur boxer, is going to find out for himself whether he is or isn't a real fighter. He has enlisted in the navy and is on his way to Mexico.

Joe Chick's injuries will keep him out of the game for some time to come. He has been obliged to cancel several bouts that were good for a nice bundle of change.

Sam Fitzpatrick claims to have discovered a real honest-to-goodness hope in Jack Davis, son of the heavyweight who was quite a figure in the mitt game in California a quarter of a century ago.

FORMER LOCAL MAN BEST "PRO" SWIMMER

Tom Whitaker Without a Peer as Water Sprinter and Master of Crawl Stroke.

Tom Whitaker, former physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., paid a visit to New York last week. The writer had the pleasure of doing some swimming with Whitaker while here, and Whitaker also gave a demonstration of how they do the crawl in the West, where the leading swimmers of the country are now located. Whitaker has greatly improved as a swimmer since he was in Plainfield, and there is no question in the writer's mind but that he is the most gracefully and beautiful swimmer in this country today, amateur or professional.

There is no doubt but that Whitaker is the fastest swimmer in the professional ranks, as his recent times indicate, having covered the century in the 80 foot tank of the Missouri A. C. in 54 seconds, and also having swam several 100-yard trials since coming East, under the minute.

Whitaker uses a very fast leg drive and a slow arm-motion, every bit of strength being utilized in carrying him through the water.

HERE'S A CHANCE TO BE A REAL ROOTER

Baseball Fans all Need the Plainfield Daily Press Celluloid Scoring Card.

Baseball is conceded by every sportsman to be the national pastime and more people are familiar with this branch of sport than any other. Those who do not know the gome want to learn and those who are familiar with the inside features want to keep abreast of the times. For the convenience of fans, large and small, young and old, the sporting department of the Plainfield Daily Press has provided a feature that will prove a valuable asset to all.

Few there are who attend contests of any variety who do not want to keep tabs on the way the tide is running and it sometimes becomes difficult to keep the details clear in one's mind. Baseball fans have their troubles in trying to keep track of the runs, hits, errors, outs and innings credited to the home and visiting forces and an urgent need is felt for some means of recording the incidents as they happen.

In order to provide for this the Plainfield Daily Press has secured a supply of substantial scoring tablets made out of the best grade celluloid and readers are invited to take advantage of the opportunity offered to become a real fan. Clip the coupon printed in another column of this issue and when you have collected six of different dates bring them to this office and receive one of the tablets.

BUFFALO PAYS $1,200 FOR ALBIN CALRSTROM

Option Exercised by International League Manager Who Notifies Lawrence.

Albin Carlstrom, former local ball player, is now the property of the Buffalo club, of the International League. The Buffalo club exercised its option on the player yesterday and Manager Louis P. Pieper, of the Lawrence team of the New England League, with whom Carlstrom formerly played, was notified to that effect last night.

Buffalo had until yesterday in which to decide whether or not it would keep the player. Buffalo had Carlstrom on a week's trial and if it kept him it was to pay the Lawrence club the sum of $1,200. That makes a total of $2,200 to Lawrence, the Boston Red Sox paying $1,000 when it secured Carlstrom last summer. Boston sold the player to Montreal, that club having until May 15 in which to pay $1,500. Montreal released Carlstrom back to Boston and Boston, in turn, released him back to Lawrence. Buffalo then made the offer for a chance to try out the player and it was agreed to.

Callstrom was hitting fine when Montreal let him go. He has not made a fielding error this season, either in exhibition or league games.

Montreal now regrets that it was so hasty in regard to passing Carlstrom up. He had a slight slump in batting during the last of the exhibition games but he is showing splendid form now.

BRAUM-PARKER DUO GIVEN A SURPRISE

Dropped Fifty Per Cent. of Their Contests Rolled Last Night in Dunellen.

In the games of the Baraca Two-man Tournament on the Presbyterian alleys, Dunellen, last night, the tournament leaders, Brau and Parker, who were expected to have an easy evening of it, dropped two of the four games that they rolled, losing one game to the Brakeley and Voorhees team and the other to the Dealaman and Benson combination.

Brakeley and Voorhees took two straight games from Dealaman and Benson, making their count for the evening of three games won and one lost, while the result of Dealaman and Benson's night's work was one victory and three defeats. Arthur Voorhees took the high individual score of 214 away from George Voehl when he knocked the pins over for the score of 220.

ROD AND REEL

Yesterday's rain spoils the trout fishing for a couple of days, as the ground being soggy, forces the rain into the streams and causes new freshets. Everything is afloat throughout the rural districts and it will be some hours after the rain stops before the trout streams will run off the surplus drainage.

Rod and line fishermen are catching many perch in Lake Hopatcong. Every Sunday a small army of fishermen can be seen on the lake, where eels and perch seem to be plentiful this spring.

Eels are being caught on a bob in Raritan bay along the flats that line the New Jersey shore from Morgan east to Keyport. One of the Morgan residents fished just off the mouth of Chesequake Creek one evening last week and caught a bushel basketful in a few hours. Herring are also in the bay at that point, but they are only caught in the nets.

Pohatcong Creek, near Port Murray, has been fished by a number of local anglers since the season opened on April 1, and it has yielded more fish than any other stream in that section.

BECKER'S NEW FIGHT FOR LIFE HAS STARTED

New Witnesses Against Accused Rosenthal Slayer.

New York, May 6.—Charles Becker, former head of Waldo's strong arm squad, was placed on trial before Justice Seabury in the criminal branch of the supreme court today for the second time on the charge of conspiring the murder of Herman Rosenthal a few hours before Rosenthal was to have gone to District Attorney Whitman and tell him about Becker's grafting.

One of the six new witnesses who have been found by the district attorney since the court of appeals reversed the verdict of the jury found against Becker in the first trial will be Moe Levy, whose right name is Cohen, chauffeur of the taxicab which carried Sam Schepps and Bridgie Webber to the meeting place in Harlem where Becker is said to have made the last details for the shooting of Rosenthal.

Levy already has made an affidavit in support of Becker and now is said to have repudiated that affidavit, which Mr. Whitman now has locked away in his safe. Levy's first affidavit, supporting Becker and incorporated by Joseph A. Shay, former counsel to Becker, in his argument for the reversal of judgment, denied that he drove any of the alleged participants in the shooting of Becker to the Harlem meeting place. The new affidavit is said to corroborate the testimony of Webber, Schepps, Jack Rose and Vallon concerning the meeting in Harlem.

The defense maintains that the testimony concerning this conference was nothing more than fabrication. It has been vehemently assailed by Becker's lawyers.

MAY RECALL ENVOY RUSSELL

Plan Is to Appoint a Democrat as Minister to Persia.

Washington, May 6.—It is understood in official circles here that Charles W. Russell, American minister to Persia, will be recalled and a Democrat appointed to fill the place. State department officials refused to deny the report.

Mr. Russell is a holdover from the last administration. He received his commission from President Taft on Dec. 21, 1908. He is a native of West Virginia, but was appointed from the District of Columbia.

Eccles, W. Va., May 6.—Included among 137 bodies recovered from mine No. 5 of the New River Collieries company was that of Freeman Linville of Charleston, W. Va., an insurance agent, who went below ground to talk insurance to a mine boss. Linville had written insurance for ninety men in the mine.

Set May 18 as the Day For Conference.

CARRANZA STILL RETICENT

Washington Is Pessimistic Now on Outcome of Negotiations — Funston Is Worried by Mexican War Plans—Situation In Vera Cruz Growing More Acute.

HUERTA SAYS HE WILL NOT RESIGN.

London, May 6. President Huerta told the Mexico City correspondent of the Daily Mail that he was not going to give up his position as chief executive of Mexico. He said: "I have no thought of resigning the office which the republic conferred upon me."

General Huerta declared that his health was good. In reply to a question as to his sentiments toward Americans he said:

"The conduct of my government and of the Mexican people toward the Americans who are remaining here during the present conflict is the best answer to that question."

Washington, May 6.—The mediation conferences for the settlement of the Mexican situation will be held at Niagara Falls, Canada, beginning May 18. This was announced by the mediators.

General Carranza, owing to his refusal to suspend hostilities, has practically been eliminated from the mediation negotiations. The three South American mediators have, however, left a lookhole through which the Constitutionalist leader may reverse his decision and be accepted in the "peace party." At a late hour last night there was no indication that Carranza intended to yield.

The elimination of Carranza has seriously threatened what little likelihood of success there was in the mediation program. This was apparent on all sides here. Optimism was at the lowest ebb since the peace proceedings were begun, and officials who heretofore have been hopeful acknowledged for the first time that it looked very much as if mediation in Mexico would be a failure.

Railroad to Capital Mined.

This disquieting view of developments in Washington was intensified by information from Vera Cruz which indicated that the Mexican troops under General Gustavo Maas were proceeding rapidly with their preparations of defense.

General Funston has reported that there are about 15,000 Mexican troops now between Vera Cruz and Mexico City. The mining of the railroad track and the throwing up of other defenses are obviously strengthening the position of Huerta's men and are a source of considerable worry to General Funston.

News of two additional deaths at Vera Cruz had a saddening effect everywhere. It had been hoped that all of the wounded would recover, and the news that two more had died, bringing the death total to nineteen, was not well received.

While Mexican affairs occupied only a few minutes of the time of the regular cabinet meeting, the president and Secretary Bryan considered them for nearly two hours.

Bryan would say nothing regarding this conference. It is known, however, that the president had before him the conclusions arrived at by the general staff, which has considered Funston's position and which should Maas take the offensive call for the immediate dispatch of 11,000 coast artillerymen organized as infantry to Vera Cruz. Funston in the meantime holding his position with bluejackets and marines.

Mediation is limping badly. One of its crutches—the support of the Constitutionalists—has been lost, temporarily at least.

And inasmuch as the Constitutionalists are masters of northern Mexico and are fast moving to take possession of the capital of the republic, the support lost is extremely important.

To be sure, the important cause of the withdrawal of Carranza from the position of a factor in mediation is the action of the mediators in recalling their invitation to him to participate. But their action in turn was due to Carranza's refusal to agree to an armistice with Huerta.

Huerta, on the other hand, is likewise causing concern to the friends of mediation. Official reports to the war department from General Funston do not conceal the general's belief that the Huerta forces under General Maas are concentrating in the vicinity of Vera Cruz for a hostile move of some sort.

Consequently, if the mediators hold to form the prospects are that in the near future they might be compelled to withdraw their invitation to Huerta to participate in the negotiations. Obviously mediation could not get far with the United States as the only party in interest willing to comply with the demands of the mediators.

Fears For Austrian Ruler.

London, May 6.—The Vienna correspondent of the Times says as to the condition of Emperor Francis Joseph. "The persistence of the catarrh which has kept him indoors for five weeks and the loss of sleep occasioned by his cough cannot be regarded with confidence."

DAINTY DESIGN FOR EMBROIDERY

Just a bit of hand embroidery on a simple frock lends individuality as well as style. Although simplicity is an essential point in young folks' clothes, this dainty little border may be used without destroying this effect, even on an infant's dress. The width of this border is 1 inch and the pattern contains 6 yards and 4 corners. This design is suitable for embroidering children's and infants' dresses, racks, coats, caps, also neckwear, lingerie, blouse and underwear.

The flowers and leaves in pattern 14465 may be developed in solid work and eyelets and the stems in outline-stitch using white mercerized cotton. Never use silk for embroidering an article, which is frequently laundered as it turns yellow and cracks. The solid work should be well padded with stitches taken lengthwise of the leaves, then worked over with stitches laid closely together.

For eyelet embroidery, run around the outline with small stitches, then punch the center open with a stiletto and work over the running stitches and the edge with over-and-over stitches.

Outline-stitch is done by taking consecutive stitches of even length with the needle pointed towards the sewer, taking each stitch back to the middle of the preceding one, keeping the thread always on the left side of the needle.

Hand embroidery is a very durable trimming for children's clothes as it wears so well, often outwearing the garment itself, and it always looks well when laundered. A bit of lace or tucks may be combined with this narrow border, if a wider one is desired.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern will be sent to readers for 10 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

6187

A very simple quickly made nightgown for a girl of from 2 to 14 is shown in No. 6187. It slips on over the head; may be made with a round or square neck and finished with a bit of embroidery, lace insertion or edging. Among the materials most favored for underwear is cotton crepe; instead of pure white, to which we have always been accustomed, it is quite the fad nowadays to make these garments up in pale shades, pink, blue, yellow and lavender. This crepe washes excellently and requires no ironing. If crepe is used for this gown the embroidery may be worked out in a mercerized cotton, or the gown may be effectively trimmed with a rather heavy quality of cluny edging. For the girl of 8 years this pattern requires 2¾ yards of 36-inch material. Pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 2 to 14 years.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

SOME SPRING MARMALADES.

In the spring the tart fruits, like the lemon, grapefruit or orange, on account of the acid they contain, have a distinct tonic effect. They serve to clean the blood as well as tone up the digestive organs.

Use For Food Chopper.

Orange Marmalade.—Take two oranges and one lemon. Wash well, cut in halves, take out juice and seeds. Grind with a food chopper, using medium knife. Measure all. Allow one and one-half cupfuls of water to one cupful of liquid and pulp. Boil one-half hour. Set away overnight. Measure again. To one cupful fruit add one cupful of sugar. Boil thirty-five minutes after it begins to boil.

Combination Marmalade.—Slice very fine one grapefruit, one orange and one lemon. Take three times as much water as fruit; let stand overnight. In the morning boil for ten minutes and let stand overnight again. In the morning take as much sugar as water and fruit. Cook until it jellies. Put into tumblers.

With Pulp and Rind.

Grapefruit Marmalade.—Cut off the yellow rind of some grapefruit and boil it in strongly salted water until quite soft and transparent. Drain off the water and soak the peel for two hours in cold water. After scraping off the white pulp the peel must be sliced thinly. Take the pulp and remove pith and place it with the juice in another pan. Add the peel with an equal weight of sugar and boil until it jellies.

Lemon Marmalade.—Take a pound of lemons, a pound and a half of sugar to each pound of pulp and three pints of water. Divide the lemons into quarters, remove the pips and stringy portions and cover these with a teacupful of water. Then pare the quarters and cut the rind into thin strips. Break up the pulp and place in a bowl. Add three pints of water; also the strips of rind. Allow to stand twenty-four hours. Place the fruity mixture in the preserving pan and add the strained liquid from the pips. Boil for one hour. Add one pound sugar to each pound of pulp. Boil for three-quarters of an hour, when the strup should set in a clear jelly with the thin strips interspersed.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Fairies' Trip Through The Clouds.

They Sailed Away, Feeling Like Birds.

IT had been some time since the last fairy story had been heard, and daddy knew that that would never do, for Evelyn was always so radiantly happy when one was to be told.

"Well, how about a fairy story tonight, children?" asked daddy.

"The fairies had the most perfect trip the other day," said daddy. "They had been playing so much that they could not think of a game they wanted to play, and that very rarely happens in fairyland.

"Now, the queen of the fairies said: 'I have a scheme. We will visit the clouds. We haven't been on a trip for ever and ever so long, and I will admit that I would like a little change myself.'

"'Marvelous!' cried all the fairies. 'We would love to do that better than anything in the world. When shall we go?'

"'Why, this afternoon; right now.'

"'Well, we must be off,' said the fairy queen. 'Come, fairy airships; fly down to this mossy ground, and then we can go up to the clouds.'

"At that the lovellest airships appeared. They looked almost like clouds themselves, so filmy and white were they.

"The fairies clapped their hands with wildest glee, for they had never visited the clouds in the airships before.

"So off they sailed, feeling just like birds with the delightful flying motion of the ships. And up to the silvery clouds they went. When they got in the clouds the cloud fairies—you know there are fairies who live in the clouds all the time—took them all around and showed them their homes. And such homes as they have! They have the most marvelous palaces, with courtyards and exquisite scenery all about. They have tall mountains where they always go for their parties. Everything is such a beautiful color too, for the cloud fairies are very fond of pale grays and blues and silver.

"Then the fairies from the woods suggested to the cloud fairies that they should return their visit and come to earth.

"'We would love to do that,' said the cloud fairies. So off they began to fly from the clouds. They needed no airships, but do you know what happened?

"As they began to drop great big drops of rain fell to the earth, and then the heaviest kind of a rainstorm began for the earth people, for of course when the cloud fairies move the rain is not held any more and it falls to the earth.

"But the fairies from the woods didn't mind, as the big trees always protect them; and the cloud fairies only let the rain fall where there were no trees. So the afternoon was one of greatest pleasure for both the wood fairies and the cloud fairies."

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Rod That Blossomed.

IVORY BOYNTON had taken the horse and gone to the village on an errand, a rare thing for him to do after dark, so Rod was thinking as he sat in the living room learning his Sunday school lesson on the same evening that the men were gossiping at the brick store. His aunt had required him from the time when he was proficient enough to do so to read at least a part of a chapter in the Bible every night. Beginning with Genesis, he had reached Leviticus and had made up his mind that the Bible was a much more difficult book than "Scottish Chiefs" notwithstanding the fact that Ivory helped him over most of the hard places. At the present juncture he was vastly interested in the subject of "rods" as unfolded in the book of Exodus, which was being studied by his Sunday school class. What added to the excitement was the fact that his uncle's Christian name, Aaron, kept appearing in the chronicle as frequently as that of the great lawgiver Moses himself, and there were many verses about the wonder working rods of Moses and Aaron that had a strange effect upon the boy's ear when he read them aloud, as he loved to do whenever he was left alone for a time. When his aunt was in the room his instinct kept him from doing this, for the mere mention of the name of Aaron, he feared, might sadden his aunt and provoke in her that dangerous vein of reminiscence that made Ivory so anxious.

"It kind o' makes me nervous to be named Rod, Aunt Boynton," said the boy, looking up from the Bible. "All the rods in these Exodus chapters do such dreadful things! They become serpents, and one of them swallows up all the others, and Moses smites the waters with a rod, and they become blood, and the people can't drink the water and the fish die! Then they stretch a rod across the streams and ponds and bring a plague of frogs over the land, with swarms of flies and horrible insects."

"That was to show God's power to Pharaoh and melt his hard heart to obedience and reverence," explained Mrs. Boynton, who had known the Bible from cover to cover in her youth and could still give chapter and verse for hundreds of her favorite passages.

"It took an awful lot of melting, Pharaoh's heart!" exclaimed the boy. "Pharaoh must have been worse than Deacon Baxter! I wonder if they ever tried to make him good by being kind to him! I've read and read, but I can't find they used anything on him but plagues and famines and boils and pestilences and thunder and hail and fire! Have I got a middle name, Aunt Boynton, for I don't like Rod very much?"

"I never heard that you had a middle name; you must ask Ivory," said his aunt abstractedly.

"Did my father name me Rod, or my mother?"

"I don't really know. Perhaps it was your mother, but don't ask questions, please."

"I forgot, Aunt Boynton! Yes, I think perhaps my mother named me. Mothers 'most always name their babies, don't they? My mother wasn't like you, she looked just like the picture of Pocahontas in my history. She never knew about these Bible rods, I guess."

"When you go a little further you will find pleasanter things about rods," said his aunt, knitting, knitting intensely, as was her habit, and talking as if her mind were 1,000 miles away. "You know they were just little branches of trees, and it was only God's power that made them wonderful in any way."

"Oh! I thought they were like the singing teacher's stick he keeps time with."

"No; if you look at your concordance you'll find it gives you a chapter in Numbers where there's something beautiful about rods. I have forgotten the place. It has been many years since I looked at it. Find it and read it aloud to me." The boy searched his concordance and readily found the reference in the 17th chapter of Numbers.

"Stand near me and read," said Mrs. Boynton. "I like to hear the Bible read aloud!"

Rodman took his Bible and read, slowly and haltingly, but with clearness and understanding:

"1. And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying:

"2. Speak unto the children of Israel, and take of every one of them a rod according to the house of their fathers, of all their princes according to the house of their fathers twelve rods: write thou every man's name upon his rod."

Through the boy's mind there darted the flash of a thought, a sad thought. He himself was a Rod on whom no man's name seemed to be written, orphan that he was, with no knowledge of his parents!

Suddenly he hesitated, for he had caught sight of the name of Aaron in the verse that he was about to read and did not wish to pronounce it in his aunt's hearing.

"This chapter is most too hard for me to read out loud, Aunt Boynton," he stammered. "Can I study it by myself and read it to Ivory first?"

"Go on, go on, you read very sweetly. I cannot remember what comes and I wish to hear it."

"3. And thou shalt write Aaron's name upon the rod of Levi: for one rod shall be for the head of the house of their fathers.

"4. And thou shalt lay them up in the tabernacle of the congregation before the testimony, where I will meet with you.

"5. And it shall come to pass that the man's rod, whom I shall choose, shall blossom: and I will make to cease from me the murmurings of the children of Israel, whereby they murmur against you."

Rodman Took His Bible and Read.

Rodman had read on, absorbed in the story and the picture it presented to his imagination. He liked the idea of all the princes having a rod according to the house of their fathers. He liked to think of the little branches being laid on the altar in the tabernacle, and above all he thought of the longing of each of the princes to have his own rod chosen for the blossoming.

"6. And Moses spoke unto the children of Israel, and every one of their princes gave him a rod apiece, for each prince one, according to their father's houses, even twelve rods; and the rod of Aaron was among their rods."

Oh! how the boy hoped that Aaron's branch would be the one chosen to blossom! He felt that his aunt would be pleased, too, but he read on steadily, with eyes that glowed and breath that came and went in a very palpitation of interest:

"7. And Moses laid up the rods before the Lord in the tabernacle of witness.

"8. And it came to pass, that on the morrow Moses went into the tabernacle of witness; and, behold, the rod of Aaron was budded and brought forth buds, and bloomed blossoms, and yielded almonds."

It was Aaron's rod, then, and was an almond branch! How beautiful, for the blossoms would have been pink; and how the people must have marvelled to see the lovely blooming thing on the dark altar, first budding, then blossoming, then bearing nuts! And what was the rod chosen for? He hurried on to the next verse:

"9. And Moses brought out all the rods from before the Lord unto all the children of Israel: and they looked, and took every man his rod.

"10. And the Lord said unto Moses, Bring Aaron's rod again before the testimony to be kept for a token against the rebels; and thou shalt quite take away their murmurings from me, that they die not."

"Oh, Aunt Boynton," cried the boy, "I love my name after I've heard about the almond rod! Aren't you proud that it's uncle's name that was written on the one that blossomed?"

He turned swiftly to find that his aunt's knitting had slipped on the floor; her nerveless hands drooped by her side as if there were no life in them, and her head had fallen against the back of her chair. The boy was paralyzed with fear at the sight of her closed eyes and the deathly pallor of her face. He had never seen her like this before, and Ivory was away. He flew for a bottle of spirit, always kept in the kitchen cupboard for emergencies, and throwing wood on the fire in passing, he swung the crane so that the tea kettle was over the flame. He knew only the humble remedies that he had seen used here or there in illness and tried them timidly, praying every moment that he might hear Ivory's step. He warmed a soapstone in the embers and, taking off Mrs. Boynton's shoes, put it under her cold feet. He chafed her hands and gently poured a spoonful of brandy between her pale lips. Then, sprinkling camphor on a handkerchief, he held it to her nostrils, and to his joy she stirred in her chair; before many minutes her lids fluttered, her lips moved, and she put her hand to her heart.

"Are you better, aunt dear?" Rod asked in a very wavering and tearful voice.

She did not answer; she only opened her eyes and looked at him. At length she whispered faintly, "I want Ivory; I want my son."

"He's out, aunt dear. Shall I help you to bed the way Ivory does? If you'll let me, then I'll run to the bridge 'cross lots like lightning and bring him back."

She assented and, leaning heavily on his slender shoulder, walked feebly into her bedroom off the living room. Rod was as gentle as a mother, and he was familiar with all the little offices that could be of any comfort—the soapstone warmed again for her feet, the bringing of her nightgown from the closet and when she was in bed another spoonful of brandy in hot milk; then the camphor by her side, an extra homespun blanket over her and the door left open so that she could see the open fire that he made into a cheerful huddle, contrived so that it would not snap and throw out dangerous sparks in his absence.

All the while he was doing this Mrs. Boynton lay quietly in the bed talking to herself fitfully in the faint murmuring tone that was habitual to her. He could distinguish scarcely anything, only enough to guess that her mind was still on the Bible story that he was reading to her when she fainted. "The rod of Aaron was among the other rods," he heard her say, and a moment later, "Bring Aaron's rod again before the testimony."

Was it his uncle's name that had so affected her? wondered the boy, almost sick with remorse, although he had tried his best to evade her command to read the chapter aloud. What would Ivory, his hero, his pattern and example, say? It had always been Rod's pride to carry his little share of every burden that fell to Ivory, to be faithful and helpful in every task given to him. He could walk through fire without flinching, he thought, if Ivory told him to, and he only prayed that he might not be held responsible for this new calamity.

"Does your side ache worse?" Rod asked, tiptoeing to the door.

"No. I am quite free from pain."

"Would you be afraid to stay alone just for awhile if I lock both doors and run to find Ivory and bring him back?"

"No. I will sleep," she whispered, closing her eyes. "Bring him quickly before I forget what I want to say to him."

Rod sped down the lane and over the fields to the brick store where Ivory usually bought his groceries. His cousin was not there, but one of the men came out and offered to take his horse and drive over the bridge to see if he were at one of the neighbors' on that side of the river. Not a word did Rod breathe of his aunt's illness; he simply said that she was lonesome for Ivory, and so he came to find him. In five minutes they saw the Boynton horse hitched to a tree by the roadside, and in a trice Rod called him and, thanking Mr. Bixby, got into Ivory's wagon to wait for him. He tried his best to explain the situation as they drove along, but finally concluded by saying: "Aunt really made me read the chapter to her, Ivory. I tried not to when I saw uncle's name in most every verse but I couldn't help it."

"Of course you couldn't! Now you jump out and hitch the horse while I run in and see that nothing has happened while she's been left alone. Perhaps you'll have to go for Dr. Perry."

Ivory went in with fear and trembling, for there was no sound save the ticking of the tall clock. The fire burned low upon the hearth, and the door was open into his mother's room. He lifted a candle that Rod had left ready on the table and stole softly to her bedside. She was sleeping like a child, but exhaustion showed itself in every line of her face. He felt her hands and feet and found the soapstone in the bed, saw the brandy bottle and the remains of a cup of milk on the light stand, noted the handkerchief, still strong of camphor, on the counterpane and the blanket spread carefully over her knees, and then turned approvingly to meet Rod stealing into the room on tiptoe, his eyes big with fear.

"Let me watch, Ivory! I'd feel better if you'd let me, honest I would!"

The boy's face was drawn with anxiety. Ivory's attention was attracted by the wistful eyes and the beauty of the forehead under the dark hair. He seemed something more than the child of yesterday—a care and responsibility and expense for all his loving obedience; he seemed all at once different tonight—older, more dependable, more trustworthy—in fact, a positive comfort and help in time of trouble.

"I did the best I knew how. Was anything wrong?" asked the boy, as Ivory stood regarding him with a friendly smile.

"Nothing wrong, Rod! Dr. Perry couldn't have done any better with what you had on hand. I don't know how I should get along without you, boy!" Here Ivory patted Rod's shoulder. "You're not a child any longer, Rod; you're a man and a brother, that's what you are, and to prove it I'll take the first watch and call you up at 1 o'clock to take the second so that I can be ready for my school work tomorrow. How does that suit you?"

"Tiptop!" said the boy, flushing with pride. "I'll lie down with my clothes on; it's only 9 o'clock and I'll get four hours' sleep; that's a lot more than Napoleon used to have."

He carried the Bible upstairs and just before he blew out his candle he looked again at the chapter in Numbers, thinking he would show it to Ivory privately next day. Again the story enchanted him, and again, like a child, he puts his own name and his living self among the rods in the tabernacle.

"Ivory would be the prince of our house," he thought. "Oh, how I'd like to be Ivory's rod and have it be the one that was chosen to blossom and keep the rebels from murmuring!"

THE FORUM.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

In the spring of 1913 the Saturday Evening Post published a cartoon—vulgar, silly and untruthful—depicting an Anti-Suffragist being presented with a hugh bouquet by the representatives of vice interests.

These men were labeled "White Slaver," "Food Doper," "Political Boss," "Saloon-keeper," "Child-labor Exploiter," and the face of each was typical of the class he represented.

The spokesman is saying, "We have called to express our extreme gratitude fer the beeutiful fight you are making in our behalf."

The vulgarity of the whole thing should have turned everyone from it, but it was copied freely, text and picture in Suffrage magazines, and used by the Suffrage association as literature apparently being considered an unanswerable argument in favor of "Votes for Women."

Incidentally the ballot would fall into the hands of these "Antis," a fact that the Suffragists apparently overlook.

At a meeting of the Anti-Suffrage branch in Plainfield last summer, a bouquet was thrown into the room, to which was attached a card bearing the inscription quoted above.

On being interviewed by a reporter of the New York Sun as to the probable origin of this insult, I voiced the opinion of the members of our association, in stating that we could not imagine its eminating from the Suffragists. An opinion we have since changed with good cause

At a meeting of the Union County W. C. T. U. at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Thursday last, there was distributed a hand-bill, bearing the cartoon and inscription from the "Saturday Evening Post" and headed "The enemies of 'Votes for Women'."

Although confident that the respected president of the local W. C. T. U., Mrs. Tomlinson, could be in no way responsible for this action, I asked her confirmation of my opinion, to be assured she had not even seen the objectionable bill.

Mrs. Edythe M. Currie, of Cranford, she assured me, was probably responsible for its presence at the meeting, as she distributed it. Mrs. Currie also recited an "Anti-Suffrage Monologue" at the afternoon meeting. Mrs. Tomlinson is president of the Union County W. C.T. U.and Mrs. Currie vice-president.

Does Mrs. Currie or any other individual member of the W. C. T. U. or the Union County W. C. T. U. as an institution, really believe its work will be materially advanced, by openly villifying the members of any association, merely because they are opposed to them politically?

These workers under the name of Christ circulate this false, vulgar thrust at a large majority of the women of the country, heading it as above, and below the picture describe the lowest sins of life, which they pretend automatically disappear with the acquisition of the ballot by women, and could not in any other way.

Before adding the statements given below, together with the authorities from which they are derived, I would point out to those women,who thus attempt to advance their propaganda, that such methods do but prove that there are just as surely women as men unfit for the responsibility and power of the ballot.

One more instance in which woman has proved—through her methods in the effort to get into politics—her entire unfitness to be in politics.

The following will prove the correctness or otherwise of the claims of the Suffragists regarding women's votes, and were prepared by Mr. George M. Poller, Government Statistician.

So many of our best people are being misled on the liquor question by the Suffragists, that it is well to submit some facts on that subject. No State in which women have voted on the question has State-wide prohibition ever been adopted. Nine States where men alone vote, have State-wide prohibition. Nov. 5, 1912, Colorado voted on State-wide prohibition. 75,877 votes were cast for the measure and 116,744 against (See page 159—Abstract of Votes compiled from official returns by James B. Pearce, Secretary of State, Denver, Col.) If 58 per cent. of the women over twenty-one years of age in Colorado had voted for prohibition the measure would have become a law by 6,014 majority, without a single male vote being cast for prohibition. There being 213,425 women over twenty-one years of age in Colorado (Page 118—Abstract of Census 1910).

Wyoming legalized gambling for about forty years after women had the ballot and had neither State-wide prohibition or local option laws.

About six years prior to the adoption of Woman Suffrage in California, Los Angeles voted on local option and the measure was defeated two to one. About a month after women had the ballot in Los Angeles, the question was again voted on and the saloons won by nearly three to one.

December, 1912, Los Angeles voted on the question of abolishing free lunches in saloons, but the measure was defeated and lunches are still free in Los Angeles saloons. Missouri and I think Connecticut have State-wide laws prohibiting free lunches in saloons.

Pasadena, Cal., for many years, in fact, practically for its entire history, had been a dry city. But soon after women were given the franchise, the sale of liquor was legalized. Pasadena had in 1910, 2,688 more women over 21 years of age than men (about 29 per cent.)

Dec. 2, 1913, Santa Monica. Cal., voted wet. Ballots nearly three to one for liquor to be sold on Sundays and nights. The Los Angeles Times of Dec. 3, says the triumph of "demon rum" and "the sparkling cabaret" is attributed to the women, who voted two to one against a Sunday drought. Total vote for the saloons and Sunday liquor 2,173 against 814. Letter under date of Dec. 13, 1913, from Director of U. S. Census shows that in 1910 Santa Monica had 2,412 males and 2,748 females over twenty-one years of age; 186 more women than men, yet we have the sale of liquor legalized in cafe's all night and on Sundays in a city of homes of less than 8,000 (7,847) people and I doubt that a parallel can be found in any State where the franchise is limited to men.

Redondo, Cal., voted on local option Oct. 14, 1913. The saloons won. Los Angeles Times of Oct. 15, says that both sides claim the result was due to the women's votes.

Asheim, Cal., (population 2,628) voted local option, Nov. 6, 1913. The saloons won. See LosAngeles Times, Nov. 7, 1913.

In Colorado Springs, Colo., where the sale of liquor was prohibited for many years, women voted on the question about two years ago and liquor selling was legalized. Colorado Springs had 813 more women than men over twenty-one years of age in 1910. Letter of Director of Census Feb. 28, 1914. On pages 202 and 203 annual report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, you will find that in the six States that had Woman Suffrage, Jan. 1, 1912 (California, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah and Washington) there were 26,232 liquor dealers paying special license to the government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913. From page 24, Abstract of U. S. Census, 1910, you will find the six Suffrage States above mentioned had a population of 5,163,473, one liquor dealer for every 196 people in the six States. For the remaining 42 States and District of Columbia,there were 226,009 liquor dealers paying license for the same period. These 42 States and District of Columbia had a population of 88,808,796 or one liquor dealer for every 392 people, or just one-half of the number of dealers per capita that the Woman Suffrage States require, and then we are told by the Suffragists that they are not favorable to the liquor interests. (Kansas, Oregon and Arizona only adopted Woman Suffrage, Nov. 5, 1912. Kansas has been a prohibition State for more than twenty-five years.) 99 counties out of 120 in Kentucky, the whiskey distilling State, have adopted local option. 65 out of 114 counties in Missouri have no saloons and about one-half of the people in the United States outside of Woman Suffrage States live in dry territory. Eugene W. Chafin, former candidate on the Prohibition ticket for President, said at Long Beach, Cal., Feb. 15, 1914, that the support expected by Prohibitionists in California from women had not yet developed. See Los Angeles Times, Feb. 16, 1914.

In the recent campaign in Chicago, (Feb. 1914), Miss Marion Drake,who was nominated for Alderman in the First ward was quoted in the newspapers as standing "for free lunch and saloons." The National Liquor Dealers' Association, in annual convention in Washington, D. C., in February, 1914, were addresed by Congressman Dyer, of Missouri, who was quoted by The Washington Star of Feb. 5, 1914, as saying: "If I get a chance I will vote for Woman Suffrage. If suffrage is obtained I will stop you fellows worrying about prohibition."

Denver Post, Oct. 17, 1913. Report of Mrs. Stewart Walling and Dr. Elizabeth Cassidy, Colorado Reformatory—"Rotten, nothing but filth and graft found at Buena Vista. Merely a prepartory school for the penitentiary. The reformatory submerged in politics is a monument to graft, ignorance, stupidity, extravagance and mismanagement. Building so infested with vermin that only fire could purify it."

The Daily News of Denver of Oct. 3, 1913, says the Rev. A. H. Shattuck of Grand Junction, has stirred up the animals in fine shape by a public denunciation of conditions which he alleges exist in Grand Junction, Colo. Here are a few of the opinions he expresses:

"Lawlessness is pronounced among us."

"Illicit liquor selling is notorious."

"Gambling joints are in full swing."

"Boys and girls roam our streets late at night in unrestrained violation of the curfew ordinance." (The mothers are possibly away from home attending to political affairs.)

"Officials who hate unjust gain we need."

To two interesting parts I would call attention. First, that Mrs. Carrie Lee Carter Stokes, described as having "wide campaign experience" and Mrs. Ellen D. Blair as "the well-known chalk-talker," both have their homes in Los Angeles.

Second, that in many places that voted wet, there are more women voters than men.

I regret that to be complete and comprehensive this letter is of necessity long, but thank you still more for the courtesy of the required space.

Yours truly,
R. A. LAWRENCE.

FRUIT OUTLOOK IS MOST PROMISING

Little Likelihood of Trees Being Nipped by Cold Snaps.

Farmers living in the Washington valley and Warren township sections near here, regarded as one of the finest agricultural areas in the State, report that the fruit outlook for the present season is the most promising they have known in many years. The continued cold during March and April kept the sap from running in the trees, so that none of them were far advanced about the time the late frosts generally get in their destructive work. The buds are now out in good healthy shape and the likelihood of their being nipped is very slight.

William H. Rogers, of Watchung, who is one of the heaviest shippers of apples and peaches in Somerset county, said yestreday, that his orchards will probably yield the largest crop he has ever gathered. The outlook is not confined to apples and peaches, he added, but includes pears, plums, cherries and other nature fruits. Israel Adams, Henry Kline, John Miller and several other prominent Warren township residents corroborated Mr. Rogers' sanguinary forecast. They said in common that if fairly decent prices prevail, no fruiterer in the state should have to pay off the last bit of mortgage on his place, provided of course, the various crops are brought to successful maturity in the absence of droughts and hail storms.

TO DROP SUMMER WORK AT PRINCETON STUDENTS' FARM

Princeton, May 6.—The Princeton University farm, founded to help needy students by providing work for them, has decided to give up practically all of its summer work. The building of the new stadium took up a good deal of the farm land, and by the elimination of that ground the amount of work for students has been cut down so as to make it impossible to employ summer workers.

The work for the students during the months when college is in session will be kept up, however, starting in September. It is the plan of the management to so regulate the work during the coming season that, beginning with next fall, certain parts will be laid out in such a manner that they will afford steady employment throughout the year to a limited number.

The results during the past year at the farm indicate that garden truck cannot be raised to advantage because of the limited market during the summer months and the intensive nature of the farming, to which the land at present is unsuited.

BEST WAY TO GET HOT WATER SUPPLY

Hot water is needed in every household—in summer as well as in winter.

If you had to depend upon coal fires the hot water problem would be a troublesome one—especially in summer.

But a GAS WATER HEATER solves the problem.

With such a heater and 90 cent gas you can have all the hot water you need for every purpose at a very, very small cost.

And the gas heats the water—not the house.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS
We Eat too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts.
Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.
You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.
Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.
A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

19 LOST AT SEA AS SHIP BURNS

Fourteen Picked Up; One Found Dead.

CARRIED NO PASSENGERS.

Explosion Wrecked the Leyland Liner and Fire Followed Soon After—Captain Is Among the Missing—Boat Adrift With Part of Crew.

Boston, May 6.—The Columbian, a freight steamer of the Leyland line, bound from Antwerp for New York, caught fire and was wrecked by a series of explosions in her hold when 150 miles south of Sable island on Sunday night.

A boat containing fourteen of her crew was picked up by the Cunard line steamship Franconia, one of the vessels which responded to the wireless call from the North German Lloyd steamship Seydlitz, the first craft to sight the burning Columbian.

Another boat containing nineteen men is being searched for by the Franconia. Chief Steward Matthews of the Columban was one of the men in the boat rescued by the Franconia, but he died either just before or just after being saved.

The Rescued.

No mention is made in the Franconia's wireless message to Charles Stewart, agent of the Cunard line here, of the Columbian's captain, and it is feared he perished with his vessel. The Franconia will arrive here either late today or tomorrow with the survivors.

The following message giving brief details of the disaster was sent by Captain Miller of the Franconia by wireless via Cape Sable to the Boston office of the Cunard line and was received:

Rescued thirteen survivors, Chief Steward Matthews dead, of steamer Columbian from Antwerp. Crew suffering from exhaustion. They state they had been in boat forty hours.

Columbian caught fire Sunday night and almost immediately series of violent explosions occurred. Wireless apparatus destroyed.

One other boat containing chief and second officers and seventeen men adrift. Franconia making diligent search.

Will give further information when rescued are in condition to answer questions.
MILLER.

A second wireless message from Captain Miller says that he abandoned the search for the lifeboat containing nineteen men at dark and had resumed the run for Boston. He notified the steamers Manhattan and Haverford, both eastbound, of the possibility of there being some of the Columbian's boats in the vicinity, and the captains of each said they would make a search.

READY TO HONOR DEAD.

Plans and Preparations Made For Receiving the Montana.

Washington, May 6.—It was definitely announced that President Wilson will attend the memorial exercises at New York on Monday for the sailors and marines killed in the occupation of Vera Cruz. The president will leave Washington Sunday night, arriving in New York in time for the exercises at noon. He will deliver the only address.

Secretary Daniels has invited Admiral Dewey, Secretary of War Garrison, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt and the aids to the secretary of the navy. These will leave here Saturday night on the president's yacht Mayflower and will meet the Montana bearing the dead off Virginia capes Sunday.

PANAMA EXPLOSION KILLS 9.

No Americans Are Victims of Magazine Disaster—Canal Undamaged.

Panama, May 6.—Nine persons were killed and nineteen others seriously injured by an explosion in the powder magazine. No Americans were killed.

The magazine was located several miles from the canal, and the waterway suffered no damage. The magazine was destroyed, and glass was shattered in stores for a distance of two miles.

Six of those killed were firemen who had been called to subdue a fire in the works. A man and a woman who were watching the fire some distance away were torn to pieces.

CHESTER B. DURYEA.

Slayer of Father Being Led to Jail After Arraignment.

General Hiram Duryea, aged civil war veteran and retired starch millionaire—the last of five brothers who composed the Duryea Starch company—was shot to death in the second story sleeping pavilion of his home, Eighty-fifth street and First avenue, Bay Ridge, by his son Chester. The old soldier's body was found face downward on the floor alongside his bed bleeding from many bullet wounds. When the slayer was arraigned in the Fifth avenue police court he was held without bail for a further hearing Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. The charge was homicide.

DURYEA IS TAKEN TO BELLEVUE RAVING

Youth Who Killed Father Is In Insane Ward.

New York, May 6.—Chester Bernell Duryea, who is under arrest for killing his father, General Hiram Duryea, in the family house at 120 Eighty-fifth street, Bay Ridge, early yesterday, was taken to Bellevue hospital in a straitjacket from the Raymond Street jail, Brooklyn.

He had been throwing himself against the walls of his cell in the jail, and the move was for his safety.

At 7.30 a call was received at Bellevue for an ambulance to be sent to the Raymond Street jail to take a psychopathic patient to the hospital. The ambulance surgeon found Duryea in a padded cell, throwing himself against the walls and shouting incoherently.

Duryea fought against being taken from the cell, but he was overpowered by two prison keepers and a policeman and a straitjacket was placed on him. He was taken to Bellevue accompanied by Patrolman Langwell, who had been watching him in the Raymond Street jail.

The prisoner stopped shouting when he was taken to the ambulance and was very quiet on the way to Bellevue and after he reached there.

To Thomas Kane, the clerk at Bellevue, he said he was forty three years old and lived in "120 Villaye avenue," Brooklyn.

"Who is your best friend?" he was asked.

"My father," he replied.

"Don't you know your father is dead?" asked the clerk.

"Oh," he exclaimed in apparent surprise, and then he laughed and mumbled some other names, but the clerk was unable to understand him.

He was taken to the prison ward, where a police guard is always maintained, and was strapped to a cot.

GROVE DEFEATS BOROUGH RULE

Camp Meeting Association Wins Its Fight.

CAMPAIGN A SHARP ONE.

Boroughites' Association to Contest Election—Allegations That Many Who Registered For Special Election Were Not Bona Fide Residents of Ocean Grove Are Being Investigated.

Asbury Park, N. J., May 6.—The Ocean Grove association won its fight to retain the government of Ocean Grove, a legislative enactment which would have changed the camp meeting city to a borough being defeated by the slim majority of 33 votes in a total poll of 575.

The campaign waged by the boroughites' association was one of the sharpest in the annals of coast politics. There were 304 votes against the proposition to change the form of government and 271 for. The association carried one of the two election precincts in the town by 41, and the boroughites carried the other by 8. Boroughites said they would contest the election. Allegations that many who registered for the special election were not bona fide residents of Ocean Grove are being investigated by County Prosecutor Rulif V. Lawrence as well as the charge that new names were added to the registry lists illegally.

The vote was the greatest ever polled in Ocean Grove. In strong contrast to the occasion when boroughites and friends of the association have met in public meetings, the election passed quietly, with nothing but a few challenges on both sides to indicate the deep interest taken on all sides.

The Ocean Grove Camp Meeting association of the Methodist Episcopal church, legal name of the organization which governs Ocean Grove, was granted a charter in 1869 and has since continued in control. Its members are not elected by the people, but themselves fill vacancies in the official body. The boroughites' association, founded about five years ago, waged an active campaign every year until finally last January the state legislature passed the referendum measure on which the grove voted. Taxation without representation was the battlecry of the boroughites.

AUTO VICTIM'S FUNERAL.

Although Suffering From Broken Rib, Husband Attends Wife's Obsequies.

Jersey City, N. J., May 6.—Although a nervous wreck and suffering from a broken rib sustained in the automobile tragedy on the Belleville turnpike on Saturday night, in which three persons were killed, John P. Walsh, the clerk in the office of Surrogate Egan, attended the funeral of his wife, who was one of the victims.

The funeral services were held from St. Joseph's church, in Baldwin avenue, this city, and interment followed at the Holy Name cemetery, in West End avenue.

At Christ hospital it was said that Arline Willis, the five-year-old daughter of Samuel Willis, who was killed in the accident, was improving. Hope was expressed that the little girl would not lose her right arm, which was badly burned. Walter Willis, the girl's brother, was also killed in the accident. Her mother is suffering from nervous prostration as a result.

DOG RESTS IN SECRET GRAVE

Paterson Woman Buries Pet In Defiance of Health Board.

Paterson, N. J., May 6.—Despite the police and the health authorities, Tuck Lentz Crawford has been buried—just where only Mrs. Carolina Crawford of 427 Market street knows, and she won't tell. Tuck was an English bulldog.

Years ago Mrs. Crawford's brother, Harry Lentz, died and left her the bulldog, with a request to see that a good dog's burial was to be his when he died. On Sunday Tuck expired at the ripe age of fifteen years, and Mrs. Crawford ordered an oak coffin and a name plate inscribed with his name name and the words "Our Pet."

Mrs. Crawford had the coffin, rather a large one, as Tuck was a big dog, put into an automobile, and she drove out of town. When she returned she informed the curious that Tuck had been buried in Long Island City, but whether in a cemetery or not she would not tell.

WEDDING PLANS COMPLETED.

Washington, May 6.—Gifts are pouring into the White House for Miss Eleanor Wilson, daughter of the president, who will be married to Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo tomorrow. All arrangements for the wedding have been completed, and everything is in readiness except the trousseau of the bride to be, which is expected to arrive from New York. Miss Nancy Lane, daughter of the secretary of the interior, and Miss Sallie McAdoo, the twelve year old daughter of the bridegroom, have been selected as flower girls.

Miss Wilson's trousseau is said by a close friend to be most beautiful. A dinner frock of pink satin and silver lace is particularly admired, and there is an afternoon gown of white pekay crepe, together with a Watteau blue taffeta and tulle of exceptional beauty.

HOUSING IN CITY DECLARED GOOD

Investigation for C. O. S. Says Only 8 Per Cent. of People Live in Tenements.

WATER DECLARED FINE

One Pressing Need is Municipal Collection of Garbage and Ashes—Tuberculosis Control is Splendid Here.

After a careful study of conditions in the city of Plainfield, taking two typical sections for example, Miss U. D. Brown, working for the Anti-Tuberculosis League and the Charity Organization Society, has submitted a report which was made public today by the two organizations in a printed pamphlet of thirty-six pages, full of pictures which illustrate the conditions in some parts of the city. While the report makes a number of recommendations for changes which it is promised would materially better things, it also contains a substantial number of statements about the excellent conditions here.

Under the heading "Good Conditions," the report says:

"Plainfield is fortunate in taking up the problem of housing conditions at this time. At present only about 8 per cent. of the families are living in tenements, and in North Plainfield less than 4 per cent. Many suburban cities have been far more seriously affected by the bad example of New York.

"Now is the time to save Plainfield from tenement conditions. Other cities are realizing the great opportunity and either by local measures or combining for State laws, are assuring healthful living conditions to their children.

"Plainfield's problem is simplified by the fact that her people have not yet acquired the 'tenement habit.' Small houses are plentiful and land abundant.

"Another condition to the credit of Plainfield, is the small number of dwellings with dark rooms. To this must be added congratluations that the Board of Health can and has required alterations in some of the houses marred by this form of construction. Many cities which have few windowless rooms have rooms which are gloomy because houses are built too close together. Narrow, dingy spaces between dwellings are rare in Plainfield, adequate courts and spaces and yards are usual; this is a good building habit which should be made permanent by proper housing regulations.

"A good and adequate water supply such as Plainfield enjoys, is a potent factor for good living. The method of charging for this necessity, which does not penalize its plentiful use, is to be commended.

"Too much cannot be said for the control of the tuberculosis situation in the city of Plainfield. Co-operation of the Board of Health, Anti-Tuberculosis League and the Visiting Nurse, has resulted in excellent supervision of patients, and careful oversight of children who have been exposed to infection. Bonnie Burn is caring for many of the patients, a care which would be more effective if the patients did not so frequently return too soon, ond to bad living conditions. Often only a serious relapse will convince such people that a prolonged stay at the sanitorium is absolutely their only hope for recovery."

The report says in part:

The districts selected for special study were, in Plainfield, Cottage place, and West Third street between Plainfield avenue and Liberty street. In North Plainfield, one district including both Harmony and Race streets.

The most immediate, pressing need of Plainfield is a method of collecting garbage and other refuse thoroughly. This need is felt throughout the city; no one is exempt. He who manages his own problem satisfactorily suffers from his neighbor who is more careless, thoughtless, or possibly only more unfavorably situated than himself. At present each householder disposes of his ashes, garbage and rubbish as seems to him best. Several collectors, licensed by the Board of Health, make a farce of removing garbage and ashes for a small fee. There are complaints all along the line. From the negro gardener on Third street and the professional man in a first-class resident section comes the same query: "What can we do? How can we compel the collectors to carry out their bargain?" Some people make no attempt to have the refuse removed but instead throw it into the street or yard, a method of disposal which is open to many objections but is easily accounted for. When a family budget of $10 or $12 a week must house, feed and clothe two adults and seven children, the surplus to be expended for garbage removal is so small that the

REVILLE'S FRIENDS SAY HE HASN'T WITHDRAWN

Senator Martine Not Authorized to Say He Did Not Want Postmastership.

Patrick J. Reville has not withdrawn as a candidate for the Plainfield postmastership, statements attributed to United States Senator James E. Martin, in which he said that Reville had withdrawn, being denied by friends of the latter in this city today. What is more, according to John Caulfield, chairman of the Democratic city committee, Reville has no intention of withdrawing until someone else is named for the job.

According to a dispatch to the Newark News of Tuesday night, from their staff correspondent in Washington, which was reprinted in last night's Press, Senator Martine stated positively and emphatically that Mr. Reville was no longer a candidate for the place, but was seeking vindication because of his removal from the postoffice service some years ago, on what he and his friends say will be proven to be a lot of "trumped-up" charges.

The interview attributed to Senator Martine means that the postmaster situation is more complicated than ever, and that the original "peck of trouble" which the senator has gotten into over the matter may amount to a whole lot more than anyone ever anticipated. Reville has a large following of friends in this city, and they will not be pleased to hear that he has been told through the newspapers that he is out of the running even before the charges now being investigated, are cleared up. When the story appeared in the News everyone in town took it for granted that it was given out by the Senator with Mr. Reville's consent, and as the latter was out of town on business at the time no efforts was made to verify it locally.

Whether Mr. Revelle remains in the race or not it is very evident from the Senator's remarks that he will not be appointed, unless Mr. Martine has a change of heart after he hears of the howl that has gone up from Reville's friends.

MANY MOURNERS ATTEND FUNERAL OF MRS. BROWN

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Sarah L. Brown were held this afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Peter A. Emmons, of 303 Grant avenue. Rev. John Y. Broek, of the Trinity Reformed church, officiated. Many floral tributes, including several set pieces, were sent by a host of friends of Mrs. Brown.

The bearers were four grandsons, Walter and William Emmons, Arthur E. Smith, Gilbert D. Fletcher, a nephew; Harry Wright, of Philadelphia, and John P. Emmons. The interment was made at Hillside cemetery. Beside the daughter, Mrs. Emmons, Mrs. Brown is survived by one son, Walter H. Brown, of Bayonne; and granddaughter, Mrs. Arthur E. Smith, and five great-grandchildren.

M'ADOO-WILSON NUPTIALS TODAY

Secretary of Treasury and President's Daughter to Be Married at White House.

TO BE QUIET CEREMONY

Rev. Sylvester Beach Will Officiate—Bride's Veil Same That Was Worn by Sister and Was Part of Her Mother's Wedding Dress.

Washington, May 7.—This is the wedding day of Secretary of the Treasury William Gibbs McAdoo and Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, youngest daughter of the President of the United States. The historic blue room of the White House is a bower of spring blossoms today, and there at 6 o'clock this evening, the final chapter in the second White House romance of the present administration will be written. The previous one was that of Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, now Mrs. Francis Bowles Sayre.

Those who attended the rehearsal say that the wedding ceremony promises, though simple, to be one of the prettiest events the White House has ever known. To Miss Sallie McAdoo, daughter of the bridegroom, is to be given the place of honor in the procession to the altar. She is to lead the bride and her attendants.

The procession is to proceed from the main stairway to the Blue Room, where a platform has been erected in the south bow window. Immediately following Miss McAdoo will come Mrs. Sayre and Miss Margaret Wilson. Miss Nancy Lane, daughter of the Secretary of the Interior, will directly precede the bride, who will enter on the arm of her father. The party will be met at the altar by Mr. McAdoo and Dr. Cary T. Greyson, the President's physician.

During the progress of the procession the U. S. Marine Band will play the Wedding March from Lohengrin. After the ceremony the band will furnish music during the supper, which is to be served at small tables in the State dining room.

The Wilson-McAdoo nuptials will be in marked contrast to those of Miss Jessie Wilson and Mr. Sayre. They could scarcely be more dissimilar had they been planned with a view of making them as different as possible.

Miss Jennie Wilson's wedding day was a cold, bleak day in November, and with her husband she departed on her honeymoon under the leafless branches of trees through which the winter wind was whistling. Today's bride is to be married in the evening, in the balmy warmth of spring, with all nature budding.

Nearly a thousand guests were formally invited to the Wilson-Sayre wedding. Scarcely a hundred have received invitations to today's ceremony, and they were asked verbally and without the slightest formality The November wedding took place at 5 o'clock; this one will be an hour later.

More or less sombre dress marked the guests of the Wilson-Sayre wedding. Today's ceremony is set at an hour which will permit the women to wear their prettiest gowns, and the men to wear either evening clothes or bright military uniforms.

The actual ceremony which is to make Miss Wilson the bride of Mr. McAdoo is to be very brief, and will probably consume not more than ten minutes. The Rev. Sylvester Beach is to officiate, and the Presbyterian service will be used.

Miss Eleanor Wilson is probably the most vivacious of the three daughters of the President and Mrs. Wilson, and has manifested more interest in the ordinary routine which society life offers in the capital than either of her older sisters, both of whom have devoted much of their time to philanthropic and charitable work. She is talented and widely read and a good linguist. She has all the domestic accomplishments of young women in her state of life, has traveled considerably, rides, plays tennis and enjoys outdoor life in all its phases.

Mr. McAdoo is fifty years old and is a native of Georgia. He was admitted to the bar in 1885 and practised law in Chattanooga until 1892, when he removed to New York city. Soon after he became a resident of New York he came into prominence as the organizer and chief director of the company which constructed the Hudson river "tubes," connecting Manhattan with the New Jersey side. Mr. McAdoo took an active part in the campaign that resulted in Mr. Wilson's election to the presidency and was rewarded with the treasury portfolio in the President's cabinet.

Since he came to Washington, Secretary McAdoo has had his home at 1709 Massachusetts avenue, which has been presided over by his second daughter, Miss Nona McAdoo. He has two other daughters, one married and living in the West, and a younger one, Sally, still a little girl. He has a married son, Francis H. McAdoo, and two younger sons in college.

LEAL ALUMNI WILL HAVE A FAST TEAM

Fine Array of Talent Secured to Take Part in Annual Baseball Game.

Unusual preparations are being made for the annual baseball game between the Leal chool undergraduate team and the nine representing the Leal Alumni, on Crescent Oval next Saturday afternoon. This yearly clash has been a big feature at Plainfield's histroic old ball field for years past and the 1914 battle will be no exception as a producer of some good sport. There is a general opinion in Plainfield that the Leal teams of years ago were far superior to the ones that have represented the local institution during the last few years and the game Saturday will give those interested an opportunity to gather a verdict on real performances.

It is a well-known fact, however, that the Front street school was known throughout the State in athletic circles for the calibre of teams turned out long before Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools came into prominence as promoters of sport. Today the High Schools have a superir grade of athletes and experience little difficulty in winning from Leal School in any branch of athletics. There is a commendable spirit of true loyalty among the Leal graduates that enables the Alumni to form a team of unusual strength and if pitted against the graduate nines of either Plainfield or North Plainfield High Schools the result would undoubtedly be a one-sided one in favor of the Front street graduates.

Each year a delegation of former stars, now prominent in business circles in various parts of the country, get together for re-organization and play their annual contest with the present day students. The undergraduate team this year is a formidable one and the old timers will not have the walkover they found awaiting them last year, if the early season work of the 1914 team may be taken as a criterion. It is expected that Mayor Percy H.Stewart, '88, will find time from his official duties to be on hand to give his wise counsel and well known ability as a ball tosser to the cause. Clifford W. McGee, '90, president of the Alumni Association, feels that the only way the Alumni can be assured of a victory is by his coming out and serving up the benders to the juvenile swatsmiths.

The Schoonmaker family, a prominent group of huskies in Leal School athletic circles some years ago, will be in line again as has been their annual custom. The Schoonmaker boys have earned a name for themselves in semi-professional baseball since leaving school and will be a great factor in the organization of this year's team. George Schoonmaker is the particular star of the family and he has announced that he will be right back on deck when needed to teach the schoolboys a lesson.

"Bob" Tilney, '01, captain of one of the greatest baseball teams Leal School has ever turned out,and Dave Griggs, a member of the same team, who made many victories possible through his wonderful fielding, are also mentioned as players to take part in Saturday's contest.

FIVE OTHER BIDDERS

The Common Council at an adjourned meeting, last night, sold $30,000 worth of the $300,000 authorized issue of sanitary sewer bonds to the J. D. Everett Company, of New York, its bid being the highest, $30,175. There were five bids in all, those in addition to the successful ones, being as follows: R. M. Grant & Co., $30,103.50; Rhoades & Co., $30,156.00; Hornblower & Weeks, $30,072; Harris, Forbes & Co., $30,024.30 All of the bidders are from New York. Arthur M. Harris, of this city, is the head of the last named firm.

Earlier in the week it looked as though the action on the part of the Borough of Middlesex in applying for a certiorari to review the acts of the city in selling bonds, would hold up the sale, but following Justice Bergen's decision on Tuesday to dismiss the stay, the council was advised to go ahead and sell the bonds as proposed. Both sides in the court action have been requested to submit briefs, Justice Bergen promising an early decision.

There is a belief that Justice Bergen's decision will not be against the city's action, but if it is the city can easily take the money from the sale of bonds to pay them off, so that no great risk was attached in disposing of them last night.

After the Council meeting last night, the Joint Sewer Commission met, but practically nothing could be done, as the engineer's contract was not ready for presentation and adoption and there are a few minor details to be attended to before the title for the Darling farm can be passed and that deal closed. The commission adjourned to meet on Monday night, May 18, when it is expected these matters will be ready for action.

The Weldon Contracting Company, of Rahway, being the lowest bidder for street work on contract, a resolution was adopted last night, authorizing the street committee to have as much street work done as in its judgment was thought best. The company's bid was $1.70 a ton for underfilling; 29 cents a square yard for re-surfacing and 1 3-4 cents a square yard for sacrifying, which is considered very low. The plan of doing street work under contract is a new departure here, and by many it is believed will be more economical than the former method whereby the city has been doing the work.

The resolution awarding the contract to John E. Keely to clean and sprinkle the brick pavements and other streets, was rescinded to allow for certain minor changes in the contract.

SENATOR O'GORMAN OPPOSES PANAMA TOLLS REPEAL

Washington, May 7—In a masterly presentation of the case of free tolls, which showed careful study, Senator O'Gorman, of New York, today addressed the Senate in opposition to the Panama Canal Tolls Repeal Bill. Senator O'Gorman told the Senate that in his opinion the exemption of American coastwise vessels constituted a wise economic policy, that it was not affected by the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty; that if coastwise vessels fall within the terms of the treaty the exemption does not constitute a violation thereof, and that the canal has been constructed on territory over which the United States exercised sovereignty, while the canal contemplated in the treaty was to be built on alien soil, and therefore the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty is inapplicable.

BRENT SUCCESSOR TO BISHOP SCARBOROUGH

Trenton, May 7—Bishop Charles H. Brent, now stationed in the Philippine Islands, was elected on the fourth ballot yesterday to succeed the late John Scarborough as Bishop of the Episcopal diocese of New Jersey. Out of ninety clerical and seventy-two lay votes cast Bishop Brent received seventy clerical and sixty-one lay votes. His election was made unanimous.

Immediately after the formal announcement had been made the delegates to the diocesan convention sent a cable message to Bishop Brent informing him of his election and advising him that a letter would follow.

When the balloting for the new bishop started with a test vote Tuesday night a number of the clericals, particularly those with high church tendencies, started a movement to bring about the election of Bishop Sheldon M. Griswold, now at Salina, Neb. The movement was opposed by most of the lay delegates, and was practically abandoned when balloting was resumed. On the last ballot taken Bishop Griswold received only three clerical and four lay votes. The remainder of the vote was scattering.

Although no definite assurances had been received the convention seemed hopeful that Bishop Brent would accept the bishopric of New Jersey. It was recalled, however, that in 1906 he declined a similar election to the bishopric of Washington.

LINES EXTENDED AT VERA CRUZ

But Censor Refuses to Permit Sending Out of Detailed Dispatches.

TROUBLE IS EXPECTED

O'Shaughnessy Arrives in Washington But Will Not See President Until Tomorrow—Preparing to Combat Fever at Vera Cruz.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Vera Cruz, May 7—General Funston is gradually extending his lines and fortifying his position. Detailed news of his movements are impossible owing to the action of the censor. Only brief general announcements are permitted. There is a noticeable increase in the watchfulness of both the navy and the army in anticipation of trouble which is hourly expected to come.

Washington, May 7—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, late charge of affairs at Mexico City, arrived here early today. He made a brief call on Secretary Bryan, but will not see President Wilson until tomorrow. The President's personal engagements in connection with the wedding of his daughter will keep him so busy as to prevent his giving proper attention to Mr. O'Shaughnessy's report today.

Mr. Bryan arranged for a conference at the White House. The short duration of Mr. O'Shaughnessy's call on the Secretary of State is taken as an indication of the bitter feeling said to exist between the administration and the newly arrived diplomat. Neither would discuss the call or whether the Mexican situation was even touched upon.

Minister Naon, representative of Argentine Republic, in Washington, speaking for the mediators today said no word had yet been received from General Carranza, strengthening the belief expresed by them yesterday that the mediation plan would proceed without a representative of the Constitutionalists being present. Miniser Naon would say nothing of his conference today with Secretary Bryan and also maintained his usual silence.

Preparations to combat fever among the Americans at Vera Cruz and other points in Mexico, and to provide food for the destitute refugees have been about completed by the American Red Cross. At the headquarters of the organization here it was announced today that 10,000 five grain quinine pills had been ordered by cable by the representative of the Red Cross on the east coast of Mexico in addition to 500 tubes of smallpox vaccine, 100 tubes of typhoid vaccine and 10,000 sun cholera tablets. Tons of food supplies also have been ordered. Some smallpox is reported from the vicinity of Vera Cruz, but sanitary conditions are greatly improved.

Mazatlan, Mex., May 7.—Four persons were killed and eight injured today when a bomb dropped from a rebel aeroplane exploded in the streets of the city. The besieging forces have the better of the artillery duel which has been proceeding for some hours.

Washington, May 7.—Having killed three Mexicans in attempting to repulse a mob that stormed their home, ten Americans named Smith, all of the same immediate family, are now under arrest at Tonala, Mexico, and are in grave danger of execution. Practically every other American has left the district in which they are held ,and are now safe in Guatamala, and no aid is looked for from Americans.

Details of the assault on the Smith home have not yet reached Washington, but efforts are being made to ascertain from the refugees in Guatamala whether the attack by the Mexican mob was unprovoked. The state Department will make every effort to insure the release of the Smith's but feeling against Americans in lower Mexico has risen to a point where the mobs are beyond the control of officials.

No news concerning Consul John R. Silliman, of Saltillo, reported held by Mexicans at San Luis Potosi and threatened with death, has reached the department in three days, and small hope is now felt for his safety. Constant efforts are being made to locate him.

The Cananea mining district is reported peaceful and a number of Americans have returned there. The consulate was re-opened today, consular agent Montague returning to take charge of affairs. Many of the mines have resumed operations. The beginning of a rebel campaign against Durango and Zacatecas was officially reported to the State Department,, removing the last hope that Carranza would agree to a cessation of hostilities during mediation negotiations. Among the local men thus employed by the company are Albert Conklin, Walter VanPelt, John Rinehart and Robert Kerwin. John Sarleye, a Hungarian, of Perth Amboy, was arrested by Marshal L. V. Smalley about 9 o'clock yesterday morning while in the act of endeavoring to force his way past Arthur Voorhees, son of Theodore Voorhees, into the Voorhees residence on Jackson avenue. The fellow was evidently laboring under the delusion that Dunellen was Perth Amboy and the Voorhees residence was his own as he kept repeating in broken English while endeavoring to force his way by young Voorhees, who blockaded the front doorway. "Me want to see my wife, me want to see my wife!" Upon being examined prior to his being locked up he was found to be drenched to the skin, indicating that he had probably been exposed to the elements for the greater part of the night, and he is thought by the local police to be the person who climbed upon the porch of the residence of George Koschek, the North avenue grocer, on Bound Brook road, early yesterday morning, and was scared away after he had wrenched a window open and, also the individual who was tinkering aroung the front window of the Barney Bastovic place on South avenue about 1:30 o'clock, when he was frightened away and given a lively chase by the inmates of that household. The fact that Sarleye tried to force his way in broad daylight into the Voorhees residence in the manner in which he did, was sufficient evidence alone to satisfy the court, Recorder David S. Campbell presiding, held in the borough hall at 6:30 o'clock this morning. Without taking into consideration the fact that the prisoner during his confinement in his cell, seemed to be laboring under the impression that his wife was in his presecne and also the fact that he gave as his reason for endeavoring to force entrance into the various places, the crazy excuse that somebody was chasing him, that while the defendant was guiltless of any intent at wrongdoing, he was nevertheless a very apparent unsafe person to be permitted to be at large and he was therefore committed to New Brunswick.

The telephones on the north side of the borough are practically all out of commission due to the fact that one of the main cables of the telephone company is down.

The May meeting of the Borough Council was held in the Fanwood Fire house, last evening. Mayor Hoar presided. After the roll call order was suspended while Frank A. Dunham, who has done most of the surveying for the borough in the past, told about the difficulty to be met with in the making of the new tax maps to conform with the laws of 1913. He said that the expense was increased considerably by having to have the maps on mounted paper with margin of a certain width and many other small details that made the cost of making maps for a small borough cost $500.

Although the old maps are in excellent condition they cannot be used as each block section will be numbered differently under the new law. Mr. Dunham stated that there would be twelve maps in all and that $50 could be saved by having prints made. The price named by the surveyor does not include the cost of binding them which is also required. The Council gave Mr. Dunham the contract for the making of the new maps to be finished by Jan. 1, 1915. After the map question had been disposed of, routine business was in order. A letter was read from A. D. Beeken stating that he wished to resign as a member of the Board of Health and as a trustee of the library. His resignation was accepted with regret. A communication was received from George E. Smith asking that a copy of the sidewalk ordinance be mailed to him as he intended to lay a concrete sidewalk. In connection with Frank Palmer's petition for better roads, a letter from Weldon Brothers, contractors, stated that it would cost $1,425 for each mile of roads such as were proposed and extra for crushed stone. The matter was referred to the street committee. A letter from Mrs. John Rhoades asking that the storm gutters be cleaned out was referred to the proper committee. The Audit and Finance committee reported a balance of $29,072.81 in the treasury. The committee on streets and sidewalks reported that the work of filling the holes and ruts in roadways had about been finished and would be ready for oil by middle of next week. It was also reported that the New Jersey Central had notified the committee that all walks on the railroad property would be resurfaced and the road leading to the Martine avenue bridge would be fixed at the company's expense. The committee on lights, water and fire reported that the Public Service Electric Company had been asked to change the course of the street lights on South avenue so as to have them follow the roadway since the double "S" turn near Westfield had been straightened but had as yet received no reply. The Plainfield Union Water company had also been communicated with regarding the installing of three new fire hydrants nor had they made any reply yet. Councilman Erner here reported that he had purchased 150 feet of hose for the fire company and had sent several hundred feet of old hose to be repaired. The following bills were read and ordered paid: Street lights for month of April, Public Service Electric company, $109.65; police for month of April, John Logan, $75; hack hire, Peter Rifter, $5; crush stone, Fanwood Stone Crushing Company, $106.85; lights, Edison Manufacturing Company, $1.97; labor on streets, William Linden, $90.63; carting stone, William Linden, $60.11; borough clerk, S. W. McAneny, for five months, $62.40. The appointing of a person to succeed S. W. McAneny who resigned as member of B. of H., at the last meeting was taken up and resulted in the appointment of W. G. Britton, of Terrill road. E. B. Samis, of North avenue, was appointed to fill the vacancy on the Board of Health and the Library Board, caused by A. D. Beekens resignation. The meeting adjourned at 9:45 to meet again the first Wednesday in June.

BRICKS LOOK TOO MUCH LIKE BOMBS

So Declares Nicholas Cavanza, a Missionary, as Complainant in Court.

Religious competition among members of the colored race in this city caused the appearance of Leander Brown, of Arlington avenue, in the city court, this morning, to answer to charges of alleged assault preferred by one Nicholas Cavanza, a missionary. According to the defendant certain members of the Church of God and Saints of Christ have been making strenuous efforts to put an end to his good work among the heathen by throwing bricks at his head on public thoroughfares. Cavanza, who is an individual of Herculean stature, decided that to further hazard his life would be doing an injustice to missionary work and had Brown, who he claims is one of the offenders, hailed to court.

Testifying on the stand this morning, Cavanza stated that genuine red bricks of the regulation size and weight had whizzed by his ear on several occasions when he least expected them and he alleged that Brown was the perpetrator of the deed. The complainant said that his life had been placed in jeopardy as the result of what he termed as jealousy on the part of the defendant. Reciting a long tale of woe in which were hairbreadth escapes from certain death and vivid descriptions of dodging bricks that closely resembled bombs the complainant urged that his would-be assailants be placed behind the bars so that he could carry on his good work unmolested. The account related by Cavanza would make excellent material for a motion picture scenario. He appeared greatly unnerved at the sight of one of the alleged seekers of his life and related to the court how the trouble came to a climax this morning in the road in front of his home, 1255 Arlington avenue. Brown, according to the complainant, was hidden in a clump of bushes at 5 o'clock this morning and as he (Cavanza) passed the secluded spot a brick grazed his ear, which he claims Brown threw. Cavanza further testified that Brown and the latter's mother called him "harsh names" using everyone of the fifty-seven varieties while the fracas was in progress.

Taking the stand in his own behalf Brown admitted that he owed the complainant fifty-five cents and because he couldn't pay it to him when the two met this morning, he claimed, that Cavanza "jumped" on him. In self-defense Brown said he struck the complainant and some boisterous protests resulted.

In an effort to corroborate her son's testimony to the effect that he was in bed at 5 o'clock this morning when the deed was alleged to have been committed, Mrs. Carrie Brown took the stand, making a short preliminary speech in which she proclaimed her devoutness to the "Foot-washers'" cause and her disbelief in the creeds taught by the complainant.

Taking exception to Mrs. Brown's statement that her son was in bed at 5 o'clock, Cavanza recited certain phrases in the "Foot-washers'" creed, in which he says the members are duty bound to get up at sunrise and take part in a none-too-quiet prayer march. The complainant alleged that the entire neighborhood was awakened by praying in the Brown home this morning.

Mrs. Brown retorted:

In summing up the case City Judge William G. DeMeza reviewed the conflicting circumstances presented by the parties concerned and suspended sentence on the prisoner.

HOUSING IN CITY FAIRLY GOOD

If this method of collection by private concerns could be made thorough and complete there would still be objections to the practise. The employment of several collectors in the same street is wastful and extravagant, the unsavory carts are continually passing through the streets and the method and place of final disposal is objectionable.

Conditions resulting from the present haphazard state of affairs disfigure the city; yards are strewn with ashes; boxes, cans and other receptacles, filled to overflowing with garbage, litter the rear porches and sheds. Unsightly as such conditions are, there is a greater menace when sickening odors and filthy flies bespeak a long delayed collection.

Many of the homes visited show that even in the poorest families strenuous efforts are made to dispose of both ashes and garbage. The garbage is usually burned, which is a good solution of the problem if thoroughly carried out, but all too often half-burned garbage is thrown out with the ashes, a practise which increases with the advent of warm weather, when the amount of garbage increases and the kitchen fire decreases. The ashes are sometimes carted away, but more often they are thrown onto the lowest part of the yard in a vain attempt to get rid of the water which always appears at the first suggestion of warm weather. As for the discarded bottles and tin cans which accumulate so quickly, vacant lots and rear ends of deep yards are disfigured with them, and the presence of broken glass and jagged tins is a constant danger, especially where shoes are none too thick and strong.

Collection of garbage, ashes and all rubbish by the city is a legitimate function of government. Only by such governmental activities can a wholesome, cleanly, and attractive city be obtained. The advantages of city collection are too numerous to be more than touched on here. The first and most important is that such collection can be made thorough, reaching into every home and place of business in the city, so that the entire community will be sweet and clean. Another aspect of the subject is the question of economy. It cannot be doubted that the city as a whole can make a better bargain for this service than can the individual householders; the contractors would plan to collect from house to house without duplicating, whereas now the several collectors go over the same routes, causing waste and extravangance, not to mention the almost continuous presence of numerous unsightly carts which give forth the odor of decaying waste as they pass through the streets. Because of the amount involved, the city would be in a position to enforce the terms of the contract and to control the method and place of final disposal as no individual can do. Any effective contract of this kind calls for a penalty for delay in collection or other violation of the terms of the contract. A small part of the time now spent by the Board of Health in trying to have isolated cases of extreme filth cleared up should suffice to supervise the work of the contracting collector.

A company supplies the water for Plainfield and for much of North Plainfield. So adequate and good is the supply that almost all of the old yard wells are done away with. Only two houses of all those visited in Plainfield are still unconnected with the city pipes, and a very few still keep a pump for use in addition to the usual supply. That old familiar tale of the summer coolness and sweet taste of the well water was heard again and will continue to be heard so long as there is a well in the land. As a good water supply is available in both the districts inspected in Plainfield, the wells should be closed. Contamination can take place quickly; a well which has been recently tested may be the source of an epidemic a few days later. The danger of such contamination increases with the crowding of population.

The problem in North Plainfield is not so easily solved, as it involves the question of waste disposal also. Many of the houses on Harmony street are connected with the pipe supply, only to be overwhelmed by the problem of the waste water. There are no sewers and the yards are frequently too small for adequate cesspools. The only permanent solution of the problem is the installation of a sewer system. The use of wells in this district is especially perilous because the small yards bring the wells and privies so near together, a condition not improved by the addition of cesspools.

Any belief that this problem is purely a local one, affecting only the tenants and owners of the small houses and lots, is founded on lack of thorough knowledge. The people of this district work in both the borough and city. Disease, breeding among the cottages of Harmony street, would menace the whole community. Already the burden of partial support of several of these families is borne by the public—how much of this debility is due to the conditions no one can say. The present lack of typhoid and kindred ills in this locality is a miracle, but it is only a few years since dysentery demanded toll, and who shall prophesy when the next epidemic will occur?

In addition to the kind of water supply, the location of the supply is of importance to the health of a family. Under the best conditions heavy trudging work is the lot of the poor man's wife, especially when the children are too little to help themselves. Inconvenient and awkward arrangement of sinks and stoves may be the added burden beneath which the wife and mother fails and leaves the burden of the family to community care.

It cannot be too strongly asserted that tenement construction menaces Plainfield with all its attendant evils of overcrowding, lack of family privacy, the breaking up of home life and the train of vice and crime that follow in their wake. Local ordinances strengthening the State laws are most necessary. Local support for the State law and to improve that law are demanded for the good of the city and the State. Wider courts and better fire protection are two urgent amendments needed in the present requirements. Only a State department, adequately equipped with men and money, can obtain the best results in those outlying districts so difficult to reach by local measures.

The problem of the disposal of garbage, ashes and rubbish is one which has been put off too long. The situation is serious and the problem calls for immediate solution. There is no alternative to city collection worth of consideration. In no other way can this responsibility be adequately met. The city has shirked the issue too long. Bad habits will have to be made over and a civic pride aroused before the city can hope to present a clean, well-groomed appearance to the world.

The extension of the sewer system to the "West End" and the immediate installation of sewers in North Plainfield cannot be too strongly urged. It is encouraging to learn that this work is under consideration. Its early completion is necessary to the health of the community. Under no consideration should tenements or two-family houses be permitted on unsewered streets. One-family houses, built on the outskirts, will frequently precede the extension of sewer and water pipes, but these improvements become necessities as soon as any street or section has more than a scattering of dwellings.

Certain sanitary provisions should be made a part of a city housing code. The prohibition of cellar and yard closets and of hopper fixtures, together with the requirement for a separate toilet for each apartment are standards below which no city can aim with impunity. The absolute enforcement of the ordinance requiring windows to the outer air is called for. Again it must be pointed out that violations of this ordinance are more likely to occur in apartments in "brick blocks" than in deatched houses. The wording of the ordinance should be changed so that there will be no doubt that all rooms in dwellings must have windows opening directly to street, yard or wide court.

The ordinance prohibiting the use for sleeping purposes of a cellar room, the ceiling of which is less than two feet above the curb, is far too lax. Many cities much more congested and overcrowded than Plainfield prohibit the use of cellar rooms for dwelling purposes and allow the use the basement rooms( i. e., rooms one-half or more above the curb) only under certain conditions. Cellar rooms are always poorly lighted and ventilated. A good cellar is excellent for the storage of fuel, but for wholesome living, rooms entirely above ground, well lighted and ventilated, are necessary.

Certain minor streets in the "West End" lend themselves to small house development under careful supervision. These streets may be narrow, but the houses should be set back so as to give 40 feet from building line to building line. Sewers should be laid as soon as possible, so as to avoid the condition found in Harmony street. Small lots on these minor streets should furnish opportunity for one-family houses which could be owned or rented by the man of small means.

In addition to these recommendations which are properly the business of the city, there are two activities which might will be made the business of some group or society. One is the work of a practical visiting housekeeper, who could show the newly-arrived immigrant our ways. A woman of boundless tact and patience would be needed for the work. The other field of work is rather different, it is the encouragement of gardens, small ones in the yards, larger ones in the vacant lots and waste places. Such gardens add to the quantity and quality of the food used, and at the same time save money and do away with the bare spots and unsightly dumps, which mar the appearance of so many of our cities.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM.

Housing conditions in Plainfield may not be all that they should be, but the report made public today by the Charity Organization Society and the Anti-Tuberculosis League does not give cause for alarm. In fact we believe that a careful study of the report will lead to the general belief that conditions on the whole in the city are excellent. It shows that the Board of Health is doing all that it can to make things better for the people here, and that there are comparatively few spots which are seriously objectionable.

The investigator intimates that because of a few tenement conditions in the city a train of vice and crime is left. We do not believe that there is any excuse for such an assertion, as there is probably no better regulated city in the State of New Jersey, where these evils are reduced to the minimum. "Local support for the State law and to improve that law are demanded for the good of the city and State," says the report. Will the investigator please advise an interested public what laws are not being enforced in Plainfield?

The contention that there should be a better method of collection and disposal of garbage and ashes is right, and the Board of Health has been trying for years to bring about needed reform in this line, but the Common Councils have balked because of fear of the expense. A method is now being worked out that will improve this condition, but until there is municipal collection and disposal it will never be made right in the poorer sections of the city. That is beyond contradiction, and perhaps the report will have some influence on the work of the City Council in future years.

It is gratifying to know that the water supply is so excellent, and that the sewer system, except in a few isolated places seems to be satisfactory. It is also pleasing to know that Plainfield really has no tenement conditions worth worrying about, and that the people here do not seems to have acquired the "tenement habit."

On the whole it would seem that the report gives a pretty clean bill of health for a city of the size of Plainfield.

THE FILM INDUSTRY.

Some idea of the enormous growth of the moving picture industry can be gained by an examination of statistics which were made public today at Washington. The film exports from the United States, which have been increasing rapidly in recent years scored a remarkable advance during the month of March this year, the total having been 23,000,000 linear feet, as against 3,000,000 during the same month in 1913. During the nine months ending with March last, exports aggregated 146,000,000 feet, or four times the amount exported in the corresponding period of 1913, and nearly treble the amount exported in the same period for the former high record year, 1912. A continuation at the average maintained in the last nine months, will make the total for the fiscal year 195,000,000 feet, enough film to encircle the globe and leave strips left over long enough to reach from the Equator to the North and South Poles.

Prices of motion picture films are falling steadily. In March, 1912, the average export price was a little less than 10 cents a linear foot. In March of the present year it was about 3½ cents. Unexposed films dropped from 12 cents to three cents since last year. Formerly most films were exposed before exportation, now about four-fifths of the entire quantity exported consists of unexposed films, available for camera use in foreign countries.

Our foreign sales of motion picture films are chiefly to England, which takes about 90 per cent. of the shipments. Next largest countries are Canada, Australia, Cuba, France, Japan, Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Venezuela and China. In many other countries motion pictures are being taken with cameras equipped with films manufactured in the United States.

It may be truthfully said that this is the greatest and most popular form of amusement, not only in the United States, but in most of the civilized countries of the world. And the demand for the pictures seems to grow greater, rather than less. The people of the world are able to purchase more amusement today for a dime or its equivalent than ever before in the history of the world, for the greatest theatrical stars are to be seen on the screens in all of the famous and most successful plays of the age. They are also able to take "travel trips" and see much of the world without leaving their home towns. Truly the films are great educators.

PAINT UP!

There is one feature of the report on housing conditions in Plainfield which puts many of the city property owners to shame. It regards a part which only indirectly affects the comfort and health of the people of the city, but reflects discredit on house owners, and not only those who have inexpensive houses, either. It refers to the lack of paint to keep things bright. As the report says:

One bit of negligence is noticeable thoughout the city and is not at all limited to the less expensive houses. This is a lack of paint, which makes the whole city rather dingy and dreary—a defect doubtless less apparent in the summer when grass and trees lend much natural beauty to the country side. Another small city of New Jersey, Asbury Park, might well be taken for a model in this respect. Every spring the paint pot is brought out and at least the trimmings are "touched up"—frequently the whole house is "gone over." Because this is done so often, the expense is never very great but the result is that the city has an air of prosperity rarely equalled and never surpassed in a "wooden city," to my knowledge. There is an old Dutch saying that "paint costs nothing," meaning that whatever is expended on paint is saved in deterioration.

The report was made by a disinterested outsider, and the effect on such a person, visiting the city is not good. A clean-up and paint-up campaign, such as is being conducted in other cities in the country, is apparently needed in Plainfield.

It is with pleasure that we correct a statement made in these columns last night regarding the appropriation for the Public Recreation Committee. It was said that there had been no appropriation for the purpose made, after we had read a copy of the tax ordinance, from which an amount of $500 for the committee had been unintentionally erased while preparing it for the printer. The City Council was unable to give the Recreation Committee $1,500 which was asked for, but they did give them one-third of that sum, which will make it possible, by the aid of money raised in other ways, to carry on the work for another year.

THE FORUM.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

In Tuesday's Daily Press I saw an article telling how Mr. Atterbury complained to the Mayor about the heavy trucks and auto bussesusing some of the public streets, West Seventh street in particular. I always thought anyone could use the public highways, but I see that I am mistaken. Now, as a citizen of Plainfield I should think if Mr. Atterbury was to take the brick wall from in front of his property at the corner of West Seventh street and Central avenue, he would be doing the public more good than by complaining about the heavy traffic on some streets, as the way the wall now stands it is a dangerous corner. It was only a short time ago that there was a very serious accident there, and it is a wonder that there has not been more, as it is almost impossible to see any vehicle coming before you get to the corner. Now, if heavy traffic is stopped on West Seventh street, why not stop heavy traffic on all residential streets in the city of Plainfield, or in other words put the merchants out of business?

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

There is now before Congress a bill entitled, "The Civil War Volunteer Officers' Retired List," which should enlist the interest and support of every intelligent, loyal citizen. A few relevant facts concerning same may interest the readers of the Daily Press.

On May 15, 1828, and June 7, 1832, Congress passed acts which not only cared for all surviving enlisted men who had served in the Revolutionary War, but also provided a retired list of all surviving officers, and granted full pay of their rank, the maximum pay not to exceed that of captain. (Three forebears of your correspondent served as officers in the Revolutionary War and were retired at full pay.) This should have for the bill now before Congress the full force of a valid precedent.

When Congress, by act of July 21, 1861, authorized a call of 500,000 men to serve in the Civil War, fought to maintain "One Country and One Flag," President Lincoln, as well as Congress, made a solemn promise, which has the force of a valid contract, that "The volunteers authorized by this act, shall be put upon the same footing in all respects, with similar corps of the United States Army," and that "footing" was not only pay for service, but also specified pension for service for a term of years for enlisted men, and retirement pay for officers. This pledge, made in a time of great peril to the nation, has been more than made good to the enlisted men. Common justice, and the honor of the nation require that the volunteer officers be accorded, in the terms of this promise, the same "footing" that others have received for like services.

The officers of the regular army are retired at the age of sixty-four years. To June 1, 1909, Congress had retired 617 regular army and navy officers with rank and pay one grade above that held by them, solely on account of services in the Civil War, and at least one volunteer officer of the Spanish-American War has been placed on the unlimited retired list of the regular army.

The average age of the officers of the Civil War is at least seventy-fourteen years beyond the time promise that was given for retirement, and but very few remain to whom the nation can render tardy justice. Surely no loyal citizen can approve such discrimination.

This legislation is generally favored by our citizens. The States were made a party to the above promise, and at least fourteen States have unanimously approved the passage of this bill. The Grand Army of the Republic has in its national encampments unanimously urged its passage. The bill is in perfect line with established precedent, common justice and faithfulness to a solemn pledge given by Congress in time of dire need, and should be promptly passed.

RECREATION NOTES

The Folk Dance Class which meets under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee in the Washington School held a short business meeting last night to plan for the next exhibition. They decided to give an exhibition the last week in May or the first week in June. The club voted to use blue and white as the color scheme for the next party, and that blue ribbons and blue neckties should be in evidence.

The Civic Club gave its first party in the auditorium of the Franklin School, last night. About thirty-five people were present. The company enjoyed round dancing and the Paul Jones and a short musical program. Refreshments were served. A short business meeting was called, at which Story Rowland presided. Six new members signed the constitution. A. B. Jones, chairman of the Recreation Committee, and Walter H. P. Veysey, secretary of the Recreation Committee, both were present and addressed the club. It was decided that the next meeting should be devoted to a debate, "Resolved, that the United States should use more stringent measures in dealing with the Mexican situation." The teams will be announced later. Mrs. F. C. Osborn assisted Mr. and Mrs. Story Rowland.

The Stillman Douglas Club which meets on Friday afternoons will hold an election tomorrow. Five members of the club of girls and boys are voted for by the club membership to assist in the conduct of the club activities, these forming what is known as the executive committee. This club is preparing soon to give an exhibition before the Dunbar Social and Educational Club.

The Municipal Orchestra rehearses tonight in the Franklin School in preparation for its concert. A full attendance is urged. Players of orchestral instruments are invited to join. The concert will be given the last Thursday in May or the first Thursday in June.

John R. Gates, president of the Dunbar Club, has completed arrangements for a brass band to assist in the activities on the afternoon of May 12, when Booker T. Washington is to speak at the Washington School for the members of the Dunbar Social and Educational Club. The recreation is especially gratified that Booker T. Washington is coming to Plainfield at the suggestion of John R. Gates himself. Last winter when the great colored leader was visiting in a New Jersey town, John Gates went to hear him speak and took with him letters which he had requested from Miss Anne Delia Melvin, supervisor of recreation, and from Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools. All are cordially invited to come to hear Washington speak on Tuesday afternoon, May 12, at 3 o'clock.

COURT AGAIN DENIES NEW TRIAL FOR FRANK

End of Hard Fight In Atlanta Murder.

Atlanta, Ga., May 7.—Judge Hill refused to grant a new trial to Leo M. Frank, charged with murdering Mary Phagan, factory girl.

A second appeal to the state supreme court was immediately noted by Frank's counsel. Judge Hill will sign the bill of exceptions granting the appeal.

Judge Hill dispensed with arguments by the prosecution. He said that any word from Solicitor Dorsey was unnecessary.

Rebuttal testimony was concluded for Frank and arguments by his attorneys began. In view of Judge Hill's ruling Solicitor Dorsey did not reply.

Leo M. Frank, formerly of Brooklyn, was indicted May 23, 1913, for the murder of fourteen-year-old Mary Phagan on April 26, 1913. He was superintendent of the National Pencil company's factory at Atlanta, in which the girl was an employee.

Mary Phagan had been laid off a few days and there was a small sum due her. She went to the factory Saturday afternoon for the money, which she was to get from Frank, who paid off the employees. She entered Frank's office was never seen alive again. It was a holiday and Frank was alone in the building with the exception of two workmen two floors above.

Frank admitted that the girl came to his office, but he said he paid her and that she left the building.

Frank and the negro watchman were ordered held for the grand jury. While Frank was in jail James Conley, the negro sweeper at the factory, was arrested on suspicion of knowing something about the crime. Conley finally told the story, which he afterward related on the stand, that Frank killed the girl after making improper advances to her and then hired him to help dispose of the body. The intention, the negro said, was to cremate the body in the furnace.

FEAR MORE STRIKE TROUBLE

Colorado Miners Resent "Regulars" Guarding Operations.

Denver May 7.—"It is impossible to convince the striking miners of a square deal when the coal companies import negroes and Japanese into the mines under armed guards in violation of the state laws. We take this to mean they have the protection of United States troops."

This telegram, sent to Representative Edward Keating at Washington by William T. Hickey, secretary of the Colorado Federation of Labor, voiced a fear felt by many striking miners that the president's disarmament order may injure their cause.

Officials of the United Mine Workers are anxious to learn whether the Colorado operators will be permitted to operate their mines with strike breakers under guard of federal soldiers. If they are there may yet be further trouble in the strike zone.

TIMELY ADVICE GIVEN TO MOTHERS

Dr. Corbusier Addresses Bryant-Lincoln Parent-Teacher Association.

Addressing the Parent-Teacher Association of the Bryan-Lincoln Public Schools, yesterday afternoon, Dr. H. D. Corbusier gave some timely advice to mothers as to the care of their children, especially in the matter of sitting and walking and the care of the feet. He discouraged strongly the use of the French and Cuban heels, claiming that they produced flat feet and bunions and retard the development of the muscles of the feet and legs. In the natural foot, Dr. Corbusier said the big toe should be on a straight line with the heel.

Dr. Corbusier took occasion to compliment the use of the flat heel pump or shoe for dancing, and said that they should be encouraged for the reason that they will tend to make the muscles of the leg strong, proving an aid to walking. He especially urged that children should sit and walk erect, adding that the correct position is to have the hips, heels and shoulders on a straight line.

Following the address, Mrs. William Sandford spoke briefly, urging the association to contribute something toward the National Congress of Mothers. Mrs. Grace Robinson then sang several selections accompanied on the piano by Miss Caroline Schuyler. Mrs. Alexander Vars presided at the meeting in place of Mrs. E. C. Conover, the president, who was absent.

FATHER AND DAUGHTER JOIN IN DUAL CELEBRATION

A large gathering of friends met at the home of Anton Ammon, of Somerset street, last evening, and celebrated the birthdays of Mr. Ammon and his daughter, Miss Josephine Ammon, both of which falls on the same day. The annual graduation exercises of the Muhlenberg Hospital Training School for Nurses will be held at the Hartridge Auditorium, Thursday evening, May 21, at 8:15 o'clock. The speaker of the evening will be Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church. The program of exercises will be short, followed by a dance for the nurses and their friends, which no doubt will be enjoyed by a large number. VanEps Brothers will furnish the music.

WILL DECORATE SCHOOL.

The following committee was named this morning by the Dunbar Social and Recreation Club to take charge of the decorating of the Washington School auditorium in preparation for the Booker T. Washington lecture at that place Tuesday afternoon: Mrs. E. B. Maynard, Mrs. Alexander Stills, Mrs. Walter Binn, Mrs. J. C. Anderson, Mrs. W. E. Groves, Mrs. Robert Tunstall, Miss Julia Homes, Mrs. William Page, Mrs. Edward Watson and M. A. Maynard.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire will preach at the Park avenue Baptist church, Sunday morning on the subject, "Characteristics of a Good Mother," and in the evening on the subject, "Some Recent Signs of the Times."

MISSIONARY RECEIVES MYSTERIOUS LETTERS

His Life Threatened in Missile Alleged to Have Come From Jealous Admirers.

After receiving two black hand letters from a mysterious source, Nicholas Cavanza of 1255 Arlington avenue, applied to the police this morning for protection against someone whom he thinks is out in quest of his life. Cananza says that matters have now reached a crisis where he is afraid to go out after dark and he thinks a plot has been framed up to take his life. Chief Kiely this morning offered to supply a body guard for the colored man when he had occasion to go out after dark but the police head's generous offer was declined.

Queried concerning the nature of the letters Cavanza presented the following misiles which he says were placed in his hands by a representative of Uncle Sam's postoffice department:

(Signed) BLACKHAND.

"Meet the writer at the corner of Liberty street and West Third street, tonight, with $500, or we'll kill you."
(Signed) BLACKHAND.

According to Cavanza he has turned the communications over to Postmaster Elias Bird and has requested an investigation in the matter. Cavanza, who is a missionary among colored people, says that he has a large number of jealous admirers and he thinks it was one of these who instigated the move against him.

When admitted to police headquarters this morning the complainant's nerves were greatly unstrung and he appeared in a state of exhaustion. Between gasps he managed to relate his story to the authorities, requesting the apprehension of one of his neighbors who will be summoned to court tomorrow morning for a hearing.

Hanson, of Newark, and the Union County Board of Freeholders filed caveats, the latter because Mrs. Bullock left relatives who are inmates of the State Hospital at Morris Plains.

MEDIATORS LOSE HOPE OF PEACE

Carranza Refusal Leaves Little For Envoys.

FUNSTON ADVANCES LINES

United States Commander at Vera Cruz Fortifies Waterworks Near City. Prepares to Resist Any Attack Made by Federals.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN MEXICAN SITUATION.

Officials in Washington have lost all hope regarding the mediation proceedings which are to begin in Canada on May 18.

Carranza is definitely determined not to be a party to these proceedings, and the A, B, C envoys have decided to proceed without him.

With the revolt leader eliminated there will remain nothing for the envoys to mediate save the question of the salute to the American flag. This, however, the United States will refuse to submit to the board.

General Funston has carefully fortified the waterworks near Vera Cruz and has advanced his lines sufficiently to resist any attack by the Huerta troops.

Washington, May 7.—President Wilson continues his search for able diplomats to represent this country in the negotiations of the "A, B, C" mediators at Niagara Falls, Ont.

Secretary Garrison has transmitted to General Funston, commanding the United States army forces at Vera Cruz, discretionary powers to extend his lines further out to protect the city.

These two facts illustrate accurately the situation in Washington. The administration hopes for peace, but is preparing for war. Secretary Bryan has faith in his dove of peace, but Secretary Garrison is grooming his dogs of war.

The situation at Vera Cruz assumed almost the character of a siege by the Mexican federal force rather than an occupation of the port by the Americans, according to advices.

Dispatches from General Funston brought the information that while no definite knowledge of the minor movements of the Mexican troops had been gained, it was known that the tracks of the Interoceanic railroad had been torn up, cutting off the last rail communication with the interior.

The Mexicans have concentrated along the lines of both railroads "to guard the roads in case we advance," General Funston cabled.

Secretary Garrison made public only portions of the dispatches from General Funston, and the belief is growing that the situation at Vera Cruz is momentarily growing more serious.

Diplomats Are Puzzled.

In the meantime, foreign diplomats here, outside of the A, B, C representatives, are wondering who "spilled the beans" in the peace negotiations.

While it is realized that Carranza actually let them drop by refusing to agree to an armistice, the suspicion is still strong that the United States may have given the bowl a tip.

On the other hand, the administration is doing some wondering now itself. Although apparently not displeased when Carranza refused to suspend his campaign in the direction of Mexico City and announced his intention of carrying out his purpose of overthrowing Huerta, disquieting rumors are beginning to fill the air in Washington and to cause the administration concern.

In other words, reports are coming to this city of renewed quarrels between Villa and Carranza. Villa, the man to whom Washington has really been looking to establish a new government in Mexico, still insists that he is friendly to the United States and has practically convinced the administration that neither he nor his men will join any movement against Americans.

The position of Carranza is not so clearly defined. The latter's friends in Washington still express resentment over the landing of United States forces at Vera Cruz.

Gardens and Lawns

If your flower or vegetable garden last year was not satisfactory—if your lawn shows bare spots and slow growth, it usually means that the soil has become acid for want of lime.

Edison Pulverized Limestone sweetens soil and produces better flowers and vegetables and gives lawns the soft, smooth, green effect so much desired.

Edison Pulverized Limestone

This natural limestone, pulverized as fine as flour, causes no injury, no matter when or how used. Use it as a top dressing, evenly distributed, both in the garden and on the lawn, and allow the rains to carry it down into the soil. Or, if you don't want to wait for rain you can use the garden hose.

For a garden or lawn, in fair condition last year, use about 100 pounds of the Pulverized Limestone for every 1000 square feet. If they were in poor shape use a larger quantity. Remember, there is no danger from using any amount of Edison Pulverized Limestone.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

N. P. H. S. ball tossers appear to have developed a deplorable habit of taking aerial ascensions in the last few innings. Both in yesterday's and in Saturday's contests the boroughites had things pretty well sewed up until the final half of the game when the visiting team came through with a great spurt that overwhelmed the local boys. Saturday's game came as a lucky verdict in the eleventh, but the N. P. H. S. boys were not so fortunate yesterday. Although they played better ball in a majority of the innings they had to be content with a defeat inasmuch as the visiting combination took advantage of opportunities to count in the seventh.

Bennie Rosenson's home run in the seventh inning of the P. H. S.-Leals game on Parker Field yesterday afternoon came as a revelation to the red and blue backers who were compelled to sit through a majority of the rounds with the Leal nine playing ball of the same calibre as their rivals who went on the field popular favorites. Rosenson's four decker with two on gave the Plainfielders a win after the private school youths had launched several big scares.

According to the returns hung up after the initial interscholastic league battle Captain Rosenson is the leader in the race for the silver loving cup offered for the best batting average. Three clean ones went to the P. H. S. leader's credit. Butler and Stevenson were runners-up with two each.

It becomes necessary to note that those Leal School ball tossers have but two errors intermingled with their box score while the P. H. S vouths have five. Looks as though the Front street players were really a formidable proposition after all.

There's plenty of talent in the Watchung Council for a Knights of Columbus League ball nine this season, and we look forward to some good games between the Plainfielders and other councils in the State. The K. of C. League is now a certainty and the Plainfielders will probably be "among those present" when the first bell taps.

From what we have seen of early season scholastic baseball Morris Brokaw and Frank Corriell seem to be the popular favorites in the umpiring role. Both have done good work during the first games and the local teams are fortunate to have a couple of good officials available at any time.

Some people are born knockers others acquire the habit. Our friend, the would-be sport scribe, acquires not only the habit but a severe case of sore-headedness which goes hand in hand with the remainder of his make-up. Not knowing enough to "Let Well Enough Alone" he seeks to exploit the fact that a contemporary has put something over on him in the way of originality and seeks to ridicule a feature that is far beyond his field of comprehension to inaugurate. Angered by the degree of popularity with which a Daily Press innovation has met the would-be scribe takes his spleen out in printer's ink. We're mightily sorry old man that we had to slip such a good one across at your expense, but we simply had to do it. Life is short and the quicker you find out that advertising your wrath does you no good the better off you will be. Of course we take into consideration the fact that you are yet an infant in the profession and have yet to learn that typographical errors are not unknown in newspaperdom. Terpischore music, of your own special variety, would be far more pleasing to your readers than the angry hum of your spleen but even that gets unindurable in hot weather. Cheer up, old man, you may be able to keep your feet from interfering with one another's progress on a waxed surface, but you've got a whole lot to learn about newspaper work before you can throw a scare into our camp. Come again.

BERNARDSVILLE CANCELLS.

The manager of the Bernardsville High School baseball team has cancelled the game that was to be played with the North Plainfield High School team on Hyde Oval next Saturday. He stated that the team had no way of getting here as they cannot travel in stages the way the boroughites go there. Manager Beckman will schedule another team to fill this vacancy and he will probably sign up some local aggregation.

LOCAL KNIGHTS WILL ENTER STATE LEAGUE

Plainfielders Expect to Put a Formidable Combination in the Field.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, of this city, will be represented at the first meeting of the Knights of Columbus baseball league Saturday night, at the Columbus Club on Broad street, Newark. This session has been called for the purpose of organization and besides the Plainfield council the following have signified their intention of falling in line: Jersey City, Bayonne, Montclair, Carteret, Orange and Newark. Those at the helm are planning to interest another team in the race and before the end of the week expect to have an eight team circuit.

A wealth of excellent baseball material is available at the local club and the several preliminary tryouts held during the last few weeks have aroused considerable enthusiasm in the proposition. A home meeting will probably be called prior to the session on Saturday night and a captain and manager will be elected at that time.

DATE FOR M. G. A. TITLE.

The Metropolitan Golf Association issued yesterday the complete program for the annual amateur champion tournament, which will be staged this year over the links of the Englewood Country Club, May 20 to 23, inclusive. A year ago, when Jerome D. Travers won the third leg on the Daniel Chauncey trophy, it became the permanent property of the Upper Montclair Country Club, with the result that this season the Metropolitan Golf Association offers its own championship trophy as a new prize.

CAPTAIN ROSENSON'S HITTING ANNEXED FIRST INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE GAME

Rosenson Introduced a Genuine Homer and Broke up the Old Ball Game.

The first Interscholastic League baseball game of the season was played yesterday afternoon, on Parker Field, between the Plainfield High School and Leals School. Plainfield won by the score of 5 to 1. Both teams put up a fine game and had it not been for Plainfield rallying in the eighth inning the outcome of the game might have been different. The Leals School boys played fully as good a game of ball as the High School nine, making only two errors while Plainfield High School made five.

Leals also showed class with the stick outbatting Plainfield by seven hits to five, until High School bunched things in the eighth and came across with four more.

In the eighth inning High School solved Faber's delivery and all but knocked him out of the box, getting four runs and four hits. Hetfield doubled to right, Peacock grounded to Faber, who hesitated to throw to first expecting Hetfield to go to third and Peacock reached first. Van Deventer hit a high infield fly, Hetfield taking third, Peacock scoring; Van Deventer was declared out. Rosenson then cleaned up with a pretty home-run over the left field fence, netting his third hit of the game.

ROD AND REEL

This is a fish story. Having absolved ourselves from the consequences by the foregoing announcement, here goes the yarn: Two fishermen went fishing for suckers at St. Cloud Sunday afternoon. They worked the streams for three hours without getting a sucker. However, they succeeded in getting lost in the woods and it was three hours more before they discovered themselves. All this time the men, according to the tale, were ravenously hungry. Having forgotten their lunch, they ate water lilies and drank water. We repeat this is a fish story.

Sea bass will be caught at the fishing banks Sunday if the weather is fair. We base this assertion on the fact that quite a few have been caught in the pound nets during the past week and they will work out to deep water in a few days.

The few minutes of warm weather yesterday made some of the boys loosen up and remove the closest things next to them for new material, and that gave them the fishing fever. They could be seen looking over the tackle stock in the stores, which is a sure sign that the Mexican war isn't worrying them.

Two fishermen were enjoying the scenery from the deck of a fishing boat yesterday, when one of them suddenly asked: "Say, John, what has become of that crowd who were shouting for disarmament a few months ago?" Jake said that the leader in the movement was working his shops overtime making steel for war vessels.

Hunting 150-pound snapping turtles with a derrick is not exactly an everyday happening, yet this is what occurred yesterday afternoon, at a point this side of Bayway on the Trenton fast line, according to two eye witnesses. Both were working on a Public Service flat car when they came upon four turtles feeding in a field near a big flat rock. When the rock developed legs, a head and tail. Bohrent fastened the chains of his derrick about it and hauled it up on the car. There the turtle upon being released, cut up scandalously, frightening the men with its vicious snapping and finally flopping off the car and making good its escape in a nearby pond. Behrent, however, captured a little fellow weighing nearly twenty pounds and this he displayed to his friends.

SEVENTH NOT A LUCKY ROUND FOR BORO HIGH SCHOOL BOYS WHO LOSE HARD GAME

After playing a fine article of ball and holding its opponents scoreless for six innings, the North Plainfield High School baseball team went to pieces in the seventh period and lost out by one run to the team from High Bridge on Hyde Oval yesterday afternoon. The contest was fast throughout and the local team pulled two tallies over the plate in the early stages of the game only to have their rivals score three times in the seventh. The final score was 3 to 2. Denny was on the mound for the boroughites and pitched in great shape, holding his opponents hitless and scoreless for the six innings. His support was perfect and the local batters were hitting the opposing twirler in great shape.

The visitors were put out in quick fashion in the first and only one of the local team saw a base in this inning. Neither side scored in the second and High Bridge was blanked in its half of the third. With one down, Smalley cracked a two-bagger into left field and scored the first run of the game when Denny singled over third. Denny was air-tight in the next three inning and in the sixth the home team ran another tally over. Dunning doubled in deep center and scored when Townley sent a sizzler through short stop. This was the end of the locals scoring. In the fatal seventh Denny threw the first man out at first and hit Dineen who went to first. He also hit the next batter and Dineen went to second. Dorland, the visiting pitcher, singled into right, scoring Dineen. The next man doubled to left and two of the runners scored on the hit, putting the visitors in the lead. Dorland could not be hit safely after that and the score could not be changed by the boroughites. Denny allowed only four hits while the local batters gathered five off Dorland. Each pitcher passed one man and struck out five. This is the second defeat of the local team by High Bridge. The score:

PLAINFIELD POLICE WILL PLAY BASEBALL

Crack Team to Be Formed by Local Patrolmen for Summer Competition.

Members of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association are completing arrangements for the placing of what promises to be a fast baseball team on the diamond this season and have secured the sanction of Police Chief Kiely for the organization of the nine at once. Practises will be held every Monday and Friday afternoon on Parker Field and the association has a roster of thirty members to pick from.

A committee composed of Cornelius McCarthy, chairman; Martin Flatley, Fred Baeder, Arthur McGinley and William R. McNeely has been selected to take charge of preliminary arrangements and samples of the material to be used in the suits was received today. The uniforms will be white with blue colors and will be provided by the association.

The local department has some excellent material among its members and some fine fielders and batters have made their appearance. The bluecoats will play the Plainfield baseball team and the Elizabeth police among others and all teams of like calibre in this section of the State will be taken on during the summer months.

LINDEMAN SUCCEEDS RANDOLPH

Ernie Lindeman, at one time the pride of Central New Jersey as a slab artist, has been signed by the Suburbans, of Brooklyn, to take the job vacated by Cliff Randolph, who gave up the Brooklyn berth to join the Perth Amboy team, of the Atlantic League. Lindeman at one time pitched for Plainfield and on other occasions twirled for Somerville, Dunellen and Bound Brook. Johnson, former local backstop, will catch Lindeman's slants.

DRISCOLL IN ELIZABETH.

Dave Driscoll's New Brunswick ball tossers are due to lineup against the T. A. B. nine of Elizabeth, next Sunday afternoon, on the latter team's diamond. The Brunswick outfit will be composed of practically the same ball tossers who appeared in Plainfield uniforms two years ago.

PLAINFIELD PAIR SWIM THREE MILES

W. L. Perrin, Jr., of the borough, who recently took possession of his summer camp, "Sans Souce," at Edgemere, L. I., astonished a crowd of 500 spectators by some daring aquatic feats, Sunday. Although the water register showed 52 degrees and a stiff breeze blew along shore, he plunged into the surf accompanied by his brother, Arthur, and the pair swam half the distance to Long Beach and back a distance of fully three miles.

The two men were noticed by natives and visitors who hurriedly collected at points of vantage and yelled words of encouragement. When they drew near shore, the brothers halted for a brief rest after which they performed numerous difficult water tricks, greatly to the delight of the crowd. On emerging from the water, the brothers were rubbed down by J. W. Drayton and Frank Hart, well-known Plainfielder, and so far the shivery-surf deflers have suffered no ill effects. They are planning another effort that they believe will get them to Long Beach and back.

LOCAL TEAM OUT FOR STATE BOWLING TITLE IN NEWARK

The Plainfield bowling team, presenting the same lineup as the Elks' team, is scheduled to roll in the New Jersey Sweepstakes on the Weingarth-Whatton alleys in Newark tonight. The local combination will be composed of the following pin splitters: Johnny Campbell, Bill Nash, Chauncy Stout, P. S. Kiely and Edward Laing.

The Plainfielders will have as their opponents the New Brunswick Elks, one of the local Elks' rivals in the Elks' Bowling League each year. Teams have entered from all parts of the State and the result of the matches will decide the State championship.

SAVE FOURTEEN MORE OF COLUMBIAN CREW

Boat Was Adrift For Sixty Hours.

Sable Island, N. S., May 7.—The second boat which put out from the burning steamship Columbian before daybreak on Monday has been found. The steamship Manhattan reports that she picked it up after it had been adrift for sixty hours. It contained Captain McDonald of the lost steamer and thirteen members of the crew.

With the thirteen men and a corpse picked up by the Franconia, twenty-eight men have been accounted for. The steamships are still searching for another small boat which put out from the burning steamer with eight or ten more men. Captain McDonald reports that three men were killed before he left the ship, so of the crew of forty there are still nine men to be accounted for.

According to the Marconi received at the station here from the Manhattan, the rescued boat contained besides the captain the chief engineer, two officers and the Marconi operator. The rest were sailors.

No details of the rescue of the boat load have been sent out, but Captain McDonald wirelessed a short account of the fire, which is as follows:

"The fire broke out at midnight Sunday in No. 1 hatch. The alarm was immediatly given and the hose turned into the burning hatch. A terrific explosion occurred a few minutes afterward, which burst all the hatches and skylight, wrecked the engine room and destroyed the Marconi outfit. The crew left the Columbian at 12:30 o'clock in the small boats. The ship was then a mass of flames fore and aft. The fifth engineer died on the boat, and the second engineer was killed in the first explosion, while one doukeyman was drowned in taking one of the boats."

The Manhattan is still searching for the other boat.

A PIONEER IN AVIATION.

C. K. Hamilton Was One of America's Foremost Air Men.

Charles K. Hamilton, who died very suddenly at his home in New York city the other day, was one of the pioneer aviators of this country and noted for his skill and daring. He was born in New Britain, Conn., and was only thirty-two years old. In the days when aerial navigation in heavier than air machines was young Hamilton made a name for being one of the most daring of air pilots and at the same time one of the luckiest. Before there were the loop the loop and the dip of death there was the Hamilton dip, and the young aviator did many daring stunts in the air that made his name known from coast of coast.

CHARLES K. HAMILTON IN HIS MACHINE

From his earliest childhood he gave evidence of his desire to leave the earth and invade the skies. When he was only eight years old he borrowed his mother's parasol and jumped off the eaves of the barn with it, expecting it to break his fall, but succeeded only in breaking the parasol. He was uninjured.

Hamilton did his first aeroplane work in 1908, and one of his earliest flights was over Lake Washington at Seattle. He planned to make a long glide from a height of 800 feet, striking the water so as to skip along the surface like a flat stone. He miscalculated his distance and, with his machine going seventy miles an hour, struck the lake surface at too sharp an angle. Hamilton had barely time to climb to the upper plane before the machine plunged into the water. It was the breaking of his engine when he was flying at a height of 600 feet that taught him how to negotiate his aerial dive.

One of his most notable exploits was his flight from New York to Philadelphia and return in June, 1910. He flew to the Quaker City in 1 hour and 50 minutes and returned in 1 hour and 44 minutes.

There was one record of which Hamilton was particularly proud. While giving an exhibition at San Diego, Cal., in January, 1909, he flew twenty-six miles across country and sea to the Mexican border, crossing it, and then back without making a stop. On the trip he flew out of sight of land over the Pacific ocean.

During the siege of Juarez in the Madero revolution in Mexico Hamilton flew over the beleaguered city. In 1911 he flew around the dome of the state capitol at Hartford, Conn.

Hamilton made flights in various quarters of the globe and at times during his career had nearly every bone in his body broken. For the last two years he had worn a silver plate in his head as the result of a fall in Pennsylvania, when he fractured his skull.

DAINTY BORDER DESIGN APPLIED TO A BUREAU SCARF

Plenty of dainty bureau-scarfs are a necessity to the housekeeper, as they should always be kept fresh to give a neat appearance to the room. Just a bit of hand embroidery, such as a border, initials or sprays, gives a touch of individuality to the scarf. This border, No. 14065, illustrated on a bureau-scarf, is 1¼ inches wide, and the pattern contains 6 yards for 10 cents. The flowers may be developed in solid work and the dots in eyelets. The bureau-scarf may be made of fine lawn, batiste or handkerchief linen and embroidered in white or a color. This simple design is also suitable for trimming waists, dresses, neckwear and underwear.

Initials or monograms are used for decorations as well as marking household linens, and the monogram P. L., used here, is taken from pattern No. 14528. This pattern includes 375 transfers of one initial in various sizes and styles for 15 cents. There are 6 of the large size letters and 12 of the smaller ones, suitable for making sets of linens. These initials may be used singly or they may be combined to form any two or three-letter monograms. For two-letter monograms buy two patterns, and for three-letter monograms buy three patterns.

When stamping a two-letter monogram, lay the letters in place, with the printed side down so that you can see the size and relative position of the monogram, remove the first initial, until after the last has been stamped, then place the first in position and stamp. For a three-letter monogram, first stamp the middle letter, then that of the surname, and last of all the initial of the first name.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.

Mrs. H. E. Parker, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Smith and Mrs. J. L. Evans.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Bryant-Lincoln Schools met yesterday afternoon and were entertained by songs charmingly rendered by Mrs. Grace Robison, accompanied by Mrs. Schuyler.

Dr. Corbusier, in speaking of the defects in the framework of the body, laid much emphasis of flat-foot. Children are often afflicted with this when they complain of pains in feet or legs and it is often caused by badly formed shoes. The doctor exhibited samples of good and bad shoes. The seats used in schools are often responsible for round shoulders and flat chests—and the waists found on the market for growing children are not what they should be. The waist should be made of pliable material and hang from the shoulder, near the neck. The tape waist is the best now made. Children should be watched and not allowed to form bad habits in sitting and standing.

Mrs. Smith, who was seat as delegate to the International Congress of Mothers in Washington gave a report of that conference.

In speaking of child welfare work before the International Congress of Mothers in Washington, Edward J. Ward, of the University of Wisconsin, said that civilization began when men and women united and remained together for the education of the child and that in this the home spirit was born. That out of this primitive group, in widening circles, the clan and the tribe came to be. From that rootage grew the old patriarchal forms of government and in our day the circle has reached the child-welfare movement which means community co-operation. He gave this test of our civilization: "How shall we learn to feel our membership in the larger community group in which our work is now done, in which our lives are now lived, as we have learned to feel our membership in the little household group.

"A society which engages men to patrol its ways, to keep its members in order with clubs, has not begun to find itself. All our education tends to widen our intellectual comprehension of our membership in this larger group. So to develop our capacity to think in terms of the wider circle of our association."

Mrs. Winifred Stoner, of the University of Pittsburgh, whose own daughter at the age of eight could recite many classic poems of literature, and do other remarkable things, which Mrs. Stoner ascribed to her system of education, gives these rules for mothers:

"Never spank.
"Never scold.
"Never say don't.
"Never say 'must.'
"Keep child's self-respect and your own.
"Never allow a child to say I 'can't.'
"Never frighten a child.
"Never refuse to answer questions.
"Never ridicule or tease a child.
"Never banish the fairies."

Within five minutes after Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, of New York, had made an appeal to the delegates to the International Congress of Mothers for a fund to be known as the "Mrs. Schoff Fund," $250 was volunteered. The fund is for the purpose of bringing into closer co-operation the State and national organizations with the Parent-Teacher Associations.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SIMPLE FRUIT DESSERTS.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Chicken on Toast.
Lettuce Salad.
Banana Dainty.
Rolls. Cocoa.

FRUIT should be eaten freely in the spring. Such fruits as pineapples, lemons, oranges, bananas and apples may be obtained at this season and combined to give variety to the desserts of the season.

An Iced Delicacy.

Banana Dainty.—Take four ripe bananas and a small can of pineapple, a tablespoonful of powdered sugar and one pint of custard. Take your bananas and peel them, then cut into thin rounds, chop the sections of pineapple small, place a layer of bananas and a layer of pineapples and then sprinkle the sugar. Let this stand in a glass dish for half an hour before you pour the custard over. If kept for a few minutes in a cool place it will taste almost as though iced.

Pineapple and Rhubarb.—Take five pounds of rhubarb, six pounds of sugar, a gill of water and a can of pineapple. Cut rhubarb into dice and cover with four pounds of sugar and let stand twelve hours; then take two pounds of sugar, add water and part of the rhubarb and sugar and set to boil. When nearly boiling add the remaining rhubarb and pineapple. Boil till it jellies.

Baked Fruit.

Buttered Bread and Apples.—Take round slices of bread, one for each apple, some butter and sugar. Pare and core the apples, have slices of bread buttered, place an apple on each piece of bread and fill the core space with sugar and butter, placing a little lump of butter and sugar on the top of each. Bake in a moderately hot oven for about twenty minutes or until tender. More butter and sugar may be added while the apples are cooking.

Orange Fritters.—Mix half a pound of flour and half a pint of milk into a stiff batter, add two ounces of melted butter, two eggs well beaten and a very little salt. Peel two oranges, divide into sections without cracking the skin, have ready a pan of thoroughly boiling fat, put in a teaspoonful of batter with one piece of orange in the center, fry a nice golden brown, drain on kitchen paper; then dish on lace paper, sprinkling powdered sugar on the top. They should be cooked and sent to table as quickly as possible.

The Tame Canary Bird and His Mistress.

DADDY had heard that afternoon the story of a very tame canary bird. The little girl who owned the bird and who was a friend of Jack and Evelyn had told daddy about her little pet. So when daddy got home in the evening he was ready at once to tell the story of the little bird.

"I am going to tell you about the little bird Elizabeth has. Her daddy gave him to her several weeks ago, and he is just as tame as tame can be," said daddy. "She has named him Bubsie, and he knows his name too, for whenever she calls 'Bubsie!' he replies with a little 'Peep, peep!'

"Every morning, bright and early, he wakes up and begins to sing the most beautiful songs. He sings so steadily that Elizabeth says it is a surprise to her that he doesn't burst his little throat.

"After Elizabeth gets up she always gives him a little piece of apple before she begins her breakfast. She puts it on her finger between two wires of the cage, and he hops right over on his little bar and takes it from her finger.

"The next thing is his bath, which he takes soon after breakfast. He loves that. He spatters the water about and has just the best time in the world. He acts as if it were the most wonderful game. After his bath he has a treat of delicious lettuce to eat, and then he sits in the sun and smoothes down his feathers.

"In his cage there is a swing, and he swings on it and hops from one perch to the other. In fact, he has a fine romp. He usually does this right after his bath, for then he feels so energetic.

"In the afternoons Elizabeth lets him out of his cage. Of course she sees first that there are no windows up or doors ajar before she opens the door of the cage. When the cage door is open Bubsie flies out and makes a tour of the room. Not only does he enjoy flying around and perching back of the different pictures and on the window sill. The thing he likes more than anything else is to play with Elizabeth. He perches on her shoulder and walks around on her hand. And he loves to tease her too, for if there are any flowers in the room he will fly over to them, peck at them and begin munching at them. Then he won't let Elizabeth catch him. He thinks this a huge joke, and he always flies to some high spot in the room and begins to sing.

"Elizabeth told me any number of tales of the tricks that he does, but she told me to invite you two children to come and see her, and then she promises you that Bubsie will entertain you."

"Oh, that's fine!" said Evelyn. "Do you suppose we can go tomorrow?"

"Yes, I think so," said daddy, "for, as a matter of fact, I believe I told her to expect you both tomorrow."

"Hurrah!" shouted the children. "You always think of such nice things for us to do."

TRY A PRESS WANT AD

Warrenville.

While Ethel Allgor was playing with the children at the home of Henry Albert, Sunday afternoon, a dog which is allowed to run unchained attacked her and throwing her down severely lacerated her right leg. It was necessary to call Dr. McGrath, of Sterling, to attend to the child's wounds. The girl is now confined to her home under the doctor's care and it will be some time before she will be able to return to school. It is not believed that the dog was suffering from rabies as it is known to have vicious tendencies.

The honor roll at the Warrenville School contained the following stars for the month of April: Florence Quince, Elsworth Bowers, George Scheurman, Anna Zwimer, Pauline Zergiebel, Myrtle Williams, Teddie Cooper, Milton Williams, Alice M. Zwimer and Wayne Cleaves.

The departure of the cook or maid does not prostrate the lady who knows the efficiency of Press want ads.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

In No. 7895 an effectively draped, attractive dress for afternoons is shown. It may be made up in a soft silk, one of the new taffetas, moire, or silk poplin; if a wash material is preferred, one of the new cotton crepes, striped or in flowered design, would be most attractive. Vest effects are still favored in many of the dark frocks; these are developed in a brightly colored silk or silk gauze showing Indian or Japanese designs. In this model we have a surplice closing, pleated vest, which may be made of silk, chiffon or organdy. It is quite a fad to make this vest separately of organdy, mousseline de soie or a sheer crepe. When fashioned in one of these materials, it gives a very dainty appearance to a dark dress; colored buttons, tassels and other ornaments are also used to give the required bit of color contrast. In this instance, if dark silk were used it would be very pleasing to have the buttons in Chinese coloring. To copy this dress in size 36, 5¼ yards of 36-inch material is required.

The pattern is cut in five sizes; 34 to 42.

CHAPTER XIX.

Lois Buries Her Dead.

THE replies that Ivory had received from his letters of inquiry concerning his father's movements since leaving Maine and his possible death in the west left no reasonable room for doubt. Traces of Aaron Boynton in New Hampshire, in Massachusetts, in New York and finally in Ohio all pointed in one direction, and, although there were gaps and discrepancies in the account of his doings, the fact of his death seemed to be established by two apparently reliable witnesses.

That he was not unaccompanied in his earliest migrations seemed clear, but the woman mentioned as his wife disappeared suddenly from the reports, and the story of his last days was the story of a broken down, melancholy, unfriended man, dependent for the last offices on strangers. He left no messages and no papers, said Ivory's correspondent and never made mention of any family connections whatsoever. He had no property and no means of defraying the expenses of his illness after he was stricken with the fever. No letters were found among his poor effects and no article that could prove his identity, unless it were a small gold locket, which bore no initials or marks of any kind, but which contained two locks of fair and brown hair, intertwined. The tiny trinket was enclosed in the letter, as of no value, unless some one recognized it as a keepsake.

Ivory read the correspondence with a heavy heart, inasmuch as it corroborated all his worst fears. He had sometimes secretly hoped that his father might return and explain the reason of his silence or in lieu of that that there might come to light the story of a pilgrimage, fanatical perhaps, but innocent of evil intention, one that could be related to his wife and his former friends and then buried forever with the death that had ended it.

Neither of these hopes could now ever be realized nor his father's memory made other than a cause for endless regret, sorrow and shame. His father, who had begun life so handsomely, with rare gifts of mind and personality, a wife of unusual beauty and intelligence and, while still young in years, a considerable success in his chosen profession. His poor father! What could have been the reasons for so complete a downfall?

Ivory asked Dr. Perry's advice about showing one or two of the briefer letters and the locket to his mother. After her fainting fit and the exhaustion that followed it, Ivory begged her to see the old doctor, but without avail. Finally, after days of pleading, he took her hands in his and said: "I do everything a mortal man can do to be a good son to you, mother. Won't you do this to please me and trust that I know what is best?" Whereupon she gave a trembling assent, as if she were agreeing to something indescribably painful, and, indeed, this sight of a former friend seemed to frighten her strangely.

After Dr. Perry had talked with her for a half hour and examined her sufficiently to make at least a reasonable guess as to her mental and physical condition, he advised Ivory to break the news of her husband's death to her.

"If you can get her to comprehend it," he said, "it is bound to be a relief from this terrible suspense."

"Will there be any danger of making her worse? Mightn't the shock cause too violent emotion?" asked Ivory anxiously.

"I don't think she is any longer capable of violent emotion," the doctor answered. "Her mind is certainly clearer than it was three years ago, but her body is nearly burned away by the mental conflict. There is scarcely any part of her but is weary—weary unto death, poor soul! One cannot look at her patient, lovely face without longing to lift some part of her burden. Make a trial, Ivory. It's a justifiable experiment, and I think it will succeed. I must not come any oftener myself than is absolutely necessary. She seemed afraid of me."

The experiment did succeed. Lois Boynton listened breathlessly with parted lips and with apparent comprehension to the story Ivory told her. Over and over again he told her gently the story of her husband's death, trying to make it sink into her mind clearly, so that there should be no consequent bewilderment. She was calm and silent, though her face showed that she was deeply moved. She broke down only when Ivory showed her the locket.

"I gave it to my husband when you were born, my son!" she sobbed. "After all, it seems no surprise to me that your father is dead. He said he would come back when the mayflowers bloomed, and when I saw the autumn leaves I knew that six months must have gone and he would never stay away from us for six months without writing. That is the reason I have seldom watched for him these last weeks. I must have known that it was no use."

She rose from her rocking chair and moved feebly toward her bedroom. "Can you spare me the rest of the day, Ivory?" she faltered as she leaned on her son and made her slow progress from the kitchen. "I must bury the body of my grief and I want to be alone at first. If only I could see Waitstill! We have both thought this was coming; she has a woman's instinct; she is younger and stronger than I am and she said it was braver not to watch and pine and fret as I have done, but to have faith in God that he would send me a sign when he was ready. She said if I could manage to be braver you would be happier too." Here she sank on to her bed exhausted, but still kept up her murmuring faintly and feebly between long intervals of silence.

"Do you think Waitstill could come tomorrow?" she asked. "I am so much braver when she is here with me. After supper I will put away your father's cup and plate once and for all, Ivory, and your eyes need never fill with tears again as they have sometimes when you have seen me watching. You needn't worry about me; I am remembering better these days, and the bells that ring in my ears are not so loud. If only the pain in my side were less and I were not so pressed for breath, I should be quite strong and could see everything clearly at last. There is something else that remains to be remembered. I have almost caught it once and it must come to me again before long. Put the locket under my pillow, Ivory; close the door, please, and leave me to myself. I can't make it quite clear, my feeling about it, but it seems just as if I were going to bury your father, and I want to be alone."

New England's annual pageant of autumn was being unfolded day by day in all its accustomed splendor, and the feast and riot of color, the almost unimaginable glory, was the common property of the whole countryside, rich and poor, to be shared alike if perchance all eyes were equally alive to the wonder and the beauty.

Waitstill Baxter went as often as she could to the Boynton farm, though never when Ivory was at home, and the affection between the younger and the older woman grew closer and closer, so that it almost broke Waitstill's heart to leave the fragile creature when her presence seemed to bring such complete peace and joy.

"No one ever clung to me so before," she often thought as she was hurrying across the fields after one of her half hour visits. "But the end must come before long. Ivory does not realize it yet, nor Rodman, but it seems as if she could never survive the long winter. Thanksgiving day is drawing nearer and nearer, and how little I am able to do for a single creature to prove to God that I am grateful for my existence! I could, if only I were free, make such a merry day for Patty and Mark and their young friends. Oh, what joy if father were a man who would let me set a bountiful table in our great kitchen; would sit at the head and say grace and we could bow our heads over the cloth, a united family, or if I had done my duty in my home and could go to that other, where I am so needed—go with my father's blessing! All the woman in me is wasting, wasting. Oh, my dear, dear man, how I long for him! Oh, my own dear man, my helpmate, shall I ever live by his side? I love him, I want him, I need him! And my dear little unmothered, unfathered boy, how happy I could make him! How I should love to cook and sew for them all and wrap them in comfort! How I should love to smooth my dear mother's last days, for she is my mother in spirit, in affection, in desire and in being Ivory's!"

Waitstill's longing, her discouragement, her shelplessness, overcame her wholly, and she flung herself down under a tree in the pasture in a very passion of sobbing, a luxury in which she could seldom afford to indulge herself. The luxury was short lived, for in five minutes she heard Rodman's voice, and heard him running to meet her as he often did when she came to their house or went away from it, dogging her footsteps or Patty's whenever or wherever he could waylay them.

"Why, my dear, dear Waity, did you tumble and hurt yourself?" the boy cried.

"Yes, dreadfully, but I'm better now, so walk along with me and tell me the news, Rod."

"There isn't much news. Ivory told you I'd left school and am studying at home? He helps me evenings and I'm 'way ahead of the class."

"I said if the big brother kept school the little brother ought to keep house," laughed the boy. "He says I can hire out as a cook pretty soon! Aunt Boynton's 'most always up to get dinner and supper, but I can make lots of things now—things that Aunt Boynton can eat too."

"Oh, I cannot bear to have you and Ivory cooking for yourselves!" exclaimed Waitstill, the tears starting again from her eyes. "I must come over the next time when you are at home, Rod, and I can help you make something nice for supper."

"We get along pretty well," said Rodman contentedly. "I love book learning like Ivory, and I'm going to be a schoolmaster or a preacher when Ivory's a lawyer. Do you think Patty'd like a schoolmaster or a preacher best, and do you think I'd be too young to marry her by and by, if she would wait for me?"

"I didn't think you had any idea of marrying Patty," laughed Waitstill through her tears. "Is this something new?"

"It's not exactly new," said Rod, jumping along like a squirrel in the path. "Nobody could look at Patty and not think about marrying her. I'd love to marry you, too, but you're too big and grand for a boy. Of course I'm not going to ask Patty yet. Ivory said once you should never ask a girl until you can keep her like a queen. Then after a minute he said: 'Well, maybe not quite like a queen, Rod, for that would mean longer than a man could wait. Shall we say until he could keep her like the dearest lady in the land? That's the way he said it. You do cry dreadfully easy today, Waity. I'm sure you barked your leg or skinned your knee when you fell down. Don't you think the 'dearest lady in the land' is a nice sounding sentence?"

"I do, indeed!" cried Waitstill to herself as she turned the words over and over trying to feed her hungry heart with them.

"I love to hear Ivory talk. It's like the stories in the books. We have our best times in the barn, for I'm helping with the milking now. Our yellow cow's name is Molly and the red cow used to be Dolly, but we changed her to Golly 'cause she's so troublesome."

"We had a cross old cow like that once," said Waitstill absently, loving to hear the boy's chatter and the eternal quotations from his beloved hero.

"We have great fun cooking, too," continued Rod. "When Aunt Boynton was first sick she stayed in bed more, and Ivory and I hadn't got used to things. One morning we bound up each other's burns. Ivory had three fingers and I two done up in buttery rags to take the fire out. Ivory called us 'soldiers dressing their wounds after the battle.' Sausages spatter dreadfully, don't they? And when you turn a pancake it flops on top of the stove. Can you flop one straight, Waity?"

"Yes, I can; straight as a die; that's what girls are made for. Now run along home to your big brother, and do put on some warmer clothes under your coat. The weather's getting colder."

"Aunt Boynton hasn't patched our thick ones yet, but she will soon, and, if she doesn't, Ivory'll take this Saturday evening and do them himself. He said so."

"He shall not!" cried Waitstill passionately. "It is not seemly for Ivory to sew and mend, and I will not allow it. You shall bring me those things that need patching without telling any one, do you hear, and I will meet you on the edge of the pasture Saturday afternoon and give them back to you. You are not to speak of it to any one, you understand, or perhaps I shall pound you to a jelly! You'd make a sweet rose jelly to eat with turkey for Thanksgiving dinner, you dear, comforting little boy!"

Rodman ran toward home, and Waitstill hurried along, scarcely noticing the beauties of the woods and fields and waysides, all glowing masses of goldenrod and purple frost flowers.

Patty was standing under a little rock maple, her brown linsey-woolsey in tone with the landscape and the hood of her brown cape pulled over her bright head. She looked flushed and excited as she ran up to her sister and said: "Waity, darling, you've been crying! Has father been scolding you?"

"No, dear, but my heart is aching today so that I can scarcely bear it. A wave of discouragement came over me as I was walking through the woods, and I gave up to it a bit. I remembered how soon it will be Thanksgiving day, and I'd so like to make it happier for you and a few others that I love."

Patty could have given a shrewd guess as to the chief cause of the heartache, but she forebore to ask any questions. "Cheer up, Waity!" she cried. "You can never tell. We may have a thankful Thanksgiving, after all."

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK
Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray. Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

FIELDER URGES HELP FOR POOR

Governor Would Establish State Settlement Work.

SENTIMENT IS APPLAUDED

Fielder at Testimonial Dinner at Scottish Rite Temple In Jersey City Says State Should Provide Something For Poor and Helpless; Also Teach the Young.

Jersey City, N. J., May 7.—"The state would be doing far better work than it is doing at present along some lines if it would establish state settlement work," said Governor James F. Fielder of New Jersey at a testimonial dinner at the Scottish Rite temple, in Park street, to Miss Cornelia F. Bradford, head worker of the Whittier House in Lower Grand street.

"It should provide something for the poor and helpless as well as the young men and young women who have not the opportunities most of us have, so that they would know how to meet the battles of life, rather than provide so many charitable, penal and correctional institutions to take care of them after they go wrong."

The governor's sentiment was loudly applauded by 500 men and women from all parts of Hudson county and the Oranges, who had gathered to do honor to Miss Bradford upon the occasion of the twentieth anniversary of the founding by her of the settlement house. Miss Bradford is a member of the board of education and the only woman who has ever served in that capacity in this city. It is conceded that she has done much to improve the public school system.

Former Supreme Court Justice Gilbert Collins acted as toastmaster. Mayor Mark M. Fagan of Jersey City spoke of the fine work that the Whittier House and Miss Bradford are doing for the city, and Dr. Oliver R. Blanchard, president of the board of education, gave testimony to Miss Bradford's worth as a school director.

Mrs. Caroline B. Alexander of Castle Point, Hoboken, spoke on "Miss Bradford In State Work." Other speakers included the Rev. Dr. James M. Ludlow, Thomas J. Laden, Miss Vladimir Simkhovitch and Dr. John L. Elliott.

ANTIGAMBLING CASE FAILS.

Ministerial Association's Detective Loses With Jury.

Paterson, N. J., May 7.—John M. Ward, counsel for Gustave A. Foehl, who was acquitted before Judge Klennert in general sessions court, where he was charged in two indictments with bookmaking and pool selling at 224 Market street and 113 Main street, attacked Abraham Weinberg, detective for the Ministerial association, when he gave his testimony.

Mr. Ward asked Weinberg if he was not a professional gambler eight years ago; if he did not blackmail Richard Kennedy of New York three years ago, and if he was not employed by the Westchester club of New York as a professional gambler at a salary of $25 a week. Weinberg denied all these intimations.

Weinberg testified that he had made bets on horse races at Foehl's place in Market street on Jan. 16 last. He said there were twenty-five men in the place betting at the time. The next day he went to the Main street address and made bets.

Foehl's was the first of the anti-gambling crusade cases. The jury was out forty minutes.

METHODISTS NEED FUNDS.

$4,125,000 Required to Carry on Church Work This Year.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 7.—According to reports submitted to the commission on finance of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which is in session at Haddon hall, appropriations aggregating $4,125,000 will be needed during the coming fiscal year to carry on the work of the church.

The commission comprises Bishop Earl Cranston of Washington, Bishop Charles W. Smith of St. Louis and Bishop J. W. Hamilton of Boston, with six pastors, six laymen and the secretaries of the seven benevolent bodies of the church. It has been directed to make a study of financial conditions and devise better methods.

Bishop Brent was born in Canada in 1862 and is unmarried. He has filled pulpits in New York and Boston.

Raritan

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Koshoffer have moved from this place to Bound Brook.

The Board of Commissioners will hold a special meeting at Firemen's Hall next Monday evening. The question of sprinkling the streets will come up for consideration at this time.

Preparations for "A Regiment of Two," the farcial comedy to be given by St. Bernard's Dramatic Club, in St. Bernard's Hall, Raritan, tonight, for the benefit of Relief Hose Company, are completed. A dress rehearsal took place last night. The Relief Hose Company committee in charge of arrangements consists of James J. Cunningham, Finley P. Wyckoff, Charles VanNest, Fred. Sisser, Chester Amerman, Joseph Hickey, John Dahony and Ralph S. Young. Many of the artists have appeared in other productions in Raritan, and their talent in the theatrical line is well-known to the public.

—DON'T MAKE DON'T YOUR CREED. If you have something to sell, some quest to pursue—do these tasks aggressively, through want-advertising!

SAVING SYSTEMATICALLY

Everyone will admit that it is desirable to save some part of his income; also, that if this saving is done systematically, the account will increase more rapidly. Most persons open savings accounts and then promptly forget them.

In order to make saving effective, we have inaugurated a 4 per cent. Installment Bond Plan which has many original features.

Deposits of from $1 to $25 monthly may be made for 38 months, and at the end of that time all you have paid in may be withdrawn together with 4% interest. In the mean time, if necessity requires it, 80% of the amount paid in may be borrowed; or payments may be discontinued at any time and the amount paid in, withdrawn.

BUS LICENSES ARE WITHHELD

Although Plainfield Transit Company Pays Fee Fixed by Ordinance.

BOARD OF TRADE ACTS

Petitions Mayor and Council Through Resolutions to Ignore Application to Stop Service—Reported that New Ordinance is to be Introduced.

Declaring that a discrimination in favor of West Seventh street so far as prohibiting the operation of auto buses through that thoroughfare, would be a discrimination against other streets in that section of the city, the officers of the Board of Trade, following action of the board at its meeting earlier in the week have adopted resolutions, a copy of which was forwarded to Mayor Percy H. Stewart and the Common Council asking them to ignore any and all applications intended to stop such service on Seventh street.

The board cites that West Seventh street is a direct road from this city to New Market, connecting with Plainfield avenue, which is a direct road to South Plainfield, and urged that no action be taken until better reasons are given by residents for changing the route of the auto buses.

It was learned today that the licenses for the operation of the auto buses by the Plainfield Transit Company have not been signed by Mayor Percy H. Stewart and issued to the company, although the company paid the fee on March 1 the time licenses must be renewed. The company, it is said, operated under the same conditions last year, that is they paid the license fee but did not get a license.

It is understood that Mayor Stewart has had this matter under advisement with Corporation Counsel C. A. Reed, the purpose being to have an ordinance or an amendment to an ordinance drafted covering the operation of these buses. The present license fee is $10.50.

The communication received by the Common Council, Monday night, from Albert H. Attenbury, protesting against buses running through West Seventh street, has revived the controversy in the matter. Mayor Stewart are requested the Council, Monday night to make an investigation for the purpose providing more strict regulations for the operation of the buses.

It was reported today that the Board of Trade, if necessary, will take steps to prevent the city from interfering with the operation of the buses through certain streets, believing the motors to be for the accommodation of the people.

The resolutions adopted by the Board of Trade and signed by William Mirey, president; Lamar Van Syckel, secretary and Herman Schwed, Edmund Rushmore, A. S. Herr, J. V. E. Vanderhoef and Samuel Rothberg, trustees, are as follows.

"Whereas, it has been brought to the attention of the Plainfield Board of Trade, that one or two residents along West Seventh street, object to the Plainfield Transit Company's motor buses and other motor buses of similar character, using West Seventh street as a means to convey passengers to their destination to and from Plainfield, and

"Whereas, West Seventh street is a direct road as nearly as can be from Plainfield to New Market and connects with Plainfield avenue and a direct road into South Plainfield; and,

"Whereas a discrimination in favor of this street would be a discrimination against the other streets in this section of the city in the matter of motor vehicles,

"Now therefore be it resolved, that the Trustees of the Board of Trade, petition the Mayor and Council Council to ignore any and all applications made for the purpose of prohibiting the use of West Seventh street, for the purpose mentioned in the preamble contained herein and that until better reasons are furnished and contributed to by the residents of other streets, that no further action shall be taken in the premises."

SENATOR MARTINE FAVORS LOCAL OPTION

States Position in Letter to Anti-Saloon League, of New Jersey.

United States Senator James E. Martine, according to an announcement made today by the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, has endorsed local option. The league, through a press bulletin, states that "In a letter to one of his contituents, Date April 9, now on file at the office of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, Senator James E. Martine writes as follows:

"It (prohibition) is wholly a social and moral question and should be handled wherever the people wish, in the form of local option."

The league also publishes a letter written by President Wilson to E. W. Grogan, of Byers, Texas, in which among other things he states that he believes that State-wide prohibition is both practical and desirable in Texas.

TRUST COMPANY MADE DEPOSITORY

Borough Council Decide to Place Sewage Fund in Plainfield Bank.

WILL DRAW 3 PER CENT

Right Reserved to Change Amount from Checking to Segregated Account—Delay Reported in Purchasing Darling Farm.

The North Plainfield Council met in adjourned session, last night, and decided to make the Plainfield Trust Company the depository for the $30,000 worth of gold bonds received from that company for the sale of bonds for the joint sewer system. The bonds will be placed in a checking account drawing interest at three per cent., and the borough will have the privilege of changing the account to a segregated one at any time with four per cent. interest.

The proposal to deposit the funds in the Plainfield Trust Company brought forth considerable discussion, Councilman Alexander Milne opposing it on the grounds that the interest was not enough. He claimed that the bonds should be placed in a segregated account so that four per cent. interest could be secured. He contended that there was a possibility of the funds lying dormant for some time and said that he thought the borough was entitled to the additional one per cent. interest which would mean approximately $210 a year to the municipality.

The fact that John Darling, owner of the farm which will be purchased by the three municipalities interested in the joint sewerage proposition, cannot get a clear title to the property at present, makes the date of acquirement uncertain and it may be some time before the borough is authorized to make the final payment. In the meantime the money will remain in the bank drawing three per cent. interest instead of the four per cent. as urged by Mr. Milne. The question of the defective title will take at least six weeks to settle, according to one of the councilmen, and there is a bare possibility that Darling will have to return the money already on deposit.

As a compromise, Councilman Tingley suggested that $15,000 be placed in The Plainfield Trust Company and the remainder in The State Trust Company with a four per cent. interest. Councilman Milne urged that an amendment be made to the original resolution introduced by Mr. Boyer providing for the privilege of changing the checking account to a segregated one at any time with four per cent. interest.

Councilman Rushmore introduced a resolution providing for the final payment of the borough's share in the purchase of the Darling farm, which amount to $7,750. The payment has not as yet been asked for by the treasurer of the joint sewerage commission but it is probable that the sum will be required between Council meetings and the members of the body decided to provide for this emergency.

MRS. F. C. BIGLOW GOES TO HER REWARD

Well Known Resident Succumbs to a Long Illness.

Mrs. Frances C. Bigelow, aged 87 years, widow of Franklin H. Bigelow, died this morning after a long illness at her home, 120 Central avenue. She has been confined to her home for the past two years. Throughout her illness she was patient, bearing her suffering with Christian fortitude. Within the past few weeks she failed rapidly and her death was not unexpected.

Mrs. Bigelow came to Plainfield in 1886, has lived here ever since. She and her husband united with the First Baptist church in 1887, and for many years was especially active in church work. Mr. Bigelow died in 1900. Mrs. Bigelow was especially interested in mission work, being identified with the societies of the First Baptist church. She was a faithful attendant at all the services until two years ago when ill health prevented. She is survived by a daughter, Miss Kate Bigelow, with whom she lived.

The funeral services will be held at the late residence Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, will officiate. The burial will be in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, in the family plot.

LOCAL CLUB MEMBERS HELD BUSY SESSION

Hereafter the Road Captain Will Carry Confetti on the Runs.

The Plainfield Motorcycle Club held its regular monthly meeting in Depot Park, last night, an attendance of twenty being on hand. The applications of R. V. Pennock, of Dunellen; Warren Ackerman, of this city, and Edward R. Jarvis, of Westfield, were received and the committee in charge of registration was notified to investigate the applications.

Edward Honeyman and William Lieback were elected to membership at last night's meeting. The run next Sunday will be through the Watchung hills to Morristown, meeting at Jack Horner's store on Somerset street at 9 o'clock. The return will be made by way of Springfield.

The committee appointed to decide on a club button reported that a selection had been made and an armband of the same design will be used. The resignation of "Bul" Klein, as recording secretary, was received and accepted and William Cooper was handed the plum formerly held by Klein.

A committee on by-laws to report at the next meeting was appointed and they will submit their findings on May 21. The road captain to carry confetti on the runs, was a new feature brought up at last night's meeting and hereafter the captain will use this as a mark on all turns so that the motorists may be able to follow the trail.

R. H. HOE COMPANY NOT TO LOCATE HERE

Reports of the recent meeting of the National Chamber of Commerce held in Washington, were received at the regular monthly meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce held in the Babcock building, last night, they being presented by National Councilor Clinton B. Repp, who represented the Plainfield body at the gathering.

A committee composed of Clinton B. Repp, Winfield S. Angleman and Henry McMenimen was appointed to arrange for a discussion and vote on the anti-trust laws now before Congress. Paul H. Burns and Henry McMenimen were selected to serve as a publicity committee. John J. Varley, Clinton H. Repp and Captain Curtis were appointed as a committee to interest local members in the work.

A communication was received from the Hoe Printing Press Company stating that the concern has not been considering a removal to Plainfield and requested that such rumors be denied. There has been a current report going the rounds locally that the Hoe company was coming to Plainfield to take over a factory site on South Second street, but officials of the concern now claim that this information was without foundation.

SERIOUS TURN IN MEXICAN SITUATION TODAY MAKES SNAPPING POINT NEAR

Huerta Demands Cessation of Military Activity at Vera Cruz and Admiral Mayo Recommends Taking of Tampico From Mexicans—State Department Asks for Silliman.

REALIZE GRAVITY OF SITUATION

Washington, May 8.—Sudden and serious shifts today brought the Mexican situation nearer to the snapping point. The utmost concern is felt in official circles over the sudden turn of events. The chief causes for apprehension are:

General Huerta announces in a note to the A. B C mediators that he will withdraw from the mediation parley if there is further military activity on the part of the United States especially in the vicinity of Vera Cruz.

Rear Admiral Mayo recommends the landing of American forces and the capture of Tampico to protect the oil fields and the lives of Americans and foreigners. The oil fields have been set afire although both Federals and Constitutionalists agreed to regard them as neutral territory.

All Mexican ports, by order of General Huerta, are closed to American vessels. This will prevent the embarkation of refugees on merchant ships and other unprotected vessels unless under the guns of warships.

The State Department has issued an imperative command to General Huerta to find United States Consul Silliman, believed to be held a prisoner by the younger General Maas. The demand is made through the ministers of Brazil and France in Mexico City.

The gravity of the crisis is clearly shown by the attitude of the members of President Wilson's official family. They suddenly have been stricken dumb. That discussion of the situation is past and the time for preparation and action has arrived in the apparent belief of everyone from the Chief Executive down. The delicacy of the situation was practically the sole topic of the cabinet meeting today. No attempt is made by the mediators to hide their disappointment and chagrin. General Huerta's note to the mediators was couched in veiled language, but it was admitted that there was no mistaking the purport of the document. It's importance at the time is beyond calculation.

With General Carranza refusing to enter negotiations, the withdrawal of General Huerta will leave the arbiters with nothing to arbitrate and the inevitable is acknowledged to follow.

The demand that American military activity cease in the vicinity of Vera Cruz, is regarded as the heighth of impudence. While there has been no important movement since the troops landed at Vera Cruz, the Mexicans are reported to have been massing men in the vicinity of the American outposts, and on two occasions have demanded the surrender of the American force holding the water works.

Second only in importance is the strong recommendation of Rear Admiral Mayo that a force be landed at Tampico and the town and adjacent districts be seized and controlled by American soldiers and sailors. The breach of faith on the part of the Mexicans in setting fire to the oil properties after promising them protection makes such control imperative in the opinion of Admiral Mayo. The plan is said to have the complete endorsement of Rear Admiral Badger, who conveyed the suggestion to the navy department in a dispatch today.

It is recognized that the capture of Tampico would be a serious undertaking. In the first place the Federals are reported to have between 2,000 and 3,000 men well armed and supplied with artillery. In addition to that there is an undetermined force but one probably as great, if not greater, of Constitutionalists surrounding the city. It is an open question whether the capture of the city would not bring together these foes in a common defense of their territory from invasion by a foreign foe.

Virtually all the Americans who have been marooned in Mexico City, are now on their way to Puerto, Mexico. The State department having been advised that the refugee train left the capital for the coast early this afternoon.

Vera Cruz, May 8.—General Funston today sent envoys to meet Federal officers under Gen. Maas to ascertain if Private Parks of the Twenty-Eighth Infantry is a prisoner at Soledad. Parks was riding two thoroughbred horses owned by Lieut. Col. Elmore F. Taggart last night. He was seen near the outposts and then disappeared. Officers believe Parks may have become deranged mentally, and either ridden inside the Federal lines or wandered off in the brush.

Parks is from Houston, Texas.

G. H. Cox, Britisher, manager of the Vera Cruz Street Railway Co., is a prisoner of General Maas at Soledad. Caxon was detained at Soledad, and ordered to remain there. He attempted to dash outside the lines, on horseback, was caught, and now is in a cell.

Vera Cruz, via. Galveston May 8, from Central News Correspondent. —Conditions at Tampico continue to be serious and fighting between the Federals and Rebels continues. It is reported here that General Huerta is having the oil burning engines of the railroads reconstructed so as to burn wood in order to continue the operations of the railroads. Mexicans from the interior continue to concentrate here in large numbers.

Washington, May 8. Major General William W. Wetherspoon, chief of the general staff of the army, and all members of the general board, refused to receive newspapermen today, in order to avoid answering queries regarding General Funston's report received late last night. It is admitted however, that the report from the commander of the forces at Vera Cruz informed the war department of serious condition in the interior.

From authoritative sources it was learned today that General Funston had advised a radical step in the campaign which might completely change the aspect of the Mexican situation and bring the matter to a definite issue. It was even intimated that the suggestion, if favorably considered by President Wilson might conclude the mediation proceedings without further parley.

Secretary Garrison maintained an absolute silence on the subject and issued strict orders to every one acquainted with the text of the mysterious message to observe the same rule.

It is variously rumored among army officers that General Funston has advised the immediate concentration of troops along the border, with augmented forces on the gulf coast at Tampico and Vera Cruz, and an immediate joint movement by the two forces into the interior.

DAHL TO GET CONTRACT TO FINISH HIGH SCHOOL

It is expected that the Board of Education at a special meeting to be held tonight will accept the bid of John S. Dahl, of this city, to complete the High School addition left unfinished by the failure of the former contractors, the Paul J. Exner Company.

It will be recalled that C. C. Randolph, W. A. Garrigues and Charles E. Loizeaux, the committee representing the local creditors, requested the Board of Education to allow Mr. Dahl and Alexander Milne to submit competitive bids for the work in competition with John Abbott, of this city, who was selected by the board as one of the bidders. Mr. Dahl's bid of $46,726.73 was the lowest received by the board and as soon as he furnishes the required bond the contract will be awarded to him.

Mr. Dahl promises to have the building finished in time for use next fall and will push the work as fast as possible. He will co-operate with many of the local men who were former sub-contractors of the Exner company and who have money tied up in the building, and prospects are bright for a quick and satisfactory completion of the job.

LETTER WRITER SAYS A. E. HOAGLAND WILL GET OFFICE

Anonymous communications usually receive no attention when sent to the Daily Press, but one which arrived in this morning's mail is written by a person who is evidently familiar with the local postmaster fight, and who claims to know all about the appointment which Senator Martine has declared is not to be made until P. J. Keville is cleared of certain charges which resulted in his removal from the postoffice some years ago. The letter received this morning was written in long hand, in a writing which is thought to be known to persons in the Press office, and reads as follows:

"I can't understand why so much of this Reville stuff (excuse word). It certainly is very tiresome to see so much in your paper about it. Give us something more interesting. Put this down—the next Postmaster of Plainfield will be Alvin E. Hoagland of 664 West Front street. The appointment will be made in a few days—perhaps before Saturday night, May 9. Just a tip."

When Mr. Hoagland was seen by a Press reporter and shown the letter he had nothing to say about the matter. He said that he was a candidate for the postoffice place, as everyone in town knows, and that he would like to have it, but that if it did not come his way he need not worry as he had been in business in Plainfield for twenty-three years and was sure that he could continue to get along very nicely if he did not get the postoffice. He said that he did not know who wrote the letter.

There was a rumor current today that Mr. Hoagland would be appointed postmaster within the next forty-eight hours.

MISS HANNAH E. MARSH BRIDE OF F. L. KLINER

Miss Hannah Elizabeth Marsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Marsh, of Plainfield avenue, and Fred L. Kliner, of Prescott place, were married last night by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, the ceremony being performed at the parsonage on Central avenue. Mr. and Mrs. John Kliner, Jr., were the attendants. The couple will reside in this city.

SESAME CLUB ELECTS.

The Sesame Club at its annual meeting at the home of Miss Dunham on East Sixth street, yesterday afternoon, elected these officers for the coming year: President, Mrs. H. T. B. Chase; first vice-president, Miss Moyer; second vice-president, Mrs. F. M. Genung; secretary-treasurer, Miss Dunham. The club will not meet again until fall.

BURNING GRASS SET FIRE TO DWELLING, LOSS $1,500

Efforts to save a little work caused a fire that did damage to the home of Charles E. Doane, on Norwood avenue, last night. Mr. Doane had let the grass grow to an unusual height in the front yard of his residence and instead of using the lawn mower decided to burn it down.

The grass was of the dry variety and burned readily. Stray sparks, however, reached the shingled roof of the house and set fire to the structure. When the firemen arrived in response to a still alarm the third story of the building was a mass of flames. The firemen did good work in extinguishing the blaze and confined the damage to the top floor. The house is insured for $3,000.

The John Wanamaker Store

Formerly A. T. Stewart & Co.

Broadway and Ninth, New York

5,728 Suits, Dresses and Coats for Women

A Clearaway Day for Twelve Wanamaker Manufacturers

Every garment in this record collection is in fashion NOW. Every garment is here as the result of personal selection from many times the great total above.

They were chosen not alone because they were so little in price. Not alone because they were so varied and complete in their styles. Not alone because they were the top of the Wanamaker standard. But because of all these—

Because They Were Very Little in Price (in Many Instances Below Manufacturers' Prices), Complete and Varied in Style and the Wanamaker Kind of Clothes

The styles of one manufacturer of suits, for instance, were so good that he was flooded with orders. But he could not live up to his delivery dates and cancellations followed. So the suits are here at clearance prices.

Disposing of such large quantities of seasonable merchandise for women is possible only through a great outlet—the Wanamaker Store.

Manufacturers with whom we do business the year 'round are used to working on a large scale. Some of them anticipate their demands by making up thousands of dresses or suits in advance. So, now, at the end of THEIR selling season an accumulation of 1,000 or more dresses on one maker's shelves is a comparatively small matter.

1,275 Women's Suits at $14.50
Thirty-two styles—many of them copied from imported models. Styles which have already taken very quickly with exacting Wanamaker customers. Some with the latest style features—such as the long tunic overskirt. Serge, gabardine, wool poplin, crepe-and-poplin, silk taffeta and shepherd checks. All the colors women want. Some combined with trimmings of moire and taffeta. All sizes.

110 Women's Suits at $12.75

100 Women's Suits at $9.75

1,000 Women's Dresses at $7.50

500 Cotton and Linen Dresses, $5

564 Women's Dresses at $6.75

900 Women's Dresses at $5
Imported crepe in combinations of plain and figured patterns. Tunic and ruffled skirts; lace and net vestees.
Many colors, including navy, brown, taupe, green and tango.

575 Women's Serge Dresses at $3.75
Attractive street dresses of serge, and bedford cord. Six styles with lace and net vestees. Black, navy, copenhagen, green and other colors.

500 Evening Dresses, $7.50
Messaline and taffeta prettily trimmed. Many shades for evening.

100 Women's Slip-On Coats, $3.75

304 Women's Coats at $9.75
Conservative coats of serge, silk moire, cheviot and novelty cloth. Also popular slip-on coats of gray and brown tweed.

NOTE—Plenty of extra salespeople to help you choose satisfactorily and quickly. The large space now devoted to Women's clothes on the Subway floor, Old Building, will be more than doubled. Extra selling space will be added at the Subway Entrance, New Building, for the dresses at $3.75 and $5. Selling begins promptly at 8:30 tomorrow, Saturday.

PROF. BARBER ADDRESSES P. H. S. COMMERCIAL CLUB

Prof. William A. Barber, of New York University, addressed the Commercial Club, of the Plainfield High School, yesterday afternoon on "Higher Commercial Education." The speaker gave many valuable suggestions to the pupils on the subject selected. He said in part:

"I have just one desire in speaking to you. That is that I may give you one or two thoughts which you will consider of value. The subject this afternoon is higher commercial education. What is an education? It means to get ready to live. Now, just what is a commercial education? It is that form of instruction which prepares a girl or boy to act intelligently in business. The aim of commercial education is to produce cultured men and women with the emphasis on cultured. Another thing that commercial education is for is to make you think and to make you the business men and women of tomorrow.

"How shall we get into business? There are at least six possible ways. First, and least desirable of all, is upon completion of a grammar school education. Second, upon completion of a business college education. Third, upon completion of a High School course. Fourth, upon graduation from a higher school or college."

The membership of the club has increased from twenty-eight to one hundred and one since the last meeting.

TRUSTEES ORGANIZE.

The trustees of the First Baptist church met last evening at the home of L. V. F. Randolph, and organized for the coming year. The officers of the board as elected are as follows: President, L. V. F. Randolph; vice-president, Alexander Gilbert; secretary, Oliver B. Leonard; treasurer, John G. McLaughlin.

Those in charge have made the Sunday-school room, where the sale will be held, very attractive, with flowers, and the affair promses to be a successful one.

MEETING HOUR CHANGED.

Those who are in charge of the arrangements for the meeting at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Tuesday night, May 12, at which Booker T. Washington will speak, have decided to change the hour of the meeting from 7:30 to 8 o'clock. Mayor Percy H. Stewart will preside and a silver offering will be received for the benefit of Tuskegee Institute.

WILL MEET AT Y. M. C. A.

A. building in time to take the 1:30 trolley for Bound Brook. There will be no assembly at the First Presbyterian church as previously announced.

MIDSHIPMAN GETS 30 DAYS IN JAIL

Charged with disorderly conduct, George and Charles Curtis, of 825 St. Mary's avenue, and Albert Walpole, of Scotch Plains, were arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court this morning, on a complaint lodged by Sheriff Charles P. Sebring, proprietor of a dance hall on West Front street. The young men were arrested by Patrolman Martin Flatley last night after they had created a rumpus in the Sebring building when refused admittance as objectionable characters by the young woman conducting the dance.

Mr. Sebring alleged that George Curtis punched him in the face and this was admitted by the defendant. Both George Curtis and Walpole admitted that they were intoxicated. Charles Curtis, who is but sixteen years of age, accompanied his brother to the Sebring building but took no active part in the fracas. He was given a suspended sentence.

In sentencing Walpole and Curtis to pay a fine of $10 or spend forty days in the county jail Judge DeMeza reviewed the bad records of the two offenders. Curtis is a midshipman in the United States navy and is home on a furlough which he claims is up tomorrow. Neither paid their fines and will be committed to the county jail this afternoon.

LICENSING BILLBOARDS.

Regulation of the billboard nuisance has reached the acute stage. The coming of out-door activities revives the natural aversion to the gaudy signboard so located as to claim first attention when one looks at an otherwise pleasing building or landscape. Doubtless the time is coming when, through education or, rather, through instinct, people will refrain from the purchase of billboard advertised articles because of the growing belief that sellers of such goods should realize as much as the citizens that billboards disfigure a city.

Perhaps this coming moral suasion idea will serve to completely eliminate the signboard. In the meantime, larger American cities are at work to successfully regulate their out-door advertising. New York City has recently obtained the right to regulate its billboards under the rules regulating building construction. St. Louis fought through the courts and obtained the right to chop down a thousand condemned billboards which were nuisances. Kansas City, Boston, Cleveland and several other cities have been engaged in working out the problem.

The experience of Denver, however, offers a good example for the community which has been slow to take up a fight for the elimination of the billboard. Denver has adopted a system of license with certain specific regulations as to location of outdoor signs. The scheme is to be commended as a practical and effective one, if not so drastic as might be desired. It is at least a step forward, and therefore worth while in any city.

Denver's new ordinance charges a license fee of one-half cent per square foot for every billboard. From this source, a considerable revenue is to be obtained, while the fee is so large that the outdoor advertising men declare they no longer can afford to purchase paint for the glaring signs now found on building walls. Thus, without a direct law against these signs, Denver is to eliminate them.

Billboards on buildings, by the same ordinance, will be limited to 10 feet in height and must comply with the fire laws. The chief victory, however, was the agreement reached upon a clause prohibiting the erection of billboards of any size or character within 300 feet of any park or boulevards and parkways for which Denver people have paid tens of thousands of dollars.

Plainfield would do well by placing restrictions on this method of disfiguring the city.

When it is considered that the fraternal world in this city has within its ranks thousands of members, it is hard to realize the great power behind this army of men should they take it into their heads to co-operate on civic matters which are occupying the attention of all citizens of our city. It would be a great idea for the lodges of this city to start and plan a safe and sane Fourth of July celebration for the younger generation. No doubt the civic organizations would be more than pleased to co-operate with the fraternities in this conection, and give the city one of the best celebrations that we have known in these parts for years. The Daily Press would be pleased to publish communications giving the ideas of any fraternal or civic body in the city. May the true patriots step to the front, and lend their hand in conveying to the younger minds the true spirit of the day we all enjoy celebrating.

Senator Martine seems to have been badly misinformed regarding P. J. Reville and the postmastership, judging from the vigorous protests which have come from Mr. Reville's friends following the statement by the Senator that he no longer was to be considered a candidate for the job. We cannot imagine a more unpleasant situation for a man than the one in which Senator Martine seems to have placed himself with his "home-town" friends. He missed a glorious opportunity when he took the naming of the postmaster out of the hands of Congressman Tuttle, for Mr. Tuttle was willing to bear the brunt of any criticism which might be made of his appointee. Mr. Reville showed that he was game when he was in the city council and it would have been surprising had the statement made by the Senator about his withdrawal not been contradicted. He will remain in the race just as long as anyone does.

The old saying that "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," is being well illustrated in the New York papers. The Mexican war, while it is a sad thing in the cause of the omission of many of the disgusting details of the Becker murder trial by the metropolitan press. The people are tired of hearing about the case, and hope to see justice swiftly done.

One of the city's most popular younger citizens will be the contributing editor for tomorrow's Daily Press. Former City Judge William N. Runyon, who probably has a larger circle of friends and admirers than any other man in Plainfield will have something to say that will prove both interesting and instructive.

Plainfield's water supply has always been considered one of the attractions of the city, and the clean bill of health given to it by the investigator of housing conditions in the city, whose report was published last night, is indeed gratifying.

A POTTER BUILDS CASTLES.

German Worker In Clay Has Outlet For Artistic Impulses.

Omar Khayyam, the old Persian poet, bade his imaginary potter "Turn, turn the wheel," and so built castles in the air which have given to the poet an enduring fame. But there is a real potter in Freinwalde, Germany, who has won fame by building real castles out of broken bits and odds and ends of pottery made by his hands. However, clay is not so enduring as is the stuff that dreams are made of when the dreams appeal to the imaginations of men, and so Omar's castles will continue to live long after those of the German potter have returned to their original dust.

CARDEN LEAVING MEXICO.

British Minister Is Not Regarded With Favor by Washington Administration.

Sir Lionel Carden, British minister to Mexico, who is to return to England via the United States, will probably not go back in any official capacity to Mexico. He is regarded with suspicion by the administration at Washington as the result of reports that the diplomat was too friendly with Huerta and that he had taken certain steps which were construed in the City of Mexico as being particularly anti-American. One of these acts was to stage a reception Huerta gave to Sir Christopher Cradock, the British admiral in Mexican waters. This reception was given by Huerta at the National palace, and by many it was regarded as an affront to the American government on the part of both Huerta and Carden.

Several small loans found their way from British sources into the hands of Huerta in the late fall of last year and this winter. It was asserted that Carden was instrumental in obtaining them.

Lord Cowdray, British millionaire concessionaire in Mexico, was said to be interested in these loans, and it was asserted that he was induced by Carden to make them. Another report was that Carden, who has been regarded for years as being anti-American in his views, was the agent of Cowdray in Mexico and that he was promoted to his diplomatic position through the influence of Lord Cowdray with the British foreign office.

Lord Cowdray has admitted that Carden was interested with him in some properties in Mexico, but maintains that the holdings were held in fee simple and that the Mexican government had nothing to do with them.

MANY PRIZES FOR PARK CLUB BOWLERS

Prizes won by the competitors in the Park Club's annual tourneys held during the winter months were awarded by H. C. Krebs to the winners, last night, and the trophies included numerous handsome and useful articles. During the tournaments some excellent pinning was done by the individuals taking part in the race and the events have been the most successful held at the club.

Edward Sharrets, Jr., was awarded the first prize for the Thursday night five-back, a cutglass ink stand. The runner-up position resulted in a tie between Dr. H. V. Hubbard and Phillip S. Suffern, each being awarded a walking stick.

In the Friday night ten-pin tournament, Kenneth Runyon won the silver cup offered by the club and W.H. Long, the second place winner, received a stick pin presented by Dr. H. V. Hubbard.

The Monday night five-back prizes were given out as follows: First place, R. C. Campbell, sleeve buttons; second place, Edward Sharretts, umbrella; third place (a tie), C. A. Rice and Tone Overton, stick pins.

The Thursday night high average prize went to Dr. H. V. Hubbard and was a silver loving cup presented by the club. The Friday afternoon Ladies' Club prizes were announced as follows: First, Miss Katherine Barlow, vanity case; second, Miss Rocap, wrist bag presented by W. H. Rogers.

MANY FINE PRIZES FOR BANNER EVENTS

Prizes for the sixth annual twenty-five mile road race of the Plainfield Cycling Club, to be held Decoration Day, have begun to arrive and will be placed on exhibition in the store of Jack Horner on Somerset street, as has been the annual custom, as soon as the list is complete. Plans are being made to make this run one of the greatest in the history of the popular New Jersey road event and Jack Horner, who has been at the helm of all of the previous five, is working overtime on the 1914 race details.

The race has become a recognized fixture among pedal pushers of the highest calibre in the East and has become so popular among the eastern clubs that no other organization in this vicinity or in the Metropolitan district has attempted to secure a sanction on or near this date. This fact gives Plainfield a chance to get entries from all parts of the country and the event is looked forward to by the winners of other big feature events held during the winter.

The run this year will be over the same course, known as the Mountainside route and, as usual, two laps will be run, making a total distance of twenty-five miles. A number of prominent local cyclists are getting into condition for the coming run and they will have to oppose the best known amateurs in the East. The handicaps are being prepared by Jack Horner and he is arranging a list that will put all on an equal footing. The prizes range from expensive bicycles to minor accessories and are more numerous than ever before. In previous years a number of the awards have gone to local men and this year promises to be no exception. Previous to the big race the first of a series of races to determine the city championship will be run off. Five of these events will be held during the summer months and the events will be decided on the point system, the winner to receive a diamond studded gold medal.

A list of officials is being arranged for the races and will comprise many of the most prominent sportsmen in this section and many authorities on bicycle racing will be present.

"KITTY" LEAGUE OPENS SEASON.

Paducah, Ky., May 8.—This was the opening day for the "Kitty" baseball league, the clubs lining up for the initial contests in the twelfth annual race for the pennant. Since the close of last season the league circuit has been reduced to six clubs by the dropping out of Vincennes, Ind., and Harrisburg, Ill. In the opening games Hopkinsville appeared at Owensboro, Clarksville at Henderson and the Cairo team against the champion "Indians" in this city. The season will end Labor day.

OPENING IN KANSAS LEAGUE.

Hutchinson, Kas., May 8.—The Kansas State League, which has the distinction of being the only four-club league in organized baseball, opened its season today, with Salina playing at Emporia and Great Bend in this city. Hutchinson and Emporia are newcomers in the league, holding the franchises held last year by Clay Center and Lyons. The league will play a schedule of 90 games, closing August 2.

LOCAL BOYS COMPETE IN PRINCETON MEET

Plainfield and Westfield High School Entries Have Been Received for Tomorrow.

Plainfield and Westfield High Schools will be will represented in the annual field and track meet of the Princeton Club, of Newark, which will be held on the academy field in that city tomorrow afternoon. All of the leading high schools of the State have sent in entries for the many events carded and the meet promises to be the greatest ever held under the auspices of that organization. The games are always productive of keen competition and a large crowd of scholastic sport followers is expected at the field to witness the games.

The fight for first place honors is expected to be between the Central High School, of Newark, and the Newark Academy youngsters. The academy team took first place last year, and by so doing, won the silver loving cup given to the team winning the meet three times. The Central lads will endeavor to annex the first leg on the new trophy tomorrow afternoon, and the consensus of opinion seems to be that they will have a fairly easy chance in so doing.

Plainfield High will send Alfred Day, a long distance man, and Ralph Runyon, a vaulter and jumper, to take part in the meet. Day has made some creditable records in other New Jersey and Metropolitan district meets and is expected to add some points for the red and blue on this occasion. Tomorrow he will be opposed by several of the milers who he has run against before this season, notable among them are Charles Boughton, of the Central High team, who has been taking first prizes with a wonderful regularity. Ralph Runyon has sent in his name for the running big jump and the pole vault. He is proficient in both of these events and expects to return with a couple of the numerous handsome medals that have been offered.

Westfield will have five athletes on the field to take part in six different event. Charlie Clark, of Westfield, will compete in the 100-yard dash for seniors; Louis Clark, a younger brother, is entered in the century run for juniors; Russell Goltra will be one of Day's opponents in the mile and will also take part in the half mile; Harry Randall will compete in the twelve-pound shotput; Charlie Ewing is among those who are after the quarter mile prize, and Louis Clark is one of the entrants in the 300-yard run for juniors.

PLAINFIELD TRYOUTS FOR NEXT SATURDAY

Manager Dorflinger Has Arranged Opening Game a Week From Then.

It was announced this morning by Ernest Dorflinger, manager of the Plainfield baseball team, that the aggregation would play its first game of the season on Parker Field, May 23, with the New York fire department nine as its opponents. The Metropolitan ball tossers are a set of the speediest semi-pros in Greater New York and have been playing Sunday games against some of the best combinations in the Metropolitan district.

Negotiations are under way for five games with James Parker's Somerville crew and Dorflinger and the magnate from that town will probably come to terms within the next few days. Two of the games will be played in this city and two on the Somerset county title, and it is probable that the fifth contest if one is necessary will be played on a field to be decided by a flip of a coin.

During the past few weeks the local baseball head has been scouting around for material that is available for a local nine this season and has some promising recruits from which to pick a club. A tryout will be held on Parker Field next Saturday afternoon prior to the first game at which time Dorflinger will select the dozen best players to pit against the fire laddies in the initial combat. The manager has made no definite selections for a battery but those who have been following the destinies of local baseball claim that "Big Six" Nelson will be back in the lineup. The team will be made up almost wholly of local talent and there appears to be plenty of this floating around at the present time.

MONROE vs. PARK.

Monroe Avenue and Park Avenue Baptist baseball teams, two of the oldest rivals in the Sunday School League, will meet on the Clinton avenue grounds tomorrow afternoon. This may be the only meeting of the two aggregations this season owing to the fact that Park Avenue has dropped out of the league race and Monroe is still a member of the organization which opens next week.

POLO MUDDLE CLEARED UP ENGLAND WILL SEND TEAM

London, May 8—While London was interrogating itself yesterday concerning the outcome of the difficulty in which the cup challenger polo team has been put by virtue of its defeats at the hands of "scrub" opponents, a small but influential coterie of English sportsmen were busily engaged straightening out the tangle.

As a direct result of one special session which lasted until the small hours of yesterday morning the hatchets which have been wielded so threateningly by Lord Wimborne and his opponents were buried and peace declared. It was also decided at this meeting to back up the challenge and send a team to Meadowbrook to play for the cup, but it is to be a team very different from any seen at Gunnersbury or Ranelagh sporting the Wimborne colors.

Six men will constitute the playing strength of the challengers. They are Captain L. StC. Cheape, F. M. Freake, Lord Wodehouse, Major F. W. Barrett, Captain H. A. Tompkinson and Riversdale Grenfell. Cheape and Freake were members of the challenging teams in 1913 and 1912, the former having played a brilliant game at No. 1 last year.

ONE HIT BEATS GIRARD.

After holding the heavy Yale batters to seven hits during the eight opening innings of a game in New Haven, yesterday afternoon, and keeping the opposition a safe distance from the scoring platter after the first inning, Girard, the former High Bridge High School box artist, allowed Hunter to bang out a clean single bringing Pumpelly home with the winning run.

LOOKING FOR A GAME.

Manager Maurice Hall, of the Fanwood Field Club baseball team, is trying to schedule a game for tomorrow afternoon to take the place of the one that has been cancelled by the "Canns," who were originally scheduled to perform at the Plains.

DEMOCRATS vs. HOPE.

The Hope Chapel baseball team will play its last exhibition game prior to the opening of the Sunday-School League, when it opposes the Jefferson Democratic Club nine on the Myrtle avenue field tomorrow afternoon.

COSE vs. STOUT.

The Cose and Stout teams, of the Elks' Club Bowling tournament, are scheduled to roll a series on the club alleys tonight.

FANWOOD ATHLETES TO MEET.

The postponed meeting of the Fanwood Field Club will be held at the home of Maurice Hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

SOME GOOD PINNING PUTS LOCALS SECOND

Frank Blatz Captures the Top Rung Berth in Individual State Average Race.

Captain Frank Blatz, of the Plainfield bowling team that put up such a creditable fight in the New Jersey Sweepstakes event on the Weingarth & Whatton alleys, in Newark, last night, is leading the big array of pin experts in the high average race of the sweepstakes as the result of his good pinning last night, establishing an individual mark of 2011. Bill Nash, the usual reliable member of the Plainfield aggregations, had one of his few off-nights and his work spoiled the local's chance of topping the list in the race for the State championship. As a rule Nash can be relied upon for a 180 average and had he bowled in his usual form last night the Plainfield team would have taken first place with ease. As it was the locals turned in a record of 2,718 pins and copped second place, the Prudential No. 1 team, of Newark, being the leader with a mark of 2,781. There are forty-eight teams entered in the tournament and to date twenty-two have competed.

Although the locals took but two of the games from the Clinton team, against whom they rolled, their tally in the final game was enough to give them a total of 2,718 against their opponent's 2,636. Blatz was second high man in the night's pinning, setting up 218 in the opening canto.

The scores:

JACK MARTIN HOME.

Taking advantage of a chance to give Plainfield the "once over" while the Boston Nationals are playing in New York, Jack Martin dropped into the office this morning. He has been out of the game since the team played in Philadelphia owing to a split index finger received while substituting at third base for Charlie Deal.

"Rushing" a hill is an unknown experience to the Indian rider. "A twist of the wrist" silently gives the command to the motor for more power. And the power is there. It responds instantly. The rider feels that peculiar "bite"—a thrilling, assuring sensation of the answering motor!—and then the speed deftly picks up—picks up—picks up—without a moment's hesitation. The steepest grade offers no trouble to the Indian-mounted man.

Rough roads, too, mean nothing to the Indian tourist. With his machine fitted with footboards and that incomparable, inimitable comfort feature, the Cradle Spring Frame, shocks and jars are dispelled. Indian riding is smooth riding whatever the condition of the highway.

DRAPERIES are having no uncertain day, with smart dressers; and are the indicating straws of a vogue of fuller skirts on the eve of which we may be said to be at the advent of summer. The reversion from close straight skirts to draped ones of all sorts and kinds has been accepted here following the lead of Paris for paniers, bustles and puffs, as varied as the ideas of their ingenious makers. Such is the diversity of materials, some soft, others stiff; some ruff, and many smooth, that a wide choice of designs must be produced to show them to the best advantage.

No one need fear to buy taffeta, which has had a rocket-like vogue this spring; for fashion mongers in the world center of dress report that it is "all right." The texture is admirable, and the quality which should be bought is not likely to wear out quickly. It is the one material which answers the call of the bustle drapery. On the extreme right is a model showing one of the latest expressions of the Premet specialty so to speak. For this plain black chiffon taffeta was used, with a soft blouse of pink silk net (8326). The upper part might have been fashioned of the taffeta also, but such are the whims of fashion in some 1914 moods. The flowered or pompadour taffeta would lend itself equally as effectively to this design. It is in fact very simple. The drop shoulder blouse, you will notice, is gathered at the neck, and has a Medici collar. Allowing for six yards of material (36 inches wide) at $1.50 per yard, and lace for collar and sleeve ends, this model could be reproduced for $12, exclusive of making.

A chic air is given by such startling and bold designs as the large polka dot of the foulard frock on the left (8202). This material meets with some favor; and is above all else a practical one for summer service. The model has a peg-top skirt, whose fullness hangs gracefully at the sides. The blouse is severely plain, save for the separate guimpe, showing a vest with decorative buttons, and frills at the neck and sleeve ends. Many cotton fabrics will be made similar to this. The model can be reproduced with pattern No. 8202, 15 cents.

For the slender woman, a French skirt like model 8151 in the costume above is being worn extensively. Here the double ruffles appear exaggerated in striped silk like that of the skirt foundation, and the trimming points of the bodice of plain taffeta (8338). The style is suggestive for numerous combinations of other materials, with embroidery or lace flounces. The long plait in the front of the skirt gives becoming lines.

A panier tunic, with a slightly circular flounce is a telling adjunct for summer dresses to be made of thin materials. The model on this page was beautifully designed of pink cotton crêpe with a silk revers matching the collar and cuffs. Black taffeta folds on the panier match the soft crush girdle. The skirt is narrow at the foot, and may be left open at the side. This is one of the girlish models that will be a style leader, both in silks and cotton materials. It admits of much variety, according as one wants a dressy or a rather simple gown; but in either case it may be copied with little expenditure of time. The pattern may be had in sizes from 34 to 42. 15 cents.

Black silk dresses have had great popularity of late abroad. They are worn with cream lace or net chemisettes. Some of the newest taffeta frocks have a belt and sash of striped ribbons in gay coloring. Here the Roman stripes of the moment appear at their best. Flounces which are worn a great deal just below the hips will gradually descend to the foot; and as summer advances, laces, and other suitable materials will be applied in tiers of ruffles from the belt to the hem.

Hand-Crocheted Trimming

FOR dress trimming, bags, or decorative boudoir linens, the above design of crocheted edging with balls on each scallop is most effective and inexpensive to make. Mercerized cotton may be used for dress purposes, or coarse linen thread which comes on a spool to go with linen materials. The openwork top, like filet lace, may be made for an insertion or beading, leaving off the scallops.

The dangles which are often wanted for Irish crochet lace pieces, are made in this way: Chain 3, make six single crochet stitches in 2 chains, then 2 singles in one single 12 times, then one single in each single 45 times. Put a tiny ball of cotton into the little cup, and afterward crochet one single in every other single until closed up; lastly chain five and cut thread half an inch from the chain.

Directions for making the edging will be mailed without charge upon receipt of request addressed to A. P., Ladies' Home Journal Pattern Co., Fashion News Service, 615 West 43d Street, New York City.

Gay Gewgaws for Gowns

NOVELTY jewelry, semi-precious or less valuable has a telling part in this season's costuming. Among the many attractive offerings in the shops are blouse or coat fasteners consisting of two large cartridge shaped ivory balls, connected by a two-inch chain of small flowers with sparkling centers. These add a touch of color to blouse, or may be the connecting link between two buttonholes in a jacket or bolero. Many bright colors are thus introduced. Decorative necklaces, which one can easily make for herself, are composed of narrow folds of satin in any desired color; with two sections about four inches long, and a pendant, made of large beads. Jet is also similarly used with black satin.

Long chains of large beads have supplanted short necklaces to some extent; and they are [illegible] used to introduce [illegible] color. Dull jet beads, like those on the hower figure of this page are also fashionable. They may be bought from fifty cents up. Jade ornaments are featured, whether as chains, pins, clasps or parasol handles.

Mirror with Wedgewood Embroidery

Delft boudoir furnishings have toilet pieces made to correspond. This Wedgewood design (14666) is embroidered with ribbon on blue silk poplin. 15 cents.

VARIED contours of hats, and the diversity of their trimmings, not to mention the angles at which they are worn, and to millinery the same bewildering choice that costumes of the moment afford. Something of the novelty and beauty of summer hats is apparent in the models shown on the several figures on this page. At the extreme left is a small tipped turban with a crown of crushed pink roses; and a stiff high bow at the side of black ruban cire (polished ribbon). Lacquered ribbon may also be had in many colors. Sparrow wings, bronzed like leather shoes, give a piquant air to the Milan hat of the second figure. Nothing more unusual in shape is shown than the close turban, with a sharpe edge on either side of the crown, at the top of which are tulle and flowers, extending from front to back. An instance of very dainty hats worn at an almost rakish angle, is had in the model at the extreme right. The outside is made of rows of narrow lace, used as straw might be for the crown; while flowers in a variety of colorings are massed against the high side. The Watteau and shepherdess shapes are equally fascinating this season; and they bring again the high coiffure to fill in the back.

Household Hints

Long bars of soap may be cut up without waste, by drawing a wet thread or fine cord across the bar, bearing down so that it will divide the cake just where the cut is wanted. Some one has suggested the same way to cut molds of mush in slices for frying.

A piece of leather cut from a glove or shoe top will make a serviceable inside piece for a holder, or pot-lifter, and will protect the hand from the heat; and perhaps prevent callous spots, if one irons long at a time.

Fruit Salad

Mix together the pulp of one grapefruit, one orange, one-half pineapple or two apples, with one-half teacupful of chopped nuts, preferably walnuts and pecans. Serve in glasses with slightly sweetened whipped cream to which a pinch of salt has been added. Two or three candied cherries on the top add to the attractive looks of this delicious dessert.

Strawberry Blanc Mange

Thicken one pint of milk, brought to the boiling point in a double boiler, with three tablespoonfuls of corn starch dissolved in another pint of cold milk. Add one-half cup of sugar, and stir constantly for ten minutes. Stir in lightly the beaten whites of three eggs, when taking mixture from the fire. Add vanilla or almond flavoring and pour into individual cups or molds. When ready to serve, turn each out, and cut a hole from the center, into which put fresh ripe berries. Put a spoonful of whipped cream on the top, and add sweetened strawberry juice at the base.

BROADWAY NEW YORK THIRTY-THIRD ST.

"GUNBOAT" HAS A BIRTHDAY.

New York, May 8.—Gunboat Smith, who established his claim to supremacy among the white heavyweights when he placed an uppercut on Arthur Pelky's chin in their bout at Daly City last year, celebrated his twenty-sixth birthday today. Smith was born in a small town in Minnesota, and is of Irish-American parentage, according to the best authorities. New Yorkers are especially interested in the Gunner as he has done most of his work in this city. Just at present he is sticking around in the hope of getting on a match or two before he goes to Europe. He has little hopes of being able to get on a match with Jack Johnson when he arrives on the other side, but he expects to meet Bombardier Wells, Sam Langford, Georges Carpentier or any of the other heavyweights who think they have a claim to the championship.

CREWS ROW AT PRINCETON.

Princeton, N. J., May 8.—With the expectation of witnessing one of the most interesting aquatic events of the year, many enthusiasts of the sport have come to Princeon to attend the triangular regatta in which the varsity oarsmen of Columbia, Pennsylvania and Princeton will compete. The contest will take place tomorrow on Carnegie lake, the distance being one mile and seven-eights. The winner of the race will be awarded the Child's Cup.

READY FOR KENTUCKY DERBY.

Louisville, Ky., May 8.—Lovers of thoroughbreds from far and near are gathering here today to witness the annual renewal of the greatest event on the American turf of the year, the Kentucky Derby. The classic race will be run at Churchill Downs tomorrow and will mark the opening of the spring meeting of the New Louisville Jockey Club.

EMPLOYES TO BE PAID SEMI-MONTHLY

Union County Freeholders Adopt the New Pay-roll System.

Elizabeth, May 8.—Union county employes will hereafter be paid semi-monthly, it was decided by the Board of Freeholders at their meeting yesterday. On suggestion of County Collector Leavitt it was agreed to adopt the pay-roll system as a result of the change. The new step is made necessary by a law recently signed by the Governor. After some debate the Board decided not to meet bi-monthly as a result of the change.

In the county hospitals apportionment Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, got $7,000, of the $50,000 appropriated. George T. Carroll, the new member from Elizabeth was sworn in. A report on the Watchung avenue bridge, Plainfield, recommended the repairs to the entrance from the eastern end at a cost of $175, which report was adopted.

The Board of Managers of Bonnie Burn sanatorium asked that the sewer work at the institution be extended. The Westfield Board of Trade extended an invitation to attend its Town Exhibit, May 12, which was accepted; also an invitation to attend the New York Tercentennary celebration. Freeholder Teller, Hall and Hennessy were appointed a committee to attend a conference of the Interstate Bridge Commission on May 21, at 315 Broadway, New York, relative to the proposed inter-state bridge. Passaic, Bergen, Hudson and Essex counties will be represented. Augustus W. Schwartz, county sealer of weights and measures, was authorized to attend the national convention of superintendents of weights and measures, at Washington, May 26, and $50 was appropriated for him. A request was made by local members of the Fourteenth New Jersey Regiment, that the use of a courtroom be allowed the regiment's survivors for their reunion August 26. It was referred to the public buildings and grounds committee.

As a result of a tour made by the county roads committee and County Engineer Jacob Bauer, of roads in Wayne County, Michigan and Windsor, Canada, the committee reported that the concrete and crushed stone roads in use in the places proved satisfactory and their use was worthy of further investigation. It was stated, however, that soil and surface conditions are very different in Union County from those in Michigan and in Windsor, and that, therefore, the adoption of such a plan of road buildings here, would have to be materially changed. Freeholders Krouse, Meisel, Wilbur and Bourdon, made the trip with the County Engineer.

PLAINFIELD BOWLER GETS HIGHT INDIVIDUAL RECORD

Watchung Council pinners went to Newark, last night, to be present at the banquet served to participants in the recent Knights of Columbus Bowling Tournament in Achtel-Stetter's Hall, and saw their teammate, Clinton Shannon, of the Plainfield team, receive the high individual score prize. His mark, which established a record for the league, was 259. The Bayley Council team, of Elizabeth, received four awards.

The team received the cup for second place, John Sellers got a solid gold medal for the high individual average, John Hasson was presented with a silver medal for copping second high score to Shannon with a mark of 245, and John Hastings was awarded a bronze medal for high man in average on the Bayley quintet. Carol Bender, of Elizabeth, was toastmaster at last night's meeting.

George Taylor, of the Watchung Council team, was awarded a bronze medal, he having set up the best individual mark for the Watchung Council quintet.

EARLE CEASERO TO GIVE A CONCERT AT Y. M. C. A.

Earle Ceasero, a young dramatic tenor, will give an evening of song at Y. M. C. A. Hall, Thursday night May 14. The association desiring to afford all an opportunity to hear this singer, has decided to charge no admission, but a silver offering will be received. Mr. Ceasero's work as a member of the Lombardi Opera Company has attracted favorable comment in the Central West. He has a rich, robus tenor voice of wide range and flexibility, to which he adds a certain dramatic power. His work has been received enthusiastically in the numerous concerts he has given in this country.

The program selected for the coming concert includes many favorites, among which will be "The Lord is My Light," by Allitsen; "Noon and Night," by Hawley; "Absent," by Metcalf; "Sing mir dein Leid," by Greene; "Son of the Soul"; "His Eye is on the Sparrow," by Gabriel, and "I Hear You Calling Me," by Marshall. Wendell C. Glover of this city, will be the accompanist.

LEHIGH VALLEY INSTALLS COMPLETE PIPING SYSTEM

The gas torch for cutting and welding has become so important to railroad construction and repair work that the Lehigh Valley Railroad is installing a complete system for piping acetylene gas and oxygen to every "bay" in its big Sayre shops. The tremendous heat in a moment by the acetylene torch will soon be had at any moment without much more trouble or delay than turning on the gas in the ordinary dwelling. It may only be wanted for a few minutes and can be used and turned off as easily as hot water in the kitchen.

In the constant search of better methods in the Sayre shops it has been found that the gas torch has proved itself so useful and is in such demand that the shifting of hose has been causing lots of time. To promote efficiency, piping is being substituted for hose and the whole shop is to have the gas torch service now.

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

These Chinese motifs are suitable for use on pillows, runners and table-covers of white or colored linen and they may also be used for embroidering waists, dresses, coats and parasols of linen; silk or wool material. The motifs, in pattern No. 14620, may be arranged to form a border or an allover design. There are 17 of these transfers in the pattern, each 5 by 3½ inches, which should be developed in solid work and outline-stitch in two shades of a color or a combination of blue and yellow.

The solid embroidery should be done with slanted over-and-over stitches taken closely and evenly together. No padding should be used.

To do the outline-stitch take consecutive stitches of even length with the needle pointed towards the sewer, taking each stitch back to the middle of the preceding one so as to give the effect of a twisted cord. The thread should always be kept on the left side of the needle.

Guaranteed, 15-cent iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price, 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

Now that Roman striped silks are so generally favored, for all purposes, nothing could be prettier to use for trimming the school girl's dark serge dress. These stripes come in all combinations, dull and subdued as well as vivid. In No. 8021 we have a simple, attractive little dress for general school wear, or for the street after heavy wraps have been discarded.

The dress closes at the side front, has a set-in sleeve, which may be full length or cut off at the elbow, as preferred, a flat sailor collar and a three-piece skirt. This dress is quite as appropriate for linen, or one of the heavier cottons, as it is for serge.

The design may be copied for a girl of 16, with 4⅛ yards of 36-inch material.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 14 to 18 years.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

BANANAS FOR DESSERT.

SUPPER MENU
Baked Eggs
Toast or Rolls
Frozen Banana Custard
Tea

With bananas so abundant and cheap, the housewife need never be at a loss for a good dessert. Many tempting ways of serving them are possible.

Banana Pie. Take one cupful of sifted banana pulp, one half cupful of sugar, one cracker, powdered fine; one-half cupful of milk and the grated rind and juice of one half a lemon or two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Mix the ingredients together and bake until firm in a pie pan lined with pastry. The cracker may be omitted unless a firm pie is preferred.

For Festive Occasions.

Frozen Banana Custard. Take one teaspoonful of powdered gelatin, four tablespoonfuls of sugar, four bananas, three eggs, three cups of milk, three tablespoonfuls of boiling water and one half a pint of whipped cream. Put the boiling water into a sauce pan, add the gelatin, eggs, sugar and milk, stir until they thicken, then cool and add the bananas rubbed through a sieve and fold in the whipped cream. Freeze.

Banana Trifle. Take one dozen lady fingers, six bananas, two cupfuls of whipped cream, one fourth of a cup of powdered sugar and one half teaspoonful of vanilla. Cover the bottom of the dish with a layer of the lady fingers, put a layer of sliced bananas over this and then a layer of the cream, which has been whipped with the sugar and vanilla. Repeat until the ingredients are all used. Serve cold.

A Novel Salad.

Banana Salad.—Take bananas cut from end to end to preserve the shells. Then mash the fruit to a pulp, mix with pineapple juice and form into balls. These balls are again moistened and rolled into mashed or ground English walnuts or almonds. These little balls are placed, like peas in a pod, back into the banana skins. One may add different fruits, such as pieces of pineapple, citron, raisins, chopped marshmallow, etc.

Banana Cornstarch.—Take two cupfuls milk, one egg, one tablespoonful cornstarch, four tablespoonfuls sugar, a pinch of salt and two bananas. Put the milk in top of double boiler. Mix the cornstarch with a little cold milk. Beat the yolk of egg and add to the cornstarch, sugar and salt, then add to the boiling milk. Boil three minutes, then add the bananas, which have been skinned, scraped and put through fruit press or wire strainer. Pour into an earthenware mold which has been rinsed with cold water. Beat the white of egg until dry, add one tablespoonful granulated sugar, put on top of custard and place in cool oven to brown lightly.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Old Woman And the Pot Of Daffodils.

The Flowers Seemed Smiling at Her.

Jack and Evelyn used to keep bulbs in their room in the winter and then watch them grow. They loved to see the flowers come out in the nice, warm spring sunshine.

"You know," said daddy, "I must tell you the story this evening of the little girl who was almost made well by a pot of daffodils."

Evelyn loved the bright yellow flowers. "I am not a bit surprised," she said to daddy, "that they helped the little girl so much. They are so gay and pretty."

"Yes," said daddy; "they are just like sunshine."

"What was the matter with the little girl?" asked Evelyn.

"She had had the grip all winter," continued daddy. "Her mother and daddy were very poor, and they could not afford to have the doctor very often. Laura, which was the little girl's name, seemed to be gaining very slowly. She had been so ill that she felt weak, and it was taking her a long time to get well and strong. It really seemed to be dreadfully discouraging.

"One day she was wondering if she would ever feel like herself again, able to do things and to play around. She was sitting up by the window in a big chair. She was looking out, feeling very sad and forlorn, when suddenly she saw a funny old woman who looked just like a witch stop by the window and then walk right into the room.

"The funny old woman spoke at once.

"'Don't be frightened,' she said. 'I'm not going to hurt you. Instead, you see this pot of daffodils I am carrying?'

"'Yes,' exclaimed Laura. 'Aren't they beautiful?'

"'I am so glad you like them,' continued the old woman, 'for they are for you.'

"'For me?' repeated Laura. 'For me?'

"'Yes,' said the old woman. 'When the spring comes I take a walk each day, carrying with me a pot of daffodils. When I see some one sitting in the window of a house looking sick and longing to go out, I just go right in and leave my pot of daffodils, for they are better than any spring tonic, to my mind.'

"And the yellow flowers smiled at Laura and bobbed their pretty heads, saying, 'We'll make you well.'

"And, sure enough, they really did more toward making Laura well than anything else. How could she help but feel better with the bright flowers smiling at her and cheering her up? And there were buds coming out. She loved watching for them."

CHAPTER XX.

Phoebe Triumphs.

MRS. ABEL DAY had come to spend the afternoon with Aunt Abby Cole, and they were seated at the two sitting room windows, sweeping the landscape with eagle eyes in the intervals of making patchwork.

"The foliage has been a little mite too rich this season," remarked Aunt Abby. "I b'lieve I'm glad to see it thinnin' out some, so 't we can have some kind of an idee of what's goin' on in the village."

"An' that's jest where it's aggravatin' to have the leaves so thick and the trees so high between you and other folks' houses. Trees are good for shade, it's true, but there's a limit to all things. There was a time when I could see 'bout everything that went on up to Baxters' and down to Bart's shop and, by goin' up attic, consid'able many things that happened on the bridge. Bart vows he never planted that plum tree at the back door of his shop—says the children must have hove out plum stones when they was settin' on the steps and the tree come up of its own accord."

"Men are an awful trial," admitted Mrs. Day. "Abel never sympathizes with my headaches. I told him a-Sunday I didn't believe he'd mind if I died the next day, an' all he said was, 'Why don't you try it an' see, Lyddy?' He thinks that's humorous."

"I know. That's the way Bartholomew talks. I guess they all do. You can see the bridge better'n I can, Lyddy. Has Mark Wilson drove over sence you've been settin' there? He's like one o' them ostriches that hides their heads in the sand when the bird catchers are comin' along, thinkin' 'cause they can't see anything they'll never be seen. He knows folks would never tell tales to Deacon Baxter, whatever the girls done. They hate him too bad. Lawyer Wilson lives so far away he can't keep any watch o' Mark, an' Mis' Wilson's so city-fied an' purse proud nobody ever goes to her with any news, bad or good; so them that's the most concerned is as blind as bats. Mark's consid'able stiddier'n he used to be, but you needn't tell me he has any notion of bringin' one o' that Baxter tribe into his family. He's only amusin' himself."

"Patty'll be Mrs. Wilson or nothin'," was Mrs. Day's response.

"Patty 'll be Mrs. Wilson or nothin'," was Mrs. Day's response. "Both o' them girls is silk purses, an' you can't make sows' ears of 'em. We ain't neither of us hardly fair to Patty, an' I s'pose it's because she didn't set any proper value on Cephas."

"Oh, she's good enough for Mark, I guess, though I ain't so sure of his intentions as you be. She's nobody's fool, Patty ain't; I allow that, though she did treat Cephas like the dirt in the road. I'm thankful he's come to his senses an' found out the difference between dross an' gold."

"It's very good of you to put it that way, Abby," Mrs. Day responded gratefully, for it was Phoebe, her own offspring, who was alluded to as the most precious metals. "I suppose we'd better have the publishing notice put up in the frame before Sunday? There'll be a great crowd out that day, and at Thanksgiving service the next Thursday too."

"Cephas says he don't care how soon folks hears the news, now all's settled," said his mother. "I guess he's kind of anxious that the village should know jest how little truth there is in the gossip 'bout him bein' all upset over Patience Baxter. He said they took consid'able notice of him an' Phoebe settin' together at the harvest festival last evenin'. He thought the Baxter girls would be there for certain, but I s'pose Old Foxy wouldn't let 'em go up to the Mills in the evenin' nor spend a quarter on their tickets."

"Mark could have invited Patty an' paid for her ticket, I should think, or passed her in free, for that matter, when the Wilsons got up the entertainment; but, of course, the deacon never allows his girls to go anywheres with men folks."

"Not in public; so they meet 'em side o' the river or round the corner of Bart's shop, or anywhere they can, when the deacon's back's turned. If you tied a handkerchief over Waitstill's eyes she could find her way blindfold to Ivory Boynton's house, but she's good as gold, Waitstill is. She'll stay where her duty calls her every time. If any misfortune or scandal should come near them two girls the deacon will have nobody but himself to thank for it, that's one sure thing!"

"Young folks can't be young but once," sighed Mrs. Day. "How'd you like that Boston singer that the Wilsons brought here, Abby? Wait a minute, is Cephas, or the deacon tendin' store this afternoon?"

"The deacon; Cephas is paintin' up to the Mills."

"Well, Mark Wilson's horse an' buggy is meanderin' slowly down Aunt Betty Jack's hill, an' Mark is studyin' the road as if he was lookin' for a four leafed clover."

"He'll hitch at the tavern, or the Edgewood store, an' wait his chance to get a word with Patience," said Aunt Abby. "He knows when she takes milk to the Morrills', or butter to the parsonage; also when she eats an' drinks an' winks her eye an' ketches her breath an' lifts her foot. Now he's disappeared an' we'll wait. * * * Why, as to that Boston singer, I don't know how high she went, but I guess there wa'n't no higher to go!"

"It made me kind o' nervous," allowed Mrs. Day. "Folks said she sung runs and trills better'n any woman up to Boston."

"Runs an' trills," ejaculated Abby scornfully. "I was talkin' 'bout singin', not runnin'. My niece, Ella, up to Parsonfield has taken three terms on the planner, an' I've heerd her practice. Scales has got to be done no doubt, but they'd ought to be done to home, where they belong. A concert ain't no place for 'em. There! What did I tell yer? Patience Baxter's crossin' the bridge with a pail in her hand. She's got that everlastin' yeller brown, linsey-woolsey on an' a white 'cloud' wrapped around her head, with consid'able red hair showin', as usual. You can always see her fur's you can a sunrise. And there goes Rod Boynton chasin' behind, as usual. Those Baxter girls make a perfect fool o' that boy, but I don't s'pose Lois Boynton's got wit enough to make much fuss over the poor little creeter!"

Mark Wilson could certainly see Patty Baxter as far as he could see a sunrise, although he was not intimately acquainted with that natural phenomenon. He took a circuitous route from his watch tower and, knowing well the point from which there could be no espionage from Deacon Baxter's store windows, joined Patty in the road, took the pail from her hand and walked up the hill beside her. Of course the village could see them; but, as Aunt Abby had intimated, there wasn't a man, woman or child on either side of the river who wouldn't have taken the part of the Baxter girls against their father.

Meantime Feeble Phoebe Day was driving her father's horse up to the Mills to bring Cephas Cole home. It was a thrilling moment, a sort of outward and visible sign of an inward and spiritual tie, for their banns were to be published the next day.

It had been an eventful autumn for Cephas. After a third request for the hand of Miss Patience Baxter and a refusal of even more than common decision and energy, Cephas turned about face and employed the entire month of September in a determined assault upon the affections of Miss Lucy Morrill, but with no better avail.

Cephas' belief in the holy state of matrimony as being the only one proper for a man really ought to have commended him to the opposite (and ungrateful) sex more than it did, and Lucy Morrill held as respectful an opinion of the institution and its manifold advantages as Cephas himself, but she was in a very unsettled frame of mind and not at all susceptible to wooing. She had a strong preference for Philip Perry and held an opinion, not altogether unfounded in human experience, that in course of time, when quite deserted by Patty Baxter, his heart might possibly be caught on the rebound. It was only a chance, but Lucy would almost have preferred remaining unmarried even to the withering age of twenty-five rather than not be at liberty to accept Philip Perry in case she should be asked.

Cephas, therefore, by the middle of October could be picturesquely and alliteratively described as being raw from repeated rejections. His bruised heart and his despised pell literally cried out for the appreciation so long and blindly withheld. Now all at once Phoebe disclosed a second virtue, her first and only one hitherto in the eyes of Cephas having been an ability to get on with his mother—a feat in which many had made an effort and few indeed had succeeded. Phoebe, it seems, had always secretly admired, respected and loved Cephas Cole. Never since her pale and somewhat glassy blue eye had opened on life had she beheld a being she could so adore if encouraged in the attitude.

The moment this unusual and unexpected poultice was really applied to Cephas' wounds they began to heal. In the course of a month the most ordinary observer could have perceived a physical change in him. He cringed no more, but held his head higher; his back straightened; his voice developed a gruff, assertive note like that of a stern Roman father; he let his mustache grow and sometimes, in his most reckless moments, twiddled the end of it.

And then congratulations began to pour in. Was ever marriage so fortuitous? The Coles' farm joined that of the Days', and the union between the two only children would cement the friendship between the families. The fact that Uncle Bart was a joiner, Cephas a painter and Abe Day a mason and bricklayer made the alliance almost providential in its business opportunities. Phoebe's Massachusetts aunt sent a complete outfit of gilt edged china, a clock and a mahogany chamber set. Aunt Abby relinquished to the young couple a bedroom and a spare chamber in the "main part," while the Days supplied live geese feathers and table and bed linen with positive prodigality. Aunt Abby trod the air like one inspired.

"If only I could 'a' looked ahead," smiled Uncle Bart quizzically to himself, "I'd 'a' had thirteen sons and daughters an' married off one of 'em every year. That would 'a' made Abby's good temper kind o' permanent."

Cephas was content too. There was a good deal in being settled and having "the whole doggoned business" off your hands. Phoebe looked a very different creature to him in these latter days. Her eyes were just as pale, of course, but they were brighter, and they radiated love for him, an expression in the female eye that he had thus far been singularly unfortunate in securing. She still held her mouth slightly open, but Cephas thought that it might be permissible, perhaps after three months of wedded bliss, to request her to be more careful in closing it.

Cephas did not think of Patty any longer with bitterness in these days, being of the opinion that she was punished enough in observing his own growing popularity and prosperity.

"If she should see that mahogany chamber set going into the ell I guess she'd be glad enough to change her tune," thought Cephas exultingly, and then there suddenly shot through his mind the passing fancy, "I wonder if she would!" He promptly banished the infamous suggestion, however, reenforcing his virtue with the reflection that the chamber set was Phoebe's anyway, and the marriage day appointed and the invitations given out and the wedding cake being baked, a loaf at a time, by his mother and Mrs. Day.

As a matter of fact, Patty would have had no eyes for Phoebe's magnificent mahogany, even had the cart that carried it passed her on the hill where she and Mark Wilson were walking. Her promise to marry him was a few weeks old now, and his arm encircled her slender waist under the brown homespun cape. That in itself was a new sensation and gave her the delicious sense of belonging to somebody who valued her highly and assured her of his sentiments clearly and frequently, both by word and deed. Life, dull gray life, was going to change its hue for her presently, and not long after, she hoped, for Waitstill too.

The "publishing" of Cephas and his third choice, their dull walk up the aisle of the meeting house before an admiring throng on the Sunday when Phoebe would "appear bride," all this seemed very tame as compared with the dreams of this ardent and adventurous pair of lovers who had gone about for days harboring secrets greater and more daring, they thought, than had ever been breathed before within the hearing of Saco water.

BILLARD ADMITS BIG NEW HAVEN PROFITS

Ex-Director Says He Burned the Books.

Washington, May 8.—Some of the financial affairs of the New Haven railroad were told about in a statement made in the interstate commerce commission inquiry by John L. Billard of New Haven, Conn., president of the "Billard company" and former director of the New Haven railroad.

Billard admitted making profits running into millions in transactions in stock of the New Haven road and its subsidiaries. But he denied that the railroad or any official had any interest in the Billard company. He said his stock deals except one and the Billard company were strictly private enterprises.

On cross examination Billard said he had personally burned all account and check books and other accounts of the Billard company after its dissolution. He stated, with an appearance of marked nervousness, that it was his custom to burn all old check books and other papers every three or four years. After the legal death of the Billard company, he said, he destroyed all of its records because he believed they would be of little further value.

Before he became a New Haven director in 1907 Billard said he bought 109,900 shares of Boston and Maine stock for $13,743,500 at 125 from the New Haven company and sold them back at $150 a share, netting a profit of $2,748,750, to the Boston Railroad Holding company, organized by the New Haven as a subsidiary.

He admitted agreeing, however, in view of his profit on June 30, 1909, to take over from the New England Navigation company, a New Haven subsidiary, $16,000,000 of gold notes of the New England Investment and Security company, another New Haven subsidiary, controlling trolley lines at Worcester and Springfield, Mass., in payment for the Boston and Maine stock, repurchased by the New Haven railroad.

GERMANY MAY EXPEL FRENCH

Reported Intention to Drive Out Inhabitants of Alsace-Lorraine.

Berlin, May 8.—The Lokalanzeiger prints a statement, which is probably semiofficial, in reference to the excitement in France over Germany's reported intention to exclude French citizens from Alsace-Lorraine. The statement is to the effect that such action is not contemplated at present, but it may materialize if French agitators persist in fomenting agitation as they are doing now. The paper adds that if expulsion were determined upon there would certainly be an excellent reason therefor.

The Lokalanzeiger ascribes the present trouble to the French elections and predicts that it will cease after they are over.

SITUATION IS BECOMING ACUTE

To Send More Troops to Vera Cruz.

ONE AMERICAN IS KILLED

Seven Are Held by Mexicans—Two Englishmen Also Put to Death by Bandits In Jalisco — May Send a Joint Force.

Washington, May 8.—There was unusual activity around the war department, and when the officers began to leave the idea prevailed that as a result of consideration given to a message from General Funston another brigade of troops would be sent to Vera Cruz.

It is understood that every arrangement has been made for the dispatch of another brigade. Additional troops, including infantry and artillery, are needed to protect the American shore forces at Vera Cruz against a surprise attack. The four transports at Galveston are under orders to be ready to sail at a moment's notice and steps have been taken to procure other transports.

Of more immediate effect upon the Mexican situation though was a message delivered to the state department by Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador. He informed Secretary Bryan that the British embassy here had received word from the British minister in Mexico City that one American had been killed and seven were being held prisoners in a mining district near Guadalajara, in the state of Jalisco. The British ambassador added that two Englishmen also had been killed and another was held with the Americans.

The note from the British embassy was a reminder that Great Britain would take steps to clear up this new development. The territory in which the American and British subjects lost their lives is under the control of bandits, acknowledging neither Carranza nor Huerta.

An aeroplane belonging to the Constitutionalists dropped two bombs into the city of Mazatlan, killing three persons and wounding eight, according to dispatches received here at the navy department from Rear Admiral Howard.

Admiral Howard and the German commander in those waters have addressed a joint letter to the Constitutionalist general in that locality protesting against the hostile action.

They informed him of the occurrence and requested that a neutral zone for noncombatants be established. An answer to this letter is expected shortly.

The admiral reports that fighting still continues between Constitutionalists and federals at Mazatlan and that Acaponeta has been surrendered by the federals. From Manzanillo it is reported that the city is quiet and that all refugees have left.

Nothing in Howard's dispatch indicated the nationality of those killed and injured by the bombs.

"The delicate situation was well handled by the Raleigh and later by the Maryland," Howard reported. "Assistance was rendered by Consul Edwards and the German consul. Splendid work was done by Captain Minister of the Ceteriana, who brought refugees from San Blas to Manzanillo and kept them all aboard his ship, which narrowly escaped being set on fire."

The Ceteriana has arrived at Mazatlan with ninety-nine refugees from Manzanillo. Consul Edwards from Acapulco is now aboard the California. The refugees will continue on board the Ceteriana to San Francisco.

Riots at Guadalajara.

The British embassy was advised that one American and two Englishmen had been killed and seven Americans and one Englishman jailed as the result of riots at a mine near Guadalajara.

The news that the Constitutionalists have three armies in the field converging toward Mexico City strengthened the belief in government circles that before the mediators have got well under way at Niagara Falls the rebels will be in control of the government.

Upon this premise the administration continues to place its hope that further military aggressions by the United States forces in Mexico will become unnecessary.

At the same time officials here are not blind to the fact that there is many a lighted fuse sputtering around Vera Cruz and that an explosion may come at any time.

ACCUSE BECKER OF CONSPIRACY

Correction Commissioner Davis Creates Sensation.

DENIED ALL PRIVILEGES.

Judge May Punish Bourke Cockran For Contempt of Court—Wants to Know if Lawyer Said Trial Was "an Assassination"—Six Chosen For Jury.

New York, May 8.—Correction Commissioner Katharine B. Davis created a sensation by announcing while the selection of the jury for the trial of Charles Becker was still going on that the privileges heretofore enjoyed by the ex-police lieutenant in the Tombs had been revoked and that he would be subjected to the strictest surveillance during the rest of his stay there. Not even Mrs. Becker will be admitted to see him unless she is brought into the prison by his counsel on matters pertinent to the trial.

Miss Davis states that she had revoked the prison privileges of Becker because of the discovery that he had entered into a conspiracy with Philip Musica, the smuggler, who is now awaiting the decision on an appeal in his case, and four or five other prisoners to discredit her administration and that of Mayor Mitchel and thereby curry favor with Governor Glynn and Tammany. Becker himself denied all knowledge of the alleged plot.

Justice Samuel Seabury has begun a vigorous investigation into the action of Bourke Cockran, who upon leaving the courtroom after his motion in behalf of Charles Becker had been denied said he was through with the case.

"It is not a trial," Mr. Cockran is reported to have said. "It is an assassination."

This remark was made to newspaper reporters. Justice Seabury has instructed District Attorney Whitman to secure affidavits from the reporters to whom the language was addressed. If it is established that Mr. Cockran made the remark it is said to be the intention of Justice Seabury to ask him to show cause why he should not be committed for contempt of court.

Only one juryman was gained over the number in the box, making six in all.

BORGLUM PAINTINGS BURNED

Destroyed In Fire Which Wrecks Lucien S. Crandall's Home.

Washington, N. J., May 8.—Paintings by Gutzon Borglum, the well known artist and sculptor, were burned in a fire which partly destroyed the home of Lucien S. Crandall at 135 Broad street. Mr. Crandall awoke to find flames all about him. He ran to other rooms to arouse his wife and two daughters, forgetting in his excitement that they were visiting relatives in Brooklyn.

Mr. Crandall jumped out on a roof and escaped by means of a ladder which had been left there by painters. It is believed the fire was caused by tramps who had gained entrance to the cellar. After working for two hours the firemen put out the blaze. The damage was estimated at $16,000.

RED BANK MAYOR DIES.

Red Bank, N. J., May 8.—Horace P. Cook, mayor of this city, died in his home in Maple avenue of heart disease. He was fifty-five years old.

CONDENSED STATE NEWS.

Hackensack is not to have a municipal building, for the new sewage system to cost $615,000 will make further outlay impossible now.

Vice Chancellor Stevens in the court of chancery filed an opinion upholding the right of the East Jersey Water company to divert water from the Passaic river and its tributaries.

Plunging head first into a tub of scalding water after tripping over a carpet, Leon Levine, six years old, of Atlantic City, was burned so badly that he died shortly after reaching the hospital.

"Rattlesnake Chet," whose real name is George C. Billings and who resides in Hackensack, the man who has killed more rattlesnakes than any man in the Ramapo mountains, was bitten by one for the first time.

J. A. Messler of 621 Valley road, Montclair, is in Mountainside hospital yith a broken rib and possible internal injuries, sustained when he was run over by his own automobile after he had cranked the engine.

WILSON WILL LEAD FUNERAL CORTEGE

Impressive Ceremonies For Vera Cruz Dead.

New York, May 8.—President Wilson has decided to pay personal tribute to the marines and sailors who died at Vera Cruz by meeting the funeral ship Montana at the Battery on Monday morning and leading the cortege to the Brooklyn navy yard, where he will deliver the funeral oration.

The president, Admiral Dewey, Secretary of War Garrison and the members of the congressional committee appointed to attend the services will come here on Sunday evening. Secretary Daniels of the navy will arrive late Sunday afternoon on the president's yacht, the Mayflower, which will stand by the Montana and the Wyoming, the navy's convoy ship, off the Battery until Monday morning, when the funeral begins.

Further details of the plans for the funeral were arranged by the officials of the navy yard and the mayor's committee. Mayor Mitchel and his temporary committee made final plans for the city's reception to the heroes, which will precede the official exercises in the navy yard. The citizens' committee of 200 prominent men of the city, with General Horace Porter as chairman, was announced by the mayor.

The Montana will arrive off Sandy Hook about noon on Sunday. As she steams slowly into the lower bay the battleship Wyoming will escort her through the harbor. Both vessels will anchor about 500 yards off the Battery at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. There will be no salute, but all the flags in vessels in the bay will be at half mast.

The Mayflower was expected to escort the Montana from the Virginia capes, but a change was made in this plan. Instead the yacht will come up several hours later and stand by the funeral ship and the Wyoming. Secretary Daniels will be aboard. It is not known whether or not he will remain in the harbor until Monday morning, but he will probably meet the presidential party Sunday evening.

The interment in Arlington cemetery will be on Saturday morning.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

BAYONNE AND ELIZABETH TO CONFER ON PLANS FOR BRIDGE

Bayonne, May 8—A conference between members of the local Chamber of Commerce and citizens of Elizabeth is being planned to discuss the building of a bridge between this city and Elizabethport.

DeWitt VanBuskirk, president of the commerce body and a member of the New Jersey Harbor Commission, declared today that a tunnel under Newark Bay to connect the two cities would not be practicable and would cost more than a bridge. The tunnel would have to be at least 8,000 feet long, he pointed out, and the problem of ventilation would be difficult. Mr. VanBuskirk said he believed business firms and individuals generally favored a bridge.

BOROUGHITES MAY CONTEST THE OCEAN GROVE ELECTION

Ocean Grove, May 8—The boroughites will contest Tuesday's referendum election if, in the opinion of County Prosecutor Rulif V. Lawrence, their claim of illegal registrations is sustained. This action was decided on Wednesday night. Samuel A. Reeves and Charles I. Baumgartner will confer with the prosecutor.

The grounds on which the election may be contested is that the election boards in Ocean Grove had no right, as the boroughites claim, to add new names to the voting list, that their duty was merely to revise and correct the list used at the last general election. The boards accepted the names of over two hundred voters not on last fall's list.

The boroughites have decided to continue their organization under Samuel A. Reeves, president; Titian P. Summers, Jr., vice-president; Stephen D. Wooley, secretary, and Frederick A. Smith, treasurer. The organization is continued; for one thing in the expectation of keeping the Campmeeting Association to the work of remedying ills complained of and building up Ocean Grove. A conference between the association and the boroughites is an early possibility, in the hope of harmonizing their respective interests.

ALUMNI TO HOLD REUNION AT CENTENARY INSTITUTE

Hackettstown, May 8—The Alumni Association of Centenary Collegiate Institute will hold its annual reunion at the school May 16 from 3 to 7:30 p. m. A special train will be run over the Lackawanna Railroad, leaving Hoboken at 1:30 p. m. The members of the association will be the guests while here of Rev. Dr. J. M. Meeker, the president of the school, and the faculty.

A stronger alumni association is being urged. Three generations are now represented among the former students, the total numbering 1,500. The forty-first school year will end June 10. To finance a stronger alumni association $1 is asked as an initial payment, and no second payment shall be asked for until actually needed. Life membership is fixed at $10. All former students, whether graduates or not, are eligible.

The association also plans to raise $1,000 for a mosaic panel as a memorial to Dr. George H. Whitney, for many years a resident of Plainfield, who died June 6, 1913. A contribution of $250 has already been received. It is proposed to have this tablet in Whitney Hall. It is believed the fund will be over-subscribed, and if so the excess will be used for a stone to be erected in the cemetery where Dr. Whitney is buried. Dr. Whitney was the first president of the school and served from 1869 to 1894, and until his death was president emeritus.

The inscription on the proposed tablet will be: "George H. Whitney, D. D., LL. D., born July 30, 1830, died June 6, 1913. First president of Centenary Collegiate Institute, 1864-1894. He was a just man. Erected by the former students and friends of the new school."

SUFFRAGE PARADE TO BE INEXPENSIVE

Washington Demonstration Will Eclipse the One Held Last Year.

Washington, D. C., May 8—If the elaborate arrangements now perfected and the number of participants registered at headquarters may be accepted as reliable indications, then the Woman's Suffrage parade which is to take place in this city tomorrow is certain to eclipse the similar parade held last year and in all probability will go on record as the most impressive demonstration in behelf of "Votes for Women" that America has ever seen. The parade will march from the White House to the Capitol, the purpose being to call attention of Congress to the petitions signed by women throughout the country asking the Federal lawmakers to pass a measure granting women the full rights of suffrage.

According to a statement given out at the headquarters today the marchers will include representatives of the equal suffrage organizations in every State of the Union, without exception. Some of the States will have a comparatively small representation, while the States within easy distance of the Capitol, including New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland, will be represented by delegations of several hundred women. The Suffragists of the District of Columbia, among them thousands of women employed in the various departments of the Government, are preparing to turn out in full force.

The procession promises to be remarkable for the number of well-known women who will take part. Marching side by side with the store clerks and factory girls will be women of wealth and the highest social standing. Social workers of national reputation, presidents and professors of women's colleges, women well known to the literary world, actresses whose names always appear at the top of the bill, and women who have been conspicuously successful in business and the professions—all will be in line for "the cause."

One of the most attractive features of the procession will be a cavalry division. Many of the best known young horsewomen in Washington will take part. Among the organizers are Miss Mary Morgan, a niece of Gifford Pinchot, and Miss Elizabeth Kent, a recent debutante, daughter of Representative William Kent, of California. Riding at the head of the parade as grand marshal will be Mrs. Juliet Barrett Rublee, who will have as her chief assistant Mrs. George Odell, of Illionis.

Among the organizers of the various State divisions of the parade are Mrs. Edward Keating, wife of Representative Edward Keating, of Colorado; Miss Arvilla McDonnauvh, who is organizer for Ohio; Mrs. Lillian H. Anderson, for Arizona; Mrs. S. B. Mercier, for South Dakota; Miss Zona Gale, for Wisconsin; Miss Mary Brennan, for the State of Washington; Miss Mabel Vernon, for Nevada, and Mrs. Tom Stout, wife of Representative Stout, of Montana. Miss Endiqueat Morales, daughter of the minister from Panama, will carry the banner of that republic in the procession.

Precautions have been taken to prevent a repetition of the disorderly demonstrations on the part of spectators that marred the suffrage parade of last year. Major Sylvester, head of the Washington police department, has assured the committees in charge that they will have ample protection for the marchers. Any suggestion of rowdyism or mobbing of the parade such as happened last year will be summarily dealt with, Major Sylvester says.

CHARITY WORKERS GATHER.

Memphis, Tenn., May 8—The annual meeting of the National Conference of Charities and Correction, which assembled in this city today for a week's sessions, has brought together many men and women who have made their life's work the scientific study of the best means of caring for the unfortunates and reforming the defective and incorrigible. Prominent among those who are on the program for papers or addresses are Miss Jane Addams, of Chicago; Dr. Booker T. Washington, of Tuskegee Institute; Rev. Washington Gladden, of Columbus; Senator Robert L. Owen, of Oklahoma; Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of Denver; Dr. Abraham Flexner, of New York; Prof. Graham Taylor, of Chicago; President Kenyon L. Butterfield, of Massachusetts Agricultural College; Mrs. Desha Breckinbridge, of Kentucky, and Miss Mary E. McDowell. Immigration and the suppression of the white slave traffic will be two of the leading subjects of discussion.

NAME COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN.

The newly-elected officers of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association have appointed their committee for the ensuing year, whose duties begin in September. The chairman of each committee follows: Entertainment, Mrs. C. M. Dolliver, sanitation, Mrs. H. E. Parker; visiting, Mrs. L. D. Townley; literature, Mrs. J. A. Foulks; new membership, Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan; reception, Mrs. A. E. Kenney; chaperon, Mrs. Warren Townley; question box, Mrs. D. F. Aungst.

BIG CIRCUS WAR ON AT EASTON

What will probably be the first battle in a circus war that will be fought throughout the Eastern States, will be fought on May 18 at Easton, Pa. On that day two big rival shows, the Ringling Brothers circus and Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch Wild West will exhibit in that city. The clash seems to be determined by the Ringlings, as their aggregation will jump all the way from Columbus, Ohio, to make the stand.

Both organizations have gone in for heavy billing and Easton looks like an immense art gallery. Billboards everywhere in the city and suburbs are in great demand. The Ringlings are today acknowledged to be the most powerful organization in the circus business. Beside the show which bears their name, they own the Barnum & Bailey and Forepaugh-Sells Brothers' outfits, beside having an interest in the Gollman Brothers circus, the Gollmans being relatives of the Ringlings.

The 101 Ranch owners and Hagenback-Wallace circus, the latter being owned by a company, have no territory agreements with the Ringlings, consequently the fight will be against both of them. Neither one has made any great resistance heretofore, but this year both shows are larger and are determined to sutbbornly contest every hostile move. The clash at Easton will be followed by many more and the outcome is anxiously awaited by show-folks and laymen alike.

ONLY A WEEK BEFORE BIG BARNUM AND BAILEY CIRCUS

A great deal of interest has already been aroused by the announcement that the Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth will visit here a week from today, Friday, May 15. While the managers of the circus rejoiced in the conviction that the production proved the most stunningly stupendous creation in the history of circus or theatricals, their keenest pride was in the fact that it will be an "All American" offering of which every bit will be made in this country. "During our last tour abroad, we challenged foreign circus competition and our conquest was complete," said one of the proprietors. "England found herself laboricusly behind in our business, as well as every nation visited, yielded pre-eminently. We left behind a profound impression of American supremady and one that we felt was directly stimulating to the pride of all Americans. Now we want to help prove that America leads the world in all things."

HONEYMOON TRIP WILL BE SHORT

But Few See Wilson-McAdoo Nuptials.

WORD "OBEY" IN SERVICE.

Only Members of Family, a Few Friends and Officials Were Present. President Gives Away Bride—Ceremonies Were Simple.

Washington, May 8.—Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, the president's youngest daughter, was married to Secretary of the Treasury William Gibbs McAdoo. The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Sylvester W. Beach, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Princeton, N. J., who also married the bride's sister, Mrs. Sayre, six months ago, was simple in the extreme.

The exact destination of the honeymoon trip is now known, but it was stated it will be a short one owing to the pressure of business at the capitol.

The wedding ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Sylvanus W. Beach, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Princeton, N. J., who also married Mrs. Sayre, was simple in the extreme. The company was the smallest ever assembled to witness a White House wedding. Only the members of the immediate family of the president, a few of Miss Eleanor's intimate friends, three of Secretary McAdoo's six children by his first wife, the members of the cabinet, with their families, and military and naval officers, members of the president's personal staff, who served as ushers, were present.

Shortly before the appointed hour the small wedding company began to assemble. In the broad entrance hall of the White House the Marine band, converted for the occasion into an ochestra, brilliant in their scarlet jackets and black trouserings, played through a carefully selected program of wedding anticipations. The ushers, all in the blue cloth and gold lace of full uniform, directed the guests to their appointed places in the blue room. The apartment was overpoweringly fragrant from the blossoms of more than 2,000 Easter lilies which filled the mantel shelves, the bays of the high French windows and adorned the walls. On the southerly side of the room was a bank of Easter lilies, ferns and palms, furnishing a chancel before which was set a slightly raised dais. Over the dais was the same soft white fur rug used at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Sayre. It was the gift of the Peruvian minister and Mme. Pazet to Miss Jessie Wilson.

The company was placed and all in readiness when from without the deep tones of the "Angelus" rang from a nearby Catholic spire. The Marine band-orchestra struck up the first bars of the wedding march from Lohengrin and switched gracefully from its dignified meter to the more inspiring strains of the "Star Spangled Banner." The Wagnerian air served to introduce the bride. The national emblem heralded the appearance of the president.

Word "Obey" Included.

The bride, leaning on the arm of her father, wore a gown of ivory white satin embellished with a wealth of rich old point lace and a veil fastened about the brow with a wreath of orange blossoms, which also encircled a cap of point lace. She smiled graciously about her as she entered the apartment and approached the improvised altar. As the bridal procession entered the blue room the clergyman, accompanied by the bridegroom and the best man, Dr. Cary Travers Grayson, entered from the red parlor. The clergyman and all civilian members of the wedding company wore evening dress. Dr. Grayson was attired in the full uniform of his rank of passed assistant surgeon, United States navy.

For the ceremony the Rev. Dr. Beach used the interrogations and responses, both as to the betrothal and the words of union, from the Book of Common Prayer of the Protestant Episcopal church. The word "obey" was included in the service. In the prayer and the benediction he did not follow the Anglican service.

PASS TWO BATTLESHIP BILL.

House Sanctions $140,000,000 Appropriation For Navy.

Washington, May 8.—The naval bill, carrying an appropriation of a little more than $140,000,000, including an authorization for two battleships, six destroyers and eight submarines, was passed by the house.

Ninety-seven Democrats voted against two battleships. Among them was Representative Underwood, the majority leader. Representative Mann of Illinois, Republican leader, also voted against two battleships.

REOPEN CANANEA CONSULATE

Sixty Amercans Return, and Mines Resume Operations.

Washington, May 8.—Acting Consular Agent Montague has returned to the Cananea mining district and will reopen the consulate, the state department learned through official dispatches.

Sixty Americans have returned to the district, and the mines are resuming operations. Conditions in the Naples district were reported as quiet.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

TELLS OF FIGHT WITH MEXICANS

Benjamin Corrigan, of This City, Gives Graphic Description of Encounter.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

"Spicks" Flee in Terror at Sight of U. S. Marines—Many Killed and Others Taken as Prisoners—10,000 Firearms Captured.

A graphic description of the clash between United States Marines and Mexicans at Vera Cruz is given in a letter received by James McNeil, of West Third street, from Benjamin Corrigan, a Plainfield boy, who is attached to the Battleship "Arkansas." The writer was among the first detachment of Uncle Sam's men to go ashore when the deadly fire was poured down on the marines as they seized the custom house. Corrigan escaped being hit by the rain of bullets and with a company of bluejackets was rushed to the streets to stop the fusilade. It took only a short time to kill the ringleaders of the "spicks" as the Mexicans are termed, after which most of the others broke and ran.

"We must have killed at least 1,000 of the 'spicks,'" writes Corrigan, "while twice that number were taken prisoners. As we rushed through the streets to put an end to 'sniping,' some of the Mexicans nailed up the doors to keep us out and others caught and kissed our hands, imploring us in piteous tones to spare their lives. It was an awful sight on the streets after we got through the first charge. Dead 'spicks' were to be seen everywhere and those of us who were new to the game realized General Sherman told the truth when he gave his famous interpretation of what war is. Blood ran in streams along the streets, but nobody had time to be affected by it as there was too much to do before we were safe from contributing some of our own red corpuscles to the rivulets. We lost five killed and twenty or more wounded. We captured a fort with 10,000 firearms, one of our best finds. We let our prisoners go after awhile, but warned them if they attempted any shooting, we would kill everybody in the town. The warning evidently made an impression as we were not bothered after the first day."

Corrigan adds the belief that there will be no more warring as the Mexicans are badly scared by the American's display of strength. The marines, bluejackets and troops were all on guard at the time of writing but they had little to do.

PRISONER ALLEGES ACCUSER SUFFERS FROM "COLD FEET"

John Dominic appeared before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court this morning, to answer to charges preferred by Nicholas Cavanza, of Arlington avenue, who alleged that the defendant sent him "black hand" letters threatening his life. Cavanza, who is a missionary, has been rounding up his neighbors during the past week and swearing out daily summons for their appearance in court.

When the complainant appeared before Judge DeMeza yesterday morning to press the charges against Dominic the court informed him of the seriousness of the complaint and he said he had turned the alleged "black hand" letters over to the postal authorities, who had requested him to drop the charges and that they would be taken up by the government.

The court refused to dismiss the case against Dominic, however, and the complainant and defendant were ordered to appear this morning with witnesses. Cavanza failed to show up today and the case was dismissed. In a statement to the court the defendant said that his accuser had been attacked with a sudden illness which he personally diagnosed as "cold feet."

JOHNSON APPREHENDED FOR HORSE STEALING

Colored Man Arrested in Newark Charged With Taking Animal From This City.

William Johnson, colored, of this city, was apprehended by the Newark police this morning, as a suspect wanted by the Plainfield police department for the theft of a horse from the barn of the Leader store in West Front street after 11 o'clock last night. Jacog Sklarew, proprietor of the store, notified the local authorities this morning that someone had taken his horse and wagon from the barn during the night and requested that a lookout for the theif be kept.

Information reached the police shortly before noon today that Johnson was employed by Sklarew up to last night and, when his arrest followed in Newark, Chief Kiely immediately requested his detention until the matter was investigated. Johnson sold the horse in Newark for $30 and will be brought to Plainfield to face charges Monday morning.

The accused is well known about town, having been employed as a handy man by a number of prefessional men in the business section up until a few months ago, when he was arrested on a charge of staeling money from an employe. Since that time he has figured in the police court frequently and has been under police surveilance.

SCOTT BUILDING TWO PRESSES FOR CANADA

Montreal Papers Will Soon Be Printed on Products of Local Works.

Recent editions of Canadian papers have printed articles of interest to all Plainfielders who are interested in the success of the city from a manufacturing point of view. They have told of the installations of material manufactured by Walter Scott and Company at their big press works here. The Montreal Daily Mail of Tuesday said:

"J. D. Scott, of Walter Scott & Co., of Plainfield, N. J., the celebrated press builders, is in Montreal completing arrangements for installing in The Daily Mail pressroom, a second machine which will double The Daily Mail's press capacity.

"The work when completed will give octuple capacity and will provide ample facilities for printing both The Daily Mail and The Evening News. Mr. Scott gave orders that work on the press should be carried on night and day in order that installation may be complete when The Evening News is ready for publication, the week of May 25th."

In another part of the same paper the following was said about the Scott installation:

"Coincident with the arrangements for independent news services a contract was entered into with Walter Scott & Co., of Plainfield, N. J., the celebrated press manufacturers, for doubling the present press capacity of The Daily Mail. This new press is now nearing completion and orders have been given to rush work, night and day in order that it may be installed and ready for operation before the end of the month. With these new additions, The Daily Mail and Evening News will have a press of octuple capacity, equal in size and production to the largest press in the Dominion."

"While the new Hoe press equipment for The Star is being installed in the expectation that it will be in operation this week, Walter Scott & Co., the celebrated Press builders, have engaged to build a Magazine section press for The Star capable of printing 72,000 papers per hour.

"The Star pressroom is getting to be one of the sights of Montreal. The new Scott outfit will add to its efficiency and to its attractions."

WILD CHASE FOR BOY IN BOX CAR

THREE ARE ARRESTED

Small Boys Charged With Stealing and Cutting up Valuable Metal, Arraigned in Court This Morning—Case Dismissed.

After a wild chase through the streets of the West End, yesterday afternoon, Edward Daniels, one of the boys wanted by the police for the alleged stealing of copper wire from the tracks of the New Jersey Central, finally landed in the police net and was arraigned in the city court this morning together with John Donnelly and Cornelius Connelley. Informed by Clarence Miller, of 1419 Willever street that three boys were getting away with a big bag of copper wire, Patrolman Tobias Nolan gave chase to the trio but Daniels finally got away.

After pursuing his quarry through the streets for a mile or more, Nolan lost track of the man. A former local policeman, who had been a witness to the chase, saw Daniels board a slowly moving freight train near the Cadmus Mills on South Second street, and jumping on a wheel, gave chase. He kept abreast of the freight until it reached the North avenue station, when he notified Patrolman Dennis O'Keeffe that a fugitive was cowered in the bottom of a box car.

O'Keeffe boarded the train and took Daniels off. In the meantime Nolan had arrested the two smaller boys and later landed them in police headquarters. When the trio were arraigned for hearing this morning, Daniels, who appeared to be the ringleader, admitted that he and his younger companions had taken the wire for the express purpose of selling it as junk. They had cut it into small pieces and put it in a big canvas bag, the loot being recovered later by Nolan. Much conflicting evidence was presented to the court and considerable difficulty was encountered by the court in getting at the true facts of the case. The boys alleged that Miller had appeared on the West Front street field where they were arrested, with a bicycle and told them to take the wire. Miller denied this, stating that he came to the place in question to plant potatoes.

JAIL SENTENCE FOR TROLLEY CAR ROWDY

First Offender to Be Apprehended in Crusade to Abolish This Nuisance.

Boarding an east-bound Main line trolley car at the Watchung avenue station shortly after 8 o'clock last night, James Moore, a cripple, who claims residence in Philadelphia, caused such a rumps that he had to be taken from the car at Westfield and lodged in the police station at that place by Patrolman Detar. Arraigned in Westfield this morning charged with disorderly conduct, Moore was fined $20. In default of bail he was committed to the county jail for twenty days.

Moore, according to the police, was under the influence of liquor. Between the Plainfield station and Leland avenue he occupied his time trying to instruct the motorman in Quaker City methods of running cars and indulged in a lot of profanity. The Westfield authorities were notified and were waiting for the man's arrival.

In speaking of the incident this morning an official of the trolley company said that this was the first active step in a campaign to eliminate rowdyism on cars and all offenders will be prosecuted by the company's representatives.

Mr. Dunn has built up a splendid reputation for handling reliable merchandise, and his business undoubtedly will grow rapidly in the new location and modern building.

PRISONER ADMITS HE ROBBED METERS

Briggs Apprehended by Detective Sergeant Flynn Solves Many Mysteries.

In the arrest of John Briggs, of 611 West Fourth street, Detective Sergeant John Flynn accomplished the first real step in the clearing up of a number of gas meter robberies that have been committeed in local houses in Plainfield where the prisoner has admitted his guilt upon cross-examination and Flynn expects to solve many other mysteries before he turns the prisoners over to the Grand Jury for arraignment.

Brigg's admissions include the robbery of gas meters in six different houses and he may be connected with many of the rest during the day. Araigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court this morning he was remanded back until Monday and in the meantime Flynn will conduct a further investigation.

The prisoner came to this city from Philadelphia, where he has a wide reputation as a crook. He admits that he has been "mugged" by the Philadelphia authorities and that his finger prints are on file in Pennsylvania.

DEFER AWARD OF SCHOOL CONTRACT

Board of Education Will Take Final Action at Monday Night's Session.

The Board of Education at its meeting last night, postponed action on the three bids recently received for the completion of the High School addition, until Monday night, when a special meeting will be held for the purpose of giving the low bidder, John S. Dahl, an opportunity to comply with the requirements of the board regarding the furnishing of a bond, etc., which will be demanded before any bid is accepted.

It is expected, however, that final action will be taken not later than Monday night, and as Mr. Dahl was requested to present a bid by the board at the request of Messrs. C. C. Randolph, W. A. Garribues, and Charles Loizeaux, a committee of the creditors; there is no reason to believe that he will be unable to comply with the reasonable financial requirements which the Board of Education is very properly making in giving out this contract in order to protect itself and the public from a repetition of the Exner trouble.

It is understood that Mr. Dahl, in anticipation of the contract, has made necessary preparation to start work on the building within twenty-four hours after the acceptance of his bid.

His attorney, Isaac Runyon, was in conference with the clerk of the Board yesterday in regard to the terms of the contract, which it is known will include a stringent provision for the protection of the local material men and sub-contractors, whom it is expected Mr. Dahl will employ.

The other important business of the meeting was the presentation by a committee of the Open-Air School of a request that the school pay the salary of the Open-Air school nurse next year.

The board took the matter under advisement, and it is known that the members are disposed to comply with this request provided that the necessary appropriation can be obtained for the work when the Board of School Estimate meets next week.

BOROUGH MAY REQUIRE LICENSES FOR AUTO BUSES

Recent discussion concerning the licensing of the auto-buses which make runs from this city to South Plainfield on one side and Mount Bethel and Watchung on the other side, has led the North Plainfield Common Council to believe that the borough would be able to secure license fees from the Plainfield Transit Company. From present indications, the matter will be considered by the borough fathers at the next meeting of the Council.

In speaking of the matter this morning with a Daily Press reporter, Mayor Clark intimated that he would be in favor of licensing the vehicles operated through the borough streets by the transit company. He further stated that the licences might be issued under present ordinances of the mnuicipality, which covered all discription of vehicles operated for the transportation of passengers.

An exhibit of the work done in the various classes of the Y. W. C. A. is being held in the window of Shirley & Johnston's store on West Front street, this afternoon and evening.

NEW YORK COURTS INDICT WALPOLE

STATE PRISON OFFENSE

Lynus Walpole, of Scotch Plains, who has been out on $1,000 bail to await the action of the Union County Grand Jury on a charge of abducting sixteen-years-old Ruth Naylor, was re-arrested at noon today by Sergeant Higgins. Walpole has been indicted in the State of New York on three serious accounts, and will be turned over to the Metropolitan authorities at once.

The indictment signed by District Attorney Charles Whitman, of New York, arrived here yesterday afternoon and Chief Kiely instructed his men to pick up Walpole at sight. Higgins made the arrest while on his way to headquarters at noon. Walpole is alleged to have taken the girl from this city to New York several weeks ago. He was arraaigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court and held under bail which was furnished by William Stanbury, of Scotch Plains.

Both Walpole and his alleged victim have made signed confessions of their trip from this city to the Metropolis and these are now in the possession of Chief Kiely. The indictment is signed by the District Attorney with John E. Naylor, of 322 Lee place, father of the girl, and Ruth Naylor, as witnesses. Chief Kiely, together with Mr. Naylor and his daughter visited the district attorney in New York Thursday afternoon when the necessary documents were drawn up for the indictment of the Scotch Plains man.

With the transfer of the case from the New Jersey to the New York courts Walpole's eense comes under the head of the Man White Slave act and if found guiltey he faces a long term in prison.

DeMeza in the city court this morning, Chris Mobus, who drove the automobile that ran down and injured Samuel Hannigan on Liberty street April 10, was exonerated from all blame in the accident. Testimony given by eye-witnesses indicated that the victim was at fault and the complaint was dismissed.

The Hannigan boy had his leg broken and has since been discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital, where he was taken by Mobus following the accident.

TROUBLE IN STORE FOR LOCAL SONS OF OLD ELY

Princetonians, at Banquet Last Night, Decided to Challenge Them.

Promise of bloodshed in the near future which will make the Mexican war look like a New York east side fued, was made last night when the Princeton Alumni held their annual dinner at Truell Inn and decided to challenge the local Yale men to a series of field day contests at a date which remains to be set. The Princetonians are sure that they can trim representatives of Eli at baseball, golf, tennis, or any other game in which the Yale men may have an idea they are proficient. The challenge will be sent out at once, and the date for the struggle will be set as soon as the Yale men accept.

The dinuer last night was an annual affair, and twenty-six graduates of the New Jersey college gathered around the table and talked about the days when they were undergraduates, and about what a great and glorious college they had left when they tackled the problems of life. After the dinner had been concluded officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows. Samuel T. Carter, Jr., president; Brown Rolston, vice-president; Albert D. Beers, secretary; Percy R. Ransome, treasurer. The nominating committee for next year consists of Henry J. Cochran, Ames Brooks, and Dr. F. E. DuBois.

ERROR IN PRICES IN ADV. OF WOODHULL AND MARTIN CO.

Typographical errors in the Friday rush of advertising resulted in two mistakes creeping into the advertisement of the Woodhull and Martin Company in the Daily Press of last night. In the wash fabrics item, the price as printed was 79 cents a yard, and it should have been 19 cents a yard. In the bath-room fixtures item, it was made to appear that a lot of nickel plated goods were offered at five cents each, when the price should have been 50 cents. The mistakes are corrected in the advertisement on page 4 today.

INVITED TO TOWN EXHIBIT.

The Plainfield Chamber of Commerce has received and accepted an invitation to attend the town exhibit at Westfield on Tuesday. The chamber has also received a communication from the Elizabeth Board of Trade seeking it support in the protest against the decision which places New Jersey in the same bank reserve district with Philadelphia and detaches it from New York. Under such conditions local banks will be obliged to keep reserve deposits in Philadelphia.

SILLIMAN ALIVE BUT A PRISONER

This word was received by the State Department today through the French legation in Mexico City. The report added that the few Americans left in the city were safe and that no damage had been done American property.

Silliman was found after this government had sought in vain for three weeks for him and the diplomatic machinery of three great nations had they were prepared to move at a prisoner in the hands of the Federal troops, it is said, but he is alive and well, and is being treated with consideration.

Efforts are being made to have the consul released immediately, and with a small group of Americans in Satillo to obtain a safe escort for him to Mexico City. Satillo is threatened by advancing Constitutionalists, however, and this may be impossible of accomplishment.

Official confirmation of the disappearance into the Mexican lines of Samuel Parks of the 28th infantry, was received today from General Funston. Parks with two valuable horses rode into the Federal camp and has not been heard from since. General Funston declared the general belief was that Parks had suddenly gone insane. Reports that Park had been put to death, while generally believed have not yet been confirmed.

Secretary Garrison refused to admit today that orders of any sort have gone to the two remaining brigades of the Second Division, now at Galveston. He said, however, that for his supplies, they can be rushed ment's notice. The question of the landing of arms for General Huerta from the German vessel reported at Puerto Mexico remains the principal problem of the day. The lack of action prevented the landing, while this government persists in refusing to permit arms to reach the Constitutionalists, is believed to be due to the existence of a generally recognized armistice. The State Department officials, however, decline to discuss the reasons for their inaction.

As no American ships are at Puerto Mexico there is nothing to prevent the landing of the arms and ammunition of war. General Huerta is probably prepared, and has a train waiting ship will sail immediately for eNw out of the territory before any move can be made to stop them, and either taken to Mexico City or to General Maas, outside of Vera Cruz. The destination of the ammunition, officials here declare is unknown to them.

The arrival of the refugee steamer Esperanza from Puerto Mexico, was reported from Vera Cruz today. The enlisted in the search. Silliman is a Orleans. The Americans on board are those who left Mexico City on the refugee train which left there under Brazilian protection some days ago, and 90 Americans who deserted San Luis Potosi a few days prior to the departure of the train from the capital.

Another American is reported killed by Federal troops. General Funston cabled the War Department from Vera Cruz that an investigation is being made. Secretary Garrison refused to admit today that orders of any sort have gone to the two remaining brigades of the second division now at Galveston. He sail, however, that they are prepared to move at a moment's notice.

The Monitor Ozark, tender of the submarine flotilla, is reported today steaming for Tampico from Key West. The significance of this move became apparent when it was announced that the draught of the vessel made it possible for it to proceed up the Panuco River opposite Tampico. The Ozark is one of the few vessels in the navy armed with 12-inch guns which can mauoeuvre in shoal water.

San Diego, May 9.—A wireless dispatch from the U. S. S. California, stationad at Mazatlan, says that the fall of Mazatlan seems imminent.

Juarez, May 9, 1914.—A detachment of 400 rebel cavalry left here today headed for Torreon, where they will join General Villas army. Their departure leaves only 500 troops in Juarez. The Rebels are preparing to attack Monclava, the capital of the State of Coahuila, and the most northerly point held by the Federals, whose garrison consists of less than 400 men.

ROYAL A. C. PLANNING FOR BANNER SEASON

Present Indications Point to a Big Year for the Colored Stars Here.

Manager William Kline of the Royal A. C. baseball team, is rounding up his men for the coming season and has a fine array of material for a 1914 team. Dick Warrick, his scout, has secured some fine men and Kline expects to have one of the fastest infields that has represented Plainfield in colored baseball circles.

His outfield will consist of Kline, Coleman, Maiden and Somerset and this quartet is noted for its great hitting ability. Kline has three good pitchers in Hall, Ford and Jackson and Ford will probably do the bulk of the work. Jackson is a south paw with fine speed and a large variety of curves. Smith, who pitched for the Bato A. C. last season and won seventeen out of the twenty-three games that he pitched, is expected to sign and the local club will have a nine that will match any team in this part of the State to travel.

Scout Warrick is at present in New York trying to sign up a few more good men and as soon as he returns the lineup will be announced. The Royals have always had a fine team and will undoubtedly uphold their reputation this year.

Chalmers
"The Master "Sixes"

The Choice of 1000 Men A Month

In one month men paid over $2,000,000 for Chalmers Master "Sixes." They had all the world's "Sixes" to choose from. They choose the Chalmers.

But first they made the Master "Six" prove itself. It proved its worth to them in deeds—not words. And they were convinced. For they could not doubt what their eyes saw—what their senses perceived.

This "Six" Opened Their Eyes.

Until the Chalmers Master "Six" appeared last year, buyers had thought of all "Sixes" as heavy cars, extravagant of fuel and tires; costly to buy and expensive to keep.

But the Master "Six" was a revelation. Here was a car of six cylinders at a moderate price; with a motor so silent and smooth running that friction and wear might be forgotten. A car which cost little to buy and little to keep.

No "Four" Has Such Smoothness.

Its Master Moter has six cylinders of small bore and long stroke. It fairly floats up the hills on high gear. It can reach twenty-five miles an hour in ten seconds from a standstill; it can creep at two miles an hour through the crowd and at the touch of the throttle be off like a grayhound. Such flexibility of power is possible only among "Sixes," and rare even there.

Motorists have learned that vibration means discomfort for the passengers, increased fuel bills, and the very life of the car cut short.

And vibration in a "four" can't be cured by a makeshift. The only escape from it is in a six-cylinder motor where the flow of power is continuous.

A Non-Stallable Motor.

One swing of a switch at the outset and the electric starter spins the Master "Six" engine enough to start it. But it does more. If some unusual demand upon the engine should cause it to falter, the starter automatically keeps it running until it picks up again.

There's no chance of being stranded in a throng or on a dangerous crossing. This starter makes the motor non-stallable. In simplicity and dependability the Chalmers Entz system is without a parallel.

The Test That Tells the Tale.

The true measure of value—and the only one—is performance. What will the car do in service—that's the question. We answer it with the Chalmers Road Test.

Make this test—it is more than just a ride. Compare the luxurious smoothness of the Chalmers "Sixes" with any cars you know. Then ask yourself if any other cars offer equal value at the prices.

THE KNOCKER.

The knocker is a cheerless soul
Who sees the world in drab;
Moving, urging, crying "backward!"
Just a human crab.

Like the poor, the knocker we have always with us. He has flourished in all ages and all climes. His food is carping criticism and his drink is bitterness and gall. No worthy action may receive his approval, and his every and constant aim is destruction. His diatribes he roars forth upon all possible occasions, for no violet-like modesty, no gentle humility is his, and in consequence, the world ever vibrates with the sound of his rancous bark. His name is legion, and his banners bear the motto "I'm agin' the government!"

In the abstract, there is in him nothing alluring that would tempt us to join his ranks, and yet, so easy is thoughtless criticism, so prone are we to minimize the efforts and endeavors of others, that few there be of us, who have not at one time or another been members of the "Knockers' Club." Does it pay?

The history of our own country shows that every great American, every leader of by-gone days, whose name and fame we treasure as precious national possession, was singled out as a shining target for invective, misrepresentation and calumny. Washington experienced it to an unwonted degree; the patient Lincoln was overwhelmed with it; McKinley suffered immeasurably and today, Woodrow Wilson, amid all the perplexities attendant upon a period of economic and social unrest, of mighty questions of statecraft, is assailed on all sides by the croakings of those who know not whereof they speak, but who feel it their especial mission in life to impugn motives, to tear down where others would build, and to destroy, rather than preserve.

But in the infinite plan of creation, there is progress, uplift, advance, here, there and everywhere. Truth and right, sincerity and honesty, though mayhap crushed and retarded for the time being, eventually have, and always will triumph.

The names and lives of those ill-omened pessimists of departed days are forgotten and lost, but with the passing years grow ever brighter the fame and deeds of those who labored faithfully, zealously and well in the great cause of humanity.

Until we can place ourselves in the other man's exact position; until we can see things through his eyes; until we can know with certainty his methods, his ideals, and his innermost thoughts, we may not be assured of the justice of any criticism we may launch against him. And criticism that is not just is unkind, unwarranted and untrue.

These principles, applicable to great national questions, are just as true, just as pertinent, just as compelling, when applied to our every day affairs here in Plainfield.

The man who gives of his best in any worthy cause, be it great or small, has not lived in vain.

The humble workman who causes two blades of grass to grow where but one grew before, has served humanity.

But the man who stands on the side of the road; who refuses to put his shoulder to the wheel; who tells how the job ought to be done, but leaves the others to toil and strain when his co-operation would ease matters for all, is a knocker, pure and simple, and of no real service, either to himself or any other person.

Brother, don't be a knocker. Join the great company of those who, in season and out of season, cheerfully lend their efforts to advance that which is good and true; not so much perhaps for personal gain, as for the reward which the consciousness of duty well done brings to the doer.

ARENIC STARS FROM ALL PARTS OF WORLD IN BARNUM & BAILEY CIRCUS

"A colossal cosmopolitan concourse of celebrated circus champions," the alliterative promise is given, will display themselves in parade and in performance when the Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth establishes its canvas wonderland here on next Friday. They swarm on the great racing course, teem in the three rings and four platforms and fill the vast canvas dome with their flying forms immediately the tent-wide curtains have been drawn upon the splendors of the spectacular prelude to the arenic tourhament, "The Wizard Prince of Arabia."

Although the Barnum & Bailey circus is a peculiarly and typically American institution, more than ninety per cent. of these performers and specialists are foreign. In Europe the struggle for existence is so sharp that people will attempt exploits which no American would think of undertaking, in order to fit themselves for employ, below or aloft, in the Barnum & Bailey tent.

The keenly critical glance of Fred Bradna, arenic director, surveys the scene of multifarious athletic activity. He was the most renowned circus figure in Europe when Barnum & Bailey snatched him away two years ago. He declares that the crowning triumph of his career is represented in the tournament he directs this season.

Barnum & Bailey contend to, that they have the pick of the world's horses. The equine part of the aggregation numbers about 750 head—also tails—and includes famous pedigreed Arabian, Prussian and Kentucky stallions, superb saddle horses, park horses, road-cart and runabout teams, record-making racers, remarkable long distance and high-jumping coursers, and heavy half-Percheron and Norman draft stock.

JUNKMAN FOUND GUILTY; SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

Max Michaelson, of the borough, was arraigned in the North Plainfield police court, this morning, before Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., on the charge of conducting a junk business without a license. Michaelson was found guilty of permitting other men to use his license on wagons other than his own, and permitting the license to lapse when the time came for its renewal.

Mayor Clark imposed a fine for these offenses, but afterward suspended the sentence, with the understanding that the license which has now been taken out, would be revoked if there was any further trouble in the juggling of the license. It would also be revoked if Michaelson is found guilty of receiving stolen goods when he appears before the September Grand Jury of Somerset county on that charge. Mr. Michaelson was represented by William Newcorn. The complaint was made by Chief Marshal Weiss.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

"Why so pale and wan, fond Lover,
Prethee who so pale,
Will when looking well;
Won't, win her,
Looking ill prevail.
Prethee why so pale?"

Mayor Mitchell must have been familiar with these lines of Sir John Suckling, but how well he timed the "wan, pale looks" with which the "poor tired Boy" aroused the "maternal instincts" of Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, when he addressed the suffrage meeting at Carnegie Hall, Saturday night.

But if he was "pale and wan," and spoke—with one exception—"as if he had been born one hundred years ago," the "maternal instinct" was not of the kind that was found a century ago.

The old kind did not give place inside of twenty-four hours, to the animosity of the woman politician, making threats of the result to the "poor Boy's" political career, of displeasing—by his straightforward statement of honest convictions—those who had looked and hoped for different things from him.

Certainly a concrete example of the power of the political instinct, to deaded the higher one in woman!

A proof of the contention that women will be influenced by their feelings at the moment, by emotions, for better or worse.

Mrs Blatch wanted to say to the Mayor (because she "has a strong maternal feeling for him") "My dear boy, you think you know it all, but you have a great deal to learn." (How strange to have asked an ignorant "young boy" to address such a meeting!)

In the next breath she wanted to say "you will forget what you have said about suffrage, you will want to forget, but that little chicken will come home to roost."

She tells us that "in 1915 the women will get the vote, and what office will the Mayor want then?"

It is enlightening to be assured of the year, when 90 per cent. of the women will have forced upon them the duties and responsibilities of politics, because 10 per cent. of them are clamoring for them.

It might be will, however, for the latter to remember, when making threats of what woman as a whole, will do to the men in public life, who dare to have the courage of their convictions, that they may find themselves overwhelmed by the majority, who will not feel that they have any grudge against the men who stood for woman's true rights and proper place, not according to the Suffragist fallacy, but in all branches of charity, education and social welfare and betterment, instead of the so-called "Rights" described variously as "Votes for Women," "Equal Freedom," "Economic Independence," "Feminism," etc. Too many appellations to enumerate.

Inez Milholland assures us that "Equal Suffrage is only the immediate political aspect of Feminism."

Mrs. Forbes-Robertson-Hale told them a few weeks since, that "if they want to win in 1915, they must drop that word Feminism," so there has really been a little rest from it lately, but the feminist flame is only smouldering, it isn't out.

So, the women are going to "purify politics," kill "bribery and corruption," etc., in short establish the millenium—in 1915 be it understood—are at present threatening the man who said,—because he said—"I myself am convinced that women do not require the suffrage to achieve their entrance into public life. Suffrage for women is a question men will decide according to the demands of women.

Parenthetically, could there be better proof that the Suffragists know what the majority do not want it, than the ire which this remark has evoked.

What had Mayor Mitchell done, to cause the Suffragists to imagine that his sentiments were contrary to this expression of them?

Not being the "Tyrant," "Bully," "Slave-holder" which the Suffragists so freely denounce all men as being, his wife—in common with many other wives—had joined the ranks of the unrestful ones—who as the Rev. Morgan Dix said, "Won't be women, and can't be men"—who prove themselves to be anything but "slaves" and "bondwomen."

What else had he done? He had proved a strong anti point by appointing a woman to a post in which he felt she could be most useful, when he knew the right woman for the post.

He must have known that the appointment would not meet with approval from all quarters, but he had the "courage of his convictions," just as surely as when he stood on the platform Saturday night.

We must all approve of this broad-minded, recognition of the "right woman for the right place," and no Suffragist fell that "the poor Boy looked pale and wan" when he made the recognition.

Circumstances certainly do alter cases!

Is it not pertinent to inquire, how much more of the support claimed by Suffragists, is baded upon just as flimsy support, as that of which they were sure, from Mayor Mitchell?

An amusing bit of suffrage logic is contained in the following words of Mrs. Blatch, reported in the New York Sun, on Monday, May 4:

"Suppose our meeting Saturday night had been a convention of railroad men interested in a new air brake," said Mrs. Blatch, "and suppost a speaker had got up and said, 'When enough railroads want this air brake and want it enough they will get it,' what do you think his hearers would have thought of such logic? Would a railroad man say such a thing if he were interested in the work of saving human life and bettering conditions Would he be so narrow as to say the public would not suffer materially for lack of the air brake when the public demands it? Well, that is what Mayor Mitchell did in Carnegie Hall."

Could any thing be more beautifully observed than two suggestions contained in this paragraph.

First, that the adoption by any certain railroad of a new style of air brake, was comparable to the overthrow of the foundation principles of a government, and the compulsion placed upon the women of it to assume duties for which they are not fitted by nature, or endowment.

Second, that the small percentage of women clamoring for the ballot constitute "the public!"

Then Mrs. Blatch indignantly concludes with "mind you, a young man like our Mayor, talking in such a vein to women who were old enough to be his grandmothers!"

Could anything be more deliciously womanish than the remark, and is it hard to imagine the tone in which it was made?

Could anyone imagine such a remark eminating from a "mere man" let alone a "politician?" To be serious, why did these women—"old enough to be his grandmother"—invite the Mayor to address their meeting?

Because they considered him old enough and wise enough to make a bold, convincing speech in favor of "Votes for Women." Is it hard to imagine the panigerics which would have followed such a speech?

Would he have been "pale and wan" or "bold, manly and fearless?"

The same suffrage logic would have controlled the decision which make the Suffragist quote as authoritative the words of W. E. George, George Creel, Norman Hapgood, which made them listen with delight to Gilbert S. Roe, acknowledged Socialist-anarchist in Westfield, but which makes them disclose when confronted with government stasistics, "We do not accept statistics. They are prepared by men, and all men lie."

IT LOOKS LIKE A HIGH CLASS "VOH-DEE-VILLE" ACT, ALL RIGHT

BASEBALL HAS A RIVAL FOR COMPENSATION.

That the financial returns to many of the Canadian professional hockey players exceeds the sums paid to baseball players, notwithstanding the advent of the Federal League in the baseball world, and the princely salaries they are offering to players, is a certainty when one considers the length of the hockey playing season and the number of games in which the hockeyists participate. In Canada, where hockey is the national winter sport, the professional hockey leagues have the same standard position as the National and American leagues have in the United States, and just as the American youth has aspirations of some day being a big league ball player, so does the Canadian youngster hope some day to shine among the hockey "pros." It is here that he commands a salary far above that paid in any other line of sport, for it is common among star hockey players to receive as high as $10 a minute for every minute that they are on the ice. When it is considered that in a series of 15 games or thereabouts a salary of $10,000 to $12,000 for a season of 10 weeks is paid, it is clearly seen that the remuneration of the winter sport far outshines the highest salaries paid to ball players whose season runs into several months.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS ARE GOOD STUDENTS.

To the outsider the critical time for football elevens comes in the fall, on the eve of the big games. As a matter of fact, however, and this is particularly true of Princeton coaches, theirs has been to keep the material eligible, and in that they have a problem harder than teaching the most fat-fingered of youths how to pick up a fumbled ball. The awkward man can be trained into something like good gridiron form in the fall; but the ablest player in the squad cannot shake off the incubus of conditions acquired four months before. The star who has been lazy in the class room may picture himself as a potential hero, but his potential ability does the college no good. There is little excuse for the ineligibility of football men next fall. Anyone who is below passing in his work still has time to get above 50 before May 29; if he does not, he is a drag on progress and Princeton is better off without him. College men are criticized frequently for their indifference toward scholarly excellence and athletics are accused of being the end rather than the means. Even this condition, however, is defensible, as anything that impels men to harder work in the classroom is defensible. But for the athlete who has the incentive of glory on the field—ephemeral though it may be, it is still glory—before him, and then fails to apply himself to his work, there is no excuse. He is dead wood.

HOW DOES YOUR STAR STAND? 4

Can last year's diamond luminaries repeat, or will a new constellation hold the public eye during this season's pennant race? This is the burning question of the hour, and not the Mexican situation, suffragists or Panama. Judging from the early season performances, most of the old guard will be right on the job when a safe lick means the game or the bases are loaded and the count is three and two. The list changes just a little every year. Some veteran who has been the idol of the fans by the wayside and one of the great army of debutants steps into the vacant niche. Among last year's number, however, there is none who is in danger of being displaced.

That the psychological element is a potential factor in billiard events seems to be general opinion. The 14:1 balk-line tournament was aptly summarized by John T. Burke when he remarked: "With the exception of Yamada the players were afraid of Hoppe. The Jap was the only one who played his game against Hoppe, and even he weakened when Hoppe caught him."

N. P. H. S. SCORES INITIAL DEFEAT

EARLY LEAD OVERCOME

Final Score 11 to 8—Hard Clouting Features Game—Warren Townley Leads "Canadians" With Quartet of Swats.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team clouted the ball all over the lot at Kearney, yesterday afternoon, and came home with an 11 to 8 victory over the High School nine of that place. The game was rather slow because of the bad weather and the pitchers found it hard to deliver the slippery ball. Because of the poor playing of the boroughites in the first few innings, the home team misjudged their ability and thought they had a cinch. Ernest Stahl was chosen to do the twirling for the locals but apparently had an off day and was relieved by Denny in the second inning after the home team had obtained a three-run lead. Denny pitched fine ball during the remainder of the game and after his teammates started hitting, the result was never in doubt. They gathered twenty-one hits off Margett's delivery and Denny only allowed seven.

North Plainfield was blanked in its half of the opening round and the home team scored twice, on a triple, a single, an error and a base on balls. The second inning gave the locals nothing and Kearney one talley. The third was the "bonehead" inning for the "Canadians." They had just started to find the pitcher and were making hits when two men were caught napping off first and another off second spoiling all chances for a score. The home team scored once in the fourth making the score 5 to 0, but the visitors had their best inning in the fourth. Six clean hits mixed with a few errors netted the borough lads seven runs and this lead was not overcome by their opponents. Two runs in the fifth, one in the sixth and one in the seventh gave them eleven runs and a comfortable lead. From the fifth to the seventh Denny was unhittable and retired his opponents without trouble. In the last two innings the home team had hopes of a lightning finish but only scored three runs which was only half enough to tie the score. Warren Townley led the swatsmiths with four healthy licks and Smalley and Dunning each were credited with three. Every one of the local players made at least one hit. For the home team Buttle hit three times, for a triple and two singles. This was the first defeat for the Kearney team. The score:

TOO MANY RUNS IN FEDERAL.

Chicago, May 9—Umpires and managers of the Federal League have been asked to give their opinion of the change made to deaden the official ball of the league. It was thought by President Gilmore that too many balls were hit for home runs. A layer of cotton has been wound around the balls used in the last few days. The cotton layer under the cover, it was thought, would reduce their resiliency 15 per cent.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—When did the Russians fire on the Japanese fishing boat in the North Sea? A bets in 1903, B bets in 1905. V. S. W.

Answer—Neither answer is correct. Upon the night of October 23, 1904, the Russian fleet, under command of Admiral Ropestwensky, while on the road to the Suez Canal, fired upon a fleet of British steam trawlers, killing two men. The excuse of the Russians was that they feared an attack from the Japanese torpedo boats.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is the Atlantic League a new organization or is it the same one that operated in the south last year? H. D. F.

Answer—The Atlantic League is the old New York and New Jersey League under a different title.

RUBBER GAME ANNEXED BY STOUT'S PINNERS

Deciding Contest Taken by a Thirteen Pin Margin on Elks' Alleys.

Chauncey Stout's Colts annexed the rubber game of a series with the John Cose clan in the Elks' Club tourney rolled on the club's shutes last night, dropping the middle contest but coming back stronger in the final tilt. The Stout regiment rang up a lead of eighty-two pins in the first but went to pieces in the second and relinquished a game to Cose by seventy-two counters.

Good pinning by High, a new man, and Stout, gave the No. 1 clan an opportunity to sew up the series in the third contest. Stout was high man of the series with a 202 registered in the first game. The scores:

MULLIN WILL COACH BLUECOAT PLAYERS

First Tryouts on Parker Field Next Thursday Afternoon —Games Pending.

Tommy Mullin, coach of the North Plainfield High School baseball team, and one of the best known little ball players in this section of the State, has accepted a position as coach of the patrolmen's baseball team about to be organized and has already taken up the reins with a view to whipping a stelar combination into shape. The bluecoats will hold their first practice on Parker Field next Thursday afternoon and Mullin will be on hand at that time to offer his advice to the talent expected to appear for the trials.

The proposition inaugurated by the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association to turn out a representaive baseball club this year has met with universal approval on all sides and it goes without saying that the coppers will come out strong for the practise Thursday. Among the players who have signified their intention of donning uniforms are several old time scholastic and semi-professional stars and the team organized will be on a par with Manager Dorflinger's Plainfield Pets and other teams of like calibre in this section. The North Plainfield firemen have a good nine and it is probable that a series will be arranged between them and the local law preservers.

The regular practises will be held on Monday and Fridays but it was necessary to defer the first drill until Thursday pending the arrival of a supply of pharaphanalia that has been ordered. New suits of white woolen with blue collars are on the way and will probably arrive next week.

SECOND PLACE TIE BROKEN LAST NIGHT

C. Braun and Hodge Disposed of Two Teams in Easy Style.

In the games of the Baraca Two-man Tournament on the Presbyterian alleys last night, C. Braun and Hodge had an easy time of it in disposing of the Day and Bokardus and the Dealaman and Benson combinations, taking four straight games and breaking the tie for second place.

The Dealaman and Benson team captured the two games that they rolled with the Day and Bogardus combination, thus obtaining a percentage of .500 for the evening. Bogardus, the anchor of the Day and Bogardus team, was away off color which accounts for the poor showing made by that duo.

MT. ARARAT SCHOOLBOYS PROMINENT AT RUTGERS

Four of the five Westfield boys at Rutgers College are playing prominent parts in the Fraternal League which has been started at the New Brunswick institution. This league is arousing no end of interest among the students and one of the town merchants has offered a large silver cup to the winner. Each of the fraternities must play a schedule of games which includes a contest with every other fraternity.

Last week Chi Psi defeated Delta Phi by the score of 11 to 3. Frederick Brush of Westfield, was catcher on the winning team and did excellent work in the field, besides driving in a brace of runs with his bat. Walter D. Reese, of Westfield, played left field on Chi Psi and went through the game without an error. Russell Savitz is a member of the same team.

Stanley Williams, of Westfield, is a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha team which is cutting quite a figure in League circles and is expected to made a strong bid for the pennant.

$13,000 IN PERMITS IN CITY DURING WEEK

Include Residences, Garages and Other Structures—Many Inquiries.

Building operations in this city continue to hold their own, although the activities are not of such proportions that they may be termed a boom. Several contractors have stated, however, that inquiries and requests for estimates and prices still continue to keep them busy. It is known that several large buildings and extensive improvements and alterations had been planned, but the actual operations had been held up on account of the money market. The fact that so many have been asking for estimates have led the contractors to believe that the conditions can not hold out against the demands for any great length of time.

During the course of the past week Building Inspector T. O. Doane has issued ten permits, calling for the aggregate outlay of $13,012. The permits are noted below by wards.

First Ward.

Peter Schubert is to erect a two-family two and a half story frame dwelling at 721 Midway avenue, at a cost of $3,375. W. H. Clum is the architect and Cohen & Israel the contractors.

Edward Horton, of 280 Leland avenue, has been granted a permit to erect an eighteen by twelve foot frame garage in the rear of his home, the cost of which is to be $100. Mr. Horton will do the work himself.

Carl Peterson will erect a frame storeroom in the rear of his residence at 309 Johnston avenue. The structure will be a 10x20 foot frame affair. The cost will be in the vicinity of $100.

Second Ward.

A two and a half story frame dwelling will be erected at 1417-1419 Belleview avenue by Harry VanNest. A modern hot water system will be installed to furnish the heat. The cost will be $3,500. M. W. King, of Liberty Corner, is the contractor.

LeRoy H. Gates will construct a one store, 18x20 feet, cement hollow block garage at 824 First place, at a cost of $350. G. Meissner is the contracting mason, while Ralph Bullman has been awarded the carpenter contract.

An 11x7 foot frame porch for both floors of the dwelling at 657 Belvidere avenue is to be erected by Mrs. John A. Peterson. The cost will be in the vicinity of $300. Ralph Bullman has the contract.

Dr. T. S. Davis, of 603 Park avenue, is to erect an extension to his garage at a cost of $175. The addition will be 24x8 feet. R. G. Bush will do the masonry work, while the carpenter work will be done by Charles L. Force.

Niles Anderson will have a 12x18 foot frame garage constructed at 1120 Prospect avenue, at a cost of $512. W. H. Clum is the architect and Thomas J. Freeman the contractor.

Fourth Ward.

The building at 530 West Third street will have an extension added by the owner, A. Kunzman, at a cost of $2,600. George H. Fisher is the architect and Nathan Eskovitch the contractor.

A two-family, two and a half story frame dwelling will be erected at 661 South Second street by Jacob Pashin, of Muhlenberg place, at a cost of $2,000. Fred C. Lancaster is the architect. Mr. Pashin will care for the contract work himself.

IN THE SUBURBS

Dunellen is to have a new residential park, to be known as Columbia Park.

Samuel H. Titus is erecting a dwelling on Chestnut street, Dunellen, for investment purposes.

The Whittier avenue section of Dunellen is now almost completely built up, and public improvements along this thoroughfare are now in order.

Charles DeHart will make extensive alterations to his residence on Centre street, Dunellen, within the near future.

The Lincoln Building Syndicate purchased during the past week, four lots through the agency of O. A. LaPointe; two on Lincoln Boulevard, and two on Sewell avenue.

J. Newton Apgar has received the contract for the erection of a new front porch and altering the interior of the dwelling of Patson Van Arsdale on North avenue, Dunellen.

S. S. Carvalho, of W. R. Hearst's newspapers who resides in this city, has awarded the contract for two cottages to be erected to take the place of the houses washed away at Seabright last winter. D. S. Hollander, of Metuchen, has received the contract and will begin work at once at Seabright.

Walter Williams, of Metuchen, who owns the most costly residence in Metuchen, has appointed Mr. Hollander to look after repairs and alterations to his estate on Plainfield avenue.

Mary J. Mathews has bought of Charles Brickoff and wife, three tracts of land comprising nearly 77 acres in the New Market-New Brunswick road, adjoining the land of John P. Stelle, in Piscataway township.

The Holland Co., has bought of George N. Potts and wife, one acre on the north side of the turnpike road from Piscataway to Bonhamtown, in Raritan township for $1,000.

John H. Hansmann and wife have bought from Margaret Holman a farm on the east side of the road from Piscataway town to upper sa meadows in Raritan township.

JUST NOTES

In the sale of property at public vendue conducted by Sheriff Wright in the courthouse at Elizabeth, yesterday, Sarah 'O'Brien, as the complainant against Rose Judson, bought some property in Laramie road for $1,200.

Mayor Mitchell, of New York city, has signed the Heights of Buildings bill which recently passed the Legislature, and it has now gone to the Governor for his approval. Mayor Mitchell, however, is doubtful of the constitutionality of the measure.

More than 120,000,000 board feet of timber was given away by the government last year to settlers and miners living in or near the national forests.

A warehouse to cost $1,700,000 has been designed by Cass Gilbert, 11 East Twenty-fourth street, New York city, for erection in Kent avenue, Brooklyn.

The Forest Service is compiling a volume table for calculating the board contents of standing yellow pine trees in the southwest. It is based on actual measurements of 6,000 trees.

Business men often receive in their mail, letters which are of a more or less amusing nature, although intended to be serious by the writers. The Southern Cypress Manufacturers' Association recently received a letter from one of those unpronounceable places in Alaska, reading as follows: "Received your farm leaflets. Thanks. Kindly send prices on shingles, 20 in. wide, 1 in. thick and 4 ft. long." These are certainly "some shingles," but then, it is probable that few manufacturers of this form of roof covering have had an Alaskan experience.

The range of uses for loblolly pine is wide, and it is sold throughout the Eastern and Central States and exported to Europe and Central America. In building construction, it is used for interior finish, flooring, ceiling, sashes, wainscoating, weather boarding, joists, lath and shingles. It also finds wide use for boxes, slack barrels, cheap furniture, woodenware and toys. In addition, it is used in bridge and trestle work and for freight cars. The wood is very easy to treat with chemical preservation, and the recent development of wood impregnation processes and plants is rapidly increasing its use for many purposes.

One of the latest additions to the list of firms engaged in the practice of architecture in New York city is that of Mead & Schenck, both members of which are women. Miss Mead obtaind her education mainly in the Department of Agriculture at Columbia College, while Miss Schenck acquired her knowledge of house building in Paris. Although this is the first partnership formed by women architects they are not the first women to practice architecture in the city.

A certificate of incorporation for the National Contracting and Building Company of Plainfield was filed in the county clerk's office at Elizabeth, Wednesday. The concern is capitalized at $100,000 divided into 1,000 shares at $100 each. As the name indicates, a general contracting construction and building business will be carried on. Israel Friedlander is named as the agent and holds eight shares. Nathan Eskovitch and Abram Kunzman, the other two incorporators, have eleven shares and one share, respectively. The office of the company will be at 415 Plainfield avenue.

The local delegates returning from the State Building Trades Council held at Camden, the forepart of the week, report a very interesting session. Besides attending the annual session the delegates were taken about the city and shown the prominent places of interest.

The Plainfield Trades Council was honored for the fourth time by the re-election of E. V. Lorton, of Church street, as treasurer of the State organization. The other officers selected were: President, John T. Cosgrove of Elizabeth, vice-president, A. Henry Sands. There were fifteen trades councils represented from the various places in the State also thirty-six local unions. The delegates from this city included: John Cordova, Fred Eckhardt, M. Doeringer. The next convention will be held in Atlantic City, May, 1915. The delegates will make their report to local council tonight.

SPLENDID OUTLOOK AT SOUTH PLAINFIELD

Several Dwellings Being Erected in Lively Little Neighboring Town.

Among the several suburbs in the vicinity of Plainfield, South Plainfield has the best outlook as far as the building and real estate may be concerned. In making a survey of the village along these two lines the village is possibly the best position situated to make a spurt as any town of its size in the State of New Jersey.

The progress of South Plainfield during the past decade has been wonderful, the location of Plant No. 2 of the Spicer Manufacturing Company of this city being one of the greatest booms it has received. At the present time, several dwellings are in the course of construction, while plans have been made for the erection of several others.

While several things favor the rapid development of the town, it is hindered in other ways. The railroad facilities at South Plainfield are ideal and should be of great advantage to the rapid growth of the village. This means of transportation would make this town a good location for manufacturing concerns in the near future. The lack of trolley connections with this city and other nearby towns however is somewhat of a drawback to South Plainfield. It has been rumored on several occasions, if the proposed line to connecting Metuchen, South Plainfield, and this city become a reality, the Spicer concern would move their entire works from this city to the village, as under those conditions their employes would have adequate transportation facilities. While the auto-busses relieve these conditions to some extent, the trips are to infrequent to accomplish the greatest results possible.

South Plainfield has for years been considered as no more than the centre of a farming district, but the time for turning aside of that idea has at last come, and in the course of a few years, the village will be a thing of the past, and the city of manufactories an dhomes will have become a reality.

ASSESSED CHURCH PROPERTY.

"The question of assessing church property has been raised in Montclair in the case of an assessment of $9,300, on which the Central Presbyterian church is taxed $182. The State Board of Equalization of Taxes has just affirmed the assessment after a recital of facts of a rather peculiar nature. The land was devised to the West Bloomfield Presbyterian church by Nathaniel R. Baldwin in 1841. The Central Presbyterian church is the successor to the West Bloomfield Society. Montclair was formerly a portion of the town of Bloomfield and was known as West Bloomfield. The land is a vacant lot and is not connected with the real church property. Exemption from taxation was claimed by the church under the general tax act, as amended in 1913, exempting endorsements and funds held for charitable and religious purposes. The Essex county tax board sustained the assessment. The State board affirms the finding upon the ground that the land cannot be considered within the provision for 'endowments and funds,' and that it does not meet the exemption provision in other respects."—Exchange.

Our Leaders Are Responsible for Our General Conditions As a Race

And if we will follow the same old policy which our leaders have outlined for us it will take a hundred years. And we will be in the same old rut. We must change our policy in all matters to help the general conditions of the Negro. A cut through the woods will bring peace and prosperity to our race in three to five years. The white race is not against the colored race, but we are against ourselves. We have the same rights as the white race, but we fail to see this problem as it confronts us as a race today.

If we will learn to spend our money in our race it will help the general conditions and bring us to better times in a short period. The beautiful tracts of land in and around Westfield means money on short notice to those who are trying to help their condition.

The woman who makes her children's clothing at home will appreciate a simple little frock, such as is shown in No. 8131. It is a peasant dress for child of from 2 to 8 years. It is cut all in one piece, closes at the center back, and has an elbow sleeve. This little dress may be easily cut and completed in an hour. One of the wash material, cotton crepe, chambray or gingham is best suited to this model; by way of trimming, a tiny frill of lace may be used to finish the neck and the bottom of each sleeve; if desired the frill may form a slight tab effect down the front, as is shown in the illustration.

Caramel Ice Cream. Apple Pie With Cheese.

THE odds and ends cut off vegetables before cooking them may often be used in making soups. At this time when fresh vegetables are scarce and high it is an economy to be commended. Some recipes for soups are given here:

An Economical Soup.

Dandelion Soup.—Wash the dandelion leaves and boil them until tender. Drain and as soon as cool chop fine. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a double boiler, rub the same amount of flour into it and add gradually a quart of hot milk, the minced dandelion leaves and salt and pepper to taste. Simmer for fifteen minutes and serve.

Spinach Puree.—Wash carefully two quarts of spinach and cook until tender in a small quantity of water. Rub through a sieve, add three cupfuls of rich stock and season to taste. Stir to a paste a tablespoonful of butter and the same quantity of flour and a cupful of hot milk. Add this to the soup and let all boil together, stirring to keep it smooth. Serve with croutons.

Novel Preparations.

Artichoke Soup.—Pare two pounds of Jerusalem artichokes, boil them until soft; then put through a sieve. Add the pulp to two quarts of milk and a lump of butter, pepper and salt to taste. Let it stew gently until it is of the consistency of pea soup. Beat two eggs with six tablespoonfuls of cream and pour the mixture into a tureen. Add the hot soup, stirring until well mixed. Serve at once.

Cucumber Soup.—Take a large cucumber, two onions, a sprig of parsley, white stock, one ounce of butter and one ounce of flour, half a pint of milk, one egg, pepper, salt and a tablespoonful of cream. Peel the cucumber and lay it in cold water for an hour; then cut into slices an inch thick. Place the cucumber in a stewpan with the onions, parsley and sufficient white stock to cover. Simmer till tender; then pass through a sieve, previously removing the onion and parsley. Melt together (without browning) the butter and flour and stir into this the cucumber puree. Stir till it boils and then add sufficient milk to make the soup of the right consistency. Just before serving stir in the beaten egg and a tablespoonful of cream and season to taste.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How the Newsboy's Dog Won a License.

The Dog Stood by His Master.

DADDY knew that Jack and Evelyn were never tired of hearing about dogs. And he had a true story for them. When they heard they were to hear a true dog story they were so happy.

"There was once," began daddy, "a little dog who was allowed to live without a license. You know that every city dog has to have a yearly license. His master or mistress has to pay $2 for this license.

"The master of this little dog was lame. He had no daddy and only a mother who was not strong and who was growing old. Upon the master depended the food and living of his mother and himself. For a living he sold newspapers. One day he was at his usual place selling newspapers when along came a little brown dog who greeted him so cheerfully and jumped up so affectionately that he at once became an addition to the family.

"Every morning after that the little dog would stand by his master at the corner and bark a 'Good morning!' to the people who bought newspapers from his master.

"As his master was poor, he had never been able to buy his little dog a license, and, as the dog had come to him of his own free will, he thought perhaps it would not be necessary.

"But, alas, the authorities of the town did not think so! They insisted that the dog must have a license or they must take him away.

"The boy told them that he had to support his mother and that the money didn't come in so very fast selling the newspapers and that he didn't know when he would ever have $2 to spare.

"Then the authorities said that they would have to take the dog, and at this the boy could not keep back the great big tears. The little brown dog crept nearer to his master, not knowing what the men were talking about, but seeing that his master was unhappy and wishing to comfort him in his little dog way, for dogs, more than any other animals, understand when their beloved masters or mistresses are sad and do all they can to comfort them.

"Then the boy told the men how his little dog had come to him. He said no one had ever greeted him and wanted to come to him as this little dog had. And, oh, he had been so faithful!

"The boy could not believe that the men would take away his little companion, the only playmate he had.

"Some kind people overheard the conversation. They told the men that they had plenty of money and quickly paid for the license of the little brown dog. The boy then almost cried for joy.

"So the little dog wagged his tail when his master told him to thank the kind people, for he saw quickly that his master once more was happy."

The STORY of WAITSTILL BAXTER

CHAPTER XXI.

Love's Young Dream.

IT was not an afternoon for day dreams, for there was a chill in the air and a gray sky. Only a week before the hills along the river might have been the walls of the New Jerusalem, shining like red gold. Now the glory had departed, and it was a naked world, with empty nests hanging to boughs that not long ago had been green with summer.

Young love thought little of nature's miracles, and hearts that beat high and fast were warm enough to forget the bleak wind and gathering clouds. If there were naked trees were there not full barrels of apples in every cellar? If there was nothing but stubble in the frozen fields, why there was plenty of wheat and corn at the mill all ready for grinding. The cold air made one long for a cheery home and fireside, the crackle of a hearth log, the bubbling of a steaming kettle, and Patty and Mark clung together as they walked along, making bright images of a life together, sung, warm and happy.

Patty was a capricious creature, but all her changes were sudden and endearing ones, captivating those who loved her more than a monotonous and unchanging virtue. Any little shower with Patty always ended with a rainbow, that made the landscape more enchanting than before. Of late her little coquetries and petulances had disappeared as if by magic. She had been melted somehow from irresponsible girlhood into womanhood and that, too, by the ardent affection of a very ordinary young man who had no great gift save that of loving Patty greatly. The love had served its purpose in another way, too, for under its influence Mark's own manhood had broadened and deepened. He longed to bind Patty to him for good and all, to capture the bright bird whose fluttering wings and burnished plumage so captured his senses and stirred his heart, but his longings had changed with the quality of his love, and he glowed at the thought of delivering the girl from her dreary surroundings and giving her the tenderness, the ease and comfort, the innocent gayety, that her nature craved.

"You won't fail me, Patty darling?" he was saying at this moment. "Now that our plans are finally made, with never a weak point anywhere as far as I can see, my heart is so set upon carrying them out that every hour of waiting seems an age!"

"No, I won't fail, Mark; but I never know the day that father will go to town until the night before. I can always hear him making his preparations in the barn and the shed, and ordering Waitstill here and there. He is as excited as if he was going to Boston instead of Milltown."

"You won't fail me, Patty, darling?" he was saying.

"The night before will do. I will watch the house every evening till you hang a white signal from your window."

"It won't be white," said Patty, who would be mischievous on her deathbed. "My Sunday-go-to-meetin' petticoat is too grand, and everything else that we have is yellow."

"I shall see it, whatever color it is, you can be sure of that!" said Mark gallantly. "Then it's decided that next morning I'll wait at the tavern from sunrise, and whenever your father and Waitstill have driven up Saco hill I'll come and pick you up, and we'll be off like a streak of lightning across the hills to New Hampshire. How lucky that Riverboro is only thirty miles from the state line! It looks like snow, and how I wish it would be something more than a flurry, a regular whizzing, whirring storm that would pack the roads and let us slip over them with our sleigh bells ringing!"

"I should like that, for they would be our only wedding bells. Oh, Mark! What if Waitstill shouldn't go, after all, though I heard father tell her that he needed her to buy things for the store, and that they wouldn't be back till after nightfall. Just to think of being married without Waitstill!"

"You can do without Waitstill on this one occasion, better than you can without me," laughed Mark, pinching Patty's cheek. "I've given the town clerk due notice and I have a friend to meet me at his office. He is going to lend me his horse for the drive home, and we shall change back the next week. That will give us a fresh horse each way and we'll fly like the wind, snow or no snow. When we come down Guide Board hill that night, Patty, we shall be man and wife; isn't that wonderful?"

"We shall be man and wife in New Hampshire, but not in Maine, you say," Patty reminded him dolefully. "It does seem dreadful that we can't be married in our own state and have to go dangling about with this secret on our minds day and night, but it can't be helped. You'll try not to even think of me as your wife till we go to Portsmouth to live, won't you?"

"You're asking too much when you say I'm not to think of you as my wife, for I shall think of nothing else, but I've given you my solemn promise," said Mark stoutly, "and I'll keep it as sure as I live. We'll be legally married by the laws of New Hampshire, but we won't think of it as a marriage till I tell your father and mine and we drive away once more together. That time it will be in the sight of everybody, with our heads in the air. I've got the little house in Portsmouth all ready, Patty. It's small, but it's in a nice part of the town. Portsmouth is a pretty place, but it'll be a great deal prettier when it has Mrs. Mark Wilson living in it. We can be married over again in Maine afterward if your heart is set upon it. I'm willing to marry you in every state of the Union so far as I am concerned."

"I think you've been so kind and good and thoughtful, Mark, dear," said Patty, more fondly and meltingly than she had ever spoken to him before, "and so clever too. I do respect you for getting that good position in Portsmouth and being able to set up for yourself at your age. I shouldn't wonder a bit if you were a judge some day and then what a proud girl I shall be!"

Patty's praise was bestowed none too frequently, and it sounded very sweet in the young man's ears.

"I do believe I can get on with you to help me, Patty," he said, pressing her arm more closely to his side and looking down ardently into her radiant face. "You're a great deal cleverer than I am, but I have a faculty for the business of the law, so my father says, and a faculty for money making too. And even if we have to begin in a small way my salary will be a certainty, and we'll work up together. I can see you in a yellow satin dress stiff enough to stand alone!"

"It must be white satin, if you please, not yellow! After having used a hundred and ten yards of shop worn yellow calico on myself within two years I never want to wear that color again! If only I could come to you better provided," she sighed, with the suggestion of tears in her voice. "If I'd been a common servant I could have saved something from my wages to be married on. I haven't even got anything to be married in!"

"I'll get you anything you want in Portland tomorrow."

"Certainly not; I'd rather be married in rags than have you spend your money upon me beforehand!"

"Remember to have a box of your belongings packed and slipped under the shed somewhere. You can't be certain what your father will say or do when the time comes for telling him, and I want you to be ready to leave on a moment's notice."

"I will; I'll do everything you say, Mark. But are you sure that we have thought of every other way? I do so hate being underhanded. Everything depends on my keeping it secret from Waitstill, but she doesn't suspect anything yet. She thinks of me as nothing but a child still. Do you suppose Ellen would go with us just to give me a little comfort? I shouldn't miss Waitstill so much if I had Ellen, and how happy I shall be if she approves of me for a sister and thinks your mother and father will like me in time."

"There never was a creature born into the world that wouldn't love you, Patty."

"I don't know; look at Aunt Abby Cole," said Patty pensively. "Well, it does not seem as if a marriage that isn't good in Riverboro was really decent. How tiresome of Maine to want all those days of public notice; people must so often want to get married in a minute. If I think about anything too long I always get out of the notion."

"I know you do. That's what I'm afraid of." And Mark's voice showed decided nervousness. "You won't get out of the notion of marrying me, will you, Patty dear?"

"Marrying you is more than a 'notion,' Mark," said Patty soberly. "I'm only a little past seventeen, but I'm far older because of the difficulties I've had. I don't wonder you speak of my 'notions.' I was as light as a feather in all my dealings with you at first."

"So was I with you. I hadn't grown up, Patty."

"Then I came to know you better and see how you sympathized with Waitstill's troubles and mine. I couldn't love anybody; I couldn't marry anybody who didn't feel that things at our house can't go on as they are. Father has had a good long trial. Three wives and two daughters have done their best to live with him and failed. I am not willing to die for him, as my mother did, nor have Waitstill killed if I can help it. Sometimes he is like a man who has lost his senses, and sometimes he is only grim and quiet and cruel. If he takes our marriage without a terrible scene, Mark, perhaps it will encourage Waitstill to break her chains as I have mine."

"There's sure to be an awful row," Mark said as one who had forecasted all the probabilities. "It wouldn't make any difference if you married the Prince of Wales; nothing would suit your father but selecting the man and making all the arrangements, and then he would never choose any one who wouldn't tend the store and work on the farm for him without wages."

"Waitstill will never run away. She isn't like me. She will sit and sit there, slaving and suffering till doomsday, for the one that loves her isn't free like you."

"You mean Ivory Boynton? I believe he worships the ground she walks on. I like him better than I used, and I understand him better. Oh, but I'm a lucky young dog to have a kind, liberal father and a bit of money put by to do with as I choose. If I hadn't I'd be eating my heart out like Ivory."

"No, you wouldn't eat your heart out. You'd always get what you wanted somehow, and you wouldn't wait for it either, and I'm just the same. I'm not built for giving up and enduring and sacrificing. I'm naturally just a tuft of thistledown, Mark, but living beside Waitstill all these years, I've grown ashamed to be so light, blowing about hither and thither. Oh, if only she will forgive us, Mark, I won't mind what father says or does."

"She will forgive us, Patty, darling. Don't fret and cry and make your pretty eyes all red. I'll do nothing in all this to make either of you girls ashamed of me."

"Does the town clerk or does the justice of the peace give a wedding ring just like the minister?" Patty asked. "I shouldn't feel married without a ring."

"The ring is all ready and has 'M. W. to P. B.' engraved in it with the place for the date waiting, and here is the engagement ring if you'll wear it when you're alone, Patty. My mother gave it to me when she thought there would be something between Annabel Franklin and me. The moment I looked at it—you see, it's a topaz stone—and noticed the yellow fire in it, I said to myself, 'It is like no one but Patty Baxter, and if she won't wear it no other girl shall!' It's the color of the tip ends of your curls, and it's just like the light in your eyes when you're making fun."

"It's heavenly!" cried Patty. "It looks as if it had been made of the yellow autumn leaves, and, oh, how I love the sparkle of it! But never will I take your mother's ring or wear it, Mark, till I've proved myself her loving, dutiful daughter. I'll do the one wrong thing of running away with you and concealing our marriage, but not another if I can help it."

"Very well," sighed Mark, replacing the ring in his pocket with a rather crestfallen air. "But the first thing you know you'll be too good for me, Patty. You used to be a regular will-o'-the-wisp—all nonsense and fun, forever laughing and teasing, so that a fellow could never be sure of you for two minutes together."

"It's all there underneath," said Patty, putting her hand on his arm and turning her wistful face to his. "It will come again. The girl in me isn't dead. She isn't even asleep, but she's all sobered down. She can't laugh just now, she can only smile, and the tears are waiting underneath ready to spring out if any one says the wrong word. This Patty is frightened and anxious, and her heart beats too fast from morning till night. She hasn't any mother, and she cannot say a word to her dear sister, and she's going away to be married to you, that's almost a stranger, and she isn't eighteen and doesn't know what's coming to her nor what it means to be married. She dreads her father's anger, and she cannot rest till she knows whether your family will love her and take her in, and, oh, she's a miserable worried girl, not a bit like the old Patty!"

Mark held her close and smoothed the curls under the loose brown hood. "Don't you fret, Patty darling. I'm not the boy I was last week. Every word you say makes me more of a man. I wish the road to New Hampshire was full of lions and I could fight my way through them just to show you how strong I feel."

"There'll be lions enough," smiled Patty through her tears, "though they won't have manes and tails. But I can imagine how father will roar and how my courage will ooze out of the heels of my boots."

"Just let me catch the deacon roaring at my wife!" exclaimed Mark, with a swelling chest. "Now, run along home, Patty, dear, for I don't want you scolded on my account. I'll sound Ellen and see if she's brave enough to be one of the eloping party. Good night! Good night!"

INFLUENCE OF CHRISTIAN WOMEN

RECALLS NOBLE DEEDS

Thirty-third Anniversary of Church Society Observed in a Pleasing Manner—Special Musical Program Given by Choir.

"Public Influence of Women," was the subject of an interesting discourse delivered by Rev. J. Y. Broek at Trinity Reformed church, last night, on the occasion of the thirty-third anniversary of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of the church. The members of the society attended the service in the body. Mr. Broek said in part:

"Women have always been prominent in religious work. I am thinking of the Godly woman in Old Testament times. If it was Samuel who woke Israel from her religious slumber, and became one of the greatest judges of Israel, let us remember it was Hannah who taught the boy how to pray. If Gideon can rejoice in his victories, it was Deborrah who praised these victories in song. Let us never forget the consecration of the women who spun the beautiful draperies and costly coverings for the holy place of the Lord.

"The New Testament gives a like prominence to women. A virgin became the means of the incarnation of our Lord. Martha and Mary lovingly minister to the Saviour's wants at Bethany. Women were nearest to the heart of Jesus, when He was upon the cross. Women came early in the morning to the tomb to lavish love and affection upon His memory. They were present with the disciple in the upper room in Jerusalem praying for the Holy Ghost.

"I am thinking of the good women in all ages. It is said that the women of the Reformation did as much for the revival of religion as the men did. What more gracious personage was there than the late Queen Victoria or Queen Wilhelmina, the present sovereign of Holland, who is held in such high esteem and reverence by all her loyal subjects as a Christian woman. Who was ever more heroic than Joan of Arc in the fifteenth century when the destinies of France were hanging in the balance. One morning she awoke and exclaimed 'My God, the blood of my people reddens the earth. My sword, my horse, my banner.' The banner contained the fleur de les on the one side, and on the other, the simple word 'Jesus.' The French army was being defeated but upon her arrival at Orleans, defeat was turned into victory.

"Woman exercises a wonderful influence today and is doing a tremendous work for the uplift of mankind. How varied are the places where her presence is a blessing. She is prominent in education and in teaching and training the young. What an overwhelming percentage of the teaching and training of children is in the hands of women. She holds a high place as the author of standard literature.

"How loving is her ministry in caring for the sick. God bless the nurses in our hospitals who soothe the pillow and alleviate suffering. It must be admitted that the women were for a long time the leaders in the present great gaitation against the saloon and intemperance. Woman has recently taken great interest in the civic life of the community, by making it a good place to live in. She has much concern in public recreation for children, mothers' associations, parent-teacher associations and many similar moral movements.

"What would the church do today without women. When a woman becomes interested in religious work, she gives herself to it with a passion. There is no finer type of Christian missionaries than the consecrated and surrendered women, toiling amid ignorance, filth, dirt, in peril of health and life for the sake of Jesus whom they love. Great as is her influence in all these spheres, her greatest place of power is her home. Here indeed she is a queen. While her influence is very great there, it need not be limited to the home."

PETIT JURYMEN.

Elizabeth, May 11.—The following petit jurymen were drawn this morning before Judge James Connolleyy, to serve two weeks, beginning Monday morning. W. R. Way, Joseph Larkin, Charles Fisher, George Batchelor, Fred M. Masker, and H. N. Coddington; Fanwood, William Buckley.

WOMAN AND SON SHOT BY SUITOR

Crazed With Jealousy James Phillimore Then Ends His Own Life.

VICTIM MAY NOT LIVE

Shooting the Result of Early Morning Brawl in House on West Third Street—Son Only Slightly Injured—Crime Was Premeditated.

Crazed with jealousy and a desire to revenge an old score, James Phillimore, aged 35 years, fired two shots at Mrs. Catherine Stites in her home on West Third street at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning, inflicting injuries that are likely to prove fatal, then fired at her twenty-five-year-old son, Louis, slightly injuring the latter and placing the revolver close to his own head emptied a fourth cartridge into brain, which resulted in his death a few hours later. The victims and the dying assailant were removed to Muhlenberg Hospital in the ambulance where Mrs. Stites lies at the present time lingering between life and death. Two bullets entered the woman's jaw, shattering the cheek-bone and severing a portion of the tongue.

The shooting came as a sequel to long pending grievances between Phillimore and members of the Stites family. Phillimore had been paying marked attention to Mrs. Stites, who is said to be a divorcee, prior to his arraignment in the city court several weeks ago on charges of disorderly conduct preferred by the woman. The assailant's advances toward Mrs. Stites met with strenuous objection on the part of the latter's son and he repeatedly remonstrated with the man to stay away from the West Third street address. Phillimore persisted in calling at the home, however, and following a brawl in which members of the Stites family and Phillimore were participants the occupants of the house were hailed to police court.

Testimony offered at the trial brought out the fact that Phillimore had been living in the Stites home as a boarder whose relations with the proprietor are alleged to have been indiscreet. In disposing of the case Judge DeMeza ordered the pair to separate and instructed Phillimore to seek other living quarters. This aggravated the defendant considerably at the time and upon leaving the courtroom he swore he would get revenge.

Information gathered since the shooting indicates that he had been carefully laying his plans since the hearing and Saturday night he went to the forbidden territory. James B. Murphy, a machinist, who is also a boarder in the Stites' home, took Phillimore into his room and kept him there for the night. Rising shortly after 8 o'clock Sunday morning Phillimore made his appearance in the kitchen much to the surprise of Mrs. Stites who was preparing breakfast at the time. A fracas followed which finally aroused the son who was sleeping in an adjoining room.

Rushing to his mother's bedroom where Phillimore and the woman were engaged in a scuffle young Stites ordered the intruder from the house. The entrance of the younger man was a signal for the enraged Phillimore to snatch a pistol from his hip pocket and he fired at the son. The bullet scraped the flesh from his body just over the heart and entered his right arm. As he fired the pistol Mrs. Stites struck his arm and whirling around he pushed the muzzle of the revolver against the woman's face emptying a chamber through her cheek. As she fell to the floor he raised her up and pulled the trigger a second time. Turning from his victims the assailant went to the kitchen, which adjoins the bedroom, and fired a fourth barrel through his own temple.

Hysterically shouting that murder was being committed and crying for gengeance on Phillimore, Louis Stites ran from the house scantily clad and created havoc along Central avenue as far as Fourth street. At the junction of Central avenue and Fourth street his bare feet hit the trolley tracks and he fell in a fainting condition to the road-bed. Picked up by pedestrians near at the time he talked incoherently and it was some time before the real trouble could be ascertained.

When appraised of the shooting, spectators notified Chief Kiely at police headquarters of a disorder, and he dispatched Patrolman Dennis O'Keefe to the scene. O'Keefe went directly to the Stites' home and discovered the body of Phillimore lying face downwards in a pool of blood on the kitchen floor. In the next room Mrs. Stites sat on the edge of a bed her face blackened with powder and blood flowing profusely from her mouth and nose. Chief Kiely and Detective Sergeant Flynn arrived shortly after O'Keefe and ordered the woman removed to the hospital.

INCENSED BECAUSE OF BOARD'S ACTION

Friends of Albert Early Want Him Re-appointed as School Principal.

Considerable feeling has been aroused in North Plainfield since it was announced that the Board of Education would not reappoint Albert Earley, as principal of the North Plainfield High School, for another term, and a large number of the deposed head's friends are circulating a petition in his behalf. Many signers have taken advantage of an opportunity to ask that the decision be reconsidered and the petition will be presented to the board at the monthly meeting tonight.

Many of the borough taxpayers have expressed the opinion that the reasons assigned for the unlooked for action are without foundation and it seems likely that a thorough inquiry will be conducted into the matter. The board has separated into two factions in this matter and it is said that Mr. Earley's supporters have investigated the circumstances which will be presented tonight.

He has been affiliated with the borough school for three years, having been appointed to succeed Benjamin Phelps as principal, when the latter resigned to take a similar position in High Bridge. He is a graduate of Dickinson College.

CONTINUE WITH THE PEACE PLANS

Although Disquieting Reports Reach Washington State Dept. Goes Ahead.

ARMS ARE NOT LANDED

Consignment for Huerta Still Said to Be in Hold of Kronprinzssen Cecile—No Confirmation of Rumor of Fighting at Tampico.

Washington, May 11.—With most disquieting reports coming across the Mexican border the State Department today calmly proceeded with its mediation plans, and the A B C mediators were equally active in their preparations for the mediation conference at Niagara, Ontario, which begins next Wednesday. In the meantime fierce battles are imminent at Saltillo, according to advices and a state approaching anarchy grips the Mexican capital.

The chief interest today centered in the whereabouts of the great store of arms and ammunition said to be aboard the steamer Knoprinzessin Cecilie now at Vera Cruz. Rear Admiral Badger reported that he was reasonably certain the vessel had not landed its cargo at Puerto Mexico as was at first reported, and that the war materials were still in her hold. If she tries to land the material at Vera Cruz, to which port they are reported to have been consigned, they will be promptly seized. Thus far the vessel has disclosed no indication of an intention to unload.

The difficulty of getting reliable information of the exact whereabouts of the shipment is a matter of chagrin to navy department officials.

Official confirmation is being sought of a report that General Huerta managed to get a heavy shipment of rifles and ammunition into Mexico City from Japanese sources through Mazanillo. It is not credited because the Constitutionalists control much of the country through which the shipment would have to pass and the Zapatistas likewise are numerous and active.

Confirmation is lacking of the reported fierce fighting at Tampico, and licewise of the reported close approach of a large body of Federal troops to the outskirts of Vera Cruz. General Navarrette with a body of 15,000 men has been unofficially reported about twenty miles from Vera Cruz.

New York, May 11.—Alfred J. Rorke, correspondent of the Central News, who returned to Vera Cruz Saturday, from Mexico City, where he had been arrested, together with three other correspondents, tells of conditions of confusion bordering on Chaos. In the capital, which extend even to the highest circles of the Government.

Mr. Rorke, in a special cable from Vera Cruz today, sums up the situation thus: General Huerta's cabinet ministers and other high officials are kept busy chasing each other, trying to keep important appointments. By his abrupt summonses to various heads of departments at unusual hours, General Huerta even neglects to meet foreign diplomats at times and places named by himself and he gives no serious attention to requests from newspaper men for opportunity to interview him.

MISS HELEN BESLER IS ABSOLVED FROM BLAME

Besler, of this city, president of the New Jersey Central, who was a co-defendant with Andrew Thompson, of the Thompson Automobile Company, of Plainfield, was acquitted in the case brought in the Somerset County Court, Saturday by Mrs. Mary Tobin, of Somerville. Mrs. Tobin while attempting to cross Main street, Somerville in September last, was knocked down by a car which Miss Besler was driving.

It was the opinion of Judge Campbell that Mrs. Tobin was in a measure responsible for the accident through contributory negligence. Miss Besler was represented by Judge Clarence E. Case. Mr. Thompson was with the young woman at the time of the accident.

HONOR TO HEROES OF VERA CRUZ

Thousands Pay Tribute to Seventeen Who Lost Lives in First Fighting.

EULOGY BY PRESIDENT

Impressive Ceremonies at Navy Yard—All New York in Mourning with Business Generally Suspended During Hours of Funeral.

New York, May 11.—Seventeen flag draped coffins on caissons, carrying the bodies of the seventeen men killed in the fight at Vera Cruz, were paid a national, state and municipal homage today. Never before in the history of the city has such a solemn, impressive and profound tribute been paid. Business was suspended during the hours of the obsequies, bells in the churches tolled the message of patriotism and memorial exercises were held in all schools.

When the caissons passed bearing the bodies of those whose deeds will live as a monument to their memory heads were bared and thousands gazed on the flag colored catafalques which contained the victims of treacherous Mexican snipers in silent reverence.

Elaborate preparations were made by the police to prevent disorder along the line of march or a demonstration by any organization opposed to the administration's course in Mexico or not in sympathy with social conditions. This was especially emphasized along Broadway near the Standard Oil building, where Upton Sinclair and members of the I. W. W. have been parading. Nothing occurred, however, to break the congruity of the occasion.

At the head of the cortege rode a troop of mounted police, another troop bringing up in the rear. The police cavalry was a feature of the cortege, as the men have been drilling a week for the maneuvers. Thirty-four mounted men rode along the lines, two on either side of each of the seventeen caissons.

There were 250 men around city hall, under command of Inspector O'Brien. When the parade reached the Park row end of the plaza the marine detail, including the men from the Texas and Wyoming, and the naval militia wheeled into line, forming a continuous phalanx from end to end of the plaza, facing the steps of the city hall, where were gathered the various civic bodies, the officials of the administration, the mayor and the school children who sang.

Impressive Sight.

This formed an impressive and inspiring sight, and as the strains of "Nearer, My God, to Thee" filled the air audible sobs could be heard from the thousands that packed City Hall park to its capacity and many civil war veterans shook with emotion as tears trickled down their cheeks. After the children finished singing Mayor Mitchel placed a wreath of flowers upon one of the caissons as the city's tribute to the first heroes of the Mexican crisis. The cortege then proceeded to the Brooklyn navy yard, where the services were held.

Between the city hall and the Manhattan bridge along the line of march was a force of 200 men under Inspector Cahalane. They were distributed about twenty to a block. Fifty men, including the motorcycle men, were stationed at the bridge under Captain O'Toole. The bridge was closed to traffic while the cortege passed.

Borough Inspector Dillon was in charge of the Brooklyn arrangements under Inspector Farrel. The escort, consisting of the men from the Wyoming, under Lieutenant Commander Cyrus R. Miller, and from the Texas, under Lieutenant Commander J. W. Timmons, some 600 men; the naval militiamen, 200 strong, and the combined bands of the Texas and Wyoming and the band of the militia, formed on the north side of the plaza between Battery park and Pier A.

Among those who also occupied carriages was Captain Takeschi, military attache of the Japanese embassy, who was specially commissioned by the emperor to represent him in the ceremonies.

The order in which the carriages appeared in the cortege and those who occupied them follows:

Secretary of the Navy and Lieutenant Commander Jones, U. S. N.; Captain Albert Gleaves, U. S. N, and Robert A. C. Smith.

Secretary of Agriculture and Admiral Peake and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt.

P. H. S. MINSTRELS SCORED BIG HIT

BEST EVER PRODUCED

Show Presented by 1914 Cast Sets a Precedent in School History—Athletic Association Will Net $150 as a Result.

A large audience greeted the Plainfield High School minstrels presented by the Boys' Athletic Association of that institution in the Plainfield Theatre, Saturday night, and were treated to a program of mirth and music that exceeded by far the greatest anticipations of all. The schoolboy talent did itself credit in the presentation of the numerous original hits and the audience was kept in a round of laughter from curtain to curtain.

Local topics put into verse by the schoolboys lent interest to the affair and the topical song, by one of the end men, on High School subjects, put a fitting finale on the first part of the program. The large chorus in a plantation scene rendered many numbers popular in the world of minstrelsy in a manner that reflected credit on the coaching received from Sewell Ulrich. As the result of the performance the athletic association's treasury will be swelled $150. During the intermission between the parts William Peacock, president of the association, presented Sewell Ulrich, the coach, with $15 in gold and a similar reward was made to Harold Davis, leader of the orchestra. Both responded with short speeches containing words of praise for those who had given their efforts to make the affair the success it was.

This year's production was managed by William Peacock, assisted by Daniel F. McNamee, and the show was widely advertised.

The end men produced a round of good humor before retiring after encores. They were Cortland Fleming, Daniel F. McNamee, Harold Williams, Gerald Linke, Curtis Dall and James Noonan. The minstrel portion consisted of the following numbers: Opening chorus, entire company; end song, "Mammy Jiny's Jubilee," by Gerald Linke; ballad, "When the Twilight Comes to Kiss the Rose Goodnight," by Fred Mills, assisted by the quartet; end song, "Pullman Porters On Parade," by Curtis Dall; ballad, "While the Rivers of Love Flow On," by Irving Manley; end song, "All Aboard for Dixie," by Cortland Fleming; solo, "Oh, Promise Me," by Arthur Martin; end song, "Zip Coon," with original verses, by Daniel McNamee; closing chorus, by the entire company.

The quartet composed of Cortland Fleming, Daniel McNamee, Curtis Dall and Fred Mills rendered several excellent selections. The second part of the show was an original darky act, entitled "The Real Thing." Eddie Ford, Fred Vaughn and Ralph Green took part in this number.
